Seldom does a popular remedy win such a strong hold upon the public confidence as has HALL'S HAIR RENEWER. The cases in which it has accomplished a complete restoration of color to the hair, and vigorous health to the scalp, are innumerable.

Old people like it for its wonderful power to restore to their whitening locks their original color and beauty. Middle-aged people like it because it prevents them from getting bald, keeps dandruff away, and makes the hair grow thick and strong. Young ladies like it as a dressing because it gives the hair a beautiful glossy lustre, and enables them to dress it in whatever form they wish. Thus it is the favorite of all, and it has become so simply because it disappoints no one.

Daily Evening Review

MONDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Saturday Night.

Stafford-Foster Co., Opera House. Romeo and Juliet.

St. John's Church.

On Sunday at St. John's Church, the Rector, the Rev. J. W. R. Beck, announced that the annual collection for the Widow and Orphan's Fund of the Diocese would be taken up next Sunday at the morning and evening services.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—South-west to north-west winds; fair weather, preceded by showers in the northern portion; slightly lower temperature.

Charlotte Street.

A staff of corporation workmen under the superintendance of Street Inspector Johnson, are at present engaged in putting Charlotte street in a good state of repair. The gravel is obtained from the property of Mr. J. Lynch on Hunter street, a cellar being excavated for the gravel, and Charlotte street will be soon graded and put in a first class shape.

A Long Watched for Event.

No doubt the ladies of Peterborough and the surrounding country have long been watching and waiting for Fair Van Every & Co's. grand millinery opening. The opening will take place on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 14th and 15th, when one of the greatest displays of millinery ever seen in Peterborough will be exhibited. The show rooms will doutless be crowded.

Fainted Away.

Towards the end of the Saved Army service in the Opera House on Sunday night, Capt. Gibson fainted away. She was carried behind the scenes and was somewhat revived. A conveyance was sent for and the zealous worker was removed to—the headquarters. She has recovered from her slight illness and will as usual attend to her duties.

Saved Army.

Now that the cool fall weather has set in, the meetings of the Saved Army are much better attended. On Sunday evening the Opera House was filled with people and Gen. Lindsay impressively read a portion of Scripture and commented thereon. The interest is again reviving in the Saved Army work and now that the hot summer is past the people are coming out in large numbers.

Romeo and Juliet

Edward Witting, representing the celebrated Stafford-Foster Company, is in town completing arrangements for the appearance of his attraction at the Opera House on Saturday night, Oct. 18th, in an elaborate production of Shakespere's ideal creation of Romeo and Juliet. Mr. Stafford and Miss Forster appeared here last fall in the Merchant of Venice, a performance which our readers no doubt still have pleasant recollections of. The sale of seats opens to-morrow morning at Menzies' bookstore. A fine performance may be expected.

Personal.

The Hon. D. Healey has been dismissed for political reasons from his office as Deputy Commissioner of Labour Statistics for New York State. Mr. Healy is a native of the township of Asphodel, and by his ability and energy has raised himself to a prominent position in his present home.

We regret to learn that our enterprising citizen, Mr. R. Salisbury, has been compelled, on account of sickness, to leave town. He is at his home in Cobourg at present, but we hope soon to see him in his accustomed place of business.

His Lordship Justice Galt, B. B. Osler, Q.C., G. T. Blackstock, Toronto, and Adam Hudspeth, Q.C., Lindsay, are registered at the Oriental Hotel. Wm. Kerr, Q.C., Cobourg, is at the Grand Central Hotel.

Howorth's Hibernica.

The Burlington, N.J., Press of a recent date says:—

"With the mercury below zero and the pavements as slippery as glass, a large audience assembled at the Opera House last night to enjoy Howarth's Hibernica and Comedy Company, and right royally were they entertained. The beautiful scenery of Ireland portrayed upon canvass were really gems of art and highly enjoyed by all, while the laughable comedy of 'The Irish and American Tourists,' convulsed the audience at regular intervals. The songs, dances and specialty acts were all good. Here we received the essence of variety without the stigma of the low variety hall attached. Howorth's name is a touchstone for success and he draws large audiences wherever he goes, and we heartily recommend them as being worthy of patronage."

Howorth's troupe have been, for the past few weeks, nearing Canada. They have been met with success wherever they have gone, in some cities holding the boards for ten weeks, with crowded houses each night. They will appear in Peterborough on the evenings of Wednesday and Thursday.

At Faucher's Restaurant,
Fresh Oysters received twice a week.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE

THE AUTUM SITTINGS OF THE QUEEN'S BENCH DIVISION—THE FALL ASSIZES.

A Light Calender—Four Criminal Cases—The Bar well Represented—The Judge's Charge.

The Fall Assizes opened at the Court House at one o'clock this afternoon, His Lordship Justice Galt presiding.

The local bar was represented by Messrs. C. A. Weller, County Attorney, D. W. Dumble, J. O'Mera, A. P. Pousette, S. Wasson, C. W. Sawers, W. Moore, J. Henry, G. M. Roger, J. Green, and E. A. Peck. The following members of the bar were also present:—Wm. Kerr, Q.C. Cobourg, who has charge of the criminal cases; B. B. Osler, Q. C., Toronto, Adam Hudspeth, Q.C., Lindsay; and G. T. Blackstock, Toronto.

The following is a list of the names of those who are empannelled on the Grand Jury:—

John Breckenridge, Foreman.

Charles Armstrong,	Robert Bonar,
Robert Burgess,	Thos. Burke,
J. E. Belcher	Peter Connal,
W. Crough,	James Dewart,
Samuel Edwards,	George Elliott,
James Fife,	Tobias Fitzgerald,
John Garbutt,	Robert Jackson,
Archibald Johnston,	James Middleton, jr.,
W. W. Milburn,	Wm. J. McKibbon,
Charles D. Moore,	Thos. J. Nelson,
Lewis Parker,	W. H. Trout,

J. McFarlane.

The Judge briefly addressed the Grand Jury, stating that the criminal callender contained very few cases. In reference to the Purcel rape case, he defined the charge and expediated on the seriousness of the crime. He referred briefly to the Mimms manslaughter case, and then dismissed them to inspect the gaol and other county property.

TORONTOS vs. PETERBOROUGHS.

A Well Contested Football Match Played on the Ashburnham Grounds.

On Saturday afternoon a football match was played on the Ashburnham grounds (Rugby union rules) between the Torontos and the home team. There was a good attendance, the grand stand being filled with ladies and the field outside of the lines being well populated with an expectant crowd. The weather was all that could be desired and the field was in first class condition. The Toronto's wore claret coloured shirts and white knickerbockers and the Peterboroughs navy blue shirts and white knickerbockers. At about three o'clock the teams took their positions on the field as follows:—

TORONTOS.

Forwards.—H. Blake, (captain) T. Hughs, P. Boyd, A. J. Cameron, V. Armstrong, A. VanKoughner, J. McAndrew, W. Marsh.
Backs.—J. McClelland.
Half Backs.—G. Gordon, L. Auldwell.
Quarter Backs.—L. Boyd, J. McAlium, O. Morphy.

PETERBOROUGHS.

Forwards.—A. St. A. Smith, P. E. S. Cooper, P. Myles, W. H. Budden, F. Henry, A. Roger, E. A. Snyder, G. H. Orde, —. Greenwood.
Backs.—C. A. Lawford, A. F. Tytler.
Half Backs.—J. Grey, J. L. Weller.
Quarter Backs.—R. B. Rogers, W. Tanner.

The ball was kicked off for the Peterboroughs by Lawford, but it was immediately returned towards the Peterboroughs goal. In the scrimmages which ensued the Torontos showed themselves to be superior in strength; each time succeeding in shoving their opponents towards their own goal. The ball worked gradually down to the front of the Peterboroughs goal where it remained for several minutes until a good kick sent it up field. It was again captured and again it reached the Peterboroughs goal line until at last the Torontos cleared all before them and compelled the Peterboroughs to rouge. The ball was again kicked off and after a short time Myles succeeded in getting possession. He ran up field and avoided all capturing until within a few feet of the Torontos goal line, when he was pounced upon by McClelland. The ball remained at the upper end of the field until Cooper succeeded in scoring the first touchdown for the Peterboroughs. A try was made for goal but it was unsuccessful. The play was hot all the way through the game, but the Torontos, at the end of the first three quarters of an hour, were ten points ahead, having got two rouges, one try and one goal to the Peterboroughs one try.

After a few minutes' rest the inflated oblong was sent flying by McClelland, of the Torontos. Both teams again went to work with determination and vim. Had a pass game been played perhaps a different story would have been told, but, as it was a scrimmage game, the Toronto forwards were too heavy for the home forwards' Weller and Myles made some good field play, Cooper and Alf. Rogers distinguished themselves in fine checking, and Tanner made several very cool and pretty catches. Snyder and Orde displayed to good advantage their running powers, and Smith and Lawford were ever in the thickest of the fray.

For the Torontos Morphy, Blake and Marsh made good play, and McClelland, who kicked the gaols, is a really fine safe kick. When the time was called the Torontos' score stood 29 to 8, in the last half time they having obtained a goal, a try, a safety touch, and a rouge, to the Peterboroughs' one try. The game throughout was contested in a friendly spirit, and after cheering each other the teams adjourned to Faucher's Hotel, where the Peterboroughs entertained the visitors to a dinner. After dinner the Torontos were escorted to the Ontario and Quebec station, and departed amid the hearty cheering of the home club.

Excellent and Progressive.

The Lindsay Post of last week contains the following:—

"That excellent and progressive newspaper, the Peterborough DAILY REVIEW, has again been enlarged, matter equivalent to one column per page having been added to the make up of the paper. A pressure of advertising patronage calls for a permanent enlargement. We are glad to see that our contem. is prospering and well supported. There is only one further improvement that could be pointed out—our contem. will pardon the suggestion—and that is the boy should be a trifle less reckless with the paste when wrapping up the copies of the REVIEW that are mailed to this office."

The Nile Expedition.

The Canadian contingent of the above expedition have, as will be seen, reached the scene of operations some days ago, and already made manifest their superiority as boatmen. The trials and hardships that the men will necessarily have to undergo no doubt will be met with an amount of pluck and endurance that always characterizes Canadians wherever they go, and which is almost sure to make their mission a success. Perhaps those who are left behind will in no small degree miss some of the boys; but, when all is ended, and the £8,000,000 that has been set apart for Gordon's rescue has been spent, the men will once more return to their respective homes in Canada, and the Peterborough contingent will one and all require a new outfit of clothing. Like those they have left behind them they are sure to give A. McNeil, Habiliment Hall, a call.

LOCAL NOTICES.

This ale has received four gold medals at the World's Exposition, Paris, Australia, Philadelphia and Canada. It is kept in one of the best cellars in Canada, and is pleasant to the taste, and at the same time a wholesome beverage.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

Card of Thanks.

Mr. C. Young wishes to return his sincere thanks to his customers in Ashburnham and Peterborough for the liberal patronage with which they have favoured him for the past seven years. As he has not disposed of his property he will still carry on the business, leaving an efficient substitute to conduct it during his temporary absence this winter. He hopes that he will receive a continuance of the patronage bestowed upon him in the past. As Mr. Young intends to conduct the business on the cash principle, his customers will find that he is able to sell at rock bottom prices.

Oysters! Oysters!

As the fruit season is closing in, and cold, frosty nights creeping along, I am offering as a substitute some very nice fresh oysters, both in tins and bulk, which will be found seasonable and refreshing.

Oysters, like teas, may be bought at all prices according to the quality and freshness, and if mine should be found wanting when kept in a temperature down to thirty-five, what must others be, when exposed to the constant changes of the weather? I am receiving a very fine line of grapes, Delewares, Concords and Rodger's varieties, the finest production of outdoor grapes in Canada, direct from the gardens of R. R. Smith. Smith's Market.

At Faucher's Restaurant, Dowe's Labatt's and Cosgrave's Ales on draught.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1884.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

The Grand Jury Bring in True Bills Against Purcell and Mimms.

On Tuesday afternoon the Grand Jury brought in true bills against Mimms, charged with manslaughter, and Purcell, charged with rape.

THE CIVIL CASES.

CHRISTIE vs. BYROM.—This was an action brought by Mrs. Mary Jane Christie, a widow, aged 36, having two children, against Mr. John Byrom, a widower, aged 63, with eight children (the oldest of whom is 34 years old), for the recovery of $5,000 damages on account of the defendant's breach of promise of marriage. The defendant is a well-to-do farmer living in the township of Otonabee, and the plaintiff is a widow of scanty means, living about a mile from Keene. It seems that the defendant made a proposal of marriage to the plaintiff on Oct. 1st, 1883, and arranged the date of marriage to be the 16th of last January. The defendant, finding his family not agreeable to his getting married, failed to put in an appearance on the appointed day. The jury returned a verdict of $800 for the plaintiff. Messrs. B. B. Osler, Q. C., and Poussette & Roger for the plaintiff; Messrs. Dumble & Henry for the defendant.

DONNELY vs. HALL.—An action brought by James Donnely, of the Township of Harvey, against Sheriff Hall, of Peterborough, for the recovery of $570.31, the amount of an execution issued by the plaintiff against the goods and chattels of Messrs. Robinson and Elliott, and which was returned invalid. The Ontario Bank had a chattel mortgage against the goods and indemnified the Sheriff for any loss he might sustain. The goods and chattels referred to are logs and timber in the back lakes and the counsel for the plaintiff contends that the mortgage held by the Ontario Bank did not cover the goods which were in Buckhorn Lake, Ball Lake, Sandy Creek and Squaw River. The counsel for the defendant on the other hand contend that Pidgeon Lake and the above mentioned waters form one body of water and that the goods in all the above mentioned waters were covered by the mortgage. Judgment reserved. Mr. Adam Hudspeth, Q. C., for the plaintiff and Messrs. B. B. Osler, Q. C., and Poussette & Roger for the plaintiff.

The New Vault.

A new brick vault is being built in addition to the County Court office. The architectural design will be similar to that of the County Court office. The vault will be 5½x14 feet, and 24 feet high. It will have a stone foundation, a brick floor, two windows, and iron roof, and two ventilators will be placed, one in the new vault and one in the old one. Mr. W. H. Roberts has the contract.

DESPERATE THIEVES.

Robs a Yonge Street Jewellery Store, and Then Stabs His Captor and Escapes.

Still another has been added to the already large list of daring robberies that have lately been perpetrated or attempted in the city though, fortunately, in the present instance the miscreant did not succeed in getting away with his booty. Last evening at about a quarter past nine o'clock, While Mrs. Ashall was sitting behind the counter on one side of the jewellery store occupied by her son, Mr. Wm. Ashall, at No. 262 Yonge street, a sneak thief made his way in, and stealthily creeping along the floor succeeded in getting behind the counter on the opposite side of the shop from which Mrs. Ashall was sitting, and abstracted therefrom a tray containing 29 valuable gold watches, with which, in the same stealthy manner, he managed to regain the street. Mrs. Ashall fancied that she heard a noise about the time he was getting out at the doar, but paid no attention to it, deeming it impossible that anyone could effect an entrance without her perceiving them. On the thief gaining the street, however, he was espied by a young man named Dumelle, who lives on Church street, who at once called on the robber to drop the tray, and gave chase to him. The thief being hard pressed dropped the tray, which was at once picked up and returned to the store with its contents intact, by a young man who was in company with Mr. Dumelle. That gentleman, however, kept up the chase, and succeeded in collaring his man in the vicinity of Trinity square, when the ruffian, infuriated by the prospect of capture, drew a knife and made a desparate attack on his captor, cutting him severely across the back of the hand, and compelling him to release his hold. The scamp then made good his escape, while Mr. Dumelle returned and had his wound dressed. Whoever the thief was he was evidently well posted, as he chose a time for his raid when Mr. Ashall would be out, and no one but an aged lady in charge of the store. The detectives have the matter in hand, and it is expected that the would-be thief will soon be arrested.—Globe.

An Ocean Race.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The steamers Aurania, Arizona, and Austral left Queenstown on the fifth inst. for New York, and considerable money was staked here on the result of the voyage. The Aurania arrived first, although she left Queenstown four hours after the Austral had sailed and three hours after the Arizona departed. Neither of the vessels saw the other during the trip.

MURDERED ELDRIDGE.

Story Told by a Relative to the County Crown Attorney.

LONDON, Oct, 10.—Renewed interest has been created in regard to the murder of Rufus Eldridge, at Nilestown, some time since, through a statement made by Lorenzo Stephens, a half brother of the murdered man, to Mr. Hutchinson, county crown attorney. Stephens said that about half an hour after dusk on the night of Sept, 16th, he arrived at McRobert's tavern, in Nilestown, with Eldridge. He had been drinking and had won the drinks from Lanseet on a bet. Soon after they went into the bar Eldridge came in and then a good deal of drinking took place. After a while they went over to Byer's tavern and had more drinks. There was no quarreling there. After three-quarters of an hour he went back to McRobert's. Eldridge had gone over a little before him, and when he went in was standing at the bar with several more, and Stephens thought they were going to hurt him (Eldridge). The talk was loud and angry. Stephens had not been there long before some one knocked him over. He was knocked down several times. After some preliminary talking and fighting Stephens and Elridge were locked in the hotel. When they thought it time to go they went out for the team and Eldridge untied the horses. Stephens saw two persons running from Byers' hotel. They got up to the waggon and one grabbed Stephens by the arms and tried to pull him out on the right hand side while the other disappeared, going as he thought behind the wagoon. The horses being on the move all the time, Stephens was pulled off the wagon and struck on the head, whether in falling or by the man he could not say. He had an indistinct recollection of getting up after he was knocked down. When they were starting from the house or while going from the hotel to the wagon Eldridge said he was going home and would untie the horses, and told Stephens that he had better get out his knife and use it in defending himself if attacked, as the men meant to kill them if they could. Stephens did so, and had his knife open in his hand when he got into the wagon, and when the man attacked and tried to pull him hut, he struck at him with the knife till he was dragged out. Stephens is quite positive it was Naulty who attacked him, and that it was Lansett who ran behind the wagon. He never saw Eldridge alive after being dragged out of the wagon. When they were in the back room he heard Lansett and Naulty threatening to kill him and Eldridge.

IN SEARCH OF MOTHER.

A Six-year-old Runaway Mistakes Brooklyn for Liverpool.

A mite of a boy was found curled up asleep in the doorway of a house on Fulton street, Brooklyn, late on Monday night by Officer Joyce of the Brooklyn police force. A small bundle of clothes tied up in a handkerchief served the little fellow for a pillow. The officer aroused him and asked him what he was doing there.

"I'm looking for mamma," said the lad, "she always treated Paddy kindly."

"Did you run away from home?" asked the officer.

"Yes, sir, I did," answered the boy in a manly voice. "and so would you if you had been treated the same as I was by my father. I'll tell you how it was. Papa drinks. About a year ago he and mamma separated in Liverpool, England, and he started for America with me. He loved mamma very much, and after he came here he drank worse than ever. He used to beat me terribly when he was drunk. We lived in New York somewhere. I don't remember the street. Finally I made up my mind to run away and go to mamma. I had a little prayer book she gave me, and my little sister's picture, and another coat and vest, and I took them with me. I wandered down until I came to the river. I saw a boat just starting. I crawled on board and hid myself. It did not take near as long to come across this time as it did when papa and I went over together. Do you think I'll find my mamma to-night?" concluded the little fellow mournfully.

"Yes, yes," said the officer, "you'll find her, but not to-night. What is your name?"

"Paddy Kelly, and I'm six years old. I bet mamma will not beat me. Do you think she will?"

"No, she won't," replied the officer, as he took the little fellow by the hand, and carried him to the Brooklyn Police Headquarters, where he was given a good supper and bed for the night.

He was taken to Castle Garden yesterday. Superintendent Jackson will try and have him returned to England. He cannot remember the name of the street he lived in.—New York Journal.

BRIGANDAGE IN HURON.

How Huron Farmers Were Tied up and Robbbed—Midnight Visitors.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 13.—On Saturday night last at about 12 p.m. two men came to Mr Hill's place, concession 7, township of Morris, and asked for admission, which was refused by Mr. Hill. After a few minutes the door was broken with a plank and the men came in and seized him, one presenting a revolver and demanding his money or his life. He insisted that he had no money. One man kept watch over him while the other searched the house and stole $20 from a chest in an adjoining room. They then tore up a bag and tied Hill hand and foot to the bed post and left. Between twelve and one o'clock they got to Mr. McArthur's, four lots further on, knocked at the door and asked for admission. He got up and let them in, when they seized him, one by each hand, at the same time presenting revolvers at him and asking for money. He told them where to find the keys and the money. From a drawer they took between $70 and $80. Among the money was a fifty dallar bill. They also tore up a towel or towels and tied Mr. McArthur to the bed. After getting the money they got some bread and meat and made a hearty meal and departed. One man wore a dark cloth mask and the other had a false mustache, but no beard. On Sunday morning the victims tracked the robbers, after the rain, to the Seaforth gravel road, where all traces were lost.

TREASURES IN THE BRINY.

Where Gold and Silver are Plenty and Safe from Thieves.

The list of treasures lost in the sea, would, indeed, be a long and melancholy one; instancing for example, the Madagascar, from Australia, which, in the early days of the gold fever there, having on board the precious yellow dust in enormous quantity, was never heard of and left not the faintest clue to speculation as to her fate. And in later years the Thunder steamer, from Calcutta to China, with some £300,000 worth of silver, destined never to reach the expectant consignees, was supposed to be abandoned among the awful sand banks at the mouth of the Hooghly, but, in spite of many rumors, never to be seen there.

There are instances out of many, of treasures never heard of. The wreck of the Character steamer from Australia lost in a frightful gale on the Anglesea coast in October 1850, with some £800,000 of gold on board, will doubtless occur in the readers mind, coupled as it was with such a lamentable loss of life. In this case, happily, a great deal of the treasures was recovered subsequently but there is a fortune left at Moeltra for the fortunate being who can find it. In old days Vigo bay had always an attractive scend to treasure seekers from the reported wealth on the Spanish fleet destroyed there by Sir G. Rooke in 1762; but the infinite pains, money and patience expended over its recovery have been thrown away, the silver (if it is there, which is doubtful) obstinately refusing to make a reappearance to the world.—San Francisco Chronicle.

There are lots of people going around grumbling, and half sick at the Stomach all the time; who might be well and happy if they only used Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters occasionally. It is a splendid Blood Purifier. All Druggists, 50 cents.

GERMANY'S GOOD WILL.

BURIAL REFUSED TO A MASON.

TERRIBLE TYPHOON IN JAPAN.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—On the 15th September Yokohama and Tokio were visited by a terrible typhoon. In the latter city 3,000 houses were destroyed and 20 people killed. The loss of life at sea was appalling, and no estimate could be made of the number. The typhoon was followed by another of great force on the 17th.

TROUBLE IN INDIA.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The St. James' Gazette has a very sensational statement in this evening's issue that is making some stir, though it is generally believed that even should there be some truth in the gloomy views shown forth, there is great exaggeration. The Gazette states that it has indisputable authority for saying that England is approaching a crisis in India, in comparison with which the Sepoy rebellion of 1857 will appear commonplace. The principal dangers foretold arise from the disloyalty of the Mohammedans in Calcutta and Bombay, and the Russian invasion, which is always threatened by way of Afghanistan. The Gazette promises to publish revelations, in which the oppressions of the natives of India by tax farmers and collectors will be shown in as bad a light as the crimes of Warren Hastings.

AMERICA'S DISCOVERY.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—A banquet was given yesterday by the Sociedal Latino Americano to commemorate the 392nd anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus. DeLesseps echoed the wish expressed by the president of the society that the differences between Latin peoples inhabiting America should be settled pacifically. He described the work of blasting along the line of the Panama Canal, and announced that there would be a grand ceremony on March 1st, 1885, to mark the formal commencement of the work at Panama and Colon.

MAIL ROBBERY IN TURKEY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 13.—Great excitement has been caused by an audacious robbery of the Turkish mail near Ismao Court. The mail carriers fought hard but were taken unawares. The horses were shot and the entire freight captured, one mail rider and two Zatchi were killed and several seriously wounded. The Government's loss is £60,000, private losses £2,000. A large body of cavalry is pursuing the brigands. Government officials are suspected of being in collusion with the brigands.

THE CHOLERA PLAGUE.

ROME, Oct. 13.—During the past twenty-four hours there were 195 new cases of cholera, and 99 deaths in Italy.

FRENCH DEFEAT AT TAMSUL.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The Amoy correspondent of the Times telegraphs that the defeat of Admiral Lespes and the French fleet is confirmed. The Chinese, by hiding in the bushwood, suffered 600 of the French force to land and come within easy range before they appeared. The Chinese general Tso then lead the attack upon the rear of the French, who became panic stricken. The Chinese force killed seventy men and captured one gun. The Chinese also beheaded twenty-two French corpses, but desisted from further mutilation upon the protest of the British consul. The Chinese lost two hundred killed and wounded. The fighting lasted five hours, at the end of which the French retired to their ships.

A CONFERENCE.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Earl Granville has accepted an invitation to attend the Berlin Conference on Congo affairs, provided the business is confined to questions concerning Congo commerce and not to include the French dispute relative to territory in West Africa. The conference will meet in Berlin on the 6th November. Prince Bismarck will preside. The invention states that the basis of the proposals to be submitted have already been settled between France and Germany. It is reported they embrace the appointment of an international commission to supervise the navigation of Congo river, and that it will reject the Anglo-Portuguse treaty, which provides for the neutrality of the river to Stanley Falls, excepting the portion of the right bank, which is claimed by France.

MOUNTED IRREGULARS.

CAIRO, Oct. 13.—The Mudir of Dongola has ordered the mounted irregulars to prepare to march to the front on Thursday. The infantry remains to protect the city in case El Mahdi's forces attack it. The troops are reluctant to advance, fearing they will encounter serious fighting. They also appear to be disaffected, owing to the circulation of a report that the Sultan desires their services to oppose the English.

HOPES FOR COL. STEWART.

WADY HALFA., Oct. 13.—A messenger who has returned to Col. Kitchener, says the steamer that ran upon the rocks at Wady Garna was commanded by Nicola, the Greek consul. It is believed if Col. Stewart had been aboard the steamer he would have been in command. There is therefore some hope that he is alive.

LIBERAL TACTICS.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The Conservative demonstration announced for to-day at Birmingham was prevented by the organized force of their opponents. The Liberals in great numbers forced an entrance into the town hall by battering in the doors with heavy planks and over whelmed the Conservatives, who were powerless. A free fight ensued in which the furniture was used as weapons. The mob swept from the platform the officers of the meeting, and the speakers, Sir Stafford Northcote and Lord Randolph Churchill were unable to speak and retired to a side room, where they addressed a small crowd.

MR. MOWAT AND QUEBEC.

WE all remember, when the illegal and irregular boundary award was rejected by the Parliament of Canada, how the Reform press poured floods of abuse upon the Quebec members and people, and upon Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues for truckling to Quebec influence. Some of the more dishonest and ignorant of the Reform journals even went so far as to say that Mr. Mousseau confessed that he had imposed conditions upon Sir John in this respect on the formation of his Cabinet, though in reality it was only a private conversation with his political friend Mr. Masson, and in fact Mr. Mousseau was not invited to join the Cabinet until a year later, and after Parliament had rejected the award. It was represented by the Reformers that Quebec was jealous of Ontario and would not allow us our rights, because to yield them would make Ontario larger than Quebec. We pointed out at the time that the charge was absurd, for if Ontario established her right to territory north of the height of land, a similar extension of Quebec would almost necessarily follow, so that Ontario would gain no relative advantage over her sister Province. In fact Mr. Mousseau was quite reasonable in both points of the conditions he suggested to Mr. Masson, but which he had not an opportunity of imposing, as he did not receive a portfolio till the matter was settled. He was quite right in objecting to the infringement of the British North American Act, or to confirming territory to Ontario by a private and irregular arrangement between Mr. Mackenzie, the Reform Premier of Canada, and Mr. Mowat, the Reform Premier of Ontario, while the similar interests of Quebec were neglected. What a howl would the Reformers have emitted if the Conservative executives of Canada and Quebec had, in defiance of our constitution, made an agreement for the settlement of the boundaries of Quebec without reference either to Parliament or the law courts.

After refusing for more than ten years to accept the Conservative policy of a reference to the Privy Council, Mr. Mowat is pretending a triumph because at last he was driven to adopt this course. And now he is having the effrontery to claim the credit for another Conservative idea. He is telling them in Quebec that his "victory" is one for Quebec as well as Ontario, since Quebec will also be similarly enlarged. And this after he and his party had for years abused and vilified the people of Quebec because, except Mr. Laurier, they wished the question decided by law, and were therefore accused by the Reformers of trying to rob Ontario. And this though he tried to set up an irregular private arrangement from which Quebec was excluded.

Well may such a party be termed an "organized hypocrisy."

TRAINS ON SUNDAY.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—I beg to draw your attention and the attention of the christian people of Peterborough, to the (now) regular desecration of the Sabbath quiet by the running of trains on the Ontario and Quebec branch of the C.P. R., and also the Grand Junction section of the Grand Trunk Railway. If I remember right, one Sunday some years ago, when a train ran over the Grand Junction, our late worthy Constable Mr. McGhee quickly put the law in force against the company, and stopped a repetition of it. If there is a municipal law, empowering our local authorities to stop such desecration, why is it not put in force as promptly now, and if so can you say what the law is? It has been a common thing of late to hear the whistling of trains and ringing of bells on the C.P.R. line. I have been told that the Government granted them the privilege of running on Sunday while their road was under construction. If that was so, I was not aware that the Government of a christian land had the power to set aside the laws of God, on which their Government is founded. Quite recently while Forepaugh's menegarie and circus was here, a train arrived on the Sabbath, just as our congregations were coming out of church, bringing in the whole or part of that menagerie with their staff of employees who I am told proceeded to put up their tents that afternoon. Again, yesterday forenoon, two or three freight trains passed over the Grand Junction section of the Grand Trunk and were whistling and shunting while the people were going to church. Such evils just need a beginning to go from bad to worse, and I know that many of the christian people of the town feel very strongly against this recent Sabbath desecration by our railways, and I hope that the ministers of our various churches and the christian public of our town will unite in a determined effort to put an end to this evil and let the hard worked railway employee have also the day of rest that God ordained.

Hoping that these few remarks may help to stir up our towns people to do all they can to put a stop to this evil,

I am yours, &c.,
OBSERVER.

Peterborough, Oct. 13th, 1884.

BELMONT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

THAT FIRE.—The statement that the loss of Mr. Wm. Coon's saw mill, which was destroyed by fire, was small, was not strictly correct. The mill was burned, together with a quantity of lumber, some of which had been got out for the village of Norwood, and the loss is over $1,500. There was no insurance on the mill or the lumber.

THE MOWAT & CO. PLOT.

THE REAL CONSPIRATORS CALLED TO ACCOUNT AGAINST THEIR WILL.

The Perjured Informers — McKim Approaches Meek—Trying to Entrap Bunting—The Government Insulting the House—Running After Bribes—McKim Begging for Money.

The Royal Commission had another sitting on Saturday.

THE MOWAT INFORMERS.

A number of witnesses testified as to the habits of perjury of Informers McKim and Cascaden, and their bad reputation for veracity. Most of them were Reformers.

A number of other witnesses were called in rebuttal, and swore that they would believe these informers upon oath, but their testimony was almost as damaging from their admissions of the unsavoury character of their friends.

MCKIM "APPROACHING" MEEK.

MR. WHITFIELD, clerk to Mr. Meek, was examined by Dr. McMichael. He said that McKim came to him in the outer office, and asking for Mr. Meek was shown into the inner office to him. Mr. Wilkinson, who had business in the office, came in after him and left before him. Mr. Meek instructed witness to make a charge against McKim for drawing an agreement and a few hours afterwards McKim, coming in when Mr. Meek was absent, told him that the arrangement would not be carried out.

DR. MCMICHAEL put in marked portions of McKim's evidence.

RUNNING AFTER BRIBES.

DR. MCMICHAEL addressed the Commissioners on behalf of Mr. Meek, contending that there was not the slightest proof of either bribery or conspiracy on his part. He objected also to his client being tried twice on the same charge. There was no offense charged as included in the Statute as an offense against the Legislature. Mr. Meek was at liberty to try to combine to overturn the administration, for that was not an unlawful object, and unless he had agreed to unlawful means he was not guilty of conspiracy, even if one of his associates committed an unlawful act. He reviewed the evidence to show that there was no proof of any unlawful act by Mr. Meek. McKim, Cascaden and Lyon had approached him, but had been repelled. He pointed out how McKim had contradicted himself and how the evidence of Meek and Whitfield showed the inaccuracy of any damaging statements by McKim. For instance, McKim had been to Bunting before his interview with Meek, and not afterwards as he said. As to the elevator man taking him to Meek's office, they dared not call him to give evidence. McKim admitted that he had begged Kirkland for money and had been refused. It was McKim who throughout had made the "approaches." He climbed up to a room in the fourth story to approach Mr. Bunting; he went, unsolicited, to Mr. Meek's office to see him; he went like an errand boy, taking Dowling, Balfour and others to Wilkinson. If there had been any offence against the House, it had been committed by the Ministers who had sent men like McKim and others to solicit bribery of members. If there had been any contempt the Government had brought it upon themselves. They had not only connived but they had sent these men to entrap others. These men were below detectives, below informers, for they were accomplices, who were prepared to assist in carrying out the work. He claimed a report in favour of his client.

The Commission then adjourned till the following morning.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

WHAT POLICY?

The public have a right to know what the Grit speakers and journalists mean to lay down as their rule of action in the matter of reconstruction, and until they do know it, mere negatives and free trade generalities will have little weight with them.—Toronto News (Indep.)

MISLEADING.

A stranger reading the blazing headlines over articles in some leading Canadian newspapers, might with reason be excused were he to arrive at the conclusion that the provinces that make up the Dominion were at war with each other. "Federal Aggression." "Stand by our Provincial Constitutions." "Grand Defense of Local Rights." "Ontario to the Front." "Quebec Must Have her Demands." "British Columbia Shall Not be Interfered With." These, and such as these, are the lines that too frequently strike one's eye on opening up a Canadian paper.—Ottawa Sun (Indep.).

UNITED WE STAND.

Whether we belong to Ontario, Nova Scotia, or British Columbia, we should never lose sight of the fact that we are all Canadians. There can be no adhesion, no unity of feeling, no nationalism if we array province against province; if one section of the country crows about a victory, real or fancied, over another section.—Ottawa Sun (Indep.)

MOUTHPIECE OF A CLIQUE.

The Globe is enthusiastic over the action of the Ottawa government in making extensive land grants to Manitoba railways. The organ has previously taken strong ground against alienating the public domain, and its change of front is accounted for by the fact that one of its largest stockholders is also a heavy stockholder in the Souris railway. Such is the boasted "independence" of the Globe, which, instead of being free to champion the people's interests is bound to grind the axes of half a dozen extensive stockholders who are speculators and wire-pullers in as many different directions.—Toronto News, (Indep.)

CANADA'S PREMIER.

Party leanings will not blind sensible people to the value of Sir John's services to the Dominion. His career has not been free from errors, but as a man who has spent the best years of his life in serving his country, he is entitled to the esteem of his fellow citizens. His disappearance from public life at the present time would be a misfortune, but there is at present no reason to fear such a contingency. The Liberal organs of course assert that his illness is feigned to conceal some occult design in visiting England. The fact that the President of the Canada Pacific accompanies him has caused comment, but Sir John has stated that his visit has nothing to do with railway affairs. If he were to give the Marquis of Sailsbury some points on political generalship while he is over it would be a good thing for the English Tories.—Toronto Telegram (Indep.)

THE GREAT CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Those who have watched the career of the Canadian Pacific company since its organization, in the spring of 1881, can form an opinion as to its future moves to secure a share of the traffic passing between the eastern and western hemispheres. The same energy, pluck and perseverance which they have displayed in the past will be brought to bear in future movements. In many of these they will have the sympathy and co-operation of the British Government and her colonies, combined with which they will be enabled to offer better rates than any competing line, giving them a decided advantage over all rivals. A few months now will bring about wonderful changes in the shipping of Victoria, and Puget Sound in general, the croakings of many to the contrary notwithstanding.—Victoria, B. C., Times (Ref.)

A Shower of Dimes.

At the funeral of a wealthy Chinaman in Carson the other day, the chief mourners threw small parcels, done up in rice paper, from the wagons as they passed along the streets. No one paid any attention to this proceeding until a street Arab picked up one of the parcels and found that it contained a dime. In a moment the street was thick with boys picking up the little treasures, and over $30 are known to have been obtained in the small coins.—Virginia City Chronicle.

A GOOD TEST.—For over 16 years G. M. Everest, of Forest, has sold Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, and its sales are steadily increasing. It cures coughs, colds and all lung complaints; is pleasant to take and always reliable.

A REMARKABLE DISCOVERY.—A council of doctors declared Mrs. Adelaide O'Brien, of 372 Exchange St., Buffalo, incurable. Her liver was badly disordered; she vomited green mucous; could retain no food; skin yellow and full of humors. She was rapidly sinking; but Burdock Blood Bitters cured her.

Happy All Around.

"I'll tell you how it is, Algernon," she said in musical murmurs.

"Yes, Maud," he replied in subdued tones, watching her with the reflected light of the moon in her deep, brown eyes.

"Pa has money, you have none. Pa is a free-trader, you are a protectionist."

"Yes," with rising inflections and doubtful tone.

"I will suggest that pa make a free trade of my hand for your business ability, and then I'll look to your arm for protection."

"Bless you, my children," from a stentorian voice on the back piazza.

Need of Women in the Arctic Region.

"The Greely party should have taken their wives with them," said a gentleman to his wife, who was discussing the recent arctic explorations.

"Why, my dear, they would have perished with the cold; besides, there were not provisions enought for the men, and what could the women have done?" replied his spouse.

"No, it has been demonstrated that women can endure more hardships than men. Then they could have furnished enough meat to last three months longer."

"What could they have furnished by way of supplies after the food was exhausted?"

"If they were like you, my love, they could have furnished an abundance of cold shoulder and hot tongue."

THE DOMINION EXHIBITION.

THE Dominion Exhibition was held at Ottawa from 22nd to the 26th of September, and that city being the headquarters of the lumber trade of the Ottawa Valley, the exhibits of lumbermen's supplies, of all descriptions, formed an extensive and interesting part of the show.

The Montreal Saw Works exhibited their saws largely and distributed in a generous manner their new illustrated catalogue. In connection with their exhibit was noticed two new ideas in mill requisites—a lath binder, very simple and complete, by Mereweather & Co., of Hull, and a saw filing machine by Cushman & Chambers, of Hull. The former being in operation was an object of interest to lumbermen.

The Prescott Emery Wheel Co. had a large and excellent exhibit and were the only exhibitors of that manufacture. They were awarded, as an extra prize, a silver medal for assortment of emery wheels. At the Montreal exhibition, where opposition was offered by exhibits from the "Hart" and "Diamond" emery wheel companies, the "Prescott" was awarded a silver medal as an extra first prize.

The National Manufacturing Company had a most excellent exhibit of tents, flags and camp furnishings, and were highly complimented by the judges, who awarded them three medals. They carried off four at Montreal and three at Toronto.

The other great tent company, of Ottawa, the International Tent and Awning Co., had a large and pleasing display of tents, hammocks, &c., tastefully arranged for the use of tired visitors who thronged the grounds.

The Mocock Axe Works, of Montreal, had samples of their famed axes on view.

Corron & Co., and Golden & McCollough, of Galt, each exhibited a good display of heavy wood-working machinery, most of which met with ready sale at the exhibition.

R. H. Buchanan & Co., Montreal, showed a very fine assortment of wood-working machinery by different makers, this firm being agents for representative machinery makers.

Roblin & Sadler, manufacturers of leather belting, fire engine hose, &c., Montreal, exhibited a fine display of their goods, and carried off the honors, as usual.

The exhibits of table supplies were numerous, among the more noticeable of which were the the Canada Soup Co., Oakville, the Cook's Favorite Baking Powder Co., and Johnston's Fluid Beef.

The Small Boy.

"Father, did the boy really stand on the deck?" asked Green's hopeful progeny, the other day.

"No, Georgie; he stood on three kings and he put the deck up his sleeve to use as occasion demanded."—Boston Times.

"Mamma, is it wrong to say 'it is going to thunder?'"

"Why, of course not, Eddie. Why do you ask such a question?"

"Cause yesterday pa said if you were going to thunder he would't care."—Boston Times.

The Sabbath school superintendent was talking about children praying at the mother's knee. He had grown quite eloquent and affecting and not a few were weeping. "Now Johnny," said he, "does your mother tell you to come and kneel down before her at her knee?"

"Yes sir, sheeduz," said Johnny.

"How do you feel then, happy boy, with a Christian mother."

"Well, when she holds my head down between her knees and pulls my coat up over my head and wears out her slipper on my basement, I feel——"

The superintendent had fainted.—South and West.

"Papa, does God tell you what to write in in your sermon?"

"Yes, dear, of course."

"Then why do you scratch it out so often?"—The Judge.

"Children," said a Sunday school teacher, looking over the top of her glasses, "we should always be glad and happy for our manifold blessings. Even the birds thank their maker in song—hear those canaries across the street, pouring forth their musical praises."

"Please, ma'am," interrupted a little fellow who was playing tit-tat-too on the fly leaf of a hymnal, "them ain't a-praisin'. That's what canaries always does."—Life.

A COMMITTEE of Scotch farmers in Glasgow reports in favour of an application of the principles of the Irish Land Act to land tenure in Scotland.

A GOOD RECORD—Among the many thousand bottles of Hagyard's Yellow Oil sold annually in Canada not one has ever failed to give satisfaction. It cures rheumatism, colds and all painful complaints and injuries.

A PACK of Indians, camped near Lansingburg, N.Y., for several days, and when they left the medicine man of the gang carried off as a willing captive the 18-year-old daughter of respectable parents.

A VIOLENT wind and hail storm at Harrisburg, Pa., on Sunday afternoon, caused considerable damage to property.

OH! how tired and weak I feel, I don't believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning! O yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Doctor Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50c.

A WELL dressed man jumped into the river at New York on Friday night, saying he was going to swim to Brooklyn. He sank immediately.

So many write us of the merits of Zopesa from the West, Canada, the East and at home; they write of being cured of liver troubles, dyspepsia, urinary troubles, chronic headaches, etc., but we cannot publish them—any drug store keeps Zopesa. Ask J. D. Tully.

THE whaler Seine, of New Bedford, Mass. has been wrecked at Cape Erie. Two of the crew were lost, and the sufferings of the remainder were terrible.

As a general thing ladies who make any pretentions to refinement desire to have soft white hands. We believe that nothing will tend more to produce this effect than the constant use of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water mixed with the water in the basin. It removes redness and roughness. The ladies of Cuba and South America were the first to discover the extraordinary virtues of this floral water as a cosmetic, and have long since discarded the use of all others.

Answer this Question.

Daily Evening Review

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Saturday Night.

Stafford-Foster Co., Opera House. Romeo and Juliet.

Y.M.C.A. Bible Class.

Mr. Munro will continue the history of the Exodus of the Israelites at the bible class to-night. The subject was very interesting last week, and will no doubt continue to be so.

Mortality Returns.

During the month of September the number of interments registered with the Superintendant at the Little Lake Cemetery were ten, and up to date of the present month, the number of interments has been six. This shows an increase of the death rate for the past few months.

At the Opera House To-night.

The much talked of evening social, under the auspices of the Ladies of No. 2 Ward, connected with the St. Peter's Cathedral, will be held in Bradburn's Opera House to-night. A unique and highly interesting programme has been arranged, consisting of music, refreshments, and the entertainment to be concluded by a social hop. No doubt the social will be well attended.

"All Crazy."

Mr. M. W. Tobin, business manager for Barry & Fay's Comedy Company, is in town making arrangements for their appearance here on Tuesday, October 21, in Leonard Grover's comedy play in three acts entitled "All Crazy." This Company have lately been playing the celebrated comedy play known as "Muldoon's Picnic," and are spoken of by the press as being a first-class one in every respect.

Curling and Skating Rink.

It should not be forgotten that the annual meeting of the Peterborough Curling and Skating Rink Company for the election of officers, the consideration of the accounts and other business, takes place this evening at Daly's Grand Central hotel. The removal of the rink to Charlotte street, and its enlargement and improvement are equivalent to a new start under more favourable circumstances, so that this annual meeting will be especially interesting, and there should be a full attendance.

The Grand Entertainment.

The posters for the grand entertainment, to be held in Bradburn's Opera House under the auspices of Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, I.O.O.F., on the evening of November 5th, are now out. At the grand entertainment the following artists will appear:—Miss Jessie Couthoui, Chicago's great elocutionist; Miss Gertrude Bretnell, a vocalist of rare ability, and Miss Clara Cluxton, so well and favourably known as a vocalist. Miss Couthoui comes highly recommended and no doubt to hear her will alone be worth the admission fee.

Romeo and Juliet

By the Stafford-Foster Co., at the Opera House Saturday night. The following is from the Ottawa Free Press of last Saturday:—

"The second appearance of the Stafford-Foster combination drew a large and appreciative audience to the Grand Opera House last evening. The play selected was Romeo and Juliet, in which both Mr. Stafford and Miss Foster acquitted themselves to the entire satisfaction of the audience, as was evinced by frequent recalls. Miss Foster gave a fine rendition of her role, acting throughout with the modest grace that is inseparable from a successful rendition of so tender and beautiful a character. Mr. Stafford's Romeo was a powerful portrayal, unalloyed by rant or mannerism, and fully meriting the unstinted applause which it evoked."

Temperance Entertainment.

On Monday evening an entertainment was held in the school room of St. Luke's Church under the auspices of the Church of England Temperance Society. It was the first of a series to be given monthly during the autumn and winter. The entertainment was a very pleasant one. The programme consisted of instrumental music by Mrs. Orde, Miss Maggie Calcutt, Miss Orde and Miss McNabb; solos by Mrs. Bowman, Miss Tivvy and Mr. C. H. Geale; recitation by Mr. P. E. S. Cooper, and readings by the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw and Messrs. F. Adams and S. R. Armstrong. Last season these entertainments were very successful, and judging from the first one this season, they are likely to be popular again.

Chit Chat.

—The weather.

—Calm, clear and cool.

—There was a blank at the Police Court this morning.

—The policemen have donned their winter coats.

—A stand pipe is being erected at the Grand Trunk station to supply the engines with water. The water will be drawn from the water works system.

—On Monday afternoon a young man found a letter (addressed to a lady in Guelph) on Aylmer street. He posted it.

—Quite a number of our citizens went to Toronto during last week to see the great actor, Henry Irving, in some of his leading roles.

—It is likely that the lacrosse season is over. The Ontarios don't like to meet our boys this fall.

WHERE LOVED ONES SLEEP.

A Visit to the Little Lake Cemetery—Continued Improvement.

It is a pleasure at all seasons of the year to announce any and every improvement that takes place from time to time in the honored and revered spot wherein rest the remains of dear friends who have gone on before. At the present time the cemetery presents a very picturesque appearance to the lover of all Nature's works, and one cannot but notice the change that has taken place within a few weeks. Trees once green are green no more, they have changed their emerald mantle to a yellowish hue, while the leaves are rapidly falling to the earth beneath. The flowers, too, not long since so beautiful to look upon and sweet with their fragrance and perfume, are now withered and dying. In fact, on every hand, no matter where one may chance to look, all is changed. Notwithstanding all this, there is a look of picturesque beauty about the place, and the now fast dying flowers, shrubs and turning leaves lend a singular charm to the solemnity of the surroundings.

Mr. John Kelly, the attentive superintendent, has accomplished a good season's work. Improvements are visible in almost every quarter of the cemetery. Immediately east of the chapel, Range Avenue, a good thing has been done. Mr. Kelly has laid out, not without much labor, one of the most picturesque portions of the cemetery. A large number of trees have been cut down; stumps and stones have been removed; the plot or mound has been newly sodded all around, and the whole seeded down. This newly laid out nook will be a charming place for one to rest after a walk through the cemetery, and rustic chairs and benches are to be placed here for this purpose.

In the south-eastern part of the cemetery, section L., another good stroke of mechanical ingenuity has been brought out. A lot of the trees and all the unsightly stumps, to say nothing of the innumerable quantity of stones, have been removed, and the effect is at once apparent. It is the intention to cut a new roadway through this part. There is a good deal of heavy labor to be done here before the work is completed, and it will be almost impossible to finish it this fall, but when the superintendant's views are carried out, and his ideas put into practical shape, it will still add to the good appearance of the cemetery, to say nothing of the pleasure of a drive through the entire place.

Our readers are aware that a system of water works has been established throughout the cemetery, and, as a natural consequence, it was necessary to erect two immense water tanks north of the chapel. These tanks were to a certain extent an eyesore, and to remove this obstacle, there has been erected a very neat and prettily painted two story frame building, which protects the tanks from the rays of the sun in summer and the snow in winter, and will have a tendancy to preserve them for a much longer period than if it were not there.

Immediately north of the caretaker's residence a suitable barn or storeroom has been erected where the tools and other apparatus used in the work of the cemetery are stored. A portion of this building is also used for a stable.

At the main entrance a drinking fountain has been placed in position, and the water, after passing through an ice house, is filtered with an improved American filter. In the summer season almost the first thing a visitor will ask for on his arrival at the cemetery is a glass of water. This last little device will prove a blessing, and there will be no further cause for trouble and annoyance on the part of visitors.

We hope ere long to chronicle the purchase of a portion of the Burnham property adjoining the front part of the cemetery, as it will add in no small degree to the appearance of the place. The present southern portion of the cemetery proper affords an excellent site for the erection of vaults, but it would be perhaps a little ambiguous to have them there without the addition of the beforementioned grounds.

In conclusion, it would not be amiss to again give a word of warning to the proper authorities with regard to the cribbing of the road leading to the cemetery. It is a well known fact that year after year the water in the Little Lake is doing its work of destruction; slowly but surely it is washing away the embankment, and in time the road will be comparatively useless. At present there is scarcely room in places for two vehicles to pass each other, and if the necessary work is put off from year to year the cost will be more and more. Again we make the assertion that immediate action should be taken.

The Nile Expedition.

The Canadian contingent of the above expedition have, as will be seen, reached the scene of operations some days ago, and already made manifest their superiority as boatmen. The trials and hardships that the men will necessarily have to undergo no doubt will be met with an amount of pluck and endurance that always characterizes Canadians wherever they go, and which is almost sure to make their mission a success. Perhaps those who are left behind will in no small degree miss some of the boys; but, when all is ended, and the £8,000,000 that has been set apart for Gordon's rescue has been spent, the men will once more return to their respective homes in Canada, and the Peterborough contingent will one and all require a new outfit of clothing. Like those they have left behind them they are sure to give A. McNEIL, Habiliment Hall, a call.

Oysters! Oysters!

As the fruit season is closing in, and cold, frosty nights creeping along, I am offering as a substitute some very nice fresh oysters, both in tins and bulk, which will be found seasonable and refreshing.

—Oysters, like teas, may be bought at all prices according to the quality and freshness, and if mine should be found wanting when kept in a temperature down to thirty-five, what must others be, when exposed to the constant changes of the weather? I am receiving a very fine line of grapes, Delewares, Concords and Rodger's varieties, the finest production of outdoor grapes in Canada, direct from the gardens of R. R. Smith. SMITH'S MARKET.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

Gold Medal Ale.

If you want a glass of Labatt's prize medal fine ale (special brewing) call at W. H. Chamberlain's Parlour Restaurant. This ale has received four gold medals at the World's Exposition, Paris, Australia, Philadelphia and Canada. It is kept in one of the best cellars in Canada, and is pleasant to the taste, and at the same time a wholesome beverage.

At Faucher's Restaurant,

Fresh Oysters received twice a week.

Shall we Let the Child Die?

A hard-hearted political economist, looking at a pale and puny child feebly gasping as it lies upon a pillow, says that the child might as well die. It is so weak and poor that its life will never be worth much anyhow. There are already a good many people in the world who are of not much account anyhow. And what's the use of adding to their number another weakling, who has but a slender chance of ever amounting to anything?

Now ask that child's mother what she thinks about letting the child die. About this time the hard political economist had better get out of the way. "Let my child die? No! No! As long as there is a remedy to be found that will save that child, the child shall not die! I'll spend my last dollar to save that child!" Well, try a bottle of Shaker Blood Syrup on that child. See the poor little child pick up strength. He revives. He will live. Hosts of other children have been brought almost from death to healthy life by the Shaker Blood Syrup. Your druggist sells it.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN Hair Renewer.

Seldom does a popular remedy win such a strong hold upon the public confidence as has HALL'S HAIR RENEWER. The cases in which it has accomplished a complete restoration of color to the hair, and vigorous health to the scalp, are innumerable.

Old people like it for its wonderful power to restore to their whitening locks their original color and beauty. Middle-aged people like it because it prevents them from getting bald, keeps dandruff away, and makes the hair grow thick and strong. Young ladies like it as a dressing because it gives the hair a beautiful glossy lustre, and enables them to dress it in whatever form they wish. Thus it is the favorite of all, and it has become so simply because it disappoints no one.

MILLINERY DISPLAY.

Messrs. Fair, Van Every and Company hold Their Annual Fall Opening.

On Tuesday and Wednesday the millinery and mantle department of the dry goods establishment of Messrs. Fair, Van Every & Co., was formerly opened for the fall trade. The rooms presented a beautiful and fantastic appearance. The millinery department is situated on the second flat and is entered by a winding staircase which is draped on each side with long pieces of damask of different colors. On coming to the landing the visitor faces a neat and cosy reception room enclosed by glass doors on which hangs in graceful folds, different grades of sealette. The room contains all the requisites for dolmans and mantles, consisting of Ottoman cord cloth, sealette, and figured and plain mantle cloths, Astrachan jackets, fur lined circulars and shoulder capes are also shown in great variety. Passing from the reception room we again ascend until we come to the millinery department. The wall of the south side of this place is charmingly draped with brocaded velvet and satin of all the fashionable shades, and which is bordered on the top by broad lace and elegant trimmings. The bannisters run around and form the shape of a horse shoe. They are flanged, covered with black velvet, and on them stand all the leading shapes of felt hats. At the end of the horse shoe a stately cross of evening flowers five feet high stands, supported on each side by pyramids of ostrich plumes. A few feet back of the cross is an arcade formed of lace curtains which are artistically caught up and ornamented by ostrich tips and birds. From the centre of the arcade hangs a magnificent floral basket. Through the arcade stands glass cases showing a large variety of fancy ribbons and goods necessary for mourning decoration. A background for the whole is formed by a cretonne of pretty patterns.

On the north side of the room fichues are arranged on a background of cardinal cloth, and almost everything necessary for the evening wear of a lady is here shown to excellent advantage.

The "Perdita" is a very stylish hat shown at this establishment. It is suited for a young lady and is of a baize color. It is faced with brown velvet and gold cord and is profusely trimmed with baize tips. It is ornamented with a bird of a color which matches and the whole forms a very effective appearance.

Another striking piece of head apparel is a charming little capote made of black velvet. The brim is luxuriously strewn with cut jet beads, surmounted with a pom-pon. The crown is soft, caught with tinsel and cut jet ornaments. The plumage on the left side is of jet and is tipped with tinsel to match. The show room contains hats and bonnets in endless varieties, all showing taste in arrangement. Mlle. Choquette, who presides over the millinery department, is a mistress of her professon, an assertion which will be amply borne out by a visit to the rooms.

The department is brilliantly illuminated each evening.

STATE ELECTIONS.

Ohio Goes Republicans and Virginia Democrat—Fatal Rioting

NEW YORK, Oct., 15.—At the headquarters of the National Democratic Committee, at midnight nothing was conceded, and West Virginia was claimed by 8,000. At midnight Ohio was claimed by the National Republican Committee by from 17,000 to 20,000.

A FATAL RALLY.

RIPLEY, Ohio, Oct. 14.—During the Republican rally this morning David West shot and killed Morris Garrison (coloured) and mortally wounded Will Matthews (coloured), and Henry Coleman fatally stabbed Thomas Daniels, during a political dispute.

RIOTING IN CINCINNATI.

The worst trouble of the day happened in one of the precincts of the Eighth Ward, where a number of coloured deputy marshals came in collision with the deputy sheriffs and bystanders and as the latter were largely anti-Republican, the coloured men were quickly routed, but not till a number of shots were fired. One coloured man was beaten nearly to death. Another was struck in the face with a bewlder, and his face smashed. One man was fatally shot, and a woman, struck in the breast with a bewlder, is supposed to be mortally wounded.

A STRANGE STORY.

A Man Causes His Wife's Arrest on a Poisoning Charge.

KINGSTON, Oct 13.—Some time ago Alfred Seeley, hotel keeper, near the village of Murvale, disagreed with his wife, and they separated. The woman did not take away at the time a buggy which she claimed, but on Saturday she called for it, and at the same time took a horse, which she and her friend Hattie Huffman drove to and about this city. Yesterday Mr. Seeley telegraphed the police to look after the property. It was found at one of the hotel yards and detained. To-day Mr. Seeley arrived in the city and caused the arrest of his wife on a charge of having attempted to poison him. He says that on the evening of October 6th she and some friends were drinking light beverages, when he was asked to take some and declined. Feeling unwell later in the night, he was thirsty and asked for a drink. His wife tendered him some ginger ale, but he declined it, and asked for beer. He was handed, he says, a glass of lager, and drank it. Shortley afterwards he was seized with a spasm, and vomited several times. The dose was too much, he alleges, and his stomach had ejected it. He was satisfied that an attempt was maed to take his life, and in support of the charge he submitted the beer mug, and around it were traces of poison. The woman, who is the man's senior, pleads innocence, and says that if Paris green was in the mug she does not know how it got there.

FENELON FALLS.

CATTLE BUYING.—Every little while cattle are bought in this vicinity and sent by rail to the front, and on Wednesday about a dozen passed through the village on their way to the station. Farmers say that the prices paid are low at present; but they are certainly higher than they were a few years ago, and if it paid to raise cattle for sale then it must be a paying business now.

THE CANAL.—On Saturday of last week the coffer-dam at the lower end of the canal in this village was knocked away, and water to the depth of about seven feet immediately flowed into the first lock. On Monday the steamer Mary Ellen, that came from Bobcaygeon with a scow laden with stone, entered the lock, for the purpose of being able to boast that she was the first boat to do so; and when she was backed out the scow was pushed in. The walls of the locks are progressing rapidly and will be nearly or quite finished this fall if the present fine weather lasts for a while longer.

ACCIDENT.—On Wednesday evening about 6 o'clock, as Mr. James Cameron, Sr., was walking along Louisa street, on his way home from McArthur and Thomson's mill, he stepped or slipped off the sidewalk and broke both bones of his left leg about three inches above the ankle. Mr. Andrew Stabler, of Fenelon, who was a few feet in advance of him, quickly summoned help, a fence picket was cut in two and bound each side of the broken limb, and Mr. Cameron was then carried to his house on the same street, where Dr. Lowe, for whom some one had gone, arrived a minute or two later. The many friends of Mr. Cameron, who is an old resident of the village, will be sorry to hear of his mishap, which, of course, will lay him up for some time. —Gazette.

Romance of a French Diplomatist.

A truly extraordinary story is told by an old schoolfellow of M. Lemaire, late French Consul General at Shanghai, and recently appointed Minister-Plenipotentiary at Hue. Twenty-five years ago he was at school at Tenerre. There, with unconsciousness of his destiny, he was nicknamed Jaunot, on account of his singularly yellow complexion. He was a quiet lad, not brilliant, often bullied by his comrades, and somewhat hardly treated by his professors.

When fifteen, he passed a vacation with an uncle in Burgundy, and had for companion a cousin much younger than himself. Their delight was to play at soldiers. Lemaire shouldered a rust flint-gun, and the cousin flourished an old sabre. One day it was agreed that they should get up some wine from the cellar, not with any pilfering intentions, but merely to play at soldiers plundering. As the cousin was mounting the cellar stairs, Lemaire exclaimed, "Here is the enemy," and pulled the trigger. The gun, which he did not know to be loaded, went off, and blew out the brains of the young cousin. Lemaire's family, horrified at the event sent him to sea as a cabin boy.

Nothing was herd of him for years, and sent no letters home. At last it was found out that he had established himself at Saigon, had learned Chinese, and was employed as interpreter at the French Consulate. Later news came that he had married a Cochin Chinese lady, whether a native or settler is not stated, and now the result of that unfortunate shot with the flint gun is that he is recognized as the most accomplished diplomatist that France can find to conduct her affairs among the yellow people. Such is the history of Jaunot.—London Daily News.

A Youthful but Villainous Official.

ELLISVILLE, Miss., Oct., 14.—On Saturday Robert Lipes, deputy sheriff, aged 17, and Jacob George, telegraph operator, released a negro from gaol, promising him his freedom if he would kill Dr. Schmacher, a druggist. The negro carried out his contract. The instigators of the crime then left to organize a mob who pursued the negro and fatally shot him, while Lipes and his comrades escaped.

Grand Trunk Railway.

A special despatch from London, Eng., to the Globe, dated Oct. 14th, says that the half-yearly report of the Grand Trunk Railway Company was issued on that day. The net revenue balance for the half year is £114,192. The Great Western's proportion of this is £34,258, which being deducted leaves £79,934 for division among the Grand Trunk shareholders. This, together with a small balance brought over from last year, will pay in full the five per cent. dividend on the first preference stock. There is a debit of £70,000 against the Great Western reserve fund account. The Great Western directors are confident that with the excellent harvest there will be more traffic and less competition during the current six months than there has been during the half year just closed.

Methodist Missions.

KINGSTON, Oct. 14.—This morning the Mission Board of the Methodist Church met, Dr. Carman in the chair. The attendance includes representatives from the ten annual conferences, besides half a dozen members specially appointed by the General Conference. They will be in session until Thursday night. The income of the Board from the various Methodist Churches in the Dominion amounted to $185,000 last year. Rev. Mr. Sutherland, Secretary, intimates that $200,000 is the sum required this year, and he thinks there will not be the slightest difficulty in raising it.

New Process of Making Steel.

BIRDSBORO, Pa., Oct. 14.—The Henderson process of making steel was successfully tested to-day. The blooms were rolled nicely, sheets were cut into nail plate, and iron and steel nails of excellent character were manufactured. The new steel is more pliable, cheaper, and more easily worked than Bessemer, while it is as tough. It is expected it will take the place of hammered and rolled iron altogether.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE first instance of a blind man's being admitted to the practice of law is said to be that of Mr. Reed E. Beard, in Tippecanoe County, Indiana, who has learned it by hearing it.

LOVERS of rare coins are being victimized by artistic alteration of the dates on old pieces. A bank cashier of Sterling, Mich., recently purchased for $100 what was supposed to be a genuine silver dollar of the issue of 1804, but the date upon examination by a numismatist proved spurious.

THE latest thing in swell English weddings is the employment of a page. At the marriage of Mr. Shirley, with Col. McDonald's daughter in London the other day, the bridegroom's nephew, Master Hugh Chafy, acted as page. He wore a costume of black velvet, with a large Irish point lace collar.

A FRUITLESS RUSE.

SOME Reform journals are saying that the Conservatives are charging Mr. Mowat and his colleagues with soliciting the corruption of their supporters to turn them out of power. Of course no Conservative has made such an absurd suggestion. We maintain on good evidence that Mr. Mowat and his colleagues employed decoys and informers to solicit bribes, in order to use the illegality they thus invited against those who might yield to their tempting, and against the Conservative party generally. It is because the Reformers cannot refute this true charge that is really brought, that they invent a charge, that has never been made, and deny it.

MOWAT WITNESSES.

A GREAT number of witnesses of good standing swore that Informers McKim and Cascaden were not to be believed on oath, and that such was their general character and repute. To rebut this other witnesses were called by the employers of the informers and swore that they would believe them, though they could not say much for their character. It was much the same defence as the case when three witnesses swore to seeing a thief steal a pig, and four other witnesses swore that they did not see the man steal the pig. Perhaps they shut their eyes.

MR. S. H. BLAKE is not very civil to his employer. Mr. Mowat told the House that he knew Lynch to be an American citizen. In the witness box he had to be more careful, but he still said he had heard so from one of his colleagues. Mr. Blake in his address to the Commissioners flatly contradicted the Attorney-General and his colleagues by saying, though without the slightest evidence to warrant his assertion, that Lynch was really Stimson. Either Mr. Mowat or Mr. Blake is uttering a falsehood, and probably both.

MR. BLAKE was shocked that Mr. Meek should disgrace the profession by drawing a corrupt agreement. As we do not know the exact nature of the agreement we cannot express an opinion on Mr. Meek's conduct, but it must have been immoral and unprofessional indeed, if it equalled Mr. Blake's performance in a case in this town of charging one of our legal firms $50 for pretended services.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

MR. ANGLIN, TAKE NOTICE.

Two editors of New York State have been arrested for felony, the charge being that they presented illegal bills for printing to the Board of Supervisors. A COWADRLY PARTY.

A CONSEQENCE.

While Mr. Bethune, Q. C., was addressing the Supreme Court on the license question, Mr. Justice Strong remarked: "In the Russell case "the Privy Council declared that this regulation "power is vested in the Dominion; in the "Hodge case they say it is vested in the pro-"vinces. The Hodge judgment, being the last "delivered, must hold." From this statement it would appear, if the McCarthy Act is held to be unconstitutional in obedience to the Hodge judgment, only because that judgment being the latest must be held to modify or neutralize the judgment in the case of Russell and the Queen, that the Scott Act should be repealed, and the whole regulation of the liquor traffic relegated to the province.—Winnipeg Times.

KINGSTON, Oct. 13.—Chas. Burns, B. Battery deserted six weeks ago and went to Watertown and won the heart of a pretty blonde named Mary Carlin. DYNAMITE EXPLOSION.

NEW PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS AT QUEBEC BLOWN UP.

Much Excitement Maintained—Some Narrow Escapes—Speculations as to the Cause and Manner of the Crime.

QUEBEC, Oct. 13.—There is still much excitement as to the explosion at the Parliament Buildings, though the first feeling of alarm has given place to one of indignation.

OPINIONS OF PUBLIC MEN.

Hon. Joseph Robertson expresses the belief that the plot must be due to the enemies of the contractor. The Attorney-General, Hon. Mr. Taillon, on being questioned as to his opinion of the explosion, simply said that Canada had no longer any reason to envy other countries in the use of dynamite. Mr. Lessage, Deputy Minister of Public Works, did not believe that the contractor had any enemies who would attempt to injure him. He stood well with his men, and always paid them and treated them well. He was certain that the explosion was due to malice, but he did not believe it was directed against the contractor. Hon. Judge Irvine was not of the opinion that the plot was the result of any public malice, since the engines of the destruction were directed against an unfinished building when they might as well have been used against the Government offices in the departmental buildings. In this connection, however, is must be borne in mind that had not the workmen moved the valise from where it was first seen, the explosion would probably have destroyed a large part of the grand allee wing of the buildings.

NARROW ESCAPES.

Messrs. Asselin and Nantel, M.P.P.'s, of the Mercier Commission, and Mr. Faucher, M.P.P., were seated in the room of the Sergeant-at-Arms adjoining the Parliament House when the explosion occurred, and only separated from the scene of the disaster by a dividing wall. They were reading over the evidence adduced in the investigation, and were almost stunned by the violence of the shock and the detonation accompanying it. Mr. Desjardine, M.P.P., had just left them and was closeted with the Attorney-General.

In an interview with a member of the bar, a reporter was informed that Mr. Lesage was misinformed as to the relations between Mr. Charlebois and some of his late workmen, the courts having been appealed to in the settlement of their differences. The contractor professes to be on friendly terms, however, even with those who differ with him as to their wages, and points out that in his contracts on the Lachine canal some years ago, although serious strikes took place, there were no attempt to injure property.

THE INSTRUMENT OF DESTRUCTION.

Lieut.-Col. Cotton is of the opinion that some other explosive than gunpowder was used, and that it was fired by means of a detonator, aimed by clockwork, in other words an infernal machine. As to the description of the infernal machines, it is believed that they must have been placed in position during Friday night. Mr. Lefevre, accountant at the establishment of Messrs. Beauder & Chinic, saw four men leaving the new building late on Friday night. It appears that only one policeman instead of three was on guard around the buildings that night in consequence of the others being required for attendance at the criminal court, now sitting in this city. There was a rumour round town last night that a person in the garb of a priest had been acting in a most suspicious manner, and had been making a little to interested an enquiry into the cause, etc., of the explosion, and was last seen entering a low saloon in one of the suburbs. This rumour, though, is generally discredited, from the fact that a man who would be acting under such a personation would scarcely make himself so conspicuous as to enter a low dive.

ADDITIONAL REWARDS OFFERED.

The Premier was in Three Rivers on Saturday on special business, when he received full telegraphic reports of the explosion from his deputy, Mr. Lesage. He left immediately for Quebec, and reached here the same evening, and was interviewed this morning by your correspondent; but, like his colleagues who were in town at the time of the disaster, could advise no plausible theory as to the motive for the crime. The Government reconsidered the matter of the reward, and have increased the sum to be paid for information leading to the conviction of the offenders to $4,000 reward. The contractor, Mr. Charlebois, this morning offers an additional $500 reward.

THE AUTHORITIES ON THE ALERT.

The authorities to-day visited the house and took the exact facts. If these four individuals are really the authors of the crime it is very easy to follow them up. They started on Friday about 6 p. m., crossing from Levis to Quebec, hence they would have arrived at the Parliament buildings at about 7 o'clock. This story agrees with that of Mr. Lefevre, bookkeeper at Messrs. Beaudet & Chinie's, who, on Friday night at about 9 o'clock, saw four individuals jumping from a window on the front part of the Parliament and escaping in the darkness. Thus this gave two hours to the dynamiters to operate, place their infernal machine, &c., after which, taking the train at 10 o'clock p. m., they would have reached Montreal at 6 o'clock on Saturday morning. Taking immediately the New York train, the dynamiters passed the frontiers at about 11 o'clock in the morning, passing by St. John and Rouse's Point, consequently at the moment of the first explosion the criminals were already in the United States.

DOUBLE GUARDS ON THE CITADEL.

Double guards have been placed on the citadel in anticipation of a visit from the explosive fiends. There is no one admitted. The departmental buildings were also virtually closed to-day as far as business went, police and messengers being placed at every door with instructions to admit no one but employees.

AN AWFUL CRIME.

A Woman Murdered by Her Husband and Sons—One of Them Lynched.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 13.—A horrible crime has been brought to light at Troy, Ind., by the finding of the headless body of a woman in a cistern on the farm of Peter Backer. The body was nude. The head was found in a thicket a hundred yards from the cistern. This was late on Wednesday evening. The body which was that of a portly woman weighing about 160 pound, and of about 40 years of age, was yet warm when taken from the water. There was a deep gash below the shoulder blade, as if made with an axe, and a wound on the forehead, evidently made with some blunt instrument. The body was taken to Troy, but was not identified until Saturday, when it was recognized as that of Mrs. Stilwell Hindershot, who resides on a farm fourteen miles back of Troy. A neighbour of Hindershot, while in Tell city yesterday, saw

THE MURDERED WOMAN'S HUSBAND.

He also noticed a valise, marked "T. H. Hindershot." While the steamer Droillard was at Troy on Saturday night a search warrant was procured, and the valise was opened and found to contain clothing of the victim covered with blood. Warrants were immediately issued for the arrest of Stilwell Hindershot, the woman's husband, and T. H. and Wm. Hindershot, their sons. The old man and his son William were arrested and taken to Troy. The elder son refused to come, and defied arrest. An increased posse was sent after him, and he was brought to Troy yesterday morning and placed in gaol. He acknowledges committing the crime himself, but says his father and brother had nothing to do with it. The old man's testimony seems to throw the weight of the crime upon himself and his eldest son. The murder of Mrs. Hindershot arose from her refusal to sign away the farm, to which she had a deed in fee simple, which the father and son wanted to dispose of. Several hundred persons were present at the examination, and about noon an effort was made to seize the criminals and mete out summary vengeance on them, but the officers succeeded in averting the attack.

At seven o'clock the mob at Troy took the eldest son out of gaol and hanged him to a beam in the barn. He made confession that his father shot his mother and that he (the son cut her head off with an axe. At ten o'clock the mob passed through Tell city on their way to Cannellton, three miles above, to hang the father and the other son, who are in gaol there. The mob is 200 strong.

THE MOWAT & CO. PLOT.

THE REAL CONSPIRATORS CALLED TO ACCOUNT AGAINST THEIR WILL.

Kirkland's Scandalous Treatment—Pardee's Policy, or Timber for Votes—The Conspirator's Counsel Falsifying the Facts.

The Royal Commission resumed its sitting on Monday.

PARDEE'S TIMBER POLICY.

MR. CASWELL addressed them on behalf of his client, Mr. Kirkland, against whom he showed that there was no evidence of either bribery or conspiracy. Mr. Kirkland had been treated very hardly in regard to timber limits. A number of members wished for a change of the timber policy, and even went as a deputation to the Minister of Crown Lands to procure it. A numerously signed petition was also sent from Port Arthur to the the same effect. Kirkland thought that, as in his own country, such a change of policy would not involve a change of the administration, and did not aim at the Government. McKim, a man of the same character as James Carey, of Dublin, begged Kirkland for money, not for his vote but for his services in helping to procure this change of policy. Balfour also was to be paid for advocating the change, and there was no talk of a bribe. No money came from Kirkland, and he made no attempt to overturn the Government, nor did he conspire with any one. His client was innocent and had been treated in a scandalous manner.

THE CONTPIRATORS' CASE.

MR. BLAKE, as counsel for the real conspirators, did his best for his clients. He assumed all the falsehoods of his witnesses to be true, and gave no credit to any evidence to the contrary. Not being on oath he ventured on a number of false statements of his own without the least evidence to support them, such as that Mr. Bunting was editor of the Mail; that Mr. Stimson was Lynch; that Mr. Meek was solicitor for the Conservative party, and so forth. He twisted the evidence of the informers as most suited the interests of his clients, actually repreenting them as being offered bribes instead of running after them and begging for them, as even their own story showed. Having handled the case like an Old Bailey lawyer defending a thief, instead of counsel for the Crown in a solemn enquiry for the public seavice, he concluded by endeavouring to explain away the evidence that showed his most material witnesses to be perjurers.

The Commission then closed.

Graphic Description of the Voyage—A Death and Burial at Sea—The Contingent's Generosity to a Stowaway.

ON BOARD THE OCEAN KING,
GIBRALTAR BAY,
Sept. 29, 1884.

DEAR REVIEW,—I closed my last letter when moored off the coal docks of Sydney, 18th Sept. We were to have sailed the night of that day, but some of the boys got loose and we had to wait till the town was searched. All were returned in safety to the ship, but three of the Manitoba contingent, who got clear off, having no ambition, I suppose, beyond six months' snow, frozen pork, and periodical blizzards. Well, I wish them joy of their choice. After breakfast we were all formed in squads under our respective foremen and drawn up in a double line along the wharf, where we were inspected by the officers of a French ship of war which was in harbor. She appeared to carry twenty guns, at least she showed so many ports, and was rigged for either steam or sail. After the French officers took a good look at us (and we flattered ourselves that they thought we were worth looking at), we marched four deep a mile up the beach and all who wished to float on the briny deep and paddle their own canoe got leave to do so. It seemed as if a flash of lightning tore the clothes off us, so soon were a hundred or more of us into the water. The bath was enjoyed by about 250, and you may be sure "I was thar," as our cousins south of Lake Ontario might say. The water seemed cold at first, but did not seem to chill like fresh water. One of our lads got into difficulties. As soon as he was nicely in the water a huge lobster clinched him by the toe, and an angel couldn't help joining in our laugh if he had seen him climb for the shore. I tell you there was no fear of his wanting a life boat.

The bathe over we formed again and marched back to our ship. A dozen or more broke the ranks and made across the fields for Sidney, but the rest went quietly on board ship. Guards were then placed on the wharf and no one allowed to quit the steamer, and an orderly was appointed to post all letters and buy anything the men wanted. Having asked permission to go ashore, and having been refused (very properly, I suppose), I tried my Montreal game and slipped my cable, and was rewarded by a three miles' walk and a look at a miserable little town without a sidewalk and lighted by two oil lamps (whales are plentiful on this coast), a poor forlorn coal stained hole, odoriferous with everything piscatorial from whales, porpoises and codfish, to starved looking herrings and shrimps.

Nearer the mouth of the harbor is another town called The Bar, which looked nice and bright from the steamer's deck. But perhaps, like many other things we meet with in life, appearances might deceive.

The whole country here seems to be lined with coal, from deck we could see 3 or 4 mines or rather the buildings above them and one on the extreme west point of the harbor must surely be worked under the sea.

The country is covered with a thick growth of spruce and fir, and the land seems as though the struggle to maintain its poor crops had exhausted the last particle of its primeval poverty stricken vitality.

The wages paid to the coal heavers are very small considering the nature of their work. They just get one dollar per day, and I would warn the Peterborough boys to take Horace Greeley's advice, "Young man, go West."

The noise and dirt caused by taking in 1300 tons of coal is beyond description, everything seems impregnated with the the thick black coal dust. Black hands, black faces, black eyes, (coal black), even our hard tack is seasoned with it.

When the officers returned after their vain search after the runaways a gun was fired, the anchor weighed and the pilot took us in charge to cross the Bar.

11 a. m.

"Ye gentlemen of Canada, who live at home at ease,
How little do you think upon the danger of the seas?
Of the wear and the tear,
Of the fear and the care,
When the stormy winds do blow," etc., etc.

Well, I trust we won't be too much troubled with rude Boreas, as I am getting quite a sailor. If we are troubled in that way you may expect to hear from me a new version of Cease, rude Boreas, blustering railer,

List, ye landsmen, all to me,
Messmates, hear a brother sailor
Sing the dangers of the sea, etc.

We gave a last fond look at our native land, our glorious Canada, this afternoon, and then only then did we realize the infinite vastness of the great ocean, as the long heaving rollers lifted our huge home as if she was a chip afloat in the swell of the Golden Eye—as far as the eye could reach water, water, water, mountain after mountain, valley after valley.

The vessel was loaded too much on the starboard side and listed considerably, but they will use off that side until she attains a level keel. We have been running in the trough of the sea since we started, and the rocking and pitching is considerable, but not many are sick. We have sighted a goodly number of sailing vessels and some steamers, and to-day passed a small school of whales.

We ran for four hours in a fog and the whistle has been blowing every few minutes. I take pride in being able to say that our men, better known on the ship as "Anderson's gang," are called the most orderly men in it, which speaks volumes, for the others are all well behaved.

It is food for a thoughtful man to watch the men on board, and some of your great philanthropical (hang the word, I was nearly writing two l's and two p's) theorists would learn a wholesome practical lesson if they were to walk round and through us for a single day.

They would see nearly 400 men of all nations, creeds, and I might add colours, use each other like brothers, lending their books, smoking the friendly pipe, chatting in little groups, talking in chastened tones of days gone by, and cheerful tones of days to come, tending those who are sick with all the tenderness of a woman, all peaceable and quiet and sociable, no quarrelling, and every one not only ready to oblige, but willing and happy to help—in fact I may dub them, egotistical as it may seem, Nature's Gentlemen.

"Who wounds no breast with jar or jest
Yet bears no honeyed tongue,
He's social with the grey-haired one, and merry with the young,
His kindred circles all mankind—his country all the globe—
An honest name his jewelled star, and truth his ermine robe."

We have been served out with apples twice since we left Sidney, and when apple day comes there is no apple of discord.

To-day is plum duff day. The cook served out 19 large bags of pudding to the men. It would not have been bad, only it seemed to have given a cold shoulder to a warm hearted companion—the fire. However, from the way the lads pitched into it you would think it was as good as that which the Mayor and City Fathers will give us when we come back "To the auld house at hame."

24th.—Yesterday at 10 a.m. we were 41.1 degrees north lat., 35.18 west lontitude. We made 258 miles the last 24 hours, everything is going on smoothly, fine weather on sea, but a slight head wind all the time. We expect to see the Azores some time to-day.

For the first time I feel lonesome. Yesterday I sat for hours and gazed at the heaving, swelling sea. The dread monotony of the scene was like a funeral pall—covering all that was life and happiness and joy.

"I feel so lone—so lone,
As if all I ever loved had flown;
Lone, as a corse within its shroud;
Lone, as a solitary cloud.
A single cloud on a sunny day
While all the rest of heaven is clear,
A frown upon the atmosphere
That has no business to appear
When skies are blue and earth is gay.

But begone dull care,
I prithee begone from me,
Begone dull care,
You and I shall never agree."

To cure myself of my temporary fit of homesickness, I have set myself to explore the ship and do so whenever I get the chance. I spent an hour on the forecastle and dined with the sailors and rough though they may appear, yet, in reality, they are the embodiment of all that is good-natured and hospitable. I also descended into the stoke hole—facilis descensus averno—(I wonder is that O. K. Latin or is it bog) and experienced the small hades or gehenna that a stoker spends his four hours' spell in.

We have rare fun on board sometimes. Yesterday a wild Irishman, who has seen service somewhere, got a squad of greenies together and marched them aft to drill. He understood his business and with his wooden sword and comical sayings, and the clumsy akwardness of his akward squad every time the vessel would keel to port, all hands were kept in an uproar of laughter for an hour or so.

3 p. m., 25th. At noon we were 43.6 lat., 24.30 long., north 3 degrees and 1 degree east of the Azores, and of course we were all disappointed at not seeing them.

A fresh breeze sprung up from the southwest and the steam being aided by the foresail fore and the main trysails fore and the main top gallant and gaffsails we bowled along at a good rate; we made 272 miles the last 24 hours. There is quite a swell on, but the sails keep the boat pretty steady. She gave a heave or two in the night, however, that caused my toe nails to do duty as a governor to keep me from rolling over into the next berth. It woke the granddad of our mess with a slight shower of the pails, cups, spoons, &c., and our hatchway being open a few showers of spray came noisily down to wake us up, and an old Indian, stomachically disorganized, no doubt climbing up the ladder, got such a douse that the screech and whoop he gave made all hands think that Osman Thingummy was on us with a host of scalp raising Arabs, though, I believe, they are not quite so civilized as that yet. We'll see them later.

I have just struck a bonanza. Albert Bradshaw got into the good graces of one of the cooks (don't look horrified—he has as much hair on his mug as would make a swab for the quarter deck), who gave him a very nice rice pudding, just to settle his stomach, and one half of it is enjoying undisturbed repose in mine. The boys are all very good to each other that way, and you can hardly believe at home with what unbiased affection you cling to a man who will share with you a nice dish of fried potatoes, a mutton chop or a pudding, the latter, of course, without sauce a la mode, i.e. bilge water. But such is life.

4 p.m. Wind changed again to nor west. As they are now drilling the foremen on deck, I must close for the day.

FRIDAY, 26.—After closing yesterday I took my favourite seat on the bow and was rewarded by a wonderful sight. A whale, tormented by a swordfish or a thresher, plunged right across our track within a hundred feet of the ship. He seemed terribly excited. Rushing through the sea at a rate of about 20 miles an hour, now he would throw his enormous carcass nearly out of the water, and now he would plunge with a fearful splash down into the depths. He crossed us two or three times, then darted straight away in front of us, as much as to say, come on Macduff or Plumduff—if you come you'll get enough. There, I am getting Byronic again—O, father, father, why did you ever rear me in turned down collars? The frantic endeavors of the great mammal to escape enabled us to get a good view of him, and I think he was between 40 and 50 feet in length and 8 or 10 in depth. Each frantic antic brought to my mind stories of whale fishing and I wonder at the bravery of the men who would close up to such a monster and plunge a harpoon into him. All the wealth of Crœsus or the fame of Nelson would not persuade me to make the attempt.

After tea a good number of the men assembled aft to hear Col. Kennedy play on the flute and the captain of the ship on the violin. We can boast of quite a number of very fair singers among us, some with very good voices indeed.

With the above accompaniment we have a nice concert, such a scene lighted by ship lanterns, a hundred or more men lying on deck, perched on the rail or hanging in the ratlines eagerly listening to the sweet songs we all love so well. The steady throb of the engines, the sigh of the wind and the swish of the waves blending with the sweet notes of "Home Sweet Home," make the scene appear to me more like a weird dream than a reality. God save our noble Queen winds up our concert, and just in time, for the cry of light on the starboard bow resounds through the ship and all hands rush for the side to get a glimpse of the stranger. The sailors say it was a sailing vessel and the steamer changed her course a little and passed to leeward of her, but nothing could be well made out but her lights, for the night was cloudy.

This morning some of us got out our dirty clothes, filled half a cask with warm condensed water, and I can assure you that the washerwomen's wages will fall below zero when we reach home again.

Dinner to-day was a failure. There were no potatoes; no bread; nothing but hard-tack and burnt pea-soup and rancid pork. But there was such a howl among the men that the cooks were marched up to the Captain's cabin, and I guess they got a dressing, and the negligence is not likely to be repeated.

The log stood to-day: lat. 41.6, long. 19.16; distance made, 262 miles.

27th. I should have mentioned before the sickness of two of our men. I did not, thinking they would recover; but alas, I am fated to send you sadder news, for one of the Manitoba men, a Swamp Cree Indian named Richard Henderson, of St. Peter's settlement, Man., died about 10.05 p.m. on the 26th. He had been suffering ever since he came on board with an abscess in his head, and though he received every attention from the doctor, officers and men, he succumbed to the fell destroyer at last.

He was a fine looking man, stood 6 ft. 2 in. and was one of the best pack-men in the contingent. He was one of the men who paddled General Wolseley to the Height of Land in the memorable Red River expedition. His body was carried on deck to-day, the sailors weighted him with about 100 lbs. of iron and sewed him in his winding sheet, laid him on a plank and covered him with the Union Jack, and then the poor fellow's remains were ready for their deep blue grave.

At 10 o'clock the ship's bells tolled, the engines stopped, the flags were half masted, and the mournful procession wended its way to the foremast. The Captain on the bridge read the service, we all joined in a hymn, the Captain read the 15th chap. of II. Corinthians, the sli'e was canted and the dusky voyageur commenced his last long voyage.

The announcement of his death caused a gloomy feeling among all hands, and few slept with such soundness as they had hitherto done during the voyage.

The other sick man in next gang to us (McLaren's, from Ottawa), named James Edge, has been very bad with bronchitis, but is mending now. Our own Peterborough boys are as hearty as can be—nothing can upset us.

Wind at noon to-day still favorable. North lat. 39.20, west long. 14.13. Made 262 miles last night again in 24 hours.

There was a little incident I forgot to tell you in my Sidney letter. The train that carried us from Ottawa to Montreal was a special, and a young vag from the Hub took advantage of it to come along with us. He managed to keep clear of the officials until we arrived in the gulf, but then they caught him. He was old enough, but too small and too ignorant of the nature of the work before him to be of any use. The captain offered him work on the boat, but he would not accept it, he wanted to see the pyramids, not of Cheops, but of $40 a month, but it was only a mirage to him. The captain tied him to the rail on deck and exposed him to the gaze of all hands. Then our officers Capt. McCrea and Aumond with Col. Kennedy went among the men and collected $21.35 for him and after a hearty—well, it ended in "ing," but it wasn't blessing—by the captain he was put in a boat and sent ashore. He did well by the trip, a fine excursion from Ottawa to Sidney and money enough to take him back and to spend. He was a sneaking, snivelling, snarling, sore-eyed vagabond, and there's an end of him.

SUNDAY, Sept. 28.—Lat. 37° 6 long. 95° 3 distance in 24 hours 246 miles. Sighted Cape Vincent a bold rugged point, and there was a grand rush of all hands when they heard the glad cry, land! land!

Things began to get interesting, every now and then we passed a sailing vessel or a steamer. Whales or porpoises sported themselves around us, and across our bows. The water off the cape changed from blue to a pretty green, but is now blue again.

After passing the point of the Cape we came to off the signal station and we signalled it. Back of the station appeared to be a large fort, but the distance was too great to note its features.

29th.

Twas in Trafalgar Bay
We saw the Frenchman lay.

This moon awoke on the old battle ground where the brave Nelson lost his life. The shore is mountainous, but too far away to distinguish more than its outlines.

10 a. m. We are now in the Straits, can see both coasts, but are nearer the Spanish than the African shore. The town of Tarifa is on our left and beautiful it looks with its white buildings, set off with delicious looking greenery, and nestling at the foot of a snow topped mountain.

I must now close, as we are nearing Gibraltar, and I do not know what time I may have to post this letter, which, I fear, is spread out far too long—but you know I am not a practised correspondent—so if "The tree cumbereth you cut it down."

We are now anchored off Gibraltar. We are going to get a few hours run ashore, and when we reach Alexandria I will continue my historic du voyage—if acceptable.

Best wishes to all our friends. All the boys wish me to say, God bless you all. We are not forgetful; you are ever green in our memories and cherished in our hearts.

Daily Evening Review

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Saturday Night.

Stafford-Foster Co., Opera House. Romeo and Juliet.

Colder.

The weather is steadily growing colder. Last night the Rev. V. Clementi's thermometer registered 19½° above zero.

Lamps! Lamps!

Messrs. Ormond & Walsh are going out of the lamp business and offer their stock of lamps at cost.

The Saved Army.

General Lindsay will be present at the meeting of the Seved Army this evening, and the o like to see a large attendance of the soldiers, as there will be a special and interesting event.

The Skating Rink.

Mr. D. Gamble has now a number of workmen engaged in taking apart the skating rink. It is being taken down, the work of unbuilding commencing at the south end. The ground on Charlotte Street under Mr. Edward Thompson's superintendence, is being speedily leveled and the work of moving the building will sood be commenced.

He Wins the Cup.

The handsome silver cup, presented in 1872 by the Bankers of Peterborough to the Rifle Association of the County of Peterborough, is now on exhibition at McFarlane Wilson's China Hall. This year at the rifle competition Mr. F. W. Mount succeeded, by good shooting, in winning the above prize, which he will hold until the next competition, when he will again have to try his skill. The cup will have to be won three times before it can be permanently held.

The Stafford-Foster Co.

This well-known organization will make their second annual visit to Peterborough on the coming Saturday night, in an elaborate production of Shakespeare's romantic tragedy of Romeo and Juliet. Miss Foster's impersonation is characterized by a sweetness and dignity much becoming, while Mr. Stafford makes as good a Romeo as one would wish to see. Our readers will do well to secure their seats in advance, now on sale at Menzies' book store.

An Old Settler Gone.

By the death of Mr. Thomas Steele another of our old settlers has been removed. Mr. Steele in 1831 came from Drogheda, County Louth, Ireland, with his wife and son. After a short stay in Peterborough he took up a farm in North Douro, whence he soon removed to the farm in Smithtown, on which he so long resided. He was universally respected by his neighbors and by all who knew him. He leaves five sons and two daughters—Mrs. Aneys and Mrs. Armstrong, with many grand children, to regret his loss.

No Injuries.

This afternoon at about half-part one o'clock Dr. Pigeon tied his horse to a post on Stewart street, Ashburnham. A passing engine, which was on the adjacent railway track, gave a screech and the horse broke its halter and bolted. It ran furiously down street and crossed the Ashburnham bridge. During the run the buggy overturned and was again righted. The horse was caught opposite Morgan's hotel and placed in the stables. A gentleman with a horse and phaeton started in quest of the owner of the runaway rig, and met the doctor walking down Elizabeth street. The buggy was, strange to say, scarcely any the worse and the horse received no injuries.

The Opera House Social.

On Tuesday night a large and select assemblage gathered in Bradburn's Opera House on the occasion the evening social held under the auspices of the ladies of No. 2 Ward connected with St. Peter's Cathedral. At an early hour the visitors commenced to arrive, and before the evening was far advanced more than one hundred couples were present. The seats in the Opera House were all removed, the floor waxed, and every thing betokened that the votaries of Terpsichore were about to hold high revel. The evening's entertainment was opened by a live selection by Prof. Doucet's quadrille band, and the couples at once formed in a long promenade, preparatory to the first call from the master of ceremonies, Mr. J. Coughlin. Ere long the two hundred people were whirling and turning beneath the showering brilliance of of the gasaliers. A refreshment hall had been fitted up in a spacious room on the east side of the opera hall, and here two long tables laden with every delicacy awaited the gay dancers. The refreshments were heartily pastaken of and the tripping kept up incessantly till the "wee sma' 'ours" came around. The social was most successful in every respect. On entering the hall it was plain to be seen, by the attention which had been paid to all the little as well as the great points of comfort, that an efficient management were in charge. Although the social was held under the auspices of the ladies of No. 2 Ward, yet they met with every help and assistance from friends from the other Wards and from Ashburnham. Credit is chiefly due to Mrs. Phelan, Mrs. Cavanagh, Mrs. Garvey and Miss McCarthy, who were principally instrumental in arraging the most interesting social.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Peterborough Curling and Skating Rink Company was held on Tuesday evening at the Grand Central Hotel, with the President, Mr. W. G. Ferguson, in the chair.

There was a good attendance of the shareholders.

Examined and found correct.
JAS. A. HALL, Auditor.

Peterborough, 13th Oct., 1884.

On motion of the Rev. V. Clementi, seconded by Dr. Boucher, the report was adopted.

The President explained that they had purchased the lot on Charlotte street for $2,000, the interest to be paid being six per cent. The work had been placed under the charge of Mr. Gamble, and contracts for the stone work had been let to Mr. Sherwood and the brickwork to Mr. Hartley. The new building would have an additional curling rink added to the width. The estimated cost was $2,450, to include everything. Capital had already been subscribed to the extent of $2,200 and they had now $500 in the bank. Arrangements had been made with the Water Company to supply the water required.

The Rev. V. Clementi, who had been absent at the special meeting, expressed his approval of the scheme adopted.

The election of officers was then taken with the following result:—W. G. Ferguson, R. S. Davidson, Adam Hall, C. McGill, and Dr. Boucher,

The Hon. R. Hamilton and Mr. James F. Dennistoun had sent messages requesting not to be placed again on the Board. The other retiring directors were re-elected. Dr. Boucher and Mr. McGill being the new Directors.

A vote of thanks were passed to the President and Directors and Sheriff Hall as Auditor.

A vote of thanks was also passed to Mr. J. F. Dennistoun, with an expression of regret at his retiring from the Board.

The meeting then adjourned.

At a subsequent meeting of the Directors the same evening, Mr. W. G. Ferguson was re-elected President.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

The Grand Jury Bring in True Bills Against Creswell and Creswell.

On Tuesday forenoon the Grand Jury brought in a true bill against Creswell and Creswell, who are charged with larceny.

The foreman then read the following presentment:—

"We, the Crown Jurors for Our Lady the Queen, for the County of Peterborough, 1884, hereby present that we have investigated the various cases brought before us, and have given them due consideration.

"We have examined the gaol and its surroundings and find everything in first-class order, which reflects no little credit on the gaoler.

"J. Breckenridge,
"Foreman."

The Judge, in reply, said that he was glad to learn that the Grand Jury had found everything in first-class condition about the gaol and grounds, and that he would mention the fact to the Sheriff, as he always believed in giving credit to public officials who did their duty well. As there was nothing more for them to do, he had much pleasure in discharging the Grand Jury from further attendance.

Wood vs. Robinson.—An action brought by Robert Anson Wood against Robert Robinson (both of Otonabee) for the recovery of damages on account of false imprisonment. On the 7th of October, 1882, the barns of the defendant were burned and on the 28th of the same month he caused the arrest of the plaintiff on the charge of arson. On the 15th of December, 1882, the prisoner was tried in Peterborough and acquitted. Being released he brought the above mentioned action. Owing to the non-production of an important document which was missing the case was postponed until the next assizes.—Mr J. O'Meara for the plaintiff and Mr. C. A. Weller for the defendant.

An Expensive Cablegram.

Mr. W. H. Law, of the Central Iron Works, while recently in Toronto, cabled to a firm in Liverpool for a special line of iron to build the Hunter street bridge. The cablegram cost $51, as it contained 102 words, at the rate of 50 cents per word.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas can be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

Chit Chat.

—Fine fall days.

—A clean sheet at the Police Court this morning.

—The Fall Assizes will probably end tomorrow.

—Hunter street is receiving a coat of gravel.

—The Howorth's Hibernica Troupe arrived in town at noon. They are stopping at the Grand Central.

—The matched trotting race, Fannie B. vs. Brown Barber, will come off on Friday afternoon.

A Warm Looking Sight.

Any one passing the store of Mr. A. McNeil cannot help noticing the very attractive and varied display made in the window in gentlemen's underclothing. The north window is completely filled with all colors of choice new woollen goods, and "it is, as the heading suggests, "a warm looking sight" to stop for a few moments when passing and inspect. By doing this, (it is almost invariably the case) you are sure to step inside and make a purchase. The south window is handsomely dressed with pretty patterns of English, Irish, Scotch and Canadian tweeds, suitings, overcoatings, etc., and if you are in doubt as to where you will leave your measure just call at "Hathiment Hall," and all doubt will be dispelled when you take a glance over the fine stock. A. McNeil.

Everybody having a cough is invited to call on J. D. Tully and get a bottle of Hub Cough Cure for 25c. It acts very quickly on children or adults.

Professor Max Muller in a recent speach declared it to be "a national misfortune when boarding-schools took the place of public day-schools."

So many write us of the merits of Zopessa from the West, Canada, the East and at home; they write of being cured of liver troubles, dyspepsia, urniary troubles, chronic headaches, etc., but we cannot publish them—any drug store keeps Zopessa. Ask J. D. Tully.

One hundred New Jersey girls have bound themselves not to marry any man who chews tobacco.

As a general thing ladies who make any pretentions to refinement desire to have soft white hands. We believe that nothing will tend more to produce this effect than the constant use of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water mixed with the water in the basin. It removes redness and roughness. The ladies of Cuba and South America were the first to discover the extraordinary virtues of this floral water as a cosmetic, and have long since discarded the use of all others.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN Hair Renewer.

Seldom does a popular remedy win such a strong hold upon the public confidence as has Hall's Hair Renewer. The cases in which it has accomplished a complete restoration of color to the hair, and vigorous health to the scalp, are innumerable.

Old people like it for its wonderful power to restore to their whitening locks their original color and beauty. Middle-aged people like it because it prevents them from getting bald, keeps dandruff away, and makes the hair grow thick and strong. Young ladies like it as a dressing because it gives the hair a beautiful glossy lustre, and enables them to dress it in whatever form they wish. Thus it is the favorite of all, and it has become so simply because it disappoints no one.

CHOLERA IS COMING!

The countries where Cholera prevails, as in India, China and Africa, Pain-Killer is considered the surest and safest of all remedies, and the natives place the most perfect confidence in it.

Read the following extract from the letter of a missionary in China:

Dear Sirs,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours.
J. M. JOHNSON,
Missionary to Swatow, China.

Beware of counterfeits and imitations. Ask for the genuine Perry Davis' Pain-Killer and take no other.

KILLED BY A BULLET!

JOHN JOHNSTON FOUND DEAD IN A WOODS IN ANSTRUTHER.

Shot Through the Heart—Not Known Who Fired the Fatal Shot—Foul Play Suspected—An Inquest Commenced.

On Wednesday of last week word reached the town that John Johnston, who had gone back to Mr. Irwin's lumber shanty in Anstruther about three weeks before, was missing, and it was feared that some accident had befallen him. The men at the camp searched for him, but without success. On Tuesday last John Frazer and John Morrison were working in the woods and they found the body of Johnston, who was dead.

It appears that on Sunday, October 5th, Johnston and Wm. O'Brien left the lumber camp, at the head of Serpentine Lake, in a canoe with the intention of putting dogs on the trail of deer. Johnston landed and O'Brien went back to the camp and took the foreman, Thomas Douglas, out in the lake in the canoe to watch for deer that the dogs might drive into the water. Johnston was not again seen alive by any of the men. Douglas and O'Brien returned at about 12 o'clock, but they had not seen Johnston. They had a shot gun with them, with which they had shot a partridge. They had also heard a shot fired in the direction in which Johnston was gone. As Johnston did not return the men searched for him, but it was not until Tuesday of the following week that he was found. He had walked down from the head of the lake about a quarter of a mile and was about two hundred yards from the shore of the lake. He was lying on his back, with his head towards the south, apparently where he had fallen. There is a high bank at the shore of the lake at this place. The woods are thick where the body was found, the trees being pine and poplar.

When Frazer and Morrison found the body they went to the camp for assistance. A box was made, into which the corpse was placed, and on Wednesday morning John Frazer started for town with the body. He arrived here at about two o'clock this morning. The camp is between fifty and sixty miles north of Peterborough. Johnston's body was taken to his father's house on Weller street, and Dr. Fife, coroner, was notified. Dr. Kincaid was requested by the coroner to make a post mortem examination, which he did.

THE INQUEST.

The inquest was held by Dr. Fife at the house of Mr. Wm. Johnston, the father of the deceased. Constable Adams summoned the following jury:—

John Baptie,	Foreman.
William Kennedy,	Wm. McDowell,
John Clark,	Wm. Ruth,
Frank Fairen,	David Wallace,
A. Graham,	M. T. Butcher,
Geo. A. Morrison,	R. McWhinnie,
John Buchanan,	P. T. Moscrip,
John T. Brydon.

The jury viewed the body and then proceeded to hear evidence.

JOHN FRAZER was the first witness called, and having been sworn, said:—I know the body viewed by the jury to be the body of John Johnston. A week ago last Sunday, at about eight o'clock in the morning, deceased was at the mouth of Serpentine Lake, in the township of Anstruther, in Mr. Irwin's lumbering camp, where he was engaged in building a dam. Thomas Douglas was foreman of this camp. I was working in this camp. Deceased was working with me, making timber. On Sunday deceased went out to the head of Serpentine Lake with a dog to start a deer. He went in a canoe. A young man named Wm. O'Brien went with him. Deceased told O'Brien to hurry back with the canoe to the camp to take Thos. Douglas in the canoe out on the lake to watch for a deer. I heard that O'Brien came back to camp and told Douglas that Johnston wanted him to go out in the canoe on the lake. Douglas went out. This was about half an hour after Johnston had left the camp. O'Brien was with Douglas. These two came back at about 12 o'clock. The had a double barrelled shot gun with them. Deceased had no gun with him, nor firearms of any kind. I do not know whether Douglas and O'Brien saw deceased or not when he went out I did no hear any shooting. Douglas and O'Brien told me that they heard a shot fired towards the head of the lake, where the deceased had gone. Mr. Irwin had another camp about 3 miles from the head of the lake, and they thought it must have been some one who had come down from that camp who had fired the shot. They paddled up in the direction of the sound of the shot, and on the way up Douglas shot a partridge. When they got to the landing they did not see anyone. Douglas called two or the three times, but received no answer. The deceased never returned to the camp. The following Tuesday six of the men from the camp went to look for him and continued the search for two hours. Did not look for him any more that week. Last Sunday most of the men out of both camps turned out to look for deceased. About 20 men were looking. Did not find him on Sunday. Went to work on Monday. On Tuesday we went to finish a stick that we had been working at. When going to another stick in the woods I came to where the deceased was lying, dead, in the woods. I knew him to be Johnston as soon as I saw him. John Morrison was with me at the time. Morrison is now at the camp. I sent Morrison for McGinnis. He came and we blazed a road to the landing, so that we could find our way back to the body. We went to the camp and took dinner. Then some of the men went up and made a road to the deceased. Among the men was Alfred McDonald. When he came up he observed the hole in the right side of Johnston's vest. John McGinnis opened his vest and shirt and saw the wound, and told me that the man was shot. I saw the wound. We carried him to the lake, put him on a crib and took him to the other shore. Some of the men made a box and brought him to Peterborough. This is the same body that was found in the woods and the bullet hole was in his side when we found him.

To a Juryman.—There was only one gun in the boat when Douglas went away. It was a shot gun. There was a hunting party in the neighborhood. I do not know any of the hunting party. Douglas said that three minutes after he heard the first shot at the head of the lake he shot a partridge. It was about two hundred yards from the shore to where deceased was found. There was a rocky hill between them, so that he could not be shot from the shore. I do not know that he had any enemy. There was no person away from the camp besides deceased, Douglas and O'Brien. I saw dogs belonging to the hunters there, but I do not know any of the hunters.

DR. KINCAID, was sworn.—He said that he wished to write out in full the result of the examination. However, he said that the bullet had entered the right side of the deceased between the third and fourth ribs. It passed downwards through the middle lobe of the right lung, through the oracles of the heart, anterior to the left lung, and penetrated through the wall of the chest on the opposite side. Emerging from the chest it struck the left arm at the inside of the middle third, passed around under the skin and was cut out from where it had lodged on side of the outer the arm. The bullet was apparently a Winchester rifle bullet. The wound was sufficient to account for death. There was no other mark of violence on the body. It was not much decomposed.

The CORONER said that there was still some things to be explained in connection with the death of the deceased. It was not known who fired the fatal shot. If a man shot another in the woods, through thinking that he was firing at game, he would naturally go to see what he had hit, and an innocent man, on seeing the result, would at once give the alarm. Still, it was possible that a man might shoot at an animal and miss it, and the bullet might strike a man beyond it without him being aware of it. It would be better to get more light on the cause of the death of the deceased.

The inquest was adjourned until Thursday, Oct. 23rd, at 7 o'clock in the evening, to meet in the Police Court room.

The deceased was a man of about 53 years of age and was unmarried. He was well known in Peterborough, where he had lived for many years.

Inspecting the Collegiate Institute.

Mr. John Seath, M. A., the newly appointed High School Inspector, is at present engaged in inspecting the Collegiate Institute.

The Matched Trot.

The matched trotting race between Brown Barber and Fannie B. for $100 a side will take place on the Driving Park at 3 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. The race is expected to be very close and exciting, both horses being in the best condition. No doubt a large number will be present.

Through Freight.

The steamship "Alberta" arrived this morning at Owen Sound with 100 passengers and 28,000 bushels of wheat on board. The grain comes from the North West and is bound via Canada Pacific Railway for Montreal where it will be exported to England. The grain will commence coming through Peterborough to-night.

Gold Medal Ale.

If you want a glass of Labatt's prize medal fine ale (special brewing) call at W. H. Chamberlain's Parlour Restaurant. This ale has received four gold medals at the World's Exposition, Paris, Australia, Philadelphia and Canada. It is kept in one of the best cellars in Canada, and is pleasant to the taste, and at the same time a wholesome beverage.

An Organ to be Driven by Water.

A number of workmen in the employ of the Water Campany are at present engaged in digging a trench along the eastern part of Brock street for the laying down of pipes to convey water to the grounds of St. John's Church. An upright water engine will be placed in the church and will supply motive power for driving the large organ. A hydrant will be placed on the premises so as to supply water for the lawn and for fire protection.

Oysters! Oysters!

As the fruit season is closing in, and cold, frosty nights creeping along, I am offering as a substitute some very nice fresh oysters, both in tins and bulk, which will be found seasonable and refreshing.

Oysters, like teas, may be bought at all prices according to the quality and freshness, and if mine should be found wanting when kept in a temperature down to thirty-five, what must others be, when exposed to the constant changes of the weather? I am receiving a very fine line of grapes, Delewares, Concords and Rodger's varieties, the finest production of outdoor grapes in Canada, direct from the gardens of R. R. Smith. SMITH'S MARKET.

RAILWAY NUISANCES.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I was glad to notice, in your issue of Tuesday evening, the letter from "Observer," complaining of the desecration of the Christian Sabbath by the Railway Companies. Last Saturday night and until a late hour on Sunday morning the trains of the O. & Q. R. R. Co. were passing through the town every hour, shunting and whistling to the great annoyance of the inhabitants of the town. And it is the same during all the nights of the week. We are generally awakened by the scream and howl of the steam whistle at 2 o'clock a. m., and several times again during the night. This is what Sir Charles Tupper, the Minister of Railways, termed "an intolerable nuisance," and which he promised should be mitigated by the terms of the New Railway Act. But then the necessary action for the suppression of the nuisance must, I suppose, be taken for the purpose of carrying out these provisions by the municipal authorities, and as long as our present Council, including our Mayor, who is a railway man, are in office, we need expect no relief.

Some months ago the Town Clerk was instructed to obtain a copy of the By-law passed by the Toronto City Council on this subject. I conclude that the Clerk executed this commission, but what has been the result? No action has since been taken in the premises. For some reasons, best known to themselves, our Councillors permit the R. R. people to disturb and annoy and outrage their feelings of Christian propriety just as they please, and the steam whistles, particularly those attached to the engines of the O. & Q. R. R. Co., sound more frequently and more loudly than ever, and are especially tormenting during the earliest hours of morning, commencing often at 2 o'clock a.m.

I suppose the Toronto By-law proved too stringent in its provisions to suit the views of the Peterborough Council, who are ever ready to comply with the R.R. managers, and to avoid doing or saying anything that may be regarded as distasteful to those all-important persons.

THE Duke of Hamilton contemplates an extensive "weeding out" sale soon and to retire from the turf, excepting only steeplechasing and hurdle-racing.

THE Greenock U. P. Presbytery has adopted a report by a committee appointed to inquire into rumours affecting the character and conduct of Rev. A. R. Kennedy, of Port Glasgow, and resolved to separate him from his charge and suspend him from office for three months. Mr. Kennedy has appealed to the Synod.

Bass' English Ale.

Another consignment of twenty hogsheads of the above world-renowned ale, at W. H. Chamberlain's.

At Faucher's Restaurant,

Fresh Oysters received twice a week.

We do not Claim

That Shaker Blood Syrup will cure everything, but the fact that on the purity and vitality of the blood depends the vigor and health of the whole system, and that disease of various kinds is often only the sign that nature is trying to remove the disturbing cause, we are naturally led to the conclusion that a remedy that gives life and vigor to the blood, eradicates scrofula and and other impurities from it, as Shaker Blood Syrup undoubtedly does, must be the means of preventing many diseases that would occur without its use; hence the field of its usefulness is quite an extended one, and we are warranted in recommending it for all derangements of the system which are caused by an unnatural state of the blood.

Gentlemen.—I was a great sufferer from Salt-Rheum on my limbs, for 12 years previous to the summer of 1876, at which time I was cured by Shaker Blood Syrup. The skin would become dry, chap, crack, open, bleed and itch intensely, so that I could not help scratching, which of course made them worse. At the time I commenced taking Shaker Blood Syrup (in the summer of 1876) they were so bad that they discharged, and I was obliged to keep them bandaged with lines cloths. The skin was drawn so tight by the heat of the disease that if I stooped over they would crack open and actually bring tears to my eyes. The first bottle benefited me so much that I continued taking it till I was cured. Hoping MANY others may learn the value of Shaker Blood Syrup, and receive as much benefit as I have, I am,

Very truly yours,
C. A HOWARD,

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1884.

MR. BLAKE'S POLICY

THE London Advertiser, in an endeavour to show that Mr. Blake has a policy, says among other things, that as to the crown lands in the North West his maxim is "The land for the settler—the price for the public." As to this we may observe that the ordinary settler expects a free homestead, and under this rule the public would get nothing while the public, that is the people of Canada including Ontario, would have to bear the expense of opening up this new country, including the cost of the construction of a great railway.

We would also remark that if this is Mr. Blake's policy in opposition, it was not his policy while in power. Then he consented to a large grant of land in aid of the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, to other grants to other railwayr, to sales to colonization companies, etc.

But in fact the result of Mr. Blake's policy, when he was in a position to enforce it, was very few settlers and very little money for "the public."

If he were returned to power his only hope of better success than before would be to adopt the Conservative policy. And the people of Canada believe that it is better to trust Conservative statesmen with the duty of carrying out the Conservative policy which has been so beneficial to the country.

A LIBERAL TRICK.

IT is not very surprising that Mr. Gladstone dared not introduce the Redistribution Bill, and that he preferred to endeavour by means of a popular agitation, to coerce the House of Lords into passing his Franchise Bill before allowing them to see what tricks he was playing with the constituencies.

Now, however, the Redistribution Bill has obtained publicity and his trickery is revealed. In Ireland he has disfranchised 16 boroughs, and he has evidently made a selection as careful and dishonest as that of Mr. Mowat when he arranged the Ontario constituencies to suit his political ends.

Of the sixteen Irish boroughs which Mr. Gladstone proposes to deprive of their representatives only two return supporters of this tricky politician, six return Conservatives and eight Home Rulers. We have not yet before us the details for England and Scotland, but we may well imagine that he has dealt with them in the same spirit as with their sister kingdom. In short Mr. Gladstone, under the pretence of giving votes to a greater number of the people, was in fact planning such a rearrangement of the constituencies as would give him an unfair political advantage.

These manœuvers are not likely to be favourably viewed by other Conservatives or Home Rulers.

OUR INLAND NAVIGATION.

THE visit of Mr. Bowell and of a number of his colleagues to the Murray Canal, to inspect the works and lay a memorial stone, marks an event of importance to the country. This great improvement has been earnestly desired on account of the benefits it would confer, and the dangers it would avoid. Of course a Reform Administration would not condescend to give its attention to such merely practical matters as facilitating Canadian commerce, protecting Canadian shipping, or even saving Canadian lives. But a Conservative Administration has a fashion of attending to such sublunary and useful matters, instead of wasting all its energies on high flown theories very poorly carried out, as is the habit of the Reformers, so under Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues, this useful work (among others) has been energetically prosecuted.

Another source of congratulation, is the fact that Mr. Bowell referred to the intention to open the Trent Valley Navigation. Already some progress has been made in the work, and under a government so ready to do all in their power for the progress and prosperity of the country, we feel convinced that our turn will come to welcome the Minister, charged with the pleasant duty of celebrating the completion of the Trent Valley Navigation.

THE "GLOBE" AND SIR JOHN.

The Toronto Globe, since Sir John A. Macdonald publicly announced that he was not in the best of health, has been indulging in unseemly and misanthropic speculation on the nearness of the Premier's end and on his final disappearance from the active scene of life. The Globe is actually gleeful over the fact that Sir John's illness will probably prove fatal and that his death cannot be much longer delayed. The Globe mistakes the Canadain people if it imagines that their sentiments towards Sir John are the same as those which find such cruel and inhuman expression in its columns, or that they can be made to look with pleasure towards his grave and to pray with devotion that it soon may be filled. Canadians are not by nature a set of misanthropes, and it is not likely that they are going to begin with the father of their confederation to exhibit an unwarranted and uncalled for hatred of humanity. On the contrary, it will be the earnest hope and prayer of all true lovers of their country that the expectations of the Globe will be dashed to the earth and that Sir John, Deo volente, will live for many years to come to enjoy at least the esteem, respect and admiration of the Canadian people, if not their undivided political allegiance. The services which the Premier has rendered to the country during the past forty years entitle him to all the honors that gratitude can suggest, and not to all the odium which political differences and animosity would unfeelingly heap upon his name and even upon his grave.—Montreal Post (Indep.)

THE REAL CONSPIRATORS.

The evidence before the Bribery Commission at Toronto, on Friday was of a character not calculated to raise the Mowat Government very much in the estimation of the people of Ontario. The facts which were already known in connection with the vile conspiracy to connect prominent Conservatives with an attempt to bribe Grit members of the Legislature, have put Mr. Mowat and his colleagues in a very bad light, and the admissions made by Mr. Fraser will be sure to increase the contempt of the public for such political thimble-riggers. The desperate attempts of Mr. Mowat to hold together his majority in the Legislature are now shown up in their true light.

"Are we not going down to Avernus with rapid strides?" asked the Toronto Telegram the other day. Our contemporary must have had the Mowat Government and its despicable and disgraceful methods in view when it uttered that query. They have disgraced political life in Ontario by their base intrigues and complicity in transactions of the most disgraceful character. Honorable men would have cast power to the winds when it could be retained only by such means as they employed. We think our Toronto contemporary will agree with us in this remark. They have made corrupt bargains with politicians, contractors and lawyers, and have even stooped to the low criminal method of inducing men to commit an offence against the laws of the country. All this they have done to hold themselves and their friends in power and retain their grasp upon the rapidly decreasing treasury of Ontario. But the day of reckoning will come ere many more years have passed and we greatly mistake the people of Ontario if they do not in an emphatic manner express their strong disapproval of the black scandals which have attached to the Mowat regime during the past two years. The days of the Hardys and Pardees will then come to a sudden termination, and they and their friends will sink into the obscurity to which their intolerable actions should consign them.—Winnipeg Times.

LAKEFIELD.

From our own Correspondent.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.—The Lakefield Public School Board met on Tuesday evening last, the 14th inst. in the Council Room, Lakefield. Members present, Mr. W. C. Sanders, Chairman of the Board in the chair, Drs. Armour and Caldwell and Messrs. T. Casement, T. Gordon, and R. I. Donald. The minutes of former meetings were read and confirmed. Moved by Mr. T. Casement, seconded by Mr. T. Gordon,—That the following accounts be paid, viz:—

J. Watson, lumber and repairs	$7.01
John Cooper, light wood	3.00
Toker & Co, printing	3.50
Total	$13.51

—Carried.

Moved by Dr. Caldwell, seconded by Mr. T. Gordon, that Miss Duff and Miss Galvin be re-engaged as teachers for the ensuing year and at the same salary as at present.—Carried. Moved by Mr. R. Z. Dench, seconded by Dr. Caldwell that Mr. August's application for an increase of salary be received and laid over for consideration.—Carried. Moved by Mr. T. Gordon, seconded by Mr. T. Casement that Miss——— be re-engaged for the ensuing year, at the salary of $225.—Carried. Moved by Mr. T. Casement, seconded by Dr. Caldwell, that this Board do now adjourn.—Carried.

STEAMERS STUCK.—The steamboats Cruiser and Fairy are both stuck fast for some days at the Three Islands, about a mile above Lakefield, on account of low water. The water here is lower than known for years. It is said that the water is shut off at Buckhorn. The low water is greatly felt in Lakefield by those interested in the products of the back lakes.

MILLS SHUT DOWN.—There is some talk of shutting down the mills at Lakefield on account of the low water, and complete the foundation of the new dam from shore to shore. This would be a reasonable course to pursue, and advantageous to all concerned.

HASTINGS.

IMPROVING NAVIGATION.—Mr. R. B. Rogers, engineer of the Trent Valley Works, has a gang of men employed doing some repairs to the slide. It is Mr. R.'s intention also to effect some improvements on the upper part of the lock gates to prevent a reoccurrence of the accident which took place a few weeks ago.

PERSONAL.—Father O'Connel returned Tuesday last, and devoted the two following days to leave taking of his late parishioners in this village, the parting in every instance being very affecting. The Rev. gentleman takes charge of the newly erected parish, consisting of Brighton, Burnley and Bowmanville, where we hope his labors will be as fully appreciated as they were here.—Star.

TWO descendants of the celebrated Kate Kearney, having been recently convicted of "fortifying" goats' milk with "mountain dew," were fined £6 for doing it.

THE Irish harvest is now almost everywhere gathered in, and were it not for the low prices prevailing for the cereals the result would be highly gratifying to agriculturists.

Characteristics of Smokers.

A gentleman who is a great "fumigator" says that he has philosophized about smokers with this result:—"An even tempered, quiet man never goes to an extreme in choosing his cigar. A nervous man wants something strong and furious; a mild man something that smokes, and nothing more. There is a great deal in the way men handle their cigar. If a man smokes his cigar only enough to keep it lighted, and relishes taking it from his mouth to cast a look at the blue curl of smoke in the air, set him down as an easy going man. He has keen perceptions and delicate sensibilities. He will not create trouble, but is apt to see it out when it is once begun. Beware of the man who never loses his grip of the cigar, and is indifferent whether it burns or not. He is cool, calculating and exacting. He is seldom energetic physically, but lives easy off those who perform the labor. The man that smokes a bit, rests a bit, and fumbles the cigar more or less, is easily affected by circumstances. If the cigar goes out frequently the man has a whole souled disposition, is a devil-may-care sort of a fellow, with a lively brain and a glib tongue, and generally a fine fund of anecdote. To hold about half of the cigar in the mouth and smoke indifferently, is a lazy man's habit. They are generally of little force and their characters are not of the highest strata. A nervous man, who fumbles his cigar a great deal, is a sort of popinjay among men. Holding the cigar constantly between the teeth, chewing it occasionally and not caring if it is lighted at all, are men who have the tenacity of bulldogs. They never forget anything or let go their holds. The fop stands his cigar on end and an experienced smoker points it straight ahead, or almost at right angles with his course. Such has been my observations with regard to smokers."

THE FAIR AT NORWOOD.

Exhibition of the Asphodel, Belmont and Dummer Agricultural Society.

The annual exhibition of the Asphodel, Belmont and Dummer Agricultural Society, was held at Norwood on Tuesday, Oct. 14th. This exhibition was more favored in one way, than were the Keene and Lakefield shows, for the weather on Tuesday was fine and clear. But the exhibition itself was not a pronounced success. Of horses and cattle there were some good animals shown, but the entries were not numerous, and the same might be said of the other live stock classes. The other departments were not well filled, and the same remark would hold good of almost each one of them—good exhibits, but a small number of entries. The total number of entries was 366, a considerable falling off from last year. The attendance was very good, as about 1,100 persons passed through the gates. Music was furnished during the afternoon by the Norwood Brass Band, and the comments upon their playing were very favorable. The following is the prize list :—

FROM ALL OVER.

MR. GLADSTONE has never been hurt while cutting trees.

Dr. Low's Worm Syrup will remove worms and cause, quicker than any other medicine.

BAT shooting is said to be popular sport at Montgomery, Ala.

FOR nettle rash, itching piles, ringworm eruptions, and all skin diseases, use Prof. Low's Sulphur Soap.

If you would have Appetite, Flesh, Color, Strength and Vigor, take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which will confer them upon you in rapid succession.

DESTROY the worms or they may destroy the children. Use Ereman's Worm Powders, they expel all kinds of worms.

ABOUT 100 Christian Chinese women have been married to Christian Chinese in the mission chapel at San Francisco.

EVERYBODY having a cough is invited to call on J. D. Tully and get a bottle of Hub Cough Cure for 25c. It acts very quickly on children or adults.

OWING to the increased demand for canned salmon, the sardine packing business of Maine has fallen off one-third this season.

INHUMAN CRUELTY.—It is a barbaric cruelty to torture the weak stomachs of chronic invalids with harsh purgatives and sickening drugs, when Burdock Blood Bitters will regulate the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys in so agreeable and effectual a manner.

HANK WHITE, a funny and popular "endman" of a New England Minstrel Troupe, has been elected to the Vermont Legislature from the town of Reading.

OH! how tired and weak I feel, I don't believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning! O yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Doctor Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50c.

IN London bank directors know something about the affairs of the bank. Each one serves in turn a short time as practical manager of the institution.

A GOOD RECORD—Among the many thousand bottles of Hagyard's Yellow Oil sold annually in Canada not one has ever failed to give satisfaction. It cures rheumatism, colds and all painful complaints and injuries.

A SMALL bronze she-wolf, once a part of a Roman Military ensign, has been found in a gravel pit at Tulette, France. Her head is turned as if to look at Romulus and Remus, who are nursing.

USEFUL TO KNOW.—Everyone should know that Hagyard's Yellow Oil will give prompt relief; applied externally will stop any pain; and taken internally cures colds, asthma, croup, sore throat and most inflammatory complaints.

So many write us of the merits of Zopesa from the West, Canada, the East and at home; they write of being cured of liver troubles, dyspepsia, urniary troutles, chronic headaches, etc., but we cannot publish them—any drug store keeps Zopesa. Ask J. D. Tully.

THE ten children of Joseph Pettijohn, of Prescott, W. T., are marvels of height and weight. A 17 year old son is 7 feet and weighs 265 pounds. The average height of the whole is 6½ft., and average weight 224 pounds.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—Fortelling the weather is a useful science, but relieving the effects of its sudden changes is a better one, Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam cures coughs and colds, incident to sudden changes.

THE Lateran Palace, which the Pope intended to convert into a cholera hospital if necessary, has often been used in past times for the same purpose. It has served as a hospital in times of the plague, and when cholera raged in Rome in 1837, Pope Gregory XVI. had 700 beds prepared on the second floor of the palace.

A GOOD TEST.—For over 16 years G. M. Everest, of Forest, has sold Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, and its sales are steadily increasing. It cures coughs, colds and all lung complaints; is pleasant to take and always reliable.

A REMARKABLE DISCOVERY.—A council of doctors declared Mrs. Adelaide O'Brien, of 372 Exchange St., Buffalo, incurable. Her liver was badly disordered; she vomited green mucous; could retain no food; skin yellow and full of humors. She was rapidly sinking; but Burdock Blood Bitters cured her.

M. ZOLA bought a little cottage at Medan a few years ago for $2,000, and he has gradually transformed it into a stately chateau at an expense of $60,000. "The only other thing I can see that he could do to the place," said one of his friends lately, "would be to gild the slates in imitation of the roof of the Invalides."

Sufferers from the effect of quinine, used as a remedy for chills and fever, will appreciate Ayer's Ague Cure, a powerful tonic bitter, composed wholly of vegetable substances, without a particle of any noxious drug. Its action is peculiar, prompt and powerful, breaking up the chill, curing the fever, and expelling the poison from the system, yet leaving no harmful or unpleasant effect upon the patient.

As a general thing ladies who make any pretentions to refinement desire to have soft white hands. We believe that nothing will tend more to produce this effect than the constant use of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water mixed with the water in the basin. It removes redness and roughness. The ladies of Cuba and South America were the first to discover the extraordinary virtues of this floral water as a cosmetic, and have long since discarded the use of all others.

A Mixed Relationship.

A young woman in Garafraxa has married her brother's wife's father, and at last accounts had nearly gone crazy trying to figure out whether she was her brother's mother-in-law, or her husband's daughter-in-law, or her own mother-in-law, or her sister-in-law's mother-in-law, or all four, and if so, what relation her children will be to her husband.—Guelph Herald.

Drunkenness, or the Liquor Habit, can be cured by Administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to-day believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effects result from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Circulars and testimonials sent free. Address, Golden Specific Co., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1884.

Saturday Night.

Stafford-Foster Co., Opera House. Romeo and Juliet.

A Sporting "Joke."

In the Mail of Tuesday there appears a bogus challenge, which was sent from Peterborough to that paper. This kind of practical joke is not born of the true sporting spirit, and, besides, if the Mail is sent such bogus challenges from here (and the same thing has been done before), it will probably refuse to publish any challenges from this town. Such mean tricks should not be indulged in.

Romeo and Juliet.

The celebrated Stafford-Foster Company will appear at the Opera House on Saturday night in Romeo and Juliet. The following is from the Detroit Free Press:—

"Last evening an entertainment was presented to our amusement goers, which was, by all odds, one of the best and most noteworthy given here this season. Mr. Wm. Stafford made his appearance before an audience to whom he was wholly unknown, but he and his excellent company met with pronounced favour at the hands of those present, was evident from the loud bursts of applause which repeatedly occurred during the progress of the play, Shakespeare's Romeo is certainly one of his best characters, and that Mr. Stafford has made it a close study, was evident from the masterly rendition which he gave it last night."

Read This and Ponder.

The cold season is close at hand, and in consequence, the Stove and Tin establishment of Adam Hall is having an unprecedented run. The sales are lively and the tinsmiths are busy putting up stoves. A fine assortment of Radiant Home, Countess, Crown Jewel, and "Splendid" Base Burners in stock. Six different styles of coal scuttles. Crystalized Stove Boards in fancy and plain genteel patterns. Buy one of Stone's Improved Tubular Lanterns, the most convenient and best made. Call and examine our large stock. Everything you need. ADAM HALL, the Giant T. Store, George Street.

Personal.

Mr. Orm. Dixon continues to receive flattering notices from the press. The following is from the Ottawa Citizen of Oct. 14th:—

"The best feature of the performance, however, was the ventriloquism of Mr. Orm. Dixon, who now appears for the first time in Canada. He is truly a marvel, and is beyond a doubt ahead of any performer in this line that ever visited the capital. His specialties alone constituted a performance more than worth the price of admission. His imitation of a steamboat whistle in the distance was almost marvelious. He is said to be the only ventriloquist in the world who has succeeded in accomplishing this most difficult feat."

The other Ottawa papers agree with the Citizen in its estimate of Mr. Dixon's abilities. But the Citizen is mistaken as to this being his first appearance in Canada as a ventriloquist. Mr. Dixon has frequently delighted audiences in Peterborough, where his home is, and has also received applause from Toronto audiences.

A Warm Looking Sight.

Any one passing the store of Mr. A. McNeil cannot help noticing the very attractive and varied display made in the window in gentlemen's underclothing. The north window is completely filled with all colors of choice new woollen goods, and "it is, as the heading suggests, "a warm looking sight" to stop for a few moments when passing and inspect. By doing this, (it is almost invariably the case) you are sure to step inside and make a purchase. The south window is handsomely dressed with pretty patterns of English, Irish, Scotch and Canadian tweeds, suitings, overceatings, etc., and if you are in doubt as to where you will leave your measure just call at "Habliment Hall," and all doubt will be dispelled when you take a glance over the fine stock. A. MCNEIL.

Bradburn's Opera House.

Last night Howorth's Hibernica Company appeared for the first time in Bradburn's Opera House. The play for the evening was "The Two Dans, or the Twin Jarveys," a humorous comedy suggested by Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors." The two Dans are twin brothers and are separated from childhood. They are engaged by different members of an American tourist party, as servants, and although they do not meet till the conclusion of the play, yet they are continually taken for each other by their respective masters and sweethearts. The ludicrous mistakes, laughable complications and amusing incidents and episodes with which the play abounds, render it most interesting. Between the scenes of the play a grand panoramic view of Ireland is exhibited. The storm scene on the ocean with the lightning flashing, the thunder rolling and the good ship "Britania" tossing on the waves is particularly worthy of mention. The sunset and the moonlight scenes on the Lakes of Killarney was really beautiful and they called forth well deserved bursts of applause. Another scene of merit was a view of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, by night, with the old time illumination and the priests chant the Christmas anthem. The Company will appear in "Frolics of Tourists in Ireland" tonight.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

Purcell Found Guilty—Mimms and Clegg are Acquitted.

QUEEN vs. PURCELL.—Thos. Purcell was arranged on the charge of having on the 12th day of August, 1884, in the township of North Monaghan, outraged Elizabeth O'Donnell, a girl of the age of twelve. The jury brought in a verdict of guilty. Sentence reserved.

COCHRANE vs. DUMBLE AND STAPLETON.—An action brought by the plaintiff to recover damages on account of excessive and premature seizure of goods and chattles by the defendants on the 30th of June, 1882. The defendants alleged that the plaintiff was hopelessly insolvent and that he gave his consent to the seizure. The plaintiff maintained that he gave no such consent. The jury found that the consent was not proven and awarded the plaintiff $5.15 damages.—Mr. G. T. Blackstock for plaintiff and Mr. C. A. Weller for defendant.

QUEEN vs. MIMMS AND CLEGG.—Charged with manslaughter, namely, with having on the 25th day of February, 1883, felonously killed and slain one Elizabeth Reid. The prisoners pleaded not guilty.

MISS DENCH, sworn.—I reside in the township of Douro. I recollect the 28th day of February. I started in company with others to drive to Lakefield. We drove in a long sleigh. Robert Jory, my father's servant, was driving. He is accustomed to horses. Mr. Mellor, Miss Reid and my younger sister were in the sleigh. During the progress of our drive we were obliged to cross a railway track. We were going west and the railway track runs north and south. The team was trotting as we approached the crossing. It was about three o'clock in the afternoon. The crossing is well known to me. It was about an hour after the train was due when we crossed the track. Before we left home we thought the train would have passed. We delayed an hour because the horses were afraid of the train. The crossing is about half a mile from my father's house. I did not hear a train approaching. I did not see a train that afternoon except when crossing the track. There are so many trees on the south side of the highway that I could not see the approaching train. The crossing is considered to be a dangerous one for strangers. I heard no bell or whistle. The train was about 200 yards from me when I saw it. I do not know who first saw it. I was not looking at the horses at the time we were crossing the track. The whole sleigh would have been struck had the horses stopped. Miss Reid was in the back seat next the locomotive. The lomocotive struck the back part of the sleigh and we were all thrown out. I do not know how far we were thrown. The sleigh was separated into two parts. I was thrown into the snow. When I got up Miss Reid was lying in the snow.

At this stage the witness grew faint and was taken to the judge's room. The next witness was called.

THOS. F. MELLOR, sworn.—I recollect the collision referred to. I took a seat in the sleigh at Mr. Dench's. When we got to the end of the corporation of Lakefield we met a locomotive coming from Peterborough. We crossed the track at right angles. The locomotive was about 200 or 400 yards away when I saw it. I was on the side of the sleigh nearest the locomotive. The sleigh was on the track when I saw the engine. We did not stop to listen for the train, as we thought it was already in the village and out again. It was an hour after the train was due. We could not see the train coming on account of the thick cedar bushes obstructing the view on both sides of the highway. I heard no bell or whistle. I have good hearing. I think I heard two short whistles after the sleigh was struck. It was the engine that struck the sleigh. It was the hind part of the sleigh that was struck. All of us were thrown out and Elizabeth Reid was killed. I did not see her immediately after getting up on account of being so stunned. I came to in a minute or so. I was the first to discover Miss Reid. Her face was turned downwards in the snow. I tried to lift her out of the snow. I saw blood on her head and face. She appeared to me as if dead. I did not discover afterwards that she was not dead. Mr. Mimms was in Lakefield with an engine on the same day. I think I saw the prisoners standing near, but I am not sure. The off horse plunged when the engine struck the sleigh. If it had not been for that the sleigh would not have been so far across the track, and the engine would have struck the front of the sleigh. I had a muffler around my neck. I have frequently crossed the track at that place before. At that time we had no possibility of getting out of the way before the engine struck. I heard nothing to attract my attention before the engine struck.

To MR. OSLER.—There was a considerable depth of snow on the ground. It was a cold day. I do not know which way the wind blew. There was a stiff wind blowing. It was snowing a little. We were all well muffled up. The trees are very dense! We were talkin before the train struck the sleigh. The snow was filled up on each side of the track. None of us looked to see if the train was coming.

ROBERT JORY, who drove the horses, was sworn. His testimony was similar to that of the previous witness.

JOHN WHIBBS, sworn,—I know the crossing where the collision took place. I recollect the day of the accident. I was in Mr. Coughlin's barnyard on that day. It is about the width of an acre from the crossing on the east side. I saw the train go by, but did not hear any whistle or bell. I did not hear any bell or whistle that day except the two short whistles at the crossing.

To Mr. Osler,—I am accustomed to hearing the trains passing. I had no occasion to take notice of the train on that day. I am not a married man. There was a strong wind blowing on that day. I was doing nothing at the time the train passed. I could only see the bell once in a while through the steam and smoke. I live on Mr. Coughlin's farm and was near the barn. I paid no attention to the whistling on that day.

G. J. GALVIN, sworn.—I recollect the day of the accident. My house is about 20 rods east of the railway track, and I heard the railway whistle at the crossing half a mile south of my place. The crossing in question is about the same distance north. I went out shortly after I heard the whistle. I was in my barn at the time when the train passed. I did not hear any other whistle.

To Mr. Osler,—I went into the house to get a coat and during that time I heard the whistle to the south. I believe the long whistle was for the southern crossing. I did not see the train, I was hitching up my horses when I heard the two short whistles. I know how slight a thing will attract the attention to sound, and how an occupied mind will not hear a much louder noise. I cannot tell how many whistles I heard on that day. I think the men who were in charge of the train last summer were cautious men.

ROBERT DENCH, sworn,—My wife purposely delayed the sleighing party for an hour so that the danger of crossing the track at train time would be avoided. I heard Mimms say that he was engineer of the locomotive on the day of the accident and that Clegg was fireman. Mimms said at the inquest that it was not necessary to whistle at the crossing as the one long whistle would answer both for the village and the crossing. The bushes referred to were high enough to prevent sight but not sound.

To Mr. Osler,—The engineer said it was the fireman's duty to ring the bell. I do ne know whether Miss Reid's relatives wish to prosecute or not. The day was blustering. I know that the sound is muffled when the snow is deep.

JOHN COOPER, sworn,—I am mail carrier at Lakefield. On the day of the accident I was waiting for the train. I heard a long whistle. It was the ordinary whistle which the train gives every day. I am in no doubt about it. I was at the Lakefield station. It was not the whistle for the lower crossing.

To Mr. Kerr,—I was north about three quarters of a mile from the crossing. I heard the whistle distinctly. I saw the steam from the whistle before I heard the sound.

JAMES HAMER, sworn.—I am section fireman at Lakefield. I remember the day of the accident. I was at the station. I heard a whistle for the crossing. I have no doubt but that a long whistle was sounded.

To Mr. Kerr.—I heard the whistle distinctly. The wind was blowing the sound away from me.

Mrs. Nelson, William Brown and Richard Purser corroborated the evidence of the two previous witnesses in regard to hearing the whistle for Lakefield.

W. B. FERGUSON, sworn.—I was formerly Superintendent on the Midland Division of the Grand Trunk Railway. I have known Mimms since he was a boy. He is a man of good character and a careful, steady man. I know Clegg to be a steady man. I have not known him as long as I have known Mimms. Mimms is a married man.

The counsel for the prisoners maintained that unless attention was called in some way to a passing sound it would pass from the memory and be forgotten. The party in the sleigh were talking together and not expecting the train. The man in the barnyard and Mr. Galvin were probably thinking of something else at the time. But, on the other hand, the mail carrier on the cold station platform, the hotel keeper, Purser, who was keeping his dinner hot for his customers, and the section foreman, were each expecting and waiting for the train. They were the people to hear the whistle, if it were sounded, and not the people whose minds were occupied. The counsel maintained also that a proper alarm was sounded and that, owing to the strong wind which was blowing southward, the thick clump of bushes which caught the sound and the deep snow which covered the ground and muffled the noise of the whistle, the people in the sleigh did not hear the whistle, and the unfortunate lady thus met her death. The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty.—Wm. Kerr, Q.C., for the prosecution, and B. B. Osler, Q. C., and J. Stewart for the prisoners.

Old people like it for its wonderful power to restore to their whitening locks their original color and beauty. Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1884.

THE London Advertiser objects to our severe but well deserved censure of Mr. Mowat for his dastardly slander at Montreal when he accused the Dominion Government of endeavoring to corrupt members of the Ontario Legislature. It would be more to the purpose if the Advertiser were to give the grounds for such an assertion, and would explain why, if the Attorney-General had such important information, he should withhold it in the witness box, where he was sworn to tell the whole truth, and should publish it in an after dinner oration.

SIR JOHN'S VISIT TO ENGLAND.

The Toronto World has added another to the many reasons why Sir John Macdonald has visited England. In its issue of Oct. 14th it says:—

"The wise political editors of the provincial daily papers have been scratching their reverend old heads and telling the public why Sir John Macdonald has gone to England. They are as usual all wrong, and it has been reserved for a reporter of the World to let his large constituency of readers into the real secret of the great chieftain's journey across the water.

"The reporter was standing in the corridor of the Queen's hotel last night, when a gentleman high up in the councils of the Conservative party entered and registered. He was was presently joined by a well-known local Conservative. The reporter was a forced listener to their conversation. The new-comer cautiously and confidently told his brother politician that Sir John had been summoned to England by the Imperial Government. Mr. Gladstone had for a number of years been watching the tranquil self-government of the Canadian confederacy. A happy thought struck the grand old man. He would give home rule to Ireland if he could "light on" the true solution of he meaning of those words. A cabinet council was speedily called. All of the ministers agreed that Sir John would be the exact person to give the Government points. Without further delay the Imperial mandate was flashed under the Atlantic summoning the Dominion Premier to Downing street. This, dear readers, is the real mission upon which our Sir John is bent. 'It will be a great day for for Ireland when he reaches there,' concluded the newly arrived Conservative."

This Evening's Performance.

The Montreal Herald of October 7th, in speaking of the play "Only a Farmer's Daughter," says:—

"'Only a Farmer's Daughter' was presented at the Acanemy of Music last night before a large audience. This play was given here last winter with great success and drew large houses, and will doubtless experience the same reception this season. Miss Lillian Lewis surpassed herself last night as the New York Belle, being recalled after every act. Miss Ether Lyon, as the Farmer's Daughter, created a most pleasing impression. Miss Enna Frank, as Mother Stark in Poverty Hollow, and Miss Etta Frank as Little Minnie's attendant, were most acceptable. Little Minnie showed herself as clever as ever in her important part. During the performance Miss Lillian Lewis was presented with a very handsome basket of flowers. The balance of the cast was good."

Shot by Her Brother.

FERGUS, Oct. 15.—A sad shooting accident happened here to-day. A little girl about two years of age, daughter of Wm. Taylor, J.P., was accidentally shot by her brother, aged 18 years. The little girl was playing about a shed, and her brother coming out with a double-barrelled gun and very likely examining it at the time, and probably not seeing her, one chamber went off, the contents striking her on the hip and hand by her side. Mr. Taylor was close at the time and on hearing the report screamed out to the boy that he had shot the child and ran and picked her up. She only lived half an hour after the accident. The young man feels it keenly.

Fatal Railway Accident.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 16.—An accident occurred last night at Tilbury Centre on the Canada Southern Railway. No. 2 express going east ran into a gravel train which was standing on the siding at Tilbury foul of the main line. The express train consisted of a baggage, express, smoking, two first class, and two Pullman cars. The smoking car was turned upside down, thrown into the ditch and broken to fragments. The express engineer, Dan Cox, was instantly killed. His fireman, F. Byrne, miraculously escaped unhurt. The injurned are Samuel Woods, of Fletcher, head seriously cut; a child of John Callaghan, of Toronto, hands burned by being thrown on the stove; an unknown man, shin badly injured; A. Sessing, bargageman, of Detroit, badly burned about the legs and body. A wrecking train, accompanied by Dr. Smith, the company's surgeon, was dispatched from the city at once.

A HORRIBLE DISCOVERY

An Old Woman found Dead in Her Room—Supposed to have Starved.

BARRIE, Oct. 15.—The community has been shocked by a horrible case of apparent starvation which the police have just investigated. The subject is a maiden lady named Mary Anne Seawright, who for several years past has kept a little shop on Bradford street, midway between this town and Allandale. It was noticed by neighbours that Miss Seawright did not make her appearance for some days, and the conclusion was arrived at finally that something was wrong. The Barrie police were accordingly communicated with, and the result was a visit to the premises by town Inspector Blain, accompanied by Constable Greer. Access could be had to the shop only by forcible entry, which was affected by a rear window. A shocking sight met the view of the officers on entering. The corpse of the old woman was found lying accross the doorway of the sleeping room with a dish of flour beside it, and every indication of squalor and misery surrounding it. Everything about was disordered and filthy, and the smell permeating the room and almost unbearable. No time was lost in notifying a coroner, but that official declined to hold an inquest. Constable Greer accordingly took charge of the premises after notifying a sister of the deceased, Mrs. Morrow, 14 Bellevue Place, Toronto. The remains were evidently those of a person who had starved to death. When seen by your correspondent to-night they presented a most ghastly appearance, the limbs being shrunken and every bone on the body standing out prominently under the shrunken skin. The house was in a state of great confusion, everything lying about in dirt and disorder. Prominent among the effects were candies which were found in various places, including even the bed. Search among the contents of the house revealed several boxes, most of which were filled with costly silks and other articles of value calculated to establish the fact that the old woman was a miser. There were eight sovereigns sewed up securely in cotton and placed inside the under clothing, and besides this there was $8.50 in loose cash. The underclothes numbered thirteen different garments, and the inner one was almost grown to the flesh. On the top of one of the trunks in the bedroom was a loaded pistol, while under the head of the bed was a big file sharpened at the point. The Mayor has sent word to a brother of the deceased, Rev. Thos. Seawright, Norwood, as to the disposal of the remains.—Globe.

RIOTS IN CINCINNATI.

A Political Disturbance—A Thousand Deputy Marshals Employed.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 15.—The Democratic and Republican press this morning agree that yesterday's election in Cincinnati was the bloodiest ever held. The Democratic papers assert that a thousand deputy marshalls were employed mainly in intimidation of honest voters, while the Republican press contrues the conduct of the police force and Deputy Sheriff in a similar manner, comparing it to the Mississippi policy. The following is a list of injured in yesterday's outbreak:—Albert Russell (colored), killed; Joe Lowry, shot in the spine, fatal; Bridget Hughes, struck in the breast with a boulder, dangerous; Jno. Murphy, shot in the stomach, flesh wound; A. Bennett (colored), shot in the side, not dangerous; John Dalton, shot in the leg, not dangerous; Sam Taylor (colored), shot in the side, serious; Mike Gorman, policeman, shot in the back, dangerous; Henry Sherlock, policeman, shot in the back, dangerous; H. Brown (colored), shot in the abdomen, fatal. The last three were wounded in an affray at the corner of Sixth and Freeman streets late last night. Between fifty and one hundred people took part in the fight, which grew out of the attempt of a German to arrest a negro. The German was shot in the back by an unknown person, and a general fusilade followed, in which a hundred shots were fired. The riot alarm was sounded, and the disturbance was quelled after two policemen and Brown were shot. The Republicans claim 20,000 majority in the State and the Democrats concede 10,000.

ANOTHER DYNAMITE SCARE.

Terrified by a Mysterious Tin Box, which Proves to be Empty.

QUEBEC, Oct. 16.—Quite a scare was caused among the population of St. John's suburbs by by the rumour that an attempt was to be made to blow up the new church of St. Jean Baptiste. The excitement reached its height when it was noised abroad that the proposed infernal machine had been discovered in one of the pews of the church by the son of a contractor. The case was simply a tin box, which the finder carried very tenderly to the presbytery adjoining, where he was hurriedly sent away with his load, and advised to take it to Judge Chauveau. The judge in his turn ordered the fellow to get away with the machine and convey it to the citadel, where alone were the necessary appliances for opening it. The box was then handed to the authorities at the citadel, who, upon opening it, found it to be empty.

Stabbing Affray.

PARKHILL, Oct. 19.—In a drunken row last night one Quinn was stabbed in three different places with a jack-knife by one Hamilton, who was arrested. The doctor thinks Quinn will recover.

Hanlan and Beach.

SYDNEY, Oct. 16.—Hanlan will row Beach for the championship of the world the first Saturday of May, 1885. He will also row Clifford for £200 within six months. Both races occur on the Paramatta river.

Sport Which Ended in Murder.

HARRODSBURG, Ky., Oct. 15.—Dillon, prominent physician, and Wm. Curry, in sport began throwing water at each other. They soon became angry, and Curry struck Dillon on the head with a glass killing him.

Terribly Burned by Naptha.

Two workingmen named Miller and Thorn were seriously burned in Montreal through naptha they were using in manufacturing in the Canada Rubber factory igniting. The former has been in a dangerous state in the hospital from his terrible wounds, the flesh being literally charred by the heat, but it is thought he will recover. Thorn was not so seriously injured, and is approaching convalescence.

Insane Asylums.

Dr. Hack Tuke, an eminent member of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, and an expert on insanity, while in Montreal lately, visited the Longue Pointe and other asylums for the insane. He has now published an appalling report, stigmatizing them as living graves and chambers of horrors, and urging the Government to take the management of them away from the present contractors.

Burned to Death.

JAMESTOWN, Dak, Oct. 16.—Yesterday afternoon the wife and three year old child of Carl Schroeder were burned to death in a prairie fire which the woman was trying to prevent destroying her wheat. One of the children was saved by reaching plowed ground and two others by running into a pond of water.

INSUBORDINATE.

THE CHINESE REPULSE.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The Pall Mall Gazette admits that the Chinese were repulsed at Chu, but says the estimate that 3,000 men were killed is ludicrous. The Gazette believes the report of the victory is exaggerated for the purpose of covering the disaster of Tam Sui, and to put the Chamber in the humour to vote the credit for carrying on the war.

CHINESE ARMY DISPERSED.

HANOI, Oct. 16.—The Chinese army completely dispersed after the recent defeat, leaving their killed and wounded upon the field, and abandoning an immense quantity of provisions. Many mandarins were killed.

OPERATIONS AT TAMSUI.

HONG KONG, Oct. 16.—Admiral Courbet tried to blockade the northern coast at Formosa before ordering a renewal of the attack by the French fleet upon Tamsui. He expects to resume offensive operations both on land and sea next week.

A number of shirts and clothing and many things belonging to the crew have drifted upon the coast.

A DYNAMITER ARRESTED.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 16.—As the passengers were disembarking from the steamer Lord Clive, from Philadelphia, an Irish Detective arrested a Hungarian steerage passenger on suspicion. His baggage was searched and thirty packages of dynamite, weighing a pound and a half, were found.

SPEEDY VENGEANCE.

Murder of a Republican Manager—The Murderer Lynched by a Furious Mob.

LACROSSE, Wis., Oct. 16.—F. A. Burton, President of the Blaine-Logan Club, was shot dead this evening by a character known as "Scotty" while a Republican procession was forming. The murderer was arrested and hurried off to gaol, followed by hundreds of men in uniform carrying torches and shouting "Lynch him!" The chief of police and a posse barricadep the gaol doors and prevented violence. The murderer advanced from the crowd to within a few feet of his victim and fired the first bullet into his back. Burton fell to the pavement and "Scotty" emptied his revolver, firing six shots into Burton's body and head. He then threw the revolver at his vistim and gave him a kick. All this was done in a moment, before any one could realize what had happened. The motive of the murder is unknown. Burton was managing the campaign in this section. A mob of Blaine-Logan torch-bearers and citizens surrounded the gaol and demanded possession of "Scotty." This was refused. The mob then procured cold chisels, forced opent the doors, put a rope around his neck, and lynched him at 10.45. The officers were unable to stay the mob, who refused to listen to their arguments

The Scott Act.

Voting on the adoption of the Scott Act took place in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry on Thursday, Oct. 16. The majorities in favor of the Act, as far as returns have been received, are as follows:—Dundas, 733; Stormont, 568; Glengarry, 236; total, 1,537. Voting took place in Charlottetown on the repeal of the Act on the same day. One despatch says that the Act was sustained by a majority of 45, but another despatch states that the repealers defeated the temperance people.

The Duke of Hesse Divorce Case.

The divorce of Countess Romrod (Mme. Kalomine) from the Duke of Hesse, has been sustained by the court of Darmstadt, on the ground that "mutual disinclination," according to German princely law, is a sufficient reason for a legal separation where there are no children by the marriage.

MISCELLANEOUS.

MR. James William DeFoe, the great-great grandson of Daniel DeFoe, is paralized, nearly blind, and in urgent need. An English paper suggests that all who have ever read Robinson Crusoe contributes a penny to the descendant of its author.

THE present head of the British parliamentary police, Inspector Denning, is an important character. Ministries come and Ministries go but Denning inspects for ever. He has figured in many historical events, and has received many testimonials of esteem.

THOMAS ORROCK was convicted and sentenced to death at the London Central Criminal Court on Sept. 20th, for having, while attempting to commit a robbery at the Baptist Chapel, Dalston, in December, 1882, murdered a policeman named Cole, who attempted to arrest him.

THE express train from Leeds to Liverpool ran off the line in Sammil Tunnel, near Todmorden, on Sept. 20th, and three carriages fell against the walls of the tunnel, but maintained their upright position. About a dozon persons were bruised or shaken, but none of their injuries are serious.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1884.

STILL OPPOSING IT.

THE Globe is still not satisfied with the National Policy, but that is, perhaps, not surprising, as it has not yet been known to be satisfied with anything which a Conservative administration has done, no matter how much it has benefitted the country. The New York Herald having reported Sir John Macdonald as saying that Canada was prosperous and that the N.P. had benefitted the country, the Globe attacks him, and its attempted answer to the statements reported to have been made by the Premier, disproves its position.

It quotes figures to prove that the National Policy has not benefitted the manufacturing industries. At the same time it admits that new industries have been established. This admission, coming from the Globe, is of itself important, and should be remembered when it again attempts to make its readers believe that the present fiscal policy has not resulted in the introduction of capital into the country.

We would first call the attention to the crafty selection of dates made by the Globe. It first compares 1871 with 1881. Now we submit that there was a protective tariff in 1871; not so thoroughly protective as that in force in 1881, but still really protective for it did protect. The lower duties then exacted were sufficient in consequence of the civil war and its after consequences to prevent our factories being closed by slaughtered goods from south of the line, as was the case under the Reform regime. These flies on the wheel did not care to meet this new state of things, so injurious to Canadian industries, as would have been done if the Conservatives had been in power, and as was done as soon as the Conservatives obtained office. Why does not the Globe compare the Conservative era of prosperity with the Reform era of depression, instead of going back to the time of a previous Conservative Administration?

But taking the figures as the Globe gives them, what do they show? That there were a larger number of manufacturing establishments, a larger number of mechanics employed, a larger amount paid in wages, more raw material used, and an increased value of manufactured products in 1881 as compared with 1871. Taking the figures which the Globe publishes as being accurately copied from the official returns, we find that the increase in the number of manufacturing establishments was 8,669; in the number of employees, 66,993; in the amount of yearly wages paid, $18,557,503; in the value in the raw material used, $54,997,597; and in the value of the manufactured products, $88,058,285. That our manufactures prospered at the time of the severe business depression during the Reform regime, or that the number of employees was increased at that time, will not, we think, be contended by anyone, and the fact that there has been such an increase, and that the Globe is enabled to offer such proof of their prosperity, in spite of the set back they received at that time, shows conclusively that the National Policy has benefitted the manufacturers and caused larger numbers of hands to be employed and more wages to be paid. It has been of great benefit to the country.

As if to prove more conclusively that the manufacturers had prospered, the Globe states that in 1871 we had one establishment for every 84 of our population, and in 1881 we had one for every 86, showing that, while the number of establishments had increased, the population had increased more rapidly. But these establishments assisted in this increase of population, for while in 1871 we had one person employed in manufactures for every 18.5 of our population, in 1881 there was one for every 17, proving that either the new manufactures were of a larger capacity than those formerly in existence, or that the older establishments had been enlarged.

The Globe then states that the average yearly increase in the population of Ontario was greater during the years 1873 to 1878 than it was during the five subsequent years, but it makes no mention of the large numbers that went to Manitoba and the North-West, and who are still in our Dominion.

Again the Globe, in talking of business failures, compares one year with another under Conservative rule. Why does it again avoid the comparison between the position under Reform and Conservative Administrations? The reason is that again the comparison would be disastrous to its contention. In this case, as well as with regard to manufacturing establishments, it purposely makes a deceptive and dishonest comparison.

In the face of these facts the Globe concludes its article with a wail, and a repetition of the assertions that it has been making for over a year that everything is going wrong. But its assertions, no matter how vehemently uttered, or persistently repeated, will not mislead many while it is forced to produce such evidence of the progress of Canada as a manufacturing country, and of the benefits of the National Policy.

THE Toronto World publishes a tale entitled "How I was Tempted," by Dr. Cascaden. It is a work of fiction, like the evidence given in the bribery conspiracy case by the author, or a namesake. The true story of "How Dr. Cascaden Tempted," has been told partially by himself and more completely by others.

NORWOOD.

From Our Own Correspondent

HYMENEAL.—Mr. Geo. Buck, of the firm of Messrs. Buck Bros., was, on Wednesday, Oct. 8th, united in matrimony with Miss Minnie Wilde. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. I. Puffer at the residence of John Brown, Esq., Reeve of Belmont, step-father of the bride. The many friends of the young couple unite in wishing them a long life of interrupted happiness.

TILL ROBBERY.—On Saturday last a young man was caught in the act of stealing a sum of money from the till in the store of Messrs. Buck Bros. Mr. Buck, who was waiting on a customer, had occasion to go into the storehouse in the rear of the store, and the young man, who was in the store at the time, reached over the counter, opened the till and took out $6. Mr. R. Wilson, who was passing on the street, saw the theft committed and stopped the young man as he was leaving with the money and he was compelled to give it up. It is to be hoped that this will be the last time that he will attempt to commit such an act.

BAZAAR.—A bazaar and sale of useful and fancy articles was held in the Town Hall on Tuesday, during the day and evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Church of England in this village. The hall was well filled with articles of various kinds, all made with taste and beautifully finished, and the bazaar was well attended. The sales amounted to a neat sum. During the day dinner was served in the basement by the ladies and tea in the evening. These tables were well patronized, as they deserved to be, for the dinner and tea were got up in good style. The ladies certainly deserve credit for the manner in which they conducted the whole bazaar. A large new parsonage, a brick building, is being erected in connection with this church, and the success of the church is largely due to the zeal of the Rev. Mr. Gibson. The Ladies' Aid Society has done good work and collected a large amount.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BARN BURNED.—Mr. John Armstrong's barn, on lot 6, con. 10, North Monaghan, was burned on Tuesday evening. The fire was discovered at about 7.30 o'clock, but it had made such headway before being seen that it could not be checked. The entire crop of 50 acres of land, consisting of wheat and barley, was stored in the barn and was destroyed, together with a reaper, seeder, horse rake, and other smaller articles. 6,000 feet of seasoned lumber was also burned. The loss will amount to about $1,300; no insurance. The origin of the fire is not known. The barn stood by itself some distance from any house, and no one had been in it for some time, and it is therefore supposed to have been fired by a tramp.

THE TIMBER ON MANITOULIN ISLAND.

A correspondent of the Toronto Globe has made a thorough tour of Manitoulin island, in the northern portion of Lake Huron, and was much impressed by its extent—90 miles long and 25 miles wide on a average—its bays, lakes, rivers of pure water, its rich agricultural lands, stock and dairying capabilities, healthy climate, and, especially, its timber. In reference to the latter he says:

"The timber on Manitoulin island is perhaps somewhat better than that of Muskoka or Parry sound. The trees are much the same size as in these districts. Unfortunately fire has ravaged the forests and destroyed much valuable timber; and this, together with the great quantities which have been taken away, render it much less abundant than it was a few years ago. Still there is a good deal of valuable timber remaining, and many saw, shingle and lath mills do flourishing business in reducing it to forms adapted to the use of mankind. Pine, cedar, spruce, maple, black birch, yellow birch, white birch, white poplar, rough bark poplar and whitewood are to be found in considerable quantities, while white oak, hemlock, balsam, tamarac and basswood, though not so plentiful, are by no means scarce. Saw mills are situated at the following places, and many of them are doing a large business, while the remainder are doing very well: Michael's bay, on south shore of island, large mill, driven by waterpower; township of Sansfield, McDonald's mill, driven by water power; Providence bay, on south shore, water power; Manitowaning, on the north shore of the island, steam power; Shequiandah, on the north shore, water power; Little Current, steam power; Kogawong, on north shore, water power; Gore bay, on north shore, two steam mills; township of Burpee, near south shore, steam power; Meldrum bay, western portion of island, steam power. In connection with most of these mills will be found lath and shingle mills, while Gore bay boasts of a separate shingle mill. The Manitou, Mindemoza, Black and Kagawong rivers afford excellent water power to drive the saw and grist mills to be found on their banks. The timber on Manitoulin is a great boon to the settlers; it renders building and fencing an easy task; the hardwood furnishes fuel; the pine gives the settler a fair revenue; the cedar affords employment to the industrious in getting it out for railway ties, telegraph poles, and preparing it to be cut into block for paving purposes; and the firewood yields quite an income to the settler, who lives near enough to a steamboat landing to profitably dispose of his wood to the steamers which are constantly calling there. It will be seen that the settler who casts his lot in this part of our province has many ways of earning a livelihood. If his crops fail he may turn to the many sources of employment to keep himself and his family, if he has one—from suffering and from hunger, and at any time, when his farm will permit, he may direct his attention to those different ways of bringing 'grist to the common mill,' and by industry and perserverance see his efforts rewarded by success, in a nice farm with good crops and the many comforts of home surrounding him. The last fall the steamer Silver Spray ran up to Manitoulin island, a married man with a family worked on the steamer for his passage to Mud bay. Here he obtained work at the saw mill, and kept his wife and family during the winter. He located on a lot, and being industrious, he improved his position day by day, until at present he is the owner of a fine farm back of Gore bay. This is only one instance—I might mention many."

CENTREVILLE FAIR.

na Exhibition of the South Monaghan Agricultural Society.

The twenty-th annual exhibition of the South Monaghan Agricultural Society was held on the 9th October, in their new hall and grounds at Centreville. The number of entries more than astonished those connected with it, being seven hundred and eighty-five, or more than double those of 1883.

The general exhibition all round was excellent and pronounced by all parties to be one of the best township shows held this season. The show of horses, cattle, sheep and pigs was first class, a number of very fine animals being on exhibition.

Poultry were good. Roots, grain, vegetables and dairy products were in abundance, and very superior in size and quality. The mechanical department was fully represented and all articles exhibited were excellent in style and finish. The upstairs of the Christal Palace was entirely filled with ladies work, fine arts, and fruit. The show of fruit was large and of excellent quality, while the ladies work was of such a character that it is beyond the writers powers to do it justice, nothing like it was ever seen at the township show before. And last but not least come the flowers which were equal to any of the kind exhibited at the Toronto Industrial. The following is a list of the prize winners :—

We do not Claim

That Shaker Blood Syrup will cure everything, but the fact that on the purity and vitality of the blood depends the vigor and health of the whole system, and that disease of various kinds is often only the sign that nature is trying to remove the disturbing cause, we are naturally led to the conclusion that a remedy that gives life and vigor to the blood, eradicates scrofula and and other impurities from it, as Shaker Blood Syrup undoubtedly does, must be the means of preventing many diseases that would occur without its use; hence the field of its usefulness is quite an extended one, and we are warranted in recommending it for all derangements of the system which are caused by an unnatural state of the blood.

Gentlemen.—I was a great sufferer from Salt-Rheum on my limbs, for 12 years previous to the summer of 1876, at which time I was cured by Shaker Blood Syrup. The skin would become dry, chap, crack, open, bleed and itch intensely, so that I could not help scratching, which of course made them worse. At the time I commenced taking Shaker Blood Syrup (in the summer of 1876) they were so bad that they discharged, and I was obliged to keep them bandaged with lines cloths. The skin was drawn so tight by the heat of the disease that if I stooped over they would crack open and actually bring tears to my eyes. The first bottle benefited me so much that I continued taking it till I was cured. Hoping many others may learn the value of Shaker Blood Syrup, and receive as much benefit as I have, I am,

Very truly yours,
C. A HOWARD,
West 11th St., New York.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK.

FRIDAY, Oct. 16.—James Crowley was charged by P. C. Pidgeon with having been drunk in a public place. As it was his first offence he was allowed to go.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—West to north-west winds; fine, mild weather.

The Hibernica Company.

There was a good attendance at the Opera House last night when Howorth's Hibernica Company appeared in "Frolics of Tourists in Ireland." The scenes of different places in the Emerald Isle were again presented and were again admired.

Football.

A practice match of football will be played on the Ashburnham grounds on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. As matches are being arranged with the home club and the cadets of the Toronto University, and with the Port Hopers, a large number of the admirers of the game should turn out.

A New Plan.

Mr. E. J. Hartley has shown us a new plan of Bradburn's Opera House which he has constructed. It is designed on a board of black walnut, 3 x 2 feet, and the reserved seats are all appropriately numbered. The representations of the seats are painted ivory white, and the seats are secured by brass screw nails. On the whole it is a very creditable piece of workmanship.

The Word "Complete."

The word complete expresses the state in which Mr. J. McAteer's stock of boots, shoes and slippers now stand. Consignment's of goods for the past three weeks have been steadily arriving, and the store now presents the appearance which a full stock can only give. A capable staff of clerks are now embloyed to show the goods, and those who call at the "Emporium" may be sure to find what they want at reasonable prices. Go and be convinced.

Chit Chat.

—Windy weather.

—The "Only a Farmer's Daughter" Company are at the Oriental Hotel.

—The fall sitting of the High Court of Justice closed yesterday evening.

—A derrick is being erected to facilitate the construction of the stonework of the Hunter street bridge.

—Mr. A. Drysdale, Northern Passenger Agent for the Chicago and Alton Railway, is at the Grand Central Hotel.

—A boy named Robert Hay was the first to solve the Hibernica puzzle. He was awarded with the prize, a complimentary ticket for last night's show.

Presentation.

The "special and interesting event" which was announced to take place at the Saved Army meeting on Wednesday night was a very pleasant one. It was the presentation, on behalf of the officers and soldiers of this station, of a handsome copy of the Bible to General Lindsay. The book included the Old and New Testaments, an index, concordance, tables, maps, &c., and on it the following was printed in gold letters:—"Presented by the Peterborough station to General H. P. Lindsay, Saved Army. Read learn and inwardly digest. Oct., 1884." At the commencement of the "experience meeting," Mr. G. B. Sproule stepped forward and read the following address:—

PETERBOROUGH, Oct. 15, 1884.

To General Lindsay, of the Saved Army:

DEAR BROTHER IN CHRIST,—The officers and soldiers of the Saved Army of the Peterborough station have long marked with pleasure the deep, ardent and ever active interest you have manifested, and still take, in the cause of Christ, and the winning of souls from the ranks of the Evil One.

In your establishment of a station in Peterborough we rejoice to know that you have been the instrument in the hands of God of leading many sin-benighted souls from nature's darkness into His marvellous light, and the war cry you have raised is still sounding—the wave of salvation still rolling on.

Now, dear brother, in token of the love we bear you as a brother and a co-worker for Christ, of respect for you as our General, and as a recognition of your zeal for the salvation of souls, we ask your acceptance of this copy of the Holy Bible, with the prayer that it may be a "lamp to your feet and a light to your path." We do not for a moment think of it in the light of a reward, well knowing that your reward will be of God, unspeakably ample, when you shall have fought the good fight and finished your course—even a crown of glory at God's right hand.

Earnestly praying that God's choisest blessings may be showered on you and your whole work,

We remain, yours affectionately in Christ.

Signed in behalf of the station,

GEO. B. SPROULE.

General LINDSAY replied in a neat speech, exhibiting much feeling. He returned thanks and addressed the soldiers in an impressive manner.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.

The Cowett-O'Connor Case Disposed of—$600 for the Plaintiff.

COWETT vs. O'CONNOR.—This was an action brought by Mary Cowett, wife of Joseph Cowett, late caretaker of the Roman Catholic Cemetery, to recover damages for alleged assault, which was committed on the plaintiff, Mrs. Cowett, on the 6th September. The following are the particulars in the statement of claim:—The defendant on or about the 6th day of September, 1884, at the residence of the plaintiff, in the Town of Peterborough, assaulted the plaintiff, Mary Cowett, with intent to outrage her, whereby she was seriously hurt and very much frightened, and suffered greatly in body and in mind. The plaintiff claimed $1,000 damages.

The particulars in the statement of defence were as follows:—The defendant denies the allegation contained in the plaintiff's statement of claim.

Mrs. Cowett, His Lordship Bishop Jamot, Joseph Cowett, and Daniel Parcell were called as witnesses for the plaintiff, and John O'Connor and Eugene McCarty for the defendant. The case occupied the time of the Court from nine o'clock till half-past three, during which time the court room was crowded with spectators. The jury came out at about 5.30 o'clock and brought in the following verdict:—"We find that the defendant is guilty of the assault complained of, and we assess the damages for the plaintiff at $600." Whereupon the Judge directed judgment to be entered for the plaintiff for the above mentioned sum, and costs of suit. —Messrs. C. W. Sawers and G. T. Blackstock for the plaintiff, and Messrs. Dumble & Henry for the defendant.

HUMPHRIES vs. BREAKENRIDGE.—An action brought by Job Humphries, the plaintiff, against Mathew Breakenridge, the defendant, for alleged slander. The defendant signified his willingness to offer an apology for what ever harm he had done the plaintiff, and the case was withdrawn, each litigant paying his own costs.—Messrs. Dumble & Henry for the plaintiff, and Mr. E. H. D. Hall for the defendant.

JOSEPH HALL MFG. CO. vs. PETERBOROUGH PULP CO.—An action brought for the recovery of four Leffell turbine water wheels. Messrs. W. Osbourne & Co., the former proprietors of the pulp mill, purchased the wheels in June, 1882, from the Joseph Hall Mfg. Co. on the hire receipt principle. In their lease from the Dickson estate for the water power a provision was put in that if the company should become insolvent the pulp mill and fixtures should pass into the hands of the Dickson estate. Such proved to be the case, and the property passed into the hands of the above estate. The Joseph Hall Company now bring an action for the recovery of the water wheels, but the defendants claim that the water wheels are fixtures and that they cannot be removed. The evidence was taken and the argument was heard in favour of the defendants. The argument in favour of the plaintiff will be heard in Osgoode Hall, Toronto. —Messrs. McGee and Jones for the plaintiffs, and Messrs. B. B. Osler, Q. C., and Pousette & Roger for the defendants.

The court adjourned.

Speculation.

Many authorities agree in condemning speculation in all forms. They contend that nothing should be decided by chance Many persons have been financially and morally ruined by speculation in various forms, from dabbling in stocks on Wall street, New York, and taking part in grain deals on the Produce Exchange in Chicago, to betting on horse races and other forms of sport. Some go so far as to condemn the practice of making small bets on amateur sporting events, because of its similarity to the greater evil. The opinions and arguments of these moralists tend to make people not depend on chance in anything. Now, if you want a good suit of clothes, an overcoat, underclothing or any kind of gentleman's apparel, and do not wish to take any chances or run any risk, go to Habiliment Hall, where you will get first class goods at reasonable prices. A. MCNEIL.

A Beautiful Chair.

A beautiful cleopatra chair is now on exhibition in the east window of Mr. D. Belleghem's furniture ware rooms. The frame work is of ebonized cherry with gold veins. A strip of narrow velvet runs in the centre of the chair from the bottom to the top, on which is embroidernd leaves and vines of different colours. Roses, rosebuds and other flowers are embossed with finish and taste among the leaves. The sisters of the Congregation of Notre Dame executed the handsome embroidery and raised work. The chair is upolstered in olive plush trimmed with rich gold and olive cord. Mr. D. Belleghem, who did the upolstering, is constantly receiving compliments as to the manner in which the work was done. Those who are competent judges assert that they have seen no upolstering work in the cities to surpass this elegant specimen. Mr. Belleghem pays the highest wages for the best workmen and is noted for his fine work in this department.

Attractions for the Bazaar.

Through the kindness of the Sisters of the Congregation de Notre Dame, we have been allowed to see some of the beautiful specimens of wax work which are to be disposed of at the grand drawing in the Bazaar, which will be held at Bradburn's Opera House on Dec. 29th in aid of the Building Fund of St. Peter's Cathedral. One specimen is a tall Italian Alabaster fruit stand. It stands three feet three inches high and is of three stories. Each story contains wax work fruits of different kinds which it would be difficult to discern from the living and natural. The stand is surmounted by a beautiful bouquet of wax flowers with a white lily in the centre. It is valued at $50. Another specimen is that of a flower basket. The wax work flowers are made from the ordinary sheet wax, shaded to the precise colour of natural flowers. They are made from impressions received from the natural flowers and the bouquet presents an exquisite appearance. The basket of silver wiré stands about five inches high and is filled with green moss. The stems of the flowers, which are inserted therein consisting of nasturtions, pansies, roses and rosebuds, asters, ferns and the whole overhung by a bough of fucheias. It is valued at $30. This wax work, together with other pieces, was the work of the Sisters of the Congregation de Notre Dame and must have involved indefatigable labor. The two pieces of art, together with the Cleopatra chair, on exhibition at Mr. D. Belleghem's ware rooms, will form some of the chief attractions for the Bazaar.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

IT LEADS ALL.

No other blood-purifying medicine is made, or has ever been prepared, which so completely meets the wants of physicians and the general public as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases. If there is a lurking taint of Scrofula about you,

SCROFULA AYER'S SARSAPARILLA will dislodge it and expel it from your system.

For constitutional or scrofulous Catarrh,

CATARRH AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is the true remedy. It has cured numberless cases. It will stop the nauseous catarrhal discharges, and remove the sickening odor of the breath, which are indications of scrofulous origin.

ULCEROUS SORES "Hutto, Tex., Sept. 28, 1882. "At the age of two years one of my children was terribly afflicted with ulcerous running sores on its face and neck. At the same time its eyes were swollen, much inflamed, and very sore.

SORE EYES Physicians told us that a powerful alterative medicine must be employed. They united in recommending AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. A few doses produced a perceptible improvement, which, by an adherence to your directions, was continued to a complete and permanent cure. No evidence has since appeared of the existence of any scrofulous tendencies; and no treatment of any disorder was ever attended by more prompt or effectual results.

Yours truly, B. F. JOHNSON."

A MYSTERIOUS AFFAIR.

A Man Found Dead in His Bed Under Peculiar Circumstances.

A man of about 45 years of age, named Charles Whalley, who, with his wife, occupied rooms in a cottage at the rear of No. 9 Soho street, Toronto, was found dead in his bed at about 8 o'clock on Thursday morning. The circumstances at present appear somewhat strange. It seems that Whalley has until lately, been residing with his son, but his wife, who not long since served a term in the Mercer Reformatory, induced him to resume living with her, and they together engaged the rooms in which he was found dead. Whalley has during the past week been unwell, and it is said to have lately been drinking heavily. A man named James Hatt, who slept with him on Wednesday night, stated that in the morning he got up at about 7 o'clock and went out to purchase whiskey, leaving Whalley, as he supposed, asleep in bed. On his return he endeavoured to wake him, but found that he was quite dead. Deceased was lying on his face, and on being turned over it was found that blood and mucus had been issuing from his mouth, and his general appearance led to the conclusion that his death had been caused by suffocation. A further investigation revealed the fact that one of his ribs had been broken, and there was a slight abrasion of the skin on his face. Coroner Johnston was notified, and by his orders the body was removed to the morgue, where an inquest was commenced. Whalley's wife has not been seen since Thursday afternoon, and various rumours are afloat, upon none of which, however, any dependence can be placed.—Globe.

Foresters' Semi-Annual Meeting.

The semi-annual meeting of Court Peterborough, No. 29, C. O. F., was held in their new hall on Friday evening, 17th inst., and the following officers were elected for the ensuing term:—

R. McWhinnie	P.C.R.
Andrew McNeil	C.R.
Andrew McFarlane	V.C.R.
John Fraser	F. Sec.
John Fanning	R. Sec.
Geo. Kingdon	Treas.
Wm. Gally	Chap.
R. H. Adams	S.W.
T. Hooper, Jr.	J.W.
T. Marks	S.B.
Fred. Perry	J.B.
R. King, M.D.	C.P.

A vote of condolence was passed to the widow of the late Bro. S. Allen. The Hall Committee submitted a very satisfactory report. Several names were proposed for membership, and it is expected before the end of the year that Court Peterborough, No. 29, will be the largest Court in the Dominion. Go ahead, brethren, your cause is a good one.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

Canoe Voyage.

Two Danes, named Vinlls Peterson and Peter Miller, have just arrived in Victoria from Kodiak Island, near the Alaskan mainland, after 105 days in akayak, or Aleutian canoe, which weighs only 75 pounds, is 19 feet long and two feet wide. The canoe is formed of the skins of sea lions, stretched on a wooden framework, with apetures for the bodies of the paddlers, and can be made watertight by bladder-like skins fastened round the occupants. Both men leave in a few days for Portland and San Francisco, and at both places will lecture upon the trip and place the canoe on exhibition.

A Terrible Accident.

ORILLIA, Oct. 17.—This afternoon a distressing accident occurred at Mr. Geo. Rix's farm, near Bass Lake, about three miles distant from Orillia. Mr. Rix was threshing, and when about finished his two little boys went up into the mow to play among the straw. One of them, a bright little boy of about ten years, tumbled over the beam and into the mouth of the machine. He was immediately swept in and torn to pieces. The body was horribly mangled and minced up into an unrecognizable mass.

RIOTOUS PEDDLERS.

The Magistrate and Constables at Michipicoten Defied.

SAULT STE MARIE, Oct. 17.—The illicit whiskey peddlers along the line of the Superior section of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who make Michipicoten their headquarters, have set the Ontario magistrate and constables there at defiance. The railroad works are under the proclamation of the Public Works Act prohibiting the sale of whiskey. For some time passed the peddlers, some of whom hail from Rat Portage and Port Arthur, and others from the American side of the lake, have been threatening Stipendiary Burden and his men with vengeance, and a few nights ago they almost demolished the temporary lock-up and fired a number of shots at the magistrate's office and the office of Mr. Macdonald, the local agent of the railway. The Ontario Government has been notified, Capt. Burden having gone to Toronto for help. The whisky men have enlisted a number of hangers-on about the railway camps, and some dissatisfied Italian navvies are said to have joined them. John Mackenzie, a railroad employee, was shot in the hand during the row the other night.

The English-speaking navvies stand by the railroad authorities, and if the whiskey men attempt further outrages they will in all probability be cleared out. Mr. Macdonald has notified them to this effect, and everything is reported quiet enough, though the roughs are still in force and supreme in the immediate neighborhood of Michipicoten. It is expected that the Ontario Government will send men from Toronto via the Sault and across the lake by tug to Michipicoten.

HELP FROM TORONTO.

A meeting of the Police Commissioners was held on Tuesday afternoon, at which the Hon. O. Mowat and Capt. Burden, Stipendiary Magistrate, Michipicoten, were present for the purpose of making application for a detachment of police to be sent to the scene of the riots to assist the local authorities in restoring order. The particulars of the riot were detailed, and it was shown that outside assistance was absolutely necessary to restore order in the district and maintain the dignity of the law. The commissioners decided to send Inspector Seymour and ten policemen from the city force, and orders were issued to the men to attend at headquarters on Friday evening for instructions. The constables chosen were P. C.'s Bell, Patten, Cuddy, O'Connell (109), McKee (128), Noble, Patterson, Larkins, Muirhead and Dodds. About twenty men had been told off to appear at headquarters, and from these the chosen band were selected. The rejected constables were quite disappointed at not being allowed to take part in the expedition. It is stated that one hundred men from the Toronto police would have willingly volunteered their services.—Mail.

CORRUPTING A MEMBER.

THE following published documents speak for themselves.

The first is as follows:—

"PICTON, April 11, 1883.

"MEMORANDUM of the positions which Mr. James Hart proposes to take in his capacity of M.P.P. for the county of Prince Edward.

"1. Mr. Hart agrees to support the Mowat Government in their nomination of a candidate to fill the Speaker's chair.

"2. Mr. Hart consents to support the Mowat Government on every question which may arise in the House which shall be declared by the Government as a vote of want of confidence.

"Signed by James Hart, the day and year aforesaid, in the presence of

"(Signed), GEO. C. CURRY."

The second is the following editorial from the Globe of the date of April 18th, 1883.

"We learn that Mr. Striker came to Toronto yesterday with a petition against the return and the funds to make the deposit. Seeing the Attorney-General, however, the latter prevailed upon him, as a friend of the Government, not to file the petition, the Attorney-General having received assurances from various quarters, that he had no doubt could be relied on, that Mr. Hart would give the Government a loyal support. The petition is therefore not to be filed."

Turnbull's Show Rooms are now laden with choice Millinery to suit all ages. Now is the time to make a selection.

Latest Returns from Virginia.

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 17.—As far as heard from, 26 counties in this State give Democratic majorities of 12,133; twenty-two counties give Republican majorities of 9,277. The Democratic majority is 2,856, with four counties to hear from, which may increase the Democratic majority 1,200. The Democratic plurality in 1880 was 16,136, and 3,100 over the Republican and Greenbackers. This year the Republicans and Greenbackers fused. It appears, however, that the Democratic Greenbackers in most of the counties went back to their party and the Republican Greenbackers did the same. The campaign was virtually a square issue between Republicans and Democratics. The total vote will surpass any in the history of the State.

The Governor-General.

HALIFAX, Oct. 17.—The Governor General, Lady Lansdowne, and party, left Halifax by the Windsor and Annapolis train this forenoon for Annapolis, arriving there this evening. At Kentville they were received by a delegation of prominent citizens, and presented with an address of welcome, to which his Excellency replied suitably. He was also received enthusiastically at Annapolis, the citizens of which town will present him with an address tomorrow.

GORDON'S OPERATIONS.

WADY HALFA, October 16.—The steamer "Feruz" has arrived at Dongola with 40 row boats. Osman Narreddin, an inhabitant of Korte, has arrived from Khartoum, having been fourteen days on the way. He was present at Khartoum during the whole siege and saw General Gordon capture a quantity of guns and rifles from the rebels. He says the road from Khartoum to Sennaar is free of rebels. Gen. Gordon's steamers, after bombarding Berber, Ereleyeen and Mamneb, returned safely to Khartoum. Kaskmil Pasha has undertaken to occupy Berber with a force which Gen. Gordon is getting in readiness. The Mahdi came to Ghatt, six days journey from Khartoum, but on hearing of the insurrection at Gabel Deir, was forced to return back. Before starting he summoned the tribesmen and villagers to accompany him, but very few obeyed. They rather remain loyal to the Khedives. As the Mahdi had left Mahmoud Abd-el-Kader in command at El Obeid with only 5,000 troops, the Bakkara tribesmen and the inhabitants of Gebeldeir, joined by 100 Egyptian troops, made an attack on El Obeid and captured a number of slaves and cattle. The attacking party were so much encouraged by their success that they threatened to renew the assault.

PROTECTION IN ENGLAND.

THE news that there is a strong protective movement being organized in the North of England, the propaganda being chiefly carried on by working men, is a very marked and striking symptom of a change of opinion in the Old Country, of which there have been previous manifestations, though not so plainly significant. One of these signs has been the agitation that has been going on for some time in favour of some protection for the British sugar refineries in face of the bonuses given by France and other countries to their refiners. In fact to those who have watched the manifestations of public opinion in Great Britain, it has been evident for some time past there has been a growing distaste for the policy falsely called "Free Trade," when in reality it was only free on one side. Theoretical free traders might still out-Cobden the apostle of free trade, but the mechanics, the manufacturers and practical thinking men generally, have been fast becoming more alive to the fallacy that had been adopted.

The truth is that "free trade," as applied to England, was always a misnomer. The manufacturers favored the so-called free trade agitation, because the remission of the duty on breadstuffs was in reality in the nature of protection for their industries as cheapening food, and therefore production. They could at the same time consent to free trade in manufactured articles, because a long-maintained policy of protection had so built up their industries that they had a virtual monopoly of the markets of the world, and they did not care what were the nominal duties on goods, which paid no duty because they were not imported. Now, however, that other nations are building up their industries by a similar policy of protection till their competition becomes serious, the British manufacturer is becoming less complacent.

And now we find the working men of England complaining that "foreign products are crowding home manufacturing industries," consequently reducing the wages fund on which they subsist, and asking for retaliation by means of protective tariffs. We also find that they are berating the Imperial Government for "its supineness and inaction." Well, this is the old story of a Reform Administration. Mr. Gladstone is more interested at present in redistributing the constituencies, so as to maintain himself if possible in power, than in devising measures for the benefit of the industries, the manufacturers and the workingmen of the British Islands.

THE special despatch to the London Morning Post, which states that the Canadians who are connected with the Nile expedition were insubordinate and giving trouble, should cause no anxiety. Having been received in Canada it was published for what it was worth, but in view of the conflicting reports received from Egypt, and especially in view of the despatch from Wady Halfa a day or two before, stating that the Canadians were astonishing the natives by the way they ascended the river, and that Lord Wolseley was charmed with their work, too much credence should not be given to this later report.

THE London Advertiser does not deny that "the hope of the Reformers centres in a relentless commercial depression," but it says that "if the Tory leaders are not flies on the wheel, no such depression can take place." This is an admission that the Reform leaders, when in office, were "flies on the wheel." On the other hand, the "if" stands in the way of the proof that the Conservative leaders belong to the same class of insects. We know of no Conservative promise that protection would prevent commercial depression.

THE Globe says that the people returned Sir John Macdonald to office in 1878 "because Canada's affairs were gloomy, depressed and paralyzed." Well, that was one reason, because they knew that at such a time the Canadian statesman who is the leader of the Conservatives was needed at the helm, and because they knew that the policy which the Conservatives advocated was necessary. But Canada's affairs were not paralyzed in 1872. The Conservatives were retained in power because it was found that their rule was beneficial.

Wreck of a Schooner.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 16.—The schooner Charles Valentine, from this port for Sydney, C.B., was totally wrecked at the Dry Breaker, near Louisburg, on Tuesday night. No trace of the crew can be found, and it is believed they were all drowned. Their names were John Ormistown, master, aged 75 years; Allan McDonald, mate; Nelson Stacey, John McIntyre, John Henry Gillis, and Philip Cann, seamen. Except Gillis all the above were married men, and leave families in Cape Breton.

Official Return Complete.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 10.—Official returns were received at Republican head-quarters to-night from Ashtabula and Wood counties, those being the last to report, and complete the list, the combined figures of which give Robinson a plurality of 11,421. This shows a Republican gain of 26,653 and a Democratic gain of 2,102. In sixty-six counties the Republicans made all their gains and the Democrats the rest. The Republican gains in the rural districts equal their plurality. Chairman Oglevee concedes the election of a Democrat in the eleventh district. Congress will stand—11 Democrats, and 10 Republicans.

THE MATCHED TROT.

Brown Barber Breaks Badly—Fannie B Wins the Race.

The matched trotting race between E. Brown's Fannie B, driven by E. Brown, and W. Hetherington's Brown Barber, driven by W. McGreggor, took place on the Driving Park on Friday afternoon.

Considerable interest was taken in the race and before the horses were scored for the first heat a goodly number of spectators had passed through the gates. The track was in excellent condition, firm and smooth. The weather was all that could be desired.

Messrs. C. Stapleton, W. H. Backham and C. Leary were judges. Mr. J. Newhall acted as timer.

At half past three Mr. C. Stapleton rung the bell for and the horses soon appeared in charge of their respective drivers. The result of the drawing for places was that Brown Barber took his stand next the pole. After two or three scores, the speeders got evenly away, Brown Barber soon obtained a slight lead which he retained for the first half mile. Fannie B, when nearing the judges stand for the first time, lengthened out and closed the gap. All the way around the track for the second time, they were neck and neck, On the home stretch, however, Fannie B. broke slightly, and Brown Barber came in about a length ahead amid cheers. Time, 2.51.

THE FIRST HEAT

THE SECOND HEAT.

Brown Barber again had the advantage on the start, but Fannie B. closed in, and when they came round for the first time there was not a foot's length between them. They kept together in see-saw fashion all the way round, now one having a slight advantage and now the other, but trotting in very pretty style. On the home stretch Brown Barber got slightly off his feet and Fannie B. came in winner by a few feet. Time, 2.48 minutes.

THE THIRD AND FOURTH HEAT.

On the third heat Brown Barber seemed to lose his equinimity, getting ugly and breaking badly immediately after the start. Fannie strode forward in good honest style and continued in advance to the finish. The fourth heat was but a repitition of the third. Brown Barber broke several times and galloped up the home stretch almost over the line. Fannie B. thus won the race by three heats to one. Time for the third and fourth heats, 2.57¼ and 2.50¾ minutes respectively,

PROTECTION IN ENGLAND.

Foreign Products Crowding Home Industries—Demands of the Workingmen.

A special despatch from London, Eng., to the Mail, dated Oct. 16th, says:—There is a new crusade in the north of England. The chief promoters of the movement are of the extreme protectionist school, whose dogma is that retaliatory measures should be adopted against every foreign government, in which protection is employed in any shape. Deputations of workmen, representing the propaganda, are stumping the mining and iron manufacturing districts, and pointing out the disadvantage to England of the system of bounties given by the governments of Continental Europe to manufacturers in those countries. They claim that foreign products are crowding home manufacturing industries, and berate the English Government for its supineness and inaction. They favour retaliation by means of protective tariffs, and point to the distress among the miners and moulders as proofs of their assertions.

GLOBE, REPORTER, CHURCHES.

The following letter appears in the Toronto World:—

SIR,—My attention was called on Saturday to an account of a visit made by this worthy knight of the quill, and also to an endorsement of his infamous duplicity by the editor himself. I was among those who, during the celebrated bribery trials, had sympathy with the movement, but when I see such duplicity emanating from the party organ, I am led to believe that, in all probability, there may be a good reason to suppose that the contention of the Conservatives has some good foundation, in fact, and that, like the churches, they may have been led into a trap by designing, unscrupulous men, such as the reporter and his chief.

This worthy says he came dressed as a poor mechanic, with no shirt collar and his trouser legs rolled up, and in short his whole get up was of the most dilapidated description—of course like a poor mechanic. Now I want to know if this is not "the unkindest cut of all." Just as if this respectable portion of the community is not as able to appear in church or elsewhere as a man earning the precarious livelihood of a reporter, of the class I am now dealing with! Mechanics of the city, do you not feel the gross insult gratuitously given to you by this man, and endorsed by an organ which will, in all likelihood, in the course of a few weeks, be cajoling you into voting for chief magistrate of the city, a man, (himself a mechanic) but a nominee of the Globe. All I can say to you is this, resent the insult, and show that you are made of sterner stuff than to allow such a reflection to go unchallenged. Now as to this would be sensationalist, is it fair, is it honorable, is it honest, thus to impose on the ushers of our churches in this way? Surely no one but one of the most depraved of men, could come into a church in that garb, and if he did he deserved nothing better than the treatment he got, and I am sure the universal verdict will be "served him right." I subscribe myself

A MECHANIC,
Who can afford to wear a shirt collar and keep his trousers legs down.

Old Remains.

For the past few weeks the cutting down of the banks on the line of the Dartmouth Railway, Nova Scotia, have revealed many strange things. At one place a coffin was found with a cannon ball on top of it. Nothing remained inside but the skull and some mouldering bones, a heavy gold ring and some coins—among them an Irish penny, with the harp on one side and the date 1781; on the other the head and inscription Georgius III. Rex. Near Hon. Dr. Parker's property was found two skeletons—one skull measured, it is said, twenty-six inches; and the thick-bone showed that there were giants in those days. One of of these skulls had the teeth nearly intact, one filled with gold. Bones are being turned out in all directions to the eastward of the town, which was known as the plague graveyard, when the Indians died in such large numbers, owing to the scurvy having been brought among them by the French, and the deaths of the French discovers, who died there in hundreds, some years previous to the settlement of Halifax.—Recorder.

Falls of the Kicking Horse.

Few tourists to the mountains have as yet seen the falls on the Kicking Horse River, which divide the Upper from the Lower Kicking Horse. They are twenty-four miles this side of the Columbia and about two miles from the railroad. The Kicking Horse at this point is quite a large stream, being augmented by the Beaverfoot some one hundred yards above the falls. The whole body of water rushes down a perpendicular precipice seventy feet high. The spray which rises from the water as it rushes over ascends to the height of two hundred feet, and when the sun is shining causes a number of rainbows, which form a very pretty contrast to the deep green of the surrounding mountains. The rocks on either side of the falls rise about two hundred feet above the river, while the river bed presents a variety of rocks that would rival the celebrated Picture Rocks of Lake Superior. In all probability a good road will be cut from the railroad to the falls for the benefit of next summer's tourists, who will naturally desire to pay a visit to this, the most lovely spot to be found along the whole line of the road.—Calgary Herald.

Indian Girls.

As an example of their stoicism, it is said that during a fight with our troops in the West an Indian woman concealed her little girl in a barrel, telling her to remain perfectly quiet, whatever happened. After the battle the child was found with her arm shattered by a minie ball, but she had uttered no sound. Names of the children, especially of the girls, sound oddly, for it is common for them to choose Christian names of their own, while retaining their fathers' names for the sake of family distinction. This gives rise to such queer combinations as Isabella Two-Dogs, Katy White-Bird, Maggie American-Horse, Anna Laura Shooting-Cat, Alice Lone-Bear, Hattie Lone-Wolf, Stella Chasing-Hawk, and Ruth Big-Head. — St. Nicholas.

CHOLERA

—IS—

COMING!

The countries where Cholera prevails, as in India, China and Africa, Pain-Killer is considered the surest and safest of all remedies, and the natives place the most perfect confidence in it.

Read the following extract from the letter of a missionary in China:

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours.

J. M. JOHNSON,
Missionary to Swatow, China

"WHY SHOULDN'T I!"

HELEN M. WINSLOW IN EVERY OTHER SATURDAY.

My canary sings the whole day long,
Behind his gilded bars,
Shut in from all that birds enjoy
Under the sun and stars;
The freedom, grace and action fine
Of wild birds he foregoes,
But spite of that, with happiness
His little heart overflows,
The world is wide,
And birds outside
In happy cheer always abide—
Why shouldn't I?"

I, too, must dwell behind the bars
Of toil and sacrifice;
From every heart and weary brain
My prayer of songs arise;
But all around sad hearts abound
And troubles worse than mine,
If aught of comfort I can bring
To them, shall I repine?
God's world is wide;
If I can hide
The crowding tears and sing beside—
Why shouldn't I?

READING FOR SUNDAY.

THE GAMEKEEPER AND HIS LAMP.

As we entered a Coffee House door, a man said: "It is nearly time for the prayer meeting." This was generally held in a small adjoining room. Every one knew it; and while no one was pressed to come, all knew that they were welcome.

Passing a stranger at one of the tables, I said to him:

"The prayer meeting is going to begin. Would you like to come in to it?"

"Yes," he said promptly; while the man who was with him said:

"I shall stay here."

He was very tall; dressed in evident gamekeeper's costume. He came in, took his place, and amidst the fire of texts and hymns and short prayers that followed, he remained unnoticed. Then the verse was quoted:

"Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your father which is in heaven," (Matthew, v. 16.)

They will see the light, and glorify not you, but your Father.

Emphasis was laid upon the liberty of the light. "Let" it shine! not make it shine! "There it is, shining all around us. Allow it to shine through you, into the hearts of others That is all God asks. God will do the work. But, whatever you do, don't hinder it. Don't keep it back. Don't extinguish it. Don't keep it from shining, or you endanger the steps of others, you injure your own soul. No man ought to go about with an extinguisher over his head. If we are not Christians we ought at once to admit the light. If we are Christians we ought to let the light shine."

These few sentences were supposed to be the closing ones of the meeting. However, as they were ended, our tall young gamekeeper rose to his feet. Unhooking from his belt a small bull's-eye lantern, with its metal face on, he held it up before the other men, saying:

"There! that's what I've been doing. Walking in the dark myself, and hiding the light from others all the time. But now—" and so saying, he removed the cover, letting an instantaneous flash dazzle the eyes of every one in the room. But it was not only a flash. He held it there, shining brilliantly, when he continued, "I am a gamekeeper, and while I go out it is my duty to carry this lamp with me. It's a protection too, for I have some very rough characters to deal with sometimes. It's a very useful little lamp. But you see, I didn't use it, it wouldn't be of no use."

This oracular saying brought a smile to the illuminated faces around him. However, nothing disconcerted at this reception of his words, he proceeded:

"And I've been a Christian—I believe I have—some time. But I've kept it all dark. I haven't let anyone know it. I've been so afraid of what people would say, and that I shouldn't keep firm, and all the rest of it, that I've let a good many tumble, I expect. But I won't do it no more, God helping me. The light shall shine, by His grace. Let us pray!"

And we all knelt down, our supplications led by the broken utterances of the gamekeeper. It was a very humble confession, and a very earnest pleading for fresh faithfulness and renewed power. All our hearts were warmed and cheered. When we rose from our knees, the pushing forward of many toiled-stained hands towards this trembling one proved a deep and lasting sympathy, the knitting of a bond not quickly broken.—From "His Handiwork," by Lady Hope.

Proving Greatness.

In your own estimation, at least, you are of some importance in the world. Be it so: only do not attempt to prove your greatness by treating any of your fellows as nobodys. Let the world frown on them or ignore them, if it will. It is a selfish, proud old world; not always just, seldom merciful; spoiled and peevish and irritable. Shall that be a model for you,—you in whom so many sweet influences centre, in whose life all Christian graces and loving charities should meet? If you would know your duty to your humbler brother, learn of Him who became as nothing for our sakes. Behold Him welcoming, helping, saving the lowly and despised ones, whose paths in life crossed His; listen to Him calling humble fisher-folk from drawing their nets beside the shore to be His vicegerents in the earth; hear Him commanding those same Galilean fishermen to ply their calling, seeking the souls of men, through all the turbid waters of all the world's wide seas down to the end of time; watch Him as He founds a Church in which the nobodies and the somebodies may meet on an equality, both poor in spirit and humbled with their sense of sin, both rich in their Saviour's unbounded, undivided grace. In olden days, when a king's message must be carried with secresy and despatch, he sometimes trusted not to royal couriers, whose great state would betray their rank, and perchance defeat the object of their errand. Rather he chose some dear friend in his confidence, and dressed him up plainly, and sent him forth unattended. Well might the petty spirits, who insulted the king's messenger because he seemed to be an humble man such as they were wont to treat with insolence, tremble when they learn his true rank and power. So you, when you treat your fellow-man with scorn or slight, pause and think. Perhaps he is not the humble soul he seems; he may be the great King's messenger travelling homeward. Perchance—such things may be—while you are delaying at the heavenly palace gate showing your paltry stock of goodnesses, pleading for admittance, he may pass unchallenged through. From the low place you are most glad to occupy, you will, it may be, see him standing high beside the throne. For in heaven many of the last on earth shall be first, and of the first not a few shall be last. —Exchange.

Ingersoll Answered.

The assertion of Col. Robert Ingersoll that Christianity is dying, is answered as follows by Rev. Dr. Kittredge, of Chicago:—

In the year 1000 there were fifty millions of Christians in the world, including communicants of the Greek and Roman Catholic churches; all believed in the fundamental truth of a crucified risen Saviour. In the year 1500 the fifty millions had increased to 100 millions. In 1700 to 155 millions. In 1800 to 200 millions, and in that year began the great awakening of the church to the conversion of the whole world. And in these eighty years the 200 millions have grown to 415 millions. Does this look like a dying Christianity?

In the year 1800 there were in this country of actual communicants in evangelical churches 364,872. In 1850, half a century later, there were 3,529,988. Twenty years later, in 1870, there were 6,673,396, and ten years later, in 1880, there were 10,065,963. And to figures grand like these the infidel flings back the unmanly, insulting answer, "They are all insincere and do not believe what they profess. I am sincere, but they are all hypocrites." Well, there is one test of any one's sincerity, that is his pocket book. Insincerity does not open the purse strings and pour out its wealth for a cause in which it has no faith. Let me give you the sums contributed by Christians of this country for the two objects of home and foreign missions. From 1830 to 1839 the contributions were $5,228,000; from 1840 to 1849, $8,141,000; from 1850 to 1859, $17,507,000; from 1860 to 1869, $34,089,000, and from 1870 to 1879, $56,133,000—and these immense sums given freely to the spread of Christianity by those who, at heart, did not believe in it!

HOW TO MAKE GOOD PICKLES.

It is the duty of every housekeeper to make, or see made, the pickles to be used in her family To this end (if she does not know how), she should learn how to make an eatable pickle—one she knows contains nothing injurious. There is a principle in everything; that of canning fruit is to expel the air by means of heat and expansion, and then keep the air out by means of rubber and glass, tin and solder. The principle of pickling is to reduce the fruit or vegetable by means of salt or boiling, and then supply the waste or displacement by vinegar. Experience has taught us, that fruit and vegetables of all kinds will keep perfectly in vinegar, if certain principles are understood and intelligently followed. You must have good strong vinegar; take whatever trouble is necessary to secure it. Be willing to follow a receipt in which you have confidence. Many fail because they will not be exact. They guess at the measurements. Being short of sugar they use less, but having plenty of spice, a double allowance is thrown in. Instead of taking the kettle from the fire at the boiling point, the vinegar is allowed to boil until the strength is quite gone out of it. This inexactness is all wrong.

Cucumber Pickle.—We will suppose you have five hundred small cucumbers. Wash them at once, rejecting any that are soft in spots. Place them in a jar, and pour over enough well salted water to cover them. The color is better if the brine is cool, about a pint of salt to a gallon of water is the rule, well dissolved and mixed. Let them stand twenty-four hours, but no longer; better only twelve hours than too long. If bubbles arise on the water it is time to take them out, as the flavor will spoil. Let them drain or wipe them dry. Take as much vinegar as you used of water to cover them. Spice it well with mustard, capsicum, whole ginger, allspice, and a little mace, but use no cloves or cinnamon, as these latter discolor and spoil the flavor to most tastes. To every gallon allow a piece of allum, the size of a hickory nut or a trifle larger. Let the vinegar and spice come to a boil, and pour it over the cucumbers in a narrow mouthed crock. Keep in a cellar or a cool room covered with a crock lid. A little sugar, say a quarter pound, will help to make the pickles keep, and in time it strengthens the vinegar. The mixed spices of the stores are usually good.

Onion Pickle.—Use small onions; peel them, and place in brine for twenty-four hours; afterwards drain very dry, and pickle as for cucumbers.

Cauliflower.—The principle is the same; cover with salt water, restore to crispness with spiced vinegar and a trifle of alum.

Red Cabbage.—Cut in neat, even slices, sprinkle salt on the layers and let stand over night, rinse off the salt, drain dry, and pour over spiced vinegar and cover. Remember a little alum, not too much, is necessary to make it crisp.

Green Tomato Pickles.—Take green tomatoes, slice evenly and finely with or without sliced onion. To one gallon allow two quarts of vinegar, well spiced with cloves, cinnamon, and ground mustard, with a half pound of sugar added.

Pickled Peaches.—We now come to another order of pickle, requiring entirely different treatment. The principle is the same, however, though instead of reducing with salt, heat is used. To seven pounds of peaches allow one quart of vinegar, and three or four pounds of sugar, white or brown, spiced with cinnamon and cloves, whole, if convenient, if not, the ground will do, though not as good. Bring the vinegar to a boil, adding a few peaches, when reduced a little take out nd add more. When done pour the juice over the whole.

Pickled Plums.—These are made very much the same as peaches, though you may vary, if you wish, by boiling the vinegar three successive days, and pouring over the fruit. Crab apples, cherries, pears, or any tree fruit may be pickled in this way. Remember, that for vegetables use salt, vinegar, alum, and any spice, excepting cloves and cinnamon, and for fruit use a quart of vinegar to three or four pounds of sugar, with cloves and cinnamon to spice to suit taste.

A GOOD RECORD—Among the many thousand bottles of Hagyard's Yellow Oil sold annually in Canada not one has ever failed to give satisfaction. It cures rheumatism, colds and all painful complaints and injuries.

Siamese preserves are not phenomenal but a picul there weighs one hundred and thirty-three pounds.

EVERYBODY having a cough is invited to call on J. D. Tully and get a bottle of Hub Cough Cure for 25c. It acts very quickly on children or adults.

INHUMAN CRUELTY.—It is a barbaric cruelty to torture the weak stomachs of chronic invalids with harsh purgatives and sickening drugs, when Burdock Blood Bitters will regulate the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys in so agreeable and effectual a manner.

USEFUL TO KNOW.—Everyone should know that Hagyard's Yellow Oil will give prompt relief; applied externally will stop any pain; and taken internally cures colds, asthma, croup, sore throat and most inflammatory complaints.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—Fortelling the weather is a useful science, but relieving the effects of its sudden changes is a better one Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam cures coughs and colds, incident to sudden changes.

OH! how tired and weak I feel, I don't believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning! O yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Doctor Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50c.

So many write us of the merits of Zopesa from the West, Canada, the East and at home; they write of being cured of liver troubles, dyspepsia, urniary troubles, chronic headaches, etc., but we cannot publish them—any drug store keeps Zopesa. Ask J. D. Tully.

A GOOD TEST.—For over 16 years G. M. Everest, of Forest, has sold Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, and its sales are steadily increasing. It cures coughs, colds and all lung complaints; is pleasant to take and always reliable.

A REMARKABLE DISCOVERY.—A council of doctors declared Mrs. Adelaide O'Brien, of 372 Exchange St., Buffalo, incurable. Her liver was badly disordered; she vomited green mucous; could retain no food; skin yellow and full of humors. She was rapidly sinking; but Burdock Blood Bitters cured her.

Sufferers from the effect of quinine, used as a remedy for chills and fever, will appreciate Ayer's Ague Cure, a powerful tonic bitter, composed wholly of vegetable substances, without a particle of any noxious drug. Its action is peculiar, prompt and powerful, breaking up the chill, curing the fever, and expelling the poison from the system, yet leaving no harmful or unpleasant effect upon the patient.

As a general thing ladies who make any pretentions to refinement desire to have soft white hands. We believe that nothing will tend more to produce this effect than the constant use of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water mixed with the water in the basin. It removes redness and roughness. The ladies of Cuba and South America were the first to discover the extraordinary virtues of this floral water as a cosmetic, and have long since discarded the use of all others.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Personal.

Lady Macdonald passed east to-day over the Canadian Pacific Railway on her way from Toronto to Ottawa.

We are pleased to learn that Mr. R. J. Sailsbury is speedily recovering from his recent illness. He is now able to walk about and ere long he will be at his accustomed post.

Mr. D. H Moore, of Peterborough, assisted in the establishment of Moira Encampment, No. 59, I. O. O. F., at Belleville on Thursday,

St. John's Church.

We are glad to learn that the Bishop of Toronto will take part in the anniversary services of St. John's Church on SS. Simon and Jude's Day, Tuesday, Oct. 28th. His Lordship will probably arrive on the previous Saturday evening, so as to be able to preach in St. John's and St. Luke's Churches on Sunday, and to assist at the Missionary meeting at St. John's Church on Monday.

Larger and Brighter.

The Hamilton Spectator says:—"That bright little paper the Peterborough DAILY REVIEW, is brighter than ever, but not so little as it was. It has been considerably enlarged, and the enlargement adds to its value as a newspaper, while it does not detract from the extreme neatness that has always characterized the REVIEW. There will be no long felt want in the newspaper line in Peterborough so long as the REVIEW is there."

The Market.

This morning's market was well attended. The weather was fine and a considerable quantity of produce was disposed of. The following is a list of some of the principal commodities with prices attached:—Butter, 18c. per pound; eggs, 20c. per doz.; chickens, 35c. per pair; turkeys, 60c; geese, 45c.; ducks, 50c. per pair; beef, 6c. per pound; pork, 8c. per pound; mutton, 7c. per pound; potatoes, 45c. per bag; apples 50c. per pound.

A Lacerated Face.

This morning at shortly after ten o'clock, a young man named Thos. Tully was engaged in building a stationary awning in the rear of China Hall. The awning framework is about ten feet high and the young man was working on the top. He stepped on a cross bar which gave way and he fell on his head to the sidewalk below. His forehead and nose were severely lacerated and his upper lip badly cut. The wounds are serious, but not dangerous. He was driven to Dr. Kincaid's surgery.

Miss Foster as Juliet.

This charming lady, whom our theatre goers will remember as Jessica last fall, will make here second appearance here on Saturday night as Juliet, to Mr. Stafford's Romeo. The following is from the Detroit Free Press of December 22nd, 1883:—

"As Juliet, Miss Evalyn Forster even outdid her excellent efforts on Thursday evening. It is much to say that hers is the best rendition of that character seen in Detroit in many a season, but it it is only fair to the lady to make such a statement, and with emphasis. She has youth and physical attributes entirely in her favor, her voice is pleasant and strong, her readings are admirable, while her action is forceful, because of that quality which suggests spontaneity, toned by perfect grace."

Real Estate.

The William Eastland estate, which was to have been disposed of at the Grand Central Hotel on Oct. 22nd, has been sold to Mr. Geo. A. Cox by private sale. The estate consists of the land on the west side of George street on which stands the stores occupied by Messrs. Adam Hall, tinsmith, and J. D. Tully, druggist; Lot No. 10, containing ½ an acre, lying south of Hunter street and west of George street, on which stands seven tenement houses; Lot No. 5, west of George street and south of Simcoe street, containing ¼ acre. On this lot there is erected a brick cottage. The property brought a good figure.

The Dufferin Literary Club.

A meeting of the above club was held in one of the lecture rooms of the Mechanics' Institute on Friday evening. The meeting was a representative one and considerable business was transacted. A constitution, drafted by a committee appointed for that purpose, was considered and adopted. A number of honorary and ordinary members were elected, and the meeting closed with a debate. The subject for discussion was, "Women should have equal suffrage with men." Messrs. H. Long and S. R. Armstrong for the affirmative, and Messrs. A. Stevenson and W. A. Stratton for the negative. The President decided in favor of the affirmative. A subject was chosen for the next meeting.

Ladies looking for a Ready Made Mantle will find Turnbull's Stock contains all the leading styles, and prices are right.

POLICE COURT.

VAGRANCY.

SATURDAY, Oct. 18.—Catharine O'Neil was charged by P. C. Pidgeon with having no visible means of support and with leading an irregular life. The prisoner pleaded not guilty. P. C. Pidgeon was sworn and proved the charge. The Magistrate said that he had no doubt but that she was leading an abandoned life. He therefore sentenced her to gaol for three months, as it was better that she should be there than on the streets.

Widows' and Orphans' Fund.

The annual collection for the Widows' and Orphans' Fund will be taken up in St. John's Church to-morrow, both morning and evening.

To-day Turnbull is selling his Flannels at such prices that housekeepers are buying them for Dresses.

Smith's Market.

Fruit, Game, Poultry, Dried and Smoked Meets, fresh Tomatoes, Finnan Haddies, Bologna and Pork Sausages, made by James Peck & Son; Canned Meats, Fruits, Game, Green Vegetables, &c., &c.

Bankrupt Stock.

Mr. W. J. Hall has bought out the bankrupt stock of groceries, etc., formerly owned by Mr. C. Quinlan, and will sell off cheaply for the next week. Those wishing to get bargains in the afore mentioned goods, should at once give in their orders.

The New Firm.

As will be seen by an advertisement in another column, Sailsbury & Co. have disposed of their book and stationery business to Messrs. E. J. and R. J. Sailsbury. These two young men, although only a short time in Peterborough, are well known throughout the town as energetic limbs of the business, and no doubt they will merit and receive their full share of public patronage. The firm will be known as Sailsbury Bros.

Peterborough Cigars.

The domestic cigars, as well as those manufactured from the imported leaf, made by Messrs. Quirk, Millar & Co., are meeting with every success. So well are the cigars liked that a member of the firm a few days ago took a walk around town and received orders to the amount of 20,000 cigars. The demand for the fragrant articles made by our local manufacturers is growing, and ere long they will be obliged to enlarge their premises. We are glad to learn of the above satisfactory state of affairs.

China Hall by Electric Light.

Mr. McFarlane Wilson, of the China Hall, has made arrangements with the Electric Light Company to supply his beautiful store with the luminous fluid. This evening the hall will be brilliantly illuminated, and the sight of glittering glassware and silver goods under the beaming rays of light will be well worth seeing. The goods will now be shown to good advantage by night as well as by day. Mr. Wilson has now a large stock, and all those who come to the store will be courteously attended to.

Read This and Ponder.

The cold season is close at hand, and in consequence, the Stove and Tin establishment of Adam Hall is having an unprecedented run. The sales are lively and the tinsmiths are busy putting up stoves. A fine assortment of Radiant Home, Countess, Crown Jewel, and "Splendid" Base Burners in stock. Six different styles of coal scuttles. Crystalized Stove Boards in fancy and plain genteel patterns. Buy one of Stone's Improved Tubular Lanterns, the most convenient and best made. Call and examine our large stock. Everything you need. ADAM HALL, the Giant T. Store, George Street.

Speculation.

Many authorities agree in condemning speculation in all forms. They contend that nothing should be decided by chance Many persons have been financially and morally ruined by speculation in various forms, from dabbling in stocks on Wall street, New York, and taking part in grain deals on the Produce Exchange in Chicago, to betting on horse races and other forms of sport. Some go so far as to condemn the practice of making small bets on amateur sporting events, because of its similarity to the greater evil. The opinions and arguments of these moralists tend to make people not depend on chance in anything. Now, if you want a good suit of clothes, an overcoat, underclothing or any kind of gentleman's apparel, and do not wish to take any chances or run any risk, go to Habiliment Hall, where you will get first class goods at reasonable prices. A. MCNEIL.

Just received per express, some handsome Scalettes, at Turnbull's. Ordered Mantles a specialty in his department.

Theatrical.

There was a large audience in Bradburn's Opera House on Friday evening to witness the performance of Elliott Barnes' favourite play, "Only a Farmer's Daughter," and we are sure that everyone present was well satisfied. The dashing and beautiful adventuress, unscrupulous but with some claims of a better nature, was admirably represented by Miss Lillian Lewis, a very versatile and powerful actress. Miss Esther Lyon, as Justine, the farmer's daughter, at first seemed tame by comparison, but as more striking scenes followed she was fully equal to the occasion. Little Minnie Girvin, the child actress, was clever and unusually natural for an "infant prodigy." Mr. Gilfillan, as the wavering husband of Justine, and Mr. Courtney, as the polished villain, filled their parts well, and the comic characters by Messrs. Hirschberg and Hunter were very laughable. The minor characters of the cast were satisfactory, and the play was well put on the stage. The dresses of the ladies were very handsome and effective.

Chit Chat.

—The day
—Fair and fine.
—One vag. at the Police Court this morning.
—Mr. Wm. Stafford and Miss Evelyn Foster are registered at the Oriental Hotel.
—The members of the Peterborough Lacrosse club have decided to hang up their "sticks" until next season. The National game in Peterborough will therefore lie dormant untill next summer.
—The brick building on Hunter street belonging to Mr. Kingan is rapidly rising.
—Mr. E. C. Hill has erected a new bill-board on Brock street, opposite the Post Office.
—Anyone finding a pacer's "quarter-boot" will kindly hand it to Mr. J. Simpson.
—Mr. J. R. Scott, of Napenee, is at the Oriental Hotel.
—Bradburn's Opera House has been engaged every night this week except Monday night. People are too much excited over the election across the line to patronize the theatres, and consequently more companies are visiting Canada.

Turnbull's customers for the past year have been testing that choice Velveteen which he keeps, and pronounce it perfectly fast pile. This is the only sure way of testing an article. A full range of shades just received "Independence, Texas, Sept. 26, 1882.

Gentlemen:

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Has been used in my household for three reasons:—

1st. To prevent falling out of the hair.
2d. To prevent too rapid change of color.
3d. As a dressing.

It has given entire satisfaction in every instance. Yours respectfully,
WM. CAREY CRANE."

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is entirely free from uncleanly, dangerous, or injurious substances. It prevents the hair from turning gray, restores gray hair to its original color, prevents baldness, preserves the hair and promotes its growth, cures dandruff and all diseases of the hair and scalp, and is, at the same time, a very superior and desirable dressing.

POLICE COURT.

BLASPHEMOUS LANGUAGE.

MONDAY, Oct. 20.—Wm. Ainsley was charged by P. C. Pidgeon with having made use of blasphemous language in a public place. He pleaded guilty and was fined $2 or ten days in gaol.

INJURY TO PROPERTY.

Leon Dion was charged by W. Stothart with having, on the 12th day of October, caused and committed malicious and unlawful damage to a buggy belonging to the complainant. It seems that on the evening of Sunday, the 12th instant, Leon Dion was driving up George street and W. Stothart was driving southward, both in buggies. It was about 7.30 o'clock and the night was dark. Opposite the residence of Mr. Thos. Menzies the two vehicles colided and the occupants of Dion's buggy were thrown out and damage done to both buggies. Several witnesses were examined on each side. The Magistrate, in giving his decision, said that he had no doubt but that Dion was driving at an unlawful rate of speed and that he was liable for any act committed while at variance with the law. The defendant was fined $5 and costs ($7.10) and was ordered to pay $3 as compensation to the complainant.

THE SECOND ATTEMPT BY THE COUNCIL TO CLOSE UP WOLFE STREET.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—It may appear strange to those outside of the ropes why certain members of our Council are so persistent in their efforts to close up Wolfe street, in the interests of that gigantic railway corporation—the Canada Pacific—and to the great detriment of the ratepayers of whose interests they are the guardians.

If what "a property owner" says in reference to "Railway nuisances" in your paper of the 16th inst., is correct, the veil is at once removed and their actions are no longer mysterious. I can only construe "A Property Owner's" letter as an indictment against "our present Council, including our Mayor, who is a railway man," for mal-feasance of office. After shewing how they tried not to stop the nuisance complained of, he charges them that, "for some reasons best known to themselves, our Councillors permit" the nuisance complained of. He further charges them with being "ever ready to comply with the RR. managers and to avoid doing or saying anything that may be regarded as distasteful to those all-important persons." Now, although it is four days since this letter appeared, the Council has neither, in its corporal capacity nor individually, denied the charges.

I would therefore ask what protection may we expect with regard to the closing up of Wolfe street a second time. Besides the coercion inflicted, we will, I believe, be again called upon to pay the costs incurred to quash the second by-law. Let those of the Council who are honestly disposed (for I believe some of them are, notwithstanding "A Property Owner's" letter) see to it that the yeas and nays are called for, so that we may be able to judge of their actions and place the blame to where it properly belongs.

Yours, &c.,
A RATEPAYER.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

A FAILURE.

Another Consequence of the Rival Reader Difficulty—Nelson & Son Again.

TORONTO, October 16.—Business men hear say that the failures of James Campbell & Son will have a disastrous effect upon scores of book stores here and throughout the country. It is probable that a large publishing house and a large book store here will collapse. Mr. Campbell states that the trouble is principally due to the school book question. Over a year ago the Royal readers, published by Campbell & Son, were authorized by the late Minister of Education, the Hon. Adam Crooks, and were used in the Normal schools in this city and Ottawa. Some also found their way into other schools in the Province. But the Hon. G. W. Ross became Minister of Education and announced that he would have prepared a set of readers that would put an end to the dispute between Campbell & Son, Gage & Co., and the Canada Publishing Company as to whose reader should be authorized. Campbell & Son had then an immense number of their Royal readers printed, and by the action of the Minister of Education these were left on their hands useless. The firm has been waiting for some time for the Hon. Mr. Ross to finish the compiling of the new set of readers so that they, who, with Gage & Co. and the Canada Publishing Company were each to have a share of the work, might commence work and thus make up for the loss they had sustained on their Royal readers. When Mr. Hague left the Bank of Toronto to take charge of the Merchants' Bank the account of Campbell & Son followed him, and this fact strengthened the firm's reputation. Mr. Hague, however, said last night that all along the bank has been endeavoring to secure itself, and that it had practically done so. The liabilities of the firm are over $300,000, and involve many smaller concerns. Another heavy creditor of the firm is Thomas Nelson & Son, of Edinburgh, who practically have carried them for years. The Nelsons furnished the financial backing for getting up the firm's series of readers which was authorized by the Ontario Government. From all that can be learned it is not likely that the firm will be able to resume business. What is more probable is that the Canada Publishing Co., which is in some way connected with the house of Campbell, will fall into their interest in the new series of books that is to be issued.

The firm assigned to-day to J. D. Boustead, who will take two or three weeks to prepare a statement. The liabilities of the firm are placed at $300,000, of which about $100,000 is accomodation paper and it is believed the estate will not realize ten cents on the dollar. The Merchants' Bank holds about $112,000 worth of paper, a great portion being specially secured. The Bank of Montreal has $37,000 worth and the Central and Standard Banks small sums. About fifty firms throughout the country are in for sums ranging from $5,000 downwards. Rose, Belford & Co., publisheres, here, are in for about $12,000, and Copp, Clark & Co., $1,400. The bulk of purchases from Europe for the Christmas trade have been stopped at the customs house. The report of the nonauthorization by the Ontario Government of their book series helped to bring the firm into trouble is discredited, and it is said that the Nelsons, of Edinburgh, stood whatever loss there was. There are rumours about that the goods have been sent to large creditors of the firms within the past few days, thereby giving unfair advantage.

A WOMAN DISAPPEARS.

Her Husband Arrested on Suspicion of Having Murdered Her.

ORILLIA, Oct. 19.—Our little town, which had settled down to quietness after Dr. Cassel distinguishing himself by shooting Hamilton, was on Saturday thrown into another state of excitement over a report that a carter named Albert Davey had murdered his wife. Various rumours were afloat, and it was with considerable difficulty that the following account of the matter was obtained. So far as is known, on Saturday the Mayor received such information that warranted him in having Davey arrested, and he was locked up pending further investigation.

Miss Davey, the daughter of the prisoner, gives substantially as follows the account of the whole matter:—Davy with his wife and family lived on Simcoe avenue, about a quarter of a mile from the town, on a plot of ground which he owned and had paid for. Some time ago he wished to dispose of it, but his wife refused to sign away her dower. Davey threatened her with violence, at one time telling her he would make away with her if she did not comply. She left him and took the family to a friend in Campbellford, and shortly afterwards moved into another house with no one but herself and little ones. One night, a few days after they had settled, four young men forcibly entered the house and brutally assaulted the old lady. The next day warrants were issued for their arrest, and two of them are at present in Cobourg gaol awaiting the assizes of November. Two gentlemen, the professed friends of the young men, came a day or two afterwards and offered Mrs. Davy $100, if she would leave the country and not appear against the prisoners. After much persuasion and much hesitation she finally complied, and at two o'clock last Thursday morning these two men drove up to the door and took her away, and gave the eldest girl $10 to say nothing about it. Just two hours afterwards Davey came into the house and ordered the children to get ready, as he was going to take them to Orillia. He got here on a Friday, and got drunk a few hours after his arrival. When in liquor he gave utterance to a number of mysterious hints about being single, and would be troubled no longer with a tartar of a wife. His daughter told the story to her uncle, and he immediately had a warrant issued for Davey's arrest on suspicion of foul play. The matter will be investigated.

A RAILWAY CATASTROPE.

A Bridge Gives Way Precipitating a Train—Fireman and Engineer Killed.

BATAVIA, Ohio, Oct. 18.—The middle span of the bridge across the East Fork River on the Cincinnati Eastern Narrow Guage Railway gave way last evening as the Manchester express was passing over. The bridge is fifty feet above the water. The engine, baggage car and first coach were hurled into the water, while the rear car remained on the bridge. There were forty-five persons on the train and many made miraculous escapes, several leaping to the stream below. The killed are Engineer Ed. Wilbur, of Sardinia; fireman Henry Jones, of Manchester. The wounded are Samuel Carr, skull fractured, will die; Dave Hicks, badly scalded, leg broken, cannot recover. The engineer and fireman were killed instantly. They leave families. The bridge was being repaired, but was considered safe. Several heavily-loaded freight trains had passed over a short time before the accident. There were twenty-five passengers in the rear coach. Had this followed the first section the loss of life would have been appalling. Most of the injured were section hands.

A Plucky Woman.

A little Missouri woman found the door of her hotel room open and a thief rummaging her bureau. Instead of betaking herself to flight, she went after a friend of her own sex, whom she stationed as a guard on the outside and herself dashed in, locked the door and threw the key over the transom. The woman on the outside yelled for help, other women joined her and supported each other's courage, and in time the clerk came and released the plucky one inside, taking her prisoner into custody.

An Absorbed Politician.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Jacoby's cigar factory was damaged by fire to the amount of $40,000 last evening. The fire gained great headway because the proprietor was talking politics and refused to listen to the man who told him the building was on fire.

WORKING CHEERFULLY.

WADY HALFA, Oct. 18.—Gen. Wolseley has ordered the sailors to carry the boats on their shoulders a distance of a mile around the great cataract, while the Canadian voyageurs are rapidly getting the war stores on rafts. The reports from Cairo of the Canadians being mutinous is denied. The men are working cheerfully and to the satisfaction of Lord Wolseley and the other officers. They look upon the cataract as of small account, compared to those of Canada. They are encamped like the troops, and conform to all the orders of the General commanding with alacrity. Their magnificent physique calls forth the praise of the whole army. In the evening they fraternize mainly with the Black Watch (42nd) and the King's Royal Rifles, the latter regiment having been with many of them on the Red River expedition.

A SLANDERER REBUKED.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The Government has seen fit to give a semi-official denial to the despatch in the Morning Post to the effect that the Canadian contingent had become insubordinate. The War Office has, it is stated, no knowledge of any such state of affairs.

SENTENCED TO BE HANGED.

Verdict of Guilty in the Bay St. Paul Poisoning Case.

QUEBEC, Oct. 19.—The jury in the case of Madame Boutel, on a charge of poisoning Celina Guay, at Bay St. Paul, brought a verdict of guilty at a late hour last night. The facts of the case go to show that the poisoner had been on intimate terms with the husband of the deceased, and that some hot words had been exchanged between prisoner and deceased in relation to the latter's husband, in which she maintained that she would retain the affections of deceased's husband in spite of her. A short time after this she purchased a quantity of arsenic, alleging that it was for the purpose of poisoning rats. She then allured deceased into her part of the house (both lived under the same roof), and under the pretence of friendship offered her a glass of wine, which, according to the evidence given, contained a quantity of arsenic. A short while after taking the wine the woman Guay expired. Upon a post-mortem being held arsenic was found in her stomach, and a verdict was given in accordance. Mme. Boutel in the meantime acted in the most suspicious manner, and evidence which kept cropping up against the latter was of such a direct nature as to cause her arrest. She was tried at the last criminal assizes held here, but as the jury were unable to agree the women was remanded and a new trial fixed, which came up on Monday last, and was continued until Friday when the jury were charged.

Judge Ramsay addressed at some length, charging the prisoner with murder. The jury then retired, and, after being in consultation from Friday till Saturday morning, stated that they were unable to agree, whereupon Judge Ramsay reprimanded them in very severe terms, stating that it was absurd for them to come into court and give such a decision, and he thought no intelligent jury would do so. He stated that he wanted a verdict one way or the other, and if necessary would keep them locked up till the end of the term for that purpose. The jury then retired, and after deliberating all day brought in a verdict of murder.

DENSE IGNORANCE OF THE PRISONER.

Judge Ramsay then sentenced the prisoner to be hanged on the 20th of November next, amid great excitement in the court room. Prisoner took her sentence coolly, merely shading her face with her handkerchief. Her husband was greatly moved, and wept hysterically. It is said the woman is so intensely ignorant that she does not comprehend her position. It was said that the prisoner, after being removed to gaol, attempted to cut her throat by means of a piece of iron, which she had secreted on her person. This, however, is denied by the governor of the gaol to-night. The general impression is that the woman will never be executed, but that her sentence will be commuted to life imprisonment.

A HORRIBLE CASE.

A Woman Burned to Death—Her Husband and Son too Drunk to Know it.

QUEBEC, Oct. 19.—A most startling case of the burning to death of a woman during last night has just come to light. It appears that the entire family, consisting of a man named Parent, his wife, and son, got helplessly drunk, and it is supposed that in their manœuvers they knocked over the lamp, which set fire to Mrs. Parent's clothing. The police were attracted to the house by loud cries for their assistance, and upon their arrival found the woman lying in the back yard with her entire clothing on fire, seemingly unconscious of her danger. The police managed to tear off her clothing and at once conveyed her to the Marine Hospital, where she succumbed to her injuries during the day. She recovered consciousness previous to death but was unable to throw any light upon how the accident occurred. Her husband and her son were afterwards found in the house in a drunken stupor, being unaware of what had actually occurred. No further facts can be learned till the inquest, which will likely be held to-morrow.

REFORM INNOVATIONS.

THE independent Reform Toronto World, in an article on "Liberal Toryism," says:—

"The punishment which the British Government allowed the Dominion Government to visit on Letellier's head will keep all other Governors from attempting to exercise the power they were supposed to have under the Confederation Act of forcing an appeal to the people."

Does the World mean to say that it was even generally supposed that Lieutenant-Governors under the Confederation Act had the power of dismissing an Administration supported by a majority of the representatives, and so forcing an appeal to the people? It is a power which neither the Queen of England nor any Governor General of the Dominion of Canada has ever exercised. They have always been content to accept a parliamentary majority as their guide in choosing their advisers.

Such a practice as allowing the Lieutenant-Governors to force an appeal to the people because they might not like an Administration with a majority of the Legislature, would be the severest blow ever struck at Provincial rights. It must be remembered that the Lieutenant-Governors are officers appointed by the Dominion. Supposing that the Dominion authorities were to appoint and support as Lieutenant-Governors zealous politicians with a right to force a change of Government whenever there seemed a favorable chance of obtaining a snatch verdict from the people, what would be the fate of any Provincial Administration of a different political complexion from that of the Dominion Cabinet? Even if it had not to succumb, it could be perpetually harrassed and impeded.

That the matter may be brought home to our Reform friends we would ask them what they would think and say if the Conservative Administration of the Dominion had appointed a Conservative Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario pledged to dismiss Mr. Mowat and his colleagues, and force him to go into a general election stript of his patronage, which alone maintains him in power? Would there not, and very properly, too, be a perfect howl of indignation at such tyrannical interference?

It is the well understood constitutional practice that the Cabinet, whether of the British Empire, of the Dominion of Canada, or of any of its Provinces, should rest upon the confidence of the representatives, as the representatives upon that of the people. Any infringement upon this practice, whether of the nature of Mr. Mowat's purchase of Mr. Hart and others, or of Mr. Letellier's dismissal of Mr. De Boucherville and his colleagues, is not to be sanctioned or approved.

THE London Advertiser is good enough to admit that it is true that Mr. Brown wrote a letter to Senator Simpson advising him to make a big push to secure the election of the Reform candidates in Toronto. We all know in what terms one of our judges characterised this invitation to corruption. But the Hon. George Brown is now dead and gone, so that we think it is very bad taste in the Advertiser to be continually raking up this misdeed of the great Reform leader, who, whatever his faults, has left no man in his party able to fill his shoes. Jealous carping at the dead is even more despicable than in the case of the living.

THE Lindsay Post heads an editorial "The Peterborough REVIEW crushed again." We can assure the Post that we are not likely to be damaged by the borrowed rubbish it shoots upon us. The fact that we are supposed to need crushing again shows that we were not very badly "crushed" on previous occasions, and we feel no worse now.

THE Halifax Chronicle is more outspoken than the Reform leaders and journals in Ontario. While the latter attack Confederation in an underhand manner, without openly avowing their purpose, the Chronicle speaks of "the curse of Confederation."

The Scott Act Sustained.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., Oct. 17.—The Scott Act was sustained here yesterday by a majority of 40. The vote stands 755 to 715. The liquor dealers exerted all their strength and polled every vote, while many temperance men did not go to the polls.

What did it Portend?

During the temperence meeting at Kingston on Thursday, an owl made its appearance on the gasalier in the centre of the hall, and after watching the proceedings for a short time suddenly disappeared. Nobody saw it take flight. Temperance men are wondering about the omen.

Towing is not altogether completed but will be in a couple of weeks more. It has been a splendid season with prospects of greater improvement next year.—Warder.

OMEMEE.

BURGLARY.—On Saturday morning, Oct. 11th, a good deal of excitement was caused in this village when it was discovered that Mr. T. A. McPherson's store had been entered some time during Friday night or Saturday morning, and a large quantity of silk handkerchiefs, ties, braces, overcoats, shirts, socks, gloves, pipes, and a lot of other stock stolen therefrom. The burglars gained admission through the cellar door, and as a precaution they took Mr. McPherson's axe from the yard into the store, no doubt with which they intended protecting themselves were they discovered. On Saturday a pair of socks belonging to Mr. McPherson were found near the old ashery. Whether the perpetrators of the theft were local or foreign is not known, but it is pretty strongly believed they were local.—Herald.

BOBCAYGEON.

REPAIRS.—Mr. Wm. Kennedy, foreman of the Trent Works, is taking advantage of the low water to make several much needed repairs in the breast works, and glance piers. The work will be a convenience for next seasons navigation.

MUSIC.—The Fenelon Falls Brass Band paid a friendly visit to our village on Monday evening, and serenaded Mr. Boyd, and the three hotels. They played several pieces with considerable taste. The music was quite a treat, and was much appreciated. Mr. Jackson Reid, an old Bobcaygeonite, came down with the party, and shewed the boys around.

PARTRIDGES.—These birds are wonderfully numerous, and are as tame as chickens. Mr. J. H. Thompson, who resides near the park, went to his back door on Tuesday morning, and found two fine partridges picking up the crumbs in the wood shed. Mr. Thompson got his gun and shot the two out of a tree in the park. When shooting the second one, a squirrel sat up on a branch, about six feet from the muzzle of the gun. He sat on his haunches nibbling a piece of bark he held in his paws, and was as pert as possible, apparently indifferent to everybody and everything. Suddenly the gun went off. Scared! Well, you'd have died to see him flop to the ground and scurry through the dead leaves. Mr. Geo. Eastland stepped over to Buckley's Island on Monday and shot five partridges. He was not away from home more than twenty minutes.—Independent.

CAMPBELLFORD.

DWELLING HOUSE BURNED.—The stone dwelling house owned and occupied by Mr. J. W. Johnston, nurseryman, just beyond the village limits, was burned on Friday. The fire originated in the kitchen and was not checked until every inch of the woodwork was destroyed. The walls are still standing. Nearly all of the furniture was saved. There is an insurance on the place which will partly cover the loss. Mr. Johnston was in the village when he learned what was going on at his home.

INJURY BY DYNAMITE.—A sad accident befel the second son of Mr. E. Senior, a boy about ten years of age, in this village, during the forenoon of Friday. The little fellow found somewhere a dynamite cartridge used for blasting, and was playing with it in the yard at his father's house. By some use which he made of the cartridge while it was in his grasp, it exploded and tore his hand in a terrible manner. Three fingures were blown almost off and the thumb shattered of one hand, while one fingure of the other hand was also damaged. The poor boy's injuries were quickly attended to when his condition was discovered by his mother, and the shattered hands were dressed by a physician.

COMPLIMENTARY SUPPER.—After completing his contract at the Cobourg harbor, Mr. J. W. Dinwoodie, of Campbellford, last week tendered his friends in that town a complimentary supper at the North American Hotel. The supper was finished, toasts were proposed by the company and responded to by Mr. Dinwoodie, the Mayor, Messrs. Boulton, Braithwaite, Van Ingen, Minaker, Field, McNaughton, Fisher, Burden, Hossack, and others. The speakers were very complimentary in their remarks to Mr. Dinwoodie, and to Mr. McKeel, his foreman. Mr. Dinwoodie's work seems to have merited a great deal of praise both from Cobourg and Port Hope whose people are not always fond of praising anything done in Cobourg.—Herald.

MINDEN.

FISHY.—Mr. A. McIntosh has proved himself to be not only a good hunter but also a first-rate fisherman. On Tuesday he caught in Gull Lake with a trolling line no less than seventeen fine salmon trout.

HOTEL BURNED.—The Devil's Creek hotel, Irondale, occupied by Lewis Smith, and owned by Mrs. Sawyers, was burned on Friday night last. The hotel property was worth $1,000; contents lost valued at $50; no insurance. The fire originated in a defective stovepipe. A dance was to have taken place on the evening of the day it was burned. Mrs. Sawyers has the sympathy of the public in her loss.

THE BIGEST BEAR YET.—For some time the sheep of Mr. Sidney Stephens, Lot 17, Con. 4, Minden, have been disappearing, but not until Thursday was it known what became of them. On that day a large bear was noticed in the field and the "boys" commenced to hunt him up. In doing so they came upon the carcases of two sheep which the bear left on their approach. While continuing their search into the brush Jim Robson and James Harrison fell into the door of Bruin's house, while he put off through the other one, making the brush crack in his retreat. Having watched his bearship on Saturday night the above mentioned young men gave him plenty of time to show himself and had cords attached to guns to shoot him if he should appear. He saw the cords and laid down, fearing to approach. It had rained and young Robson left his place of rendezvous to put powder on the nipple of his gun, when the bear rose up not more than three rods from him. It would be difficult to state which of the two were the most alarmed. However the bear was shot and in his undressed condition weighed 450 pounds, and measured seven feet from point of nose to stump. It took all the muscle of the Archers and Stephens' to carry him out of the swamp. It is doubtful whether a bear as rank in meat as this one was would pay Mr. Stephens for the five sheep he had lost through the bear's boldness and rapacity.—Echo.

Dyspepsia, liver complaint, and kindred affections. For treatise giving successful self-treatment address WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

We do not Claim

That Shaker Blood Syrup will cure everything, but the fact that on the purity and vitality of the blood depends the vigor and health of the whole system, and that disease of various kinds is often only the sign that nature is trying to remove the disturbing cause, we are naturally led to the conclusion that, a remedy that gives life and vigor to the blood, eradicates scrofula and and other impurities from it, as Shaker Blood Syrup undoubtedly does, must be the means of preventing many diseases that would occur without its use; hence the field of its usefulness is quite an extended one, and we are warranted in recommending it for all derangements of the system which are caused by an unnatural state of the blood.

Gentlemen.—I was a great sufferer from Salt-Rheum on my limbs, for 12 years previous to the summer of 1876, at which time I was cured by Shaker Blood Syrup. The skin would become dry, chap, crack, open, bleed and itch intensely, so that I could not help scratching, which of course made them worse. At the time I commenced taking Shaker Blood Syrup (in the summer of 1876) they were so bad that they discharged, and I was obliged to keep them bandaged with linen cloths. The skin was drawn so tight by the heat of the disease that if I stooped over they would crack open and actually bring tears to my eyes. The first bottle benefited me so much that I continued taking it till I was cured. Hoping many others may learn the value of Shaker Blood Syrup, and receive as much benefit as I have, I am,

Very truly yours,
C. A HOWARD,
West 11th St., New York.

The City of Wood.

Ottawa might be appropriately called the "City of Wood." High stacks of planks cover acres of ground, barges full to the brim with lumber lie in the harbor, the very air is fragrant with the aroma of the pine, whilst above the Falls the river is crowded with floating logs, soon to become planks and laths. There is a rapid transformation of the rough round log into the smooth straight plank. At one moment a pine tree's trunk is skillfully hooked by a man who dances about in the eddying water and never tumbles in; the next it is caught by the sharp teeth of an endless chain and drawn up into the mill, passing under the upright frame in which are fixed the saws, ten or twenty in number, according to the size of the log. Now the transformation is complete; at the other end eager hands carry away the pine log, now perhaps in a dozen long planks. And so this goes on from May to November, and 200,000 feet of lumber are sawn into planks in one day in one mill in Ottawa.—London Echo.

Poor "Maud S."

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 18.—"Maud S." the famous trotter, passed through Cleveland last evening en route to Lexington, Ky., via Cincinnati. Instead of her palatial coach usually provided for her, the mare was conveyed from Hartford in a low, short and rough baggage car and paid fare at the rate of 25c. per mile. Grant, her groom, said that she had been very much shaken up on her trip and he manifested the utmost concern for her condition, expressing the fear that she had been injured so as to unfit her for fast time on the turf.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Journalistic.

The Canadian Sportsman, which has always presented a very creditable appearance, comes to hand in a new dress, having been printed with new type throughout. The improvement is noticeable, and it is an evidence that the Sportsman is prospering and appreciated.

The Most Thriving.

The Bobcaygeon Independent contains the following paragraph:—

"The low price of grain is rather a dampener on the fall business. Still Peterborough keeps alive, and goes on increasing and improving. It is the general opinion of commercial men that Peterborough is to-day the most thriving town in the Province, and has every prospect of becoming only second to Toronto."

Sold Out.

Mr. W. J. Langford having sold his shop fixtures, material, &c., he will sell his whole stock of parlor, dining room and bedroom suits, sofas, couches, chairs, &c., by auction on Tuesday, Oct. 24th. This will be a genuine sale, as Mr. Langford has to vacate the premises on November 1st.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Winds shifting to west and north and increasing to gales, in some places with passing showers; fair to cloudy mild weather, followed by colder weather.

Seven Years Imprisonment.

On Friday during the dinner hour, when the court room was clear, Thomas Parcell, charged with rape, was brought into the presence of His Lordship Justice Galt to receive his sentence. The judge pronounced the sentence to be seven years in penitentiary. When asked if he had anything to say, the prisoner replied that he was entirely innocent and that it was a pretty hard thing to undergo so long a term of imprisonment for no unlawful act. The Judge said that the jury had brought in their verdict and he had no reason to doubt its justice, and that seven years was the shortest term he might impose.

Chit Chat.

—Is this Indian summer?

—How many saw a few—a very few—flakes of snow on Saturday?

—Capt. Munt will be present at the Saved Army meeting to-morrow evening, and will remain a few days. Many will no doubt be pleased to see him again.

—In view of the burglaries committed at Lindsay and Omemee, it might not be amiss for our business men to take precautions to prevent such an unwelcome visit to their premises.

—A half mile foot race was contested on the Driving Park this morning by Messrs. S. Heaps and D. McDermott, two youthful pedestrians. The race was for a handsome silver medal. Heaps won.

—Messrs. Ocean Watson and Jos. Argue, who comes from Cobourg, two more youthful runners, also had a half mile race. Watson won it.

Romeo and Juliet.

On Saturday evening the Stafford-Foster Company appeared in Peterborough for the second time. The play presented was Shakespeare's tragedy, Romeo and Juliet. The faithful lover, Romeo, was represented by Mr. Wm. Stafford, and the character of the fond and fragile Juliet was assumed by Miss Evalyn Foster. As Romeo Mr. Stafford is a success. The many looks and gestures which speak louder than words, and which are left by the author for the actor to fill in, are amply borne out by Mr. Stafford. After Romeo's first interview with his love, when he comes out to talk with his friends, Mercutio and Benvolio, it is plain to be seen before he speaks, by his elastic step and joyous glance that his "bosom's lord sits lightly upon his throne." Miss Foster took the character of the beautiful Juliet very creditably. Her tender love towards her nurse and her filial respect are particularly noticeable. Mr. Wm. Wheden, as the impetuous and fiery Tybalt, Mr. Wilson Vapier, as Paris, the courtier, Mr. George Lake, as the poverty stricken apothecary, Messrs. Wm. Johnson and Alex. Mackenzie as Mercutio and Benvolio, respectively, all performed their parts fittingly. The other supporting characters were ably taken, and altogether the play was ably set forth. The costumes were rich and the scenery was appropriate.

A lot of Damask Table Cloths, Napkins and Tray Cloths, slightly damaged, of good quality and cheap, at J. Erskine's.

ONE MORE UNFORTUNATE.

George Goodfellow, a Brakeman, Well Known Here, is Cut in two by a Train.

At 11.06 o'clock on Sunday forenoon, the following message was received at the Ontario and Quebec railway station here:—

By telegraph from North Toronto.

To P. R. Jennings:

Inform Archie Goodfellow, of Springville, that his nephew, George, was run over by a train and killed at Streetsville. Also inform James Lang. Inquest is being held and an effort will be made to bring the remains to Peterborough by the No. 6 train to-night.

J. B. CORDINGLY.

The young man, George Goodfellow, was well known in this locality. About five years ago he was farming near Springfield, which occupation he left and engaged as brakeman on the Midland Railway. He was of a genial temperament, and was a favorite among his fellow-workmen.

About two years ago he left the employ of the Midland and has been employed on other roads since that time. At the time of his death he was engaged on the Credit Valley Railway. He was about twenty-five years old and leaves a young wife and one child to mourn his loss.

The body was brought down over the Ontario and Quebec Railway on Sunday night as far as Cavanville, where it was received by his relatives and taken to Springfield.

BRODIE'S WOOLLEN MILLS

Narrowly Escape Being Consumed by Fire—The Office and Dye House Burned.

On Saturday evening at about 7 o'clock, a fire was discovered in the office of Brodie's Woollen Mills. Under the office is situated the dying and engine room. From the furnace of the engine an iron smoke pipe runs and meets the main smoke stack immediately under the floor of the office. At this intersection it seems that some sparks had escaped and speedily the floor was aflame. The fire alarm was sounded and the firemen were quickly at hand. The building, which is of wood, was soon enveloped in flames and the contiguous woollen mills were, for a time, in imminent danger. Had it not been for the fire proof picker room which connects the engine room to the main factory, together with the calmness of the air, the mills must surely have been destroyed. The engine commenced working just in the nick of time and the firemen then did excellent work. Two streams were speedily playing, one on the wooden tower and the other dousing the flames. A hand engine, operated by the citizens, was doing good service behind the building, in preventing the large piles of slabs from taking fire. Mr. Brodie had placed in the engine room a force pump with hose, but unfortunately, from the circumstances of the case, it was useless, as the engine room was full of fire. The flames were brought under control in a short time and a serious fire was thus averted. The loss altogether will be about $4,000, with $3,000 insurance. The building, owned by Mr. T. G. Hazlitt, was insured in the North British Company for $1,000 and the stock was insured in the Glasgow and London Company for $2,000. Mr. Brodie will lose considerably by the valuable machinery which was destroyed, including the steam engine.

The building will be rebuilt immediately and the work in the factory will be resumed in a day or two.

Read This and Ponder.

The cold season is close at hand, and in consequence, the Stove and Tin establishment of Adam Hall is having an unprecedented run. The sales are lively and the tinsmiths are busy putting up stoves. All Crazy.

The following is a notice given by the Buffalo Express regarding the Barry and Fay Comedy Company, which will appear in Bradburn's Opera House on Tuesday evening:—

"'All Crazy,' as presented by the Barry-Fay Company is very amusing. It was given at the Academy of Music last evening before a large audience. Mr. Barry was in his funniest mood, and Mr. Fay succeeded in carrying the play through admirably. The plot of the play takes its origin in the mistakes of a district messenger boy, who, in delivering two messages, gets their addresses confused and delivers them to the wrong parties. The result is the most side-splitting complications, during which wives, husbands, beaux and sweet hearts become involved in the most extraordinary situations."

Mr. Ormiston Dixon, Peterborough's ventriloquist, informs us that he is intimately acquainted with Messrs. Barry and Fay, and can assure the people of Peterborough that they are worthy of patronage. They have been playing to large and select audiences, and at the best opera houses throughout the United States, during the past year, and are supported by an excellent company.

Who Will Deny It?

Who will deny the assertion that in Peterborough are to be found some of the handsomest and best equipped stores in the Province? Who will deny that the stock carried in the majority of these stores is but the best that money will buy? Who will deny that the young men (and the old ones too) of Peterborough, know where to go to purchase a substantial and neat-fitting suit of clothes? Who will deny that the styles adapted by our clothiers is the latest and most fashionable out? Who will deny that the prices paid for goods of all kinds in Peterborough is not as favorable as in any other town of like proportions in Canada? Who will deny that one of the handsomest and best places in Peterborough to buy clothing, gents' furnishings of all kinds, and in fact everything to be found in a first class gents' furnishing store is at A. MCNEIL'S, Habliment Hall, George street? No young man in want of a neat and nobby suit of clothes need stop for one moment to consider, if he pays us a visit, for he will find such a variety of goods to choose from, that it will be impossible to go away dissatisfied. A word to the wise, etc.

BURGLARIES.

Omemee and Lindsay Visited—An Hotel and Jewellery Store Robbed.

On Friday night the safe of J. A. Martin, proprietor of the Bradburn house, Omemee, was robbed of about $57 in cash, besides papers, etc. Mr. Martin and neglected to adjust the combination properly, and the thieves having effected an entrance at a side door, found little trouble in breaking open the inner closings of the safe. This is the second theft in that village inside of a week, Mr. T. A. McPherson, merchant, being relieved of about $150 worth of goods, last week. No clue as yet to the thieves.

By Telephone to the Review.

On Saturday night the jewellery store of Mr. G. W. Beale, Lindsay, was visited by burglars. The thieves affected an entrance and bored and forced upon the safe. A number of watches and a quantity of jewellery was stolen. It is said that the burglars got away with several thousand dollars worth of goods. A horse and buggy belonging to Dr. Kemp was also stolen. It was found about twelve miles from the town, the horse having given out through fast driving. A horse was, near where the first horse gave out, stolen from a farm on Sunday night. It is believed that the burglars took Dr. Kemp's horse and were making for the Ontario and Quebec railway to take the Sunday train, and when the horse could go no farther, they laid around until Sunday night, and then stole the second horse. It is supposed that they went towards Peterborough.

THE SEASON'S RECORD.

A List of the Matches Played by the Peterborough Lacrosse Club this Year.

Now that the members of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club have decided to put away their sticks until next summer, it might not be uninteresting to give some statistics regarding the matches played during the past season. The result of the season's playing has been most satisfactory to the officers and members of the Club. Out of twelve matches which were played the Peterboroughs have won seven, lost three and have had two draw games. In one of the matches lost, that with the Metropolitans of Ottawa on September 8th, it was a Peterborough player who accidentally put the deciding ball through his own goal. The match which was lost with the Orillias is too well known to require discussion. The Metropolitans, as will be seen by the record, defeated the Peterboroughs twice, but, at the close of the season the pertinacious Peterboroughites defeated their opponents on their own field. The name "Checkers" figures conspicuously in the record. This Club is, indeed, plucky, having tried three times during the season to wrest the Midland District Championship from the home Club and were each time unsuccessful.

The following is the record of the matches played:—

Peterboroughs vs. Barries, played in Peterborough on May 26th—3 games to none in favor of Peterborough. Peterboroughs vs. Torontos, played in Peterborough on July 1st—a draw, 2 games each. Peterboroughs vs. Metropolitans, of Ottawa, played in Brockville on July 9th—3 games to none in favor of the Metropolitans. Peterboroughs vs. Okas, of Belleville, played in Belleville on July 10th—3 games to none in favor of the Peterboroughs. Peterboroughs vs. Orillias, played in Orillia on July 18th—3 games to 1 in favor of the Orillias. Peterboroughs vs. Checkers, of Beaverton, played in Peterborough on July 26th—3 games to 1 in favor of the Peterboroughs. Peterboroughs vs. Checkers, of Beaverton, played in Peterborough on Aug. 8th—2 games to 1 in favor of the Peterboroughs (referee awarded the match to the Peterboroughs). Peterboroughs vs. Ætnas, of Toronto, played in Peterborough on Aug. 18th—3 games to none in favor of the Peterboroughs. Peterboroughs vs. Orillias, played in Peterborough on Aug. 22nd—2 games to none in favor of the Peterboroughs. Peterboroughs vs. Metropolitans, of Ottawa, played in Peterborough on Sept. 8th—3 games to 2 in favor of the Metropolitans. Peterboroughs vs. Checkers, of Beaverton, played in Peterborough on Sept. 16th—3 games to none in favor of the Peterboroughs. Peterboroughs vs. the Metropolitans, of Ottawa, played in Ottawa on Sept. 23rd—3 games to 2 in favor of the Peterboroughs.

CHAMPIONSHIP MATCHES.

The following is a list of the matches which have been played for the Midland District Championship since it was inaugurated:—Peterboroughs vs. Orillias, played in Peterborough on August 1st, 1882—3 games to none in favor of the Peterboroughs. Peterboroughs vs. Uxbridge, played in Peterborough July 5th, 1883—3 games to none in favor of the Peterboroughs. Peterboroughs vs. Orillias, played in Peterborough on August 16th, 1883—3 games to none in favor of the Peterboroughs. Peterboroughs vs. Checkers, of Beaverton, played in Peterborough on July 26th, 1884—3 games to 1 in favor of the Peterboroughs. Peterboroughs vs. Checkers, of Beaverton, played in Peterborough on August 15th, 1884—2 games to 1 in favor of the Peterboroughs (referee awarded the match to the Peterboroughs). Peterboroughs vs. Orillias, played in Peterborough on August 22nd, 1884—2 games to none in favor of the Peterboroughs. Peterboroughs vs. Checkers, of Beaverton, played in Peterborough on September 16th, 1884—3 games to none in favor of the Peterboroughs.

The season closes this year most satisfactorily to all parties, excepting the defeated clubs.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

A MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

The Body of a Young Man Found in Queen's Park, Toronto.

A sad fatality, says the Mail, occurred at the Queen's park, Toronto, on Monday. The body of a young lad named Wilfred B. Kenrick was found at six o'clock in the northern end of the park. The police were notified and the body was removed to the home of the mother of the diseased, No. 1 Anderson street. Kenrick had started on a rabbit shooting expedition at five o'clock in the morning. Shortly after that hour a shot was heard in the Queen's park, but the policeman who heard it could not discover its source. When the body was found an hour later the gun was lying beside it. The charge had entered the head behind the left ear, and death must have been instantaneous. Inspector Johnston, who examined the body, was not satisfied that death had been accidental and notified Coroner Johnston. After inquiring into the circumstances of the affair, the coroner decided to hold an inquest. The deceased had just completed a course at the Upper Canada College. He was a very intelligent youth and of a cheerful disposition. His relatives deny that it was a suicide and believe that the affair was purely accidental.

At the inquest several witnesses were examined, and the coroner in his charge warned the jury to drop out of the case the possibility of the deceased's having committed suicide. The position of the body and all other circumstances tended against that. It was either accidental death or death from a scuffle, in which the deceased was engaged. There was hardly even a shade of possibility that his death could have resulted from accident. There was no evidence of this whatever.

The jury, after twenty minutes' consultation, returned the following verdict:—"That Wilfred Kenrick was found dead in the Queen's park, in the city of Toronto, on the morning of the 20th of October inst. The jury aforesaid would ask that the police further endeavor to clear up the mystery of the death and follow up the evidence taken to-night."

Cameron vs. Bickford.

The Court of Appeal for Ontario, the Mail says, delivered another batch of judgments on Monday, and are ready now to proceed with the hearing of the long list of appeals. There are about seventy-five cases standing for argument, and the Chief Justice and other members of the court seem anxious to get them disposed of, so that there may be no hindrance to a clean docket in the future. Heretofore the difficulty seemed to be with the court, now if delay occurs the fault is with counsel, whose numerous engagements at the assizes and elsewhere render certain attendance in one court almost an impossibility. The first judgment delivered was in Cameron vs. Bickford. This action is one brought by Mr. Hector Cameron, Q. C., against Mr. E. O. Bickford to recover a share in the profits of an adventure embarked in some years ago for the sale of supplies to the Grand Junction Railway Company. In answer to the claim Mr. Bickford among other things pleaded a satisfaction by part payment of the cause of action. Mr. Justice Proudfoot, who tried the case, gave a verdict for the defendant, and the plaintiff appealed to the Court of Appeal, his case being argued by Mr. D. McCarthy, Q. C., Mr. C. Moss, Q. C., and Mr. McPhillips. For Mr. Bickford appeared Messrs. Maclennan, Q. C., S. H. Blake, Q. C., and T. D. Delamere. The judgments of the Appellate Court were very long, but unanimous in Mr. Cameron's favour, awarding him a verdict, with a reference to the Master to take the accounts and settle the amounts due.

Conflagration in Arnprior.

ARNPRIOR, Oct. 20.—About 2.30 this morning a fire broke out in the store of Jas. Hartney, and the flames spread so rapidly that before the fire brigade could render any assistance the building was consumed. The fire spread to the sheds and stables of the Campbell house, and a brisk wind blowing, cinders were wafted to the adjoining buildings, setting fire to the Campbell house and the stores of Stirling & Moore and W. P. Adams, all of which were consumed. The Union block, occupied by W. H. Adams, Taylor & Lee and Alex. Fetherston, was badly damaged. The losses as far as approximated will reach $56,000. Mr. James Hartney loses on building and stock about $38,000; Mrs. J. Campbell, $12,000; W. H. Adams, $5,000; Taylor & Lee on building and stock, $1,500. Sterling & Moore lost considerable by damage in removal of stock, but as they had an insurance of $5,000 it is thought their loss is fully covered. Robert Shaw, druggist; Alexander Fetherston, general store; Wm. Allen, merchant tailor; M. Galvin, Geo. E. Newton, M. J. McDonald, Jno. Harvey, and others lost slightly by destruction of outbuildings and damage in removal of goods. The origin of the fire is unknown. Amount of insurance not ascertained.

A Whole Village in Flames.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 20.—A conflagration began this morning in Eaton's planing mill in West Carthage, and spread rapidly to Myers & Rosss' furniture factory, Farrar's tub shop, Eaton's sash and blind factory, Revel's tannery and his house, and other buildings, then jumped across the river, and is now burning fiercely with a high wind rising. At the time of writing it looks as if the entire village will be destroyed. Fully thirty dwelling houses are burned, and the families are homeless. Many did not save anything. A pump shop, Guiott's woollen mills, three saw mills, the Furnace grist mills, Mills' store, Ryther & Pringle's foundry and machine shop, the Presbyterian and Baptist churches, school house engine house, town hall, and Peck house are the principal buildings burned outside residences. The fire is now on both sides of the principal part of the main street, and water seems powerless to stay the progress of the flames. It is impossible to describe the scenes incident to the conflagration or get an estimate of the losses.

Three Children Fatally Burned.

A fearful accident happened on Sunday in the house of Stanislans Chevalier, of La Bonne St. Anne, Quebec, by which three children are considered fatally wounded. The parents went to church, leaving four youngsters in the house, the eldest only eleven. One of them found a canister of gunpowder, and commenced playing with it. She threw some on the fire when the canister exploded, and the children's clothes were quickly in flames. Before assistance arrived three were so terribly burned that the doctors had no hopes of their recovery. One alone partially escaped.

Successful Burglary.

BARRIE, Oct. 20.—A daring burglary took place on Friday night at the premises of James Breend, Bradford street. His pump factory was forcibly entered and a number of chisels and other tools stolen therefrom, the work was presumably not that of an amateur. It possibly may have been undertaken by cracksmen in need of instruments. A small pool of blood was found on the floor showing that one of the thieves had come to grief in handling the tools. The police have the matter in hand.

Poisoned by Oysters.

KINGSTON, Oct. 20.—A number of persons in Williamsville, a suburb of the city, and Catarraqui purchased oysters from a peddler, and all who partook of them were made more or less sick. Some are so bad they are expected to die. The oysters had some poisonous substance mixed among them.

A CHINESE LOAN.

HONG KONG, Oct. 20.—The loan of three million dollars which China recently obtained from the Hong Kong and Shanghai bank, has been offered to the public, and proved a complete failure. It is believed China will soon be in straits for cash, and that financial difficulty will lead to the conclusion of the war.

MORE SOLDIERS WANTED.

BIG FIRE IN RUSSIA.

MOSCOW, Oct. 20.—The fire was broke out in a warehouse here yesterday completely gutted four warehouses, causing a loss of $1,000,000. A couple of theatres near to the burning buildings, in which performances were going on, were endangered and the plays were brought to an abrupt close. At one time the German theatre was on fire, but it was extinguished before serious damage was done.

THE LATE MR. SULLIVAN.

DUBLIN, October 20.—The funeral of the late Mr. A. M. Sullivan took place to-day and was largely attended, nearly all the Home Rule members of Parliament being among those present. Mr. Parnell was unable to attend owing to illness which has confined him to his room. The procession which escorted the remains to Glasnevin Cemetery, where they were interred, was enormous and unequalled in the history of Dublin.

CONTRARY WINDS.

CAIRO, Oct. 20.—It is reported here that the boats of the Nile expedition cannot make more than an average of eight miles advance daily on account of head winds. There is much anxiety on this point, and it is feared that unless a north wind springs up the expedition will be unable to proceed.

EXODUS FROM SHANGHAI.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—It is reported that there is a great exodus from Shanghai taking place, as it is feared the French will bombard the city. The Chinese Embassy at Berlin has received a despatch confirming the report that the Chinese defeated 800 French at Tamsui on October 15th. The French operations were frustrated by the means of torpedoes.

BELLEVILLE.

TWO MEN SHOT.—On Sunday night Wm. McGuire, John Malee, Michael McHugh and a notorious female, while in the woods across the river from Mill street, became engaged in a drunken melee. McGuire drew a revolver and fired at his two male companions, hitting Malee in the jaw and McHugh behind the ear. Malee's injury was quite serious, and was attended by Dr. Wilson. McHugh was not seriously hurt. McGuire is missing.—Intelligencer.

What he Resembled.

Young Bigger called on Madeline last evening and was shown into the parlor where he found Mabel looking at the Natural History. He greeted her with a "Good evening, sissy; how are you this evening?"

"Oh, I'm pretty well; say; can you guess eonundrums, Mr. Bigger?"

"Well, sometimes; what is it?"

"Oh, it's one of Lina's. She asked me why you were like my bunny rabbit? Can you tell that?"

"No, I'm sure I'll give it up. Why am I like your rabbit?"

"Cos the most conspicious part of you is ears, That's what Lina says."

As Lina came tripping down stairs she heard the front door close behind a retreating form.

Trouble Brewing.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—The Times says the Democrats organized yesterday what they style vigilance committee. It is composed of determined men, who are resolved that no intimidation or violence shall rule at the polls in Chicago, at least that there shall be none done by the Republicans, and thier orders are to provoke no fight themselves, nor to indulge in any as long as the contest is merely wordy, but if any bulldozing is attempted by negro or other deputy marshals to resist it, and if any Democrat is shot to see to it that the shooter at once suffers the same fate. If the feeling keeps growing in intensity, there will be serious trouble in Chicago on election day.

A Plucky Action.

On Saturday a corporation employe named Stewart was cutting down trees on Centre street when a little urchin crawled under the upraised axe, and would undoubtedly have been killed had not Stewart swerved the axe to one side and buried it in his own foot, inflicting a terrible wound. He was removed to his home in the ambulance.—Toronto World.

Daily Evening Review

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1884.

POOR LONDON!

In an article attacking the National Policy by the usual weapon of its opponents, that is, misrepresentation, the London Advertiser says:

"It has enormously increased the taxation for charitable purposes in the towns and cities, and has multiplied the emigration threefold. Low prices, want of employment, necessity for charitable relief, the multiplication of soup kitchens, are in a large degree the fruits of the N. P."

It is possible that this misrepresentation is not wholly wilful, for it may be partly true of London, which, to judge by the Advertiser's accounts, must be a sort of "Sleepy Hollow" of a city, too much lacking in enterprise and natural advantages to hold its own with more favored localities. But even if the Advertiser is drawing the picture of its own surroundings and circumstances, it is guilty of gross negligence and culpable ignorance, for it should know that its description is not true of other places. It certainly is not true of a flourishing and energetic town like Peterborough. As one symptom of the situation here we will give the following advertisement as it appears in the Toronto Mail:—

BRICKLAYERS—Six first-class workmen wanted immediately; wages, $3 per day. Apply to J. W. ALFORD, Builder, &c., Peterborough, Ont.

We might multiply proofs that Peterborough has not reached the low ebb of London, as described by one of its own journals. Our taxation for charitable purposes has diminished instead of increasing. We do not neglect the sick and afflicted, the widows and orphans, but no man who is able and willing to work has to apply for charity. As to prices, they are certainly low,—sugar, cottons, agricultural implements, woollens, &c., &c., may be obtained cheaper than ever, just as we argued would be the result of the National Policy. As to want of employment, it is difficult to obtain mechanics, as is well known even without the evidence of Mr. Alford's advertisement, and as to laborers, it is hard to get a cord of wood sawn. Our only necessity for charitable relief is in cases of illness or bereavement, and as to soup kitchens, we may leave that industry to London, which seems unable to compete in other respects with more enterprising rivals.

Perhaps the unhappy circumstances of London may be the fruit not of the N. P., but of the injurious attacks of one of its journals upon that city and upon the country at large, for they have a tendency to frighten capital and enterprize away from a locality that is so afflicted.

To those who thus flee from desolate London we can offer a welcome in the live town of Peterborough.

GERRYMANDERING.

WE are asked by the Lindsay Post to "fancy Lord Sailsbury keeping himself in office by gerrymandering all England after the fashion furnished by the new Ontario constituencies." We really cannot fancy it, but it is not necessary to resort to fancy when we have in actual fact a case in the old country of the dealing with constituencies after the fashion of Mr. Mowat in Ontario. Mr. Gladstone's Redistribution Bill, which he was naturally so reluctant to bring to light, disfranchises 16 Irish boroughs. How these were selected so as to strengthen himself politically may be judged from the fact that these 16 boroughs now return two Liberals, six Conservatives and eight Home Rulers. Mr. Gladstone's trick reminds us of the method of Mr. Mowat, who disfranchised little Niagara because it returned a Conservative, and allowed little Brockville to retain its member because it returned a Reformer. It will be observed that Mr. Gladstone is not so thoroughgoing in his dishonest manipulation as Mr. Mowat. Nor does it appear that Mr. Gladstone has carved up little municipalities as Mr. Mowat cut in two certain townships in order to gerrymander Ontario, till a majority of Conservative votes has returned a majority of Reform members.

MIXED AND MUDDLED.

Either the Globe is so mixed and muddled on the railway question that it has actually no opinion of its own to offer; or else it is deliberately seeking to darken counsel by words without knowledge, in order to confuse the public mind as possible, preparatory to some tricky "sharp turn" that it has in contemplation. Let those who can explain what the Globe is driving at in the following paragraph, which appeared in yesterday's paper:

"It is now asserted on behalf of the C. P. R. that the construction of an all Canadian route railway, involved either monopoly or ruin. To sustain this it is asserted, that every railroad crossing the United States frontier, which touched the C.P.R. would take aways its trade. This is to assert that the natural course for the trade of the Northwest is southward, and that we must fight nature, or that the C.P.R. can not convey the grain, beef, etc., intended for the European markets, to which the surplus of both countries go, as cheaply to the Atlantic seaboard as it would be taken by United States' roads. To bolster it up, Mr. Blake's railway policy is misrepresented, and a cry is invented for Mr. Mackenzie. Mr. Mills, a member of Mr. Mackenzie's government, introduced a measure which would have greatly encouraged and promoted the construction of branch roads. But, even if Mr. Mackenzie had chosen to discountenance roads that might be considered competitors, there would be a vast difference between monopoly in the hands of a government bound to consider first what the public interests require, and a monopoly in the hands of a company whose chief concern must be to earn large dividends."

Does the Globe itself hold that the "natural course" for the trade of the Northwest is southward, by American lines? It has before now argued that roads should be built through the southern portion of the Canadian territory, leading to the boundary line, which, if built, could be nothing else than feeders to the Northern Pacific. The true "natural course," we contend, is straight to Thunder Bay, thence by water and Canadian rail routes, without ever touching American soil at all. But, as this would be a carrying out of national policy in the transportation business, it probably would not suit the Globe.

Again are we to understand that the Globe would, under any circumstances, be in favor of a railway monopoly, in the hands of the Government? The reference to Mr. Mackenzie seems to imply that it might, but still we cannot be sure. For, to take this ground would be to go back on free trade in railways, which the Globe has supported all along except in one instance—that of the Grand Trunk and Midland amalgamation. The Globe is either mixed and muddled to distraction on the railway question; or else it is "pipe-laying" for a big surprise game of "cheat the public."—Toronto World (Indep.)

JAMAICAN ANNEXATION.

Of much deeper interest to American observers than the small and distant wars in which France and England are entangled is the fast ripening project for the incorporation of th British West Indies with the Dominion. The visit to London at this time of Sir John A. Macdonald, the Canadian Premier, is believed to have for one of its main purposes an energetic furtherance of the annexation scheme; and Lord Derby is reported to have already receded from the unfavorable attitude at first assumed, and to have signified a willingness to acquiesce in the proposal. By the acquisition of the British insular possession in Carribean waters the population and resources of the Dominion will be materially increased. In 1881 the territory controlled by the Ottawa Government contained 4,350,000 inhabitants, while the British West Indian Islands, inclusive of the Bahamas and Bermudas, had about 1,250,000. In Jamaica alone there were 558,000 souls in 1878, and three years later Barbadoes was credited with 171,000 and Trinidad with upward of 150,000.

Altogether the new accessions will be nearly equivalent in respect of population to the province of Quebec. The present productive capacities of the three chief islands may be measured by an abstracts of the statistics covering the years 1865 to 1879. Thus the average annual valuation of imports into Jamaica during that period was $6,735,000, against exports appraised at $6,790,000. The mean yearly receipts were $2,735,000, the expenditure $2,805,000, and the transfer of merchandise involved the movement of 773,000 tons. Barbadoes imported goods to the amount of $5,115,000, and exported products valued at $6,295,000. Trinidad, which of all the islands is the most productive and self-sustaining, sent forth staples assessed at $11,325,000, and in exchange took wares amounting to $11,115,000. The carrying capacity of the vessels trading with Trinidad reached a mean annual total of 808,000 tons, and there was a considerable surplus of public income over outgo, the former being $2,125,000 against $1,880,000. The islands of St. Lucia, Antigua and Grenada also command a considerable trade, exhibiting an aggregate movement of 642,000 tons and combined exports valued at $3,135,000. If we strike a balance sheet for all the British Antilles, we find the exports exceeding $31,300,000, and the imports but a little short of $29,000,000, while to offset an outlay of $6,620,000 there is a public revenut of $6,835,000. This is a better exhibit than was made by the Dominion itself, whose average expenditure during a part of the period under review exceeded the receipts by nearly $8,000,000.

We see, then, that even under the existing fiscal and treaty conditions, to escape from which is the controlling aim of annexation, the Antilles, taken as a whole, could hardly prove a drain upon the Canadian Treasury, although so much of the burden of protecting the islands against internal disorders as has hitherto been borne by the Imperial Government should be assumed by the Dominion. But, of course, the Canadian tariff, by means of which imports from Great Britain are made to contribute largely to the colonial revenues, will be enforced in the newly acquired territory; and their is a rooted belief that an immense stimulus would be given to the productive powers of the islands were the planters at liberty to regulate, in concert with their fellow subjects in the Dominion, their commercial relations with American consumers. Indeed the mainspring of the present organized agitation for union with Canada is the conviction that the British West Indies would be revolutionized from an industrial point of view by knitting anew the ties of traffic which once firmly bound them to our Atlantic States. It concerns us to watch closly the progress of this annexation plan, for its fulfilment will no doubt be promptly followed by overtures for a treaty between the Dominion Government and our own, looking to the free admission of West Indian staples to the markets of this country.—N. Y. Sun.

The Lynam Case.

We have no opinion to express as to the sanity or insanity of Mrs. Lynam. It is asserted that she is sane and that she has been unwarrantably incarcerated. Every effort has evidently been made by the prosecution in this case to avoid any accusation against the asylum. It is now six weeks since the demand was made for her liberty, and she is still, so far as we can see, as far from deliverance as ever. According to such a process as this a man might pine his life away among lunatics before it was decided whether he should ever have been incarcerated. What are we now waiting for? The judge has named an expert to decide the whole case. The prisoner's liberty is in the hands of this one man. The judge promised to reduest the Government to name other experts. Names were suggested and the request doubtless made, but no appointment has been made. Nothing, in fact, is done and Rose Lynam remains in prison. She is worse treated than an inmate of the penitentiary inasmuch as her advocate and trusted friend are not allowed to see her on any terms. What is the trouble? —Montreal Witness.

The Apple Trade.

Apples continue to come along in large quantities and prices are certainly no higher than last week. If anything the tendency is downward. Supplies are arriving from all sections some choice varieties coming from Nova Scotia, and there does not seem any chance for a rise this season. Choice Pippins, Hubbardstons, and other desirable kinds are selling in large lots at $1.25 to $1.50 per barrel, and dealers are indifferent about taking any variety except Gravensteins at over $1.50. This is for first-class fruit. Common and medium are offering at 75c. to $1 per barrel. Very nice apples are offering at $2 per barrel, by the single barrel. Shipments to England continue to be made on a liberal scale, the exports from Boston last week being 12,000 barrels, which make a total for the season of about 35,000 barrels against only about three hundred barrels for the same time last year. Full returns from late shipments have not yet been received, but cable advices of sales show no margin of profit. Some claim they will result in a loss. Under date of Oct. 6th, Messrs. J. C. Houghton & Co. cable that at the sales in Liverpool to-day 5,000 barrels of American apples were sold at following quotations:—Baldwins, 10s. to 14s.; Northern Spy, 10s. to 12s.; Greenings, 8s. to 11s.; Kings, 16s. to 22s. Estimating freight and other expenses at $1 per barrel, which is a low rate, the first two varieties would not net much over $1 per brl., and the greenings from 75c. to $1. Most of the shippers say the exporting business is unprofitable. Beside the freight, which is 75c. to 90c. per brl., there are numerous other small charges for insurance, commissions and shrinkage, which absorb all margins of profit, and often leaves shippers in debt.—Boston Journal.

A Woman's Struggle With a Bear.

VICTORIA, B.C., Oct. 18.—One day last week Mrs. W. K. Lee discovered a bear swimming on the Columbia, and determined on its capture. The men folks were all away, but she summoned a posse, including the children, a boat, and the dog, and, armed with a butcher's knife, attempted to prevent a landing, while one of the children went after a neighbour who had a gun. The bear landed and showed fight. Mrs. Lee was treed once on a big rock, but gave chase again as the bear tried to make off. The bear turned on her again, and in retreating she tripped on a stick and went down, when the beast made a ferocious attack. She struck with the knife, ant slashed it so severely on the nose that it went howling away long enough for her to regain her feet, and the dog attacked vigorously, she made good her escape. About this time the man with the gun settled the contest.

Famine Caused by Goats.

According to the Indian Forester famines in India are caused by goats. The goats in India appear, as a rule, to live on the brink of starvation, as, indeed, goats almost everywhere seem to do, collecting a scanty livelihood out of the barrenest materials. Especially, however, do they attack the green shoots and topmost twigs of every young tree which they come across. A herd of goats, numbering, say, from 15,000 to 20,000 animals, as is sometimes the case in the desert tracts of Asia, is not likely to leave much vitality in the saplings that grow in its line of grazing. These saplings, therefore, never grow to trees. The old trees, unless reinforced from time to time by a younger growth, die off, and thus whole forests disappear. Without forests the rainfall ceases; without rain the crops fail. In spite of the enormous extent of Indian plains, it is altogether possible that the action of the goats must be thus indirectly responsible for Indian droughts. St. Helena, as every one knows, has been converted from a Garden of Eden to a howling wilderness owing to the importation of the goat alone. In Cyprus, too, the diminished rainfall and consequent sterility is attributed almost entirely to the herds of goats which every Cypriote appears to keep, and which have long ago devastated the vegetation of the island.

Poisoned by Wild Parsnip.

HALIFAX, Oct. 19.—Archibald Stewart, keeper of the Lady Bank Hotel at Porter's Lake, some miles to the eastward of Halifax, while working in the field yesterday noon, picked root from the ground which he supposed to be sarsaparilla and ate a portion of it, giving a piece to a French boy named Murphy, belonging to Chezzetcook, who was with him. Stewart shortly after was taken violently ill, and two hours later expired. The lad Murphy was seized with convulsions and lies in a critical condition. The root turned out to be wild parsnip of the most poisonous nature.

PROVISIONS.

The prevailing low prices of Provisions ought to be an incentive to vigorous economy during the fall months while work is yet plenty, so that sufficient means will be laid aside for the purchase of a Stock of Staple Supplies for the table during the winter. Prices have not been as low for many years.

Flour, best Roll Ground, $2.00 per hund.
Potatoes, 45c. per Bag.
Oat, Corn and Wheat Meal, 3c. per Pound,
2½c. per Pound in 25 Pound Parcels.
Fresh Pork, 5c. to 10c. per Pound.

Provisions will likely be cheap all winter, but work will be very much scarcer than now. Make an effort to get in your winters Stock now.

THE REVIEW BOOK-BINDERY

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

AN UNCIVILIZED JOURNAL.

The Toronto Globe of Thursday contains an article on Sir John A. Macdonald which is conceived in the very spirit of those who mutilate the bodies of their slain enemies.—Montreal Herald (Ref.)

NARROW MINDED PARTISANS.

In his present position Sir Charles does not represent one party but the whole country, and it was as a representative of the whole country that Lord Lansdowne spoke of him. It is a pity that the Halifax Grits are so narrow minded that they could not accept at the hands of the Governor-General what was simply intended as a compliment to one of the most prominent men their Province has produced.—Toronto Telegram (Indep.)

DESERVED PRAISE.

It may be said for Mr. Carling that he is one of the best departmental heads the country has ever had in the service.—Toronto World (Indep.)

THE "GLOBE'S" BAD MANNERS.

What the Globe says about Sir John's illness is merely a matter of taste. We are quite sure that in tone and manner it does not on this question reflect the views of Reformers or of the Reform press.—Lindsay Post (Ref.)

THE "GLOBE'S," UNBELIEF.

The Globe did not believe that the line north of Lake Superior would ever be built; it did not believe that the Rocky Mountain section would be completed; it did not believe that the country between Moosejaw and Calgarry was fit for settlement; it did not believe that the National Policy would provide a surplus revenue; it did not believe that the Canadian Pacific Company would build a durable road; it did not believe that the Company intended to carry out its undertaking in good faith; it did not believe that a Conservative majority would be returned at the last election. Yet all these things have happened.—Montreal Gazette.

REFIGERATOR CARS.

In view of the large through shipments of perishable goods expected when the Canadian Pacific railway is opened from Montreal to Port Moody next year, the company has given an order for the construction of twenty-five refrigerator cars. Ten of these have been completed and the remainder are being built at the workshops in Montreal.—Monetary Times.

A COLD-BLOODED OPPONENT.

We do not believe Mr. Blaine is half so sick as he is going to be presently, and as for Sir John we do not believe he is half so sick as our cold-blooded contemporary the Globe would like him to be.—Montreal Star (Indep).

NORTHWEST RAILWAYS.

This, although a country of extreme fertility, being still in its infancy, is but sparsely settled, and the profits of running railroads are not large, nor will they be for some years; therefore railroad companies need substantial assistance in their great undertakings, and it should be given almost without stint. * * * If the companies get the land on such terms that it can hold out inducements to settlers, the Government will certainly receive the benefit of a larger revenue from the taxation of an increased population.—Minnedosa (Man.) Tribune.

THE CHIEF ORGAN REBUKED.

It is to be regretted tha the Globe has seen fit to refer in tones of exultation to Sir John Macdonald's illness, and the consequences to the party should it be deprived of his leadership. The occasion is not one for the discussion of probable consequences in the event of death, but rather calls for an expression of sympathy and of a hope that Sir John's trip to England may result in benfit to his health.—Lindsay Post (Reform).

AFTER FIFTY YEARS.

A Cornish Murder of Half a Century Ago Brought to Light.

The Cornishman publishes a sensational narrative of a murder alleged to have been committe d in the locality. The narrator professes to ha ve remained silent, under a fearful oath imposed upon him at the time of the committal of the deed some fifty ysars since. The writer, who signs himself "G.H.O.," and writes from Penzance, declares himself willing to indicate the spot where the body of the murdered man was buried. Shortly, the story is as follows:—The writer, then a junior in a firm in London, of which he is now the head, came to Penzance in September, 1834, to arrange terms among local tin smelters. He left Penzance one evening to visit a friend in St. Just, which is some six miles from Penzance. On the way there, in a lonely part of the road, he met two men, when he heard one say, "That's him," whilst the other asserted, "No, it is not." They again faced each other, when the two men said they had taken him for another person. Almost immediately a man approached from the direction of St. Just, and the writer called his attention to the suspicious character of the two men. The man, who said he was a mine agent, laughed at his fears and went on his way. He had only proceeded about a couple of hundred yards when he was seized with nervous tremours. His legs refused to support him, and he fell in the middle of the road, but thought it better not to stay there, and so proceeded on hands and knees across the dusty road, scrambled up a small bank, and found himself on a common which appeared to be many acres in extent. He dragged himself to a heather covered strip between two clumps of furze, and threw himself at length and closed his eyes. After a little time he looked up, and the moonlight revealed to him a newly-made mound. Hearing two shots fired he crouched and waited, and he saw the two men just after coming with the body. To quote his letter, "Once more a thrill of horror ran through me. On they came towards the newly made grave, almost touching my feet as they moved past. Then they turned to the right, and threw the body into the pit with a thud that made every fibre in my body vibrate. The corpse in the grave, the two began to fill it up. Doing this disclosed me. They had not lowered the mound many inches when they discovered me. They pounced upon me and demanded what I was doing there. I explained, but all to no purpose. "The same pit will do for him," "Yes, shoot him." "No, cut his throat." "Stop, I'll load my pistol again; don't leave any marks of blood about, push him into the pit first, and cut his throat afterwards." These were the horrible threats, accompanied by frightful imprecations which greeted me. Said one of the men to me again, "We have decided to bury you alive, slip off your clothes, it is hardly worth while burying that good suit of yours; it will do for one of us." I pleaded my youth, my accidental and unpremeditated presence, my newly made wife and only child, and this at last seemed to touch the hearts of the brutes. "Well," said one, "we will spare your life on condition that you swear, as you hope for heaven and the salvation of your wife, child, and friends; you shall swear it, too, on the point of this knife and the muzzle of this pistol, that what you have seen this night, you will never speak of or divulge to any human being for a space of fifty years from this day, when we shall all be as this," at the same time kicking into the grave a clod of light-coloured clayey soil. I did swear most solemnly, I bought my life on that lonely heath of West Penrith. I have kept my promise. Its a little over fifty years ago. I was then 26 years of age, so you see I am an old man now. Those men were middle-aged, from 45 to 56, at that time." Of his re-visit to the spot he writes:—"As I approached the fatal spot the road seemed entire-unaltered. I solemnly believe that I crept through the very gap in the low ledge of earth which still imperfectly protects the croft; that I stood between the self same cluster of furze which formed my bed—very nearly my bed of death—and the peep-hole as the murderers hid the result of their accursed crime, and that I knelt on the undisturbed gave where their victim's bones are now mere dust. After half a century I knelt again, not to implore mercy of man, as I did then, but of God, last I unwittingly sinned in keeping an extorted pledge, and to save myself from harm, having reluctantly shielded henious criminals."

Death of a Noted Woman.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 20.—Mrs. Mary Blackburn Morris, wife of the late Judge Buckner Morris, of Chicago, and sister of ex-Governor Blackburn and Senator Blackburn, died on Saturday after a painful illness. Mrs. Morris was one of the most remarkable women of her time. She was the famous ex-confederate who assisted to attempt to liberate the Camp Douglass prisoners.

IN MEMORIAM.

OF JOHN FIFE, ESQ., OF OTONABEE, WHO DIED MARCH 20TH, 1884, AGED 86 YEARS, 7 MONTHS.

One of our oldest pioneers
Has left us after well spent years,
Trusting until his latest breath
In the merit of his Saviour's death.
His soul's gone to the rest on high,
His body in the grave to lie
Until the trump the call shall give Unto the dead to rise and live.
Mid'st worldly care and trials rife
He lived a quiet and peaceful life,
Oft visiting the neighbors round,
When any of them sick he found,
With them to pray, God's word expound;
This cheered he many a drooping one
Before his race on earth was run.
Sixty three years it is since he
First came to fair Otonabee,
Where at that time in early day
The country in a rough state lay.
Stern trials and hardships not a few
The settlers had then to pass through.
No doctors near them had they then
To give advice or ease a pain,
Though ague oft' affected sore
The pioneers in days of yore.
He now from all his toil can rest
With the redeemed forever blest,
And landed safe, all dangers past,
Can sing with joy now home at last.

Bold Escape of a Murderer.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 20.—Jim Courtright, a notorious detective and murderer, escaped from his captors last evening. The officers, against the sheriff's protest, took Courtright into a restaurant for his meals, and his friends had hung two large pistols under the table where the prisoner sat. One of the guards was inveigled outside, whereupon Courtright seized the weapons and covered the remaining guards, and backed to the door, mounted a horse and fled, in the presence of a large crowd. The prisoner's friends hampered the officers in pursuit. His escape created tremendous excitement. Jim McEntyre the accused, with Courtright, was arrested yesterday at Wichita Falls and brought to the city last night. A great crowd was at the depot. The men were not wanted for the murder of the Mexicans at Silver City, but for the killing of two Americans named Greestedt, near Albuquerque, whom they are charged with having first arrested as officers of the law and then deliberately murdered. Courtright's friends deny the charge.

The Republican Wave.

New York, Oct, 20.—The Republican national committee issued an address last night. It referred to the gain of 13 per cent. in their vote in Maine, 7 per cent. in West Virginia, and says the result in Ohio is a revolution and a prophecy. It it also strong in its attitude on protection.

Cleveland Assaulted.

ALBANY, Oct. 20.—Governor Clevel and was assaulted in front of the medical coll ege this morning by Samuel Boone, of Chemung County, who was ejected from the executive chamber last week, for causing a disturbance while seeking a pardon.

FROM ALL OVER.

IT is stated that pure cold water is a perfectly harmless face wash provided you don't use enough to drown yourself.

Dr. LOW'S Worm Syrup will remove worms and cause, quicker than any other medicine.

AT a recent service at Mount Desert an elder closed his prayer with, "Oh, Lord, now that our summer visitors have departed, wilt Thou take their places in our hearts?"

If you would have Appetite, Flesh, Color, Strength and Vigor, take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which will confer them upon you in rapid succession.

THE peasant farmers of France have about $200,000,000 on deposit in the Government Savings Bank upon which they are paid 4 per cent interest.

FOR nettle rash, itching piles, ringworm eruptions, and all skin diseases, use Prof. Low's Sulphur Soap.

ACCORDING to the Drugman potatoes do not absorb the arsenical preparations used for destroying the Colorado beetle, but the productiveness of the soil is impaired by the use of arsenic.

DESTROY the worms or they may destroy the children. Use Ereman's Worm Powders, they expel all kinds of worms.

A STUDENT of New York names finds that Taylor keeps a clothing store, Brewer a saloon, and Baker a confectionery; that Reiter is a book keeper; Sellers, a salesman; Bayer, a buyer, and Scholar, a teacher.

OH! how tired and weak I feel, I don't believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning! O yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Doctor Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50c.

A TALKING walrus is one of the curiosities of a Philadelphia Dime Museum. It utters a few words with great distinctness. Heretofore the power to articulate among beings other than human has been supposed to be confined to birds of the parrot family.

USEFUL TO KNOW.—Everyone should know that Hagyard's Yellow Oil will give prompt relief; applied externally will stop any pain; and taken internally cures colds, asthma, croup, sore throat and most inflammatory complaints.

CHLORIDE of lime should be used with care. A young lady recently put a large quantity in a clothes press where there was a musty smell. The bad odour was entirely destroyed by the chemical, but a silk dress of a pale blue colour was bleached to a dirty grey hue and rendered almost useless.

A GOOD RECORD—Among the many thousand bottles of Hagyard's Yellow Oil sold annually in Canada not one has ever failed to give satisfaction. It cures rheumatism, colds and all painful complaints and injuries.

THERE are five foreign born persons in the United States Senate—one Englishman, one Scotchman, and three Irishmen. In the House there are twenty foreign born persons—three Englishmen, three Scotchmen, six Irishmen, five Germans, one Norwegian, one Brazilian, and one Canadian.

EVERYBODY having a cough is invited to call on J. D. Tully and get a bottle of Hub Cough Cure for 25c. It acts very quickly on children or adults.

So many write us of the merits of Zopesa from the West, Canada, the East and at home; they write of being cured of liver troubles, dyspepsia, urinary troubles, chronic headaches, etc., but we cannot publish them—any drug store keeps Zopesa. Ask J. D. Tully.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—Fortelling the weather is a useful science, but relieving the effects of its sudden changes is a better one Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam cures coughs and colds, incident to sudden changes.

WE have a speedy and positive cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria, Canker mouth and Headache, in Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. A nasal injector free with each bottle. Use it if you desire health and sweet breath. Price 50c. For sale by J. D. Tully.

INHUMAN CRUELTY.—It is a barbaric cruelty to torture the weak stomachs of chronic invalids with harsh purgatives and sickening drugs, when Burdock Blood Bitters will regulate the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys in so agreeable and effectual a manner.

A REMARKABLE DISCOVERY.—A council of doctors declared Mrs. Adelaide O'Brien, of 372 Exchange St., Buffalo, incurable. Her liver was badly disordered; she vomited green mucous; could retain no food; skin yellow and full of humors. She was rapidly sinking; but Burdock Blood Bitters cured her.

Sufferers from the effect of quinine, used as a remedy for chills and fever, will appreciate Ayer's Ague Cure, a powerful tonic bitter, composed wholly of vegetable substances, without a particle of any noxious drug. Its action is peculiar, prompt and powerful, breaking up the chill, curing the fever, and expelling the poison from the system, yet leaving no harmful or unpleasant effect upon the patient.

A GOOD TEST.—For over 16 years G. M. Everest, of Forest, has sold Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, and its sales are steadily increasing. It cures coughs, colds and all lung complaints; is pleasant to take and always reliable.

As a general thing ladies who make any pretentions to refinement desire to have soft white hands. We believe that nothing will tend more to produce this effect than the constant use of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water mixed with the water in the basin. It removes redness and roughness. The ladies of Cuba and South America were the first to discover the extraordinary virtues of this floral water as a cosmetic, and have long since discarded the use of all others.

A Tour through the Woods.

Some weeks ago we noticed the departure of Mr. Phipps, the Ontario forest conservator, on a tour of examination in the lumbering woodlands near the Upper Ottawa. He has now returned and is staying for a day or two at the Grand Union. During his journey he visited the establishments of Messrs. Booth, Thomas Mackey, Levi Young, William Mackay, Bronson and others, stopping some days with each, travelling through their limits, remaining over night at their camps in the bush, and observing thoroughly the manner of their operations and the management of the forest. Mr. Phipps describes himself as having been treated with the greatest hospitality at all these esta blishments, and given every facility for observation and enquiry. He is of opinion that, with regard to a very large portion of the country, settlement by farmers should be discouraged, and every effort made to retain a permanent and productive forest. This, he observes, is being done in many countries of Europe, where land is much more valuable than here, and where the opportunities of attaining the object are not nearly so great. There they have to plant a forest—here, we need only protect one. It is to be noticed, he remarks, that houses and furniture, and many another product of the forest, are almost as necessary to the comfort of man as food itself, and that we need land to grow the one as well as the other. Everywhere on his journey the ravages of fire, both of this summer and of earlier date, were visible in the timber lands, and the general opinion of practical men was found to be that Ontario loses millions of dollars annually by this cause. With the assistance of such men, Mr. Phipps has matured a plan, which he will shortly submit to the Ontario Government, by which these great losses may be largely diminished. It is to be hoped that it will soon be in successful operation.—Ottawa Free Press.

The Y. M. C. A. Convention.

The Peterborough public have acted in their usual generous way, and the Entertainment Committee have been able to secure homes for most of the delegates. A few are yet to be provided for. The General Secretaries will hold a conference previous to the convention, the sessions being held in their rooms on Wednesday afternoon and evening. The convention proper will open on Thursday afternoon at half past two in the George Street Methodist Church, the trustees of which have generously placed the edifice at the disposal of the Association. The organization of the convention will take place at this meeting, in addition to devotional exercises and reports from local committees. On Thursday evening a "Welcome meeting" will be held for three quarters of an hour, the convention to be welcomed by Rev. E. F. Torrance for the ministers and churches, Mr. Geo. A. Cox, on behalf of the business men, and Mr. J. F. Jeffers, as the representative of the local Association. Immediately after, discussion will take place on the first two topics on the programme, "Why should our work continue to be especially for young men?" and "What can we do for young men socially?" the latter topic to be opened by a paper prepared by Mr. D. A. Budge, Secretary of the Montreal Association. The sessions of the convention will be held at 9.30 a.m., 2.30 p.m. and 7.30 p.m. each day till Saturday evening, and the public will be cordially welcomed at them all. Most of the delegates will arrive by the noon trains on Thursday, and their hosts may expect their arrival for dinner at one o'clock. Any boys who would like to help in showing the delegates to their destination, may meet at the Midland station between half past ten and twelve o'clock on Thursday.

Telephonic.

Since the advent of Mr. W. C. Kent to the management of the Peterborough telephone station, the name of several citizens have been added to the list of those using the Bell instruments. Of late Messrs. W. Yelland, carriage works, E. B. Edwards, residence, W. J. Mason, grocery, and A. McDonnel, storehouse, have brought the services of the telephone into requisition. There are now seventy-nine instruments in use in Peterborough. The management in Peterborough contemplates keeping the central office open night and day, and also erecting a line to Lakefield, in a short time.

"All Crazy" To-Night.

The Chicago Herald says:—"'All Crazy' is an excellent title for the piece. It is a satirical farce comedy in three acts, which was put upon the boards of the Grand Opera House last night. If the public want a hearty laugh we recommend them to see 'All Crazy.' The audience yesterday were in continual fits of laughter throughout the evening, even to the interruption of the play. It is a temptation to give our readers the plot. It is rich in incidents of extreme ludicrousness; but we recommend them to see it for themselves. Wm. Barry as Timothy Flynn, the messenger boy, was excellent and very true to life. The part of Hon. Judge O'Grady, played by Mr. Hugh Fay, was a highly artistic piece of comedy acting."

Mr. Ragan's Lectures.

On Oct. 31st and Nov. 1st Mr. Ragan will deliver illustrated lectures in the Opera House under the auspices of the Mechanics' Institute. On the first evening, Hollowe'en, his subject will be, "Glimpses of Scotland," and on the follw evening, "Picturesque Ireland." Of the former the Plattsburgh, N.Y., Telegram, of Oct. 15th, says:—

"A good audience, though not so large as the merits of the entertainment demanded, last evening greatly enjoyed 'Glimpses of Scotland,' as presented by the eloquent voice of Mr. H. Ragan, and pictures by the life-like and beautiful views thrown on the canvas by his powerful stereopticon. The sea voyage across the Atlantic was graphically and humorously portrayed; the beauty and sentiment of moonlight evenings at sea were graphically sketched, and then followed in swift succession the romantic glories of the land of Bruce and of Burns, of Wallace and of the Wizard of the North, Walter Scott, and the Highlands, Loch Katrine and the Trossachs, 'Grey Sterling,' 'Auld Reekie,' Hawthornden and Roslin, Melrose and 'Auld Aye,' and many other scenes dear to the memory and the imagination. Mr. Ragan is a charming speaker, perfectly self-possessed, but always unassuming, his graphic descriptions rising at times to eloquence and often illuminated by the play of shrewd and genial humor. To hear his recitation of 'Tam O'Shanter' was worth the price of the whole course of lectures."

True Poetry.

Cynics sneer, philosophers smile, old ladies laugh, and most men poke fun at what they, in their lofty state of superior wisdom, call "love-sick ballads;" but what youth, with a mind fired by honorable and lofty ambition, and love for an intelligent, bright and amiable girl, has not felt an inclination to let his overflowing feelings pour forth in metrical lines, clothing his ideas, aspirations and love in the best language he can command? It is not because he is crazed, or that he was become stupid, childish or effeminate, but because the the geniality, sympathetic reverence, yearning tenderness, and all the good and pure feelings of the soul which compose the mysterious and sublime emotion called love, are too vast, expansive and elevating to be confined in his small and frail human frame. Clay does not seem capable of containing the mysterious essences strangely combined and named love. They appear to be striving to burst the bars which confine them in their narrow sphere, and struggling to issue forth and rise to purer climes, where they can unrestrainedly sing their joys, shout their hallelujahs, and be fully understood and appreciated. Then does this noble, high-souled youth gather his ideas together, and perfuming them with his delicate feelings, pen such lines as these:—

Come, darling angel! and soothe my woes,
For you I whistle and call;
Don't fear to come; I buy my clothes
At McNeil's Habiliment Hall.

A LARGE stock of Grey All Wool Flannels; best makes, plain and twill, unusually cheap at J. ERSKINE'S.

He Catches the Speaker's Eye.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The constituency which I have the honor to represent is eminently a constituency of well-dressed men. This is not a peculiarity, but a usual and an acknowledged fact.

Now, good clothes are the trade marks of civilization. (Cheers). A well-dressed man is an ornament to society; and society appreciates the compliment by er—ah,—a—a— Gentlemen, you understand. (Hear, hear).

The question may properly be raised, How does it happen that my constituents are well-dressed? I say properly raised, sir, undoubtedly so, most decidedly so, particularly so—if not more so. I feel gratified to find myself in a position to at once, sir, reply to reply with confidence and—and—thank you—with pride to that enquiry.

My constituents are gentlemen of perception and taste. They are men of great discrimination. They—they—in short, know a good thing when they see it. They buy from DOLAN & Co. I may take the liberty of expressing my entire and perfect approval of their judgment; and I, Mr. Speaker, would beg to move, if any honorable member will second it,—That DOLAN & Co. are entitled to the—I appeal to the chair, I will not be put down! "Independence, Texas, Sept. 26, 1882.
Gentlemen:

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Has been used in my household for three reasons:—

1st. To prevent falling out of the hair.
2d. To prevent too rapid change of color.
3d. As a dressing.

It has given entire satisfaction in every instance. Yours respectfully,
WM. CAREY CRANE."

It prevents the hair from turning gray, restores gray hair to its original color, prevents baldness, preserves the hair and promotes its growth, cures dandruff and all diseases of the hair and scalp, and is, at the same time, a very superior and desirable dressing.

Sell your Wheat now and exchange it for Cheap Clothing at LeBRUN'S.

ELECTION INCIDENTS.

Blaine Hooted Down — Sundry Fights — Young Women in Campaign Uniform.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The Herald's Fort Wayne despatch says there were witnessed there, yesterday, some of the most exciting scenes ever known in the history of the city. Early in the morning the Democrats and Republicans began to arrive and at eleven o'clock there were 30,000 strangers in the city. The Democrats, bent on mischief, captured the city and erected a platform for speakers just opposite the place where Mr. Blaine was advertised to speak. Mr. Blaine arrived at half past eleven. After reviewing the procession he appeared on the balcony of the Aveline House; this was the signal for the Democrats to yell. The scenes which followed are almost indescribable, the Republicans yelling for Blaine and Logan, while the Democrats shouted for Cleveland and Hendricks. Four times Mr. Blaine attempted to speak, but his voice was completely drowned. Finding he could not proceed he retired. The excitement was intense and there were fears of a riot. Calmer feelings, however, prevailed. Mr. Blaine was driven to the residence of Jesse Williams, where he spent the night. He goes to Indianapolis this morning. In the evening both parties paraded in force. Several fights resulted but the police arrested the offenders. Both parties held meetings which were interrupted by members of the other. A riot may be precipitated any moment. Ben. Harrison has arrived, and is greatly incensed; prominent Democrats also disapprove proceedings.

The Sun's Fort Wayne says the best proof that the State has gone crazy upon the subject of the election is the fact that at all the stops made by the Blaine train yesterday there were long lines of young women, wearing campaign uniforms, marching with torches over their shoulders with the men. In some places the young women were the beauties of the place. The young women march and sing while their brothers shout.

HORRIBLE DEATH.

Three Men Precipitated into a Coke Oven — No Trace of their Remains Left.

TUNNELTON, W. Va., Oct. 21.—While three men were pushing a car of coal along a tramway over the Thomas' coke ovens last night, a boy called their attention to a crack in the top of the oven. While examining it the top caved in, precipitating the men into a mass of white hot coke. When the oven was emptied an hour later not a trace of the men was found.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

Rapid Construction.

The Canada Pacific Railway Company have taken over from the contractors that portion of the road extending from Sudbury Junction to Pogamasing. This section is fifty-nine miles in length, and its opening is of great importance to Ontario, as it gives access to a large section of the Province, rich in undeveloped resources and especially valuable for its mineral deposits. The work of construction on the Nipissing division is being pushed forward vigorously. Thirty-six miles of track have been laid between Dog Lake and Pogamasing, and the contractors expect to have the remaining 154 miles of this section completed by April 1. Seventy-five miles of track on the Lake Superior division, extending from Dog Lake to Port Arthur, a distance of 251 miles, has also been laid this season and the remainder will be handed over to the Company in the spring.—Globe.

TWENTY YEARS IN CANADA.

A Lecture by an Old Resident of Peterborough—Canada's Progress.

We quote from the San Francisco Call the following account of a lecture delivered in that city by Mr. John Elder, formerly of this town. We must, however, remark that we do not endorse Mr. Elder's conclusion:—

"On Thursday evening last John Elder lectured on 'Twenty Years in Canada' before a large audience in Fidelity Hall. After speaking of the first practical exploration of the St. Lawrence as far as Montreal by Jacques Cartier in 1534, and by Champlain soon afterwards, the lecturer gave a brief historical sketch of Canada down to the Dominion Confederation in 1867. He paid special attention to the educational system of Canada, for which he gave great credit to Dr. Ryerson, who was sent by the Government to visit all countries having specially good systems of education. The doctor devoted his life to this work and the application of his experience to the establishment of an educational system which Canada now claims to be equal to any in the world. Speaking of the vast political and commercial strides Canada has made within the memory of the present generation, the lecturer concluded by remarking that in that time 'Canada has risen from the position of a struggling colony to be one of the greatest and progressive countries of the age. Canada is an agricultural country, with a soil as fertile as any, and can produce wheat enough to give bread to the whole world. It is also rich in timber. Its coal and mineral wealth is beyond question. It also holds a third rate position among the nations in merchant shipping. The Camadian people are known all over the world as a hard-working, honest people, and are loyal and true to the Government.' The following rather startling prophecy concluded the lecture: 'She will in the near future break loose from the mother-country, and take her place among the leading nations of the world. Canadians can well afford to hold up their heads with pride and admiration of the young Dominion and its institutions.'"

The San Francisco Advertiser says of this lecture:—

"Mr. John Elder's lecture on Canada, delivered before a large audience, on Thursday evening last, at Fidelity Hall, 218 Post street, was so well received that the Canadian Association has resolved to have it printed. This compliment was well deserved, as the lecture was highly interesting."

THEY MUST SWIM ACROSS.

Canadians Debarred from Running Ferries to Buffalo.

A despatch from Buffalo says:—The common council denied the petition of the new Fort Erie Ferry Company to grant a license to enter the port of Buffalo. Ald. White said:—"It was a poor policy to work in the interests of Fort Erie to the disadvantage of Buffalo. He thought it was a speculative scheme to bring Fort Erie land into the market. Their people would then move to Fort Erie and there spend money they earned in Buffalo. He didn't want to see Buffalo build up that sand bar at the expense of its citizens, and he would not vote for the American ferry, if they would commence running before 7 in the morning, because they would bring Canadians over here to work and take away the bread from the mouths of the poor and idle of Buffalo. He hoped to God that the Canadians would have to swim across sooner than a Canadian ferry should succeed." After the discussion by Ald. Drake, Callaghan, and others, the petition was denied by an unanimous vote, which practically debars any Canadian ferry company from entering the port of buffalo, but, on account of the opposition of the Canadian Government, the present ferry company is likewise prevented from going to Fort Erie. Just what will be the result of the fight is not known, but it is understood the two companies will come to an amicable settlement.

Advance in Oil.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 21.—The Oil Exchange is in a state of greater animation to-day than it has been since the famous Pennsylvania Bank deals disturbed it. Failure has followed failure, until the brokers stopped trading, and wanted to see what was coming. The distrust became so general that solid brokers were afraid to deal with half the men who clamoured around the bull ring. The bull raid has been one of the most successful ever made. Since yesterday the market has advanced fifteen cents. Many of the shrewdest dealers have been caught badly. The short interest here is estimated at 5,000,000 barrels. The failures to-day were A. A. Adams, 12,000 barrels; R. B. Towers, 15,000 barrels; J. K. Barbour, 9,000 barrels; Hendricks & McLaughlin, 1,000 barrels. The difference in cash in the above failures is not large.

The Three Emperors.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Hartman, the Nihilist, is in the city. He says the meeting of the three Emperors was the outcome of a commission of Grand Dukes appointed three years ago at the instance of the Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs to consider measures for meeting the growing anarchichal revolt in the army. This Commission resolved that Russia should propose to Germany and Aussria that in case of the Imperial family being threatened with imminent danger the two latter Powers should send enough troops to the frontier to allow of the disbanding of the Russian native army from Colonels downward, while all officers above the rank of Colonel should remain Russians. Hartman believes that was the principal object of the Conference, and that most likely the Czar's proposal was accepted by the other Kaisers.

Village Destroyed.

GASPE, Oct. 21.—A bush fire spread last night to the village of Chlorydorme, destroying all the houses and boats of the place, and rendering about 20 families homeless. The people at first took shelter in the woods, but were soon surrounded by fire and obliged to flee to the sea coast, where they are utterly destitute. One family is reported missing, but may yet turn up. The poor people saved nothing and are foodless. Their sufferings will be very great unless assistance reaches them soon. Chlorydorme is about half way between Matane and Gaspe.

The Government has projected an experiment to ascertain whether naphtha residium can be advantageously used as fuel for steam engines. If the experiment is successful, the adoption of this substance as fuel for the Russian fleet, instead of coal, is contemplated.

UNEASINESS IN PARIS.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Chinese troops continue to pour into Tonquin, and great uneasiness is felt in Paris. The Cabinet is divided as to what measures to take to provide reinforcements. The minister of war declines to mobilize the corps d'armes without the authority of the Chambers.

SEIZURE OF PAMPHLETS.

VIENNA, Oct. 21.—Several boxes of seditious pamphlets addressed to Vienna Socialists, from Geneva, have been seized here. Several of the Hungarian Police officers, charged with connivance at anarchist plots, have been suspended and sent to Pesth for trial. The newspapers of Pesth, however, say that the accused are connected with bands of thieves.

FAILING IN HEALTH.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The Emperor and Empress of Germany are at Baden. The physicians say that the Emperor's throat is in a bad state, and they have forbidden him to take outdoor exercise. He had intended to assist at the opening of the great Kaiser Wilhelm University at Strasburg on the 26th inst., but the doctors have forbidden him to undertake the journey, and Baron Von Monteuffel, the Governor of Alsace-Lorraine, will officiate as the Emperor's representative.

Satisfactory Explanation.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 21.—Mr. B. Osterhout, of Cobourg, who was arrested here for stealing a $1,000 Canada Pacific railway bond, was discharged to-day, the prosecutors contending that while they were entirely justified in causing the prisoner's arrest, yet his explanation of how the bond came in his possession was perfectly satisfactory.

Terrible Farm Accident.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 21.—The boiler of a threshing machine on Leech & Nicholl's farm at Beitramie exploded to-day, killing Thomas Exender, the engineer, John Smith, John Lingwood, Chris. Swanson, John Johnson, farm hands, and Wm. Pierce, aged 11, and an unknown man was badly scalded. The engineer was recovering from a debauch.

Formerly of Ottawa.

The Ottawa Free Press publishes a telegram from Lacrosse, Wis., from I. H. Brock, at one time a well known Canadian journalist, stating that Frank A. Burton, the leader of a Blaine and Logan Club, who was shot dead there in a political demonstration, was a press operator in the Parliament buildings at Ottawa, in 1867, and a protege of the Hon. T. D'Arcy McGee.

Injured by Dynamite.

MONTREAL, Oct. 21.—A man named Flemming, residing at Bergerville, in the employ of H. J. Beemer, contractor for the new aqueduct, took a dynamite cartridge out of his vest pocket to put it out of his children's reach. While doing so the cartridge exploded, shattering his hand very badly. He was taken to the Marine hospital, when it was found necessary to amputate the hand.

A Fifty Thousand Dollar Libel Suit.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Oct. 21.—An action for libel, with damages laid at $50,000, has been commenced by John E. The libel was contained in an item telegraphed to the latter paper from here and appearing yesterday, falsely connecting the plaintiff with a suit for breach of promise.

The Hay Duties.

If reports be correct, that claims for the duty improperly collected at United States ports upon hay from Canada will be paid upon presentation at the treasury, in Washington, quite a lot of money will come to Kingston. Sabre Bros, are entitled to over $15,000, and Messrs. Going, Radford, McCrae and others have large claims. J. McPherson, of St. John's, P. Q., seeks $10,000, and W. Loomis, of watertown is largely interested.—Whig.

A Great Drought.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—No rain has fallen at Atlanta River for over two months, and the cotton crop in that vicinity will fall short forty per cent. Near Shreveport, La, the cotton crop will be only two-thirds of the average. At Petersburg, Va, the cotton factories are closed on account of the scarity of water. There has been no rain of any consequence in the vicinity of Washington for nearly three months. The shade trees show the affect of the long draught, and the grass in many places dead.

Raised Notes.

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.—Two men have been arrested in the city for passing counterfeit notes at the Dime Museum last evening. The notes were $2 with a nought after the two, thus making them go for $20. One of the men tried to pass a bill at the Grand Opera House, but failed, running away and leaving the note in the manager's hands on the latter threatening to have him arrested. The men appeared at the Police Court this morning. Their names are Adolphus La Blance and Eugene Bail. The case was remanded.

FREE TRADE AND PROTECTION

We have had occasion to draw attention to the growing feeling in Great Britain against that one-sided free trade which, under the influence of competition with a protective system in other countries, is trying so severely the industries of the northern country. We will now give some further instances of the results of this disastrous competition.

The London Daily Telegraph, one of the leading Liberal journals of England, in a recent article on "The Decline of the English Silk Trade," says :—

"Macclesfield has a formidable rival in Paterson, New Jersey, where the silk trade was established forty years ago by Mr. John Ryle, a former inhabitant of the old town. So rapidly has the trade developed in Paterson that in a comparatively short period she has doubled her population at the expense, within the past ten years especially, of Macclesfield, it being estimated that since 1874 no fewer than 1,000 weavers and their families have emigrated to seek on American soil the labor denied them at home. From time to time it has been pointed out that unless there were cohesion at home the trade must go abroad ; and more than one effort has been made to rectify acknowledged abuses, but they have proved futile."

Here is an instance of an important industry being severely crippled, in a contest between so-called free trade and a sensible system of protection to home industries. We will now give another quotation to the same effect. The Monetary Times, an important commercial organ and by no meas prejudiced in favour of protection, says :—

"The Scottish jute industry is endangered by serious competition. It is stated that the manufactories of Germany have added 10,000 spindles to their existing machinery, giving a capacity for turning out 770,000 hundred weight per annum. The news has created quite an alarm north of the Tweed, where 20,000 persons are now engaged in the industry. The capacity of the German mills is now nearly equal to one half the capacity of all the mills in Scotland."

Here again we have the same lesson. The encouragement that the United States is giving to the silk trade is being afforded by Germany to the jute industry, in both cases building up important interests at home, and taking business from the British capitalist and workingman. These are only specimens of a process that is steadily going on, not only in these, but in other countries.

Is it strange then that the British capitalist and workingman are growing weary of a free trade which leaves their market free to foreign manufacturers, without giving them free access to foreign markets? Yet we are advised by some to adapt the same suicidal course.

A CORRUPT ATTORNEY GENERAL.

In order to break the force of the proof that Mr. Mowat bought Mr. Hart and his vote, the Kingston British Whig asserts that Mr. Hart is a staunch Liberal. This defence will not do, for the Globe has already given us Mr. Hart's history in this matter. The leading organ of the Reform party informs us that (1) Mr. Hart was the choice on the third ballot of the Liberal Conservative Convention held at Picton on Jan. 6, 1883 ; (2) that Mr. Hart five days later accepted the nomination of the Liberal Conservative Convention ; (3) that a member of the Mowat Administration took the platform to oppose Mr. Hart ; (4) that after Mr. Hart won the election the Reformers of Prince Edward applied to the Judge for a recount, but his majority was thereby increased ; (5) that Mr. Striker, the defeated Government candidate, went to Toronto with a petition against Mr. Hart's return and the funds to make the deposit ; (6) that Attorney General Mowat prevailed upon Mr. Striker not to file the petition because he had received assurances that Mr. Hart would support him ; (7) that the petition was therefore not filed.

So much for the Globe's history of Mr. Hart's election as a Conservative, his treason, and the price paid to him for it by Mr. Mowat.

Then a staunch Reform paper, the Picton Times, completed the history by publishing Mr. Hart's agreement to sell himself and his constituents by supporting the Mowat Administration, which he was elected to oppose.

This last document the Globe does not venture to notice, possibly with the idea that it might by any indiscreet remark afford further evidence against the corrupt Attorney General of Ontario.

We quoted recently an article from the Montreal Post in which the Globe was condemned for its unseemly articles in regard to the health of Sir John Macdonald. We are pleased to see that several Independent and Liberal papers have shown their approval of that condemnation by quoting the article with approval, and by placing it in their editorial columns.

The Dominion Loan.

The Globe made an attack on the Finance Minister the other day based on the assertion that the Canadian 3½ per cent bonds are selling in London at 96, and that by parting with them in June and fixing the minimum price at 91, the country had sustained a loss of several hundred thousand dollars. The Globe will now have to revise its figures. The price of the bonds in London is 93⅞ by last advices, and as interest of 1½ per cent, has secured, as the difference between the wholesale and retail price is admitted by the Globe to be one per cent., and stated by Sir Richard Cartwright to be two per cent., and as a fraction over 91 was obtained for the bonds, it will be seen that the Finance Minister sold at an opportune time and obtained a good figure for the bonds.—Montreal Gazette.

Signs of Prosperity.

Under the above heading the Cobourg Sentinel-Star says :—

"The Peterborough DAILY REVIEW has again been enlarged, making its columns considerably larger. The REVIEW is an excellent daily, full of good local and general news. We wish it continued success."

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

CARTWRIGHT CONDEMNED.

A continuous deficit is still more culpable, for it saps the foundations of credit and if continued long enough must lead to bankruptcy.—Monetary Times.

CRIME COMMITTED.

It is evident that Mr. Mowat has been engaged in a conspiracy. He not only offered a member a valuable consideration for his support in the Legislature, but he carried out the arrangement by personally inducing Mr. Striker not to enter the protest. Himself being the judge, Mr. Mowat has been guilty of crime.—Hamilton Spectator.

BRITISH MAIL SUBSIDY.

If, as now seems probable, the British subsidy for carrying the Pacific mails be obtained for our Canadian route, Canada will have just reason to be rejoiced thereat. This subsidy will go far towards securing a successful steamship communication between British Columbia and the east and thus contribute largely to the building of a trade with China and Japan by way of our Canadian Pacific Railway.—St. John Sun.

MOWAT CONDEMNED.

To meet current expenses, the proceeds of public lands ought not to be systematically used. An occasional application of these to such a purpose may be compared to a resort to an exceptional loan to supply a deficit of revenue. The rule should be that the proceeds of land sales ought not to be counted as ordinary revenue, and its application is the more necessary in a province where the sources of revenue, outside of direct taxes, are limited, and where a resort to direct taxes require a degree of courage which public men do not possess.—Monetary Times.

A PROSPEROUS PORT.

Three banking institutions in a town the size of Port Arthur is not so slow, and we fancy can hardly be beaten anywhere. They all do a paying business, as all have large deposits in their savings departments. Besides there was deposited in the post office savings bank during the past six months over $40,000. Laboring men and mechanics are evidently saving money here, which is an evidence of good times.—Port Arthur Sentinel.

BELVA ANN'S TRICK.

Mrs. Belva Lockwood presents to the world the first instance of a Presidental nomination made and used purely for advertising purposes. Nobody can vote for her, but she obtains a notoriety which must be profitable to her as a member of the Washington bar. Thus there are high tricks even in the legal profession.—New York Sun.

THE INDIAN TREATIES.

The London Advertiser persists in its contention that the Indians had no right in or title to the disputed territory, for which they ought to be paid. If our contemporary was honest, it would have objected to the treaties under which the Indian title was extinguished, when they were made. Mr. Mackenzie, Mr. Blake, Mr. Mills, and all the members of the Grit party acquiesced in the bargain made with the Indians and they are therefore estopped from raising any objection at this time. Further, if we remember correctly, the Mackenzie Government negotiated a treaty with some of the Indians to the same end as those treaties to which the Advertiser now objects.—Belleville Intelligencer.

QUEER SITUATION OF A SITUATION.

The result of the Ohio election leaves the Presidential situation exactly where it was—in the midst of a vast uncertainty.—Winnipeg Times.

THE MICHIPICOTEN RIOTS.

A Port Arthur Version of the Troubles—An Office Riddled with Bullets.

The Port Arthur Sentinel gives the following account of the trouble at Michipicoten :—Matters in Michipicoten are daily growing from bad to worse, and is threatened soon to become a rival to Peninsula Harbour in lawlessness. The rowdy element has taken possession of the town, and threatening letters has been sent to a majority of the respectable residents ordering them to leave the town or they will be promptly dealt with. The police magistrate, Brigadier Burden, was fired at in bed a few nights ago, the ball passing within a few inches of his head. Another gentleman named Allison, who was asleep in the same house at the time, was also fired at, but luckily escaped being shot.

The climax was reached on Friday night last, however, when Mr. John McKenzie, who had been detailed for special work at Michipicoten, by Mr. Ross, of the C. P. R., was in Mr. Macdonald's office, the manager for the company at Michipicoten. A furious fusillade was opened on the building. On the gentlemen going out to ascertain the cause of the shooting they, in company with Mr. Wilson, were made the target for the pistols of a number of masked men who opened a heavy fire on them. All escaped injury but Mr. McKenzie, who was shot in the hand, the ball inflicting an ugly though not necessarily dangerous wound. Mr. McKenzie arrived in town last night by the steamer City of Montreal and was seen by a Sentinel reporter. He says that he has had his hand probbed for the ball, but, so far, it has not been got out. He declared that the office of the C. P. R., in front of which they were standing, was riddled with bullets, and he considered the escape of all three from the bullets of the would-be assassins simply wonderful. No arrests were made, as it would be impossible to convict any of the roughs. He further says the place is full of boarding houses, all of which sell whiskey, its market value being $6 a bottle. Among those who have received notice from the roughs to leave are Mr. Macdonald, the C. P. R. agent, Mr. French, of the firm of Geddes & Co., and others. Mr. McKenzie is the guest of Mr. Worthington, of the Customs Department on Nugent street. Brigadier Burden has left Michipicoten for the Sault, to bring up an armed force and endeavor to rid the town of the roughs and restore order.

THE END OF THE TRACK.

Rapid Progress Being Made On the Construction Of the C.P. Railway.

Mr. T. A, Gorham, of the C. P. R., returned last night from a trip to the Rockies. He says that there are twenty inches of snow in the summit of the Mountains, and that is falling more or less every day and has been for the past week. The work of construction is being pushed rapidly ahead, but some draw backs are being met with, owing to the fact that the clay slides occasionally, and this makes a good deal of extra cutting necessary. Some difficulty has been experienced owing to so much rain. The track is now laid some forty miles over the summit. There is sufficient materal on hand to continue the work of construction up to Christmas, and supplies are now being taken in to push on the work for the remainder of the winter. The contractors fully expect to reach the crossing of the Columbia before winter sets in without much difficulty. A "tote" road for hauling in supplies has been cut as far as the summit of the Selkirks and it is thought will be completed by spring as far as to meet the Onderdonk contract so that people travelling through from the end of the track on this side of the mountains will be able to travel by waggon or buggy through to the end of the track on the British Columbia side without much difficulty. In fact a stage line will probably be opened early next summer to unite the two ends, the same as on the Northern Pacific when it was in course of construction. —Winnipeg Times, Oct. 15.

Serious Fire.

TRENTON, Ont., Oct. 21.—At one o'clock this morning a disastrous fire took place in Frankford. It commenced at Foster's bakery and communicating to the west took B. B. Ostrom's drug store and the Orange Hall, Dr. Stevenson's drug store, John Chapman's boot store, the post office and telegraph office, Mrs. Patterson's, milliner, W. Van Norman, harness shop, L. Obown, tinsmith, P. McCambridge, brick hotel. On the east of Foster's it took in Turley Bros. dry goods, Blakely, dwelling, Mrs. Gamble, dwelling, besides several barns and sheds. R. Grass' store was the only one in the block that was saved. Sills' mills were on fire several times. The losses and insurance are as yet unknown.

Our Commercial Policy.

Although all sorts of schemes are being daily propounded for a change in the commercial policy of the Dominion, we find nothing in the utterances of the Hon. Mr. Blake to indicate the views of the party, of which he is the acknowledged leader. On the occasion of his visit to Chatteauquay, he was the recipient of an address from "the Liberals," and it might have been expected that some reference would have been made in it to the principles held in common by those who presented it and Mr. Blake ; but although the former state that "they have been close observers of passing events, and of nothing more critically than your public career." and although reference is made to Mr. Blake's "public utterances in Parliament," yet all that we are further told is that his "eloquent appeals for the just rights of the people, without distinction of race or creed," constitute his claim to public confidence. Now, we apprehend that it would be difficult to find a politician in the Dominion who would acknowledge that he was an advocate of the deprivation of any portion of our population, whatever their race or creed, of their just rights. What has Mr. Blake himself said ?

We shall not follow him in his onslaught on the Pacific Railway policy of the Government, because we feel assured that there will be no second opinion as to that question being now "a dead issue." We should be sorry to impute to Mr. Blake a desire to violate the public faith of the Government and the Parliament, but even if there were persons so inclined, it would be hardly possible for them to interfere with the existing arrangements. The real practical issue before the country is its commercial policy, and although, as we have stated at the commencement of these remarks, all sorts of schemes are daily propounded, Mr. Blake was much too cautious to commit himself to any of them.—Journal of Commerce,

We do not Claim

That Shaker Blood Syrup will cure everything, but the fact that on the purity and vitality of the blood depends the vigor and health of the whole system, and that disease of various kinds is often only the sign that nature is trying to remove the disturbing cause, we are naturally led to the concision that a remedy that gives life and vigor to the blood, eredicates scrofula and and other impurities from it, as Shaker Blood Syrup undoubtedly does, must be the means of preventing many diseases that would occur without its use ; hence the field of its usefullness is quite an extended one, and we are warranted in recommending it for all derangements of the system which are caused by an unnatural state of the blood.

Gentlemen.—I was a great sufferer from Salt-Rheum on my limbs, for 12 years previous to the summer of 1876, at which time I was cured by Shaker Blood Syrup. The skin would become dry, chap, crack, open, bleed and itch intensely, so that I could not help scratching, which of course made them worse. At the time I commenced taking Shaker Blood Syrup (in the summer of 1876) they were so bad that they discharged, and I was obliged to keep them bandaged with lines cloths. The skin was drawn so tight by the heat of the disease that if I stooped over they would crack open and actually bring tears to my eyes. The first bottle benefited me so much that I continued taking it till I was cured. Hoping many others may learn the value of Shaker Blood Syrup, and receive as much benefit as I have, I am,

Very truly yours,

MARRYING IN MANITOBA.

That there's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip was fully exemplified last Monday, and a farmer named Thompson, who lives near Long Lake, will, no doubt, admit the truth of it. He was about to marry a young girl of 18 years, named Lee, and the match was looked favourably upon by the father, as Thompson was said to be well supplied with this world's goods. There was an obstacle in the way, and that was that the girl loved another—a man named Russell. However, things seemed to go on smoothly enough, and the expectant bridegroom with his intended, was in town on Thursday last purchasing a large supply of necessaries for their wedding, which was to have taken place on Monday. Mr. Thompson came to Minnedosa again on Saturday last to purchase more goods, also receiving a wedding present for the bride from Mr. J. D. Gillies. It was late in the evening when he left for home, and when he got there the bird had flown. She had left her father's house some time during the afternoon, and started across the prairie afoot to find her affinity. She lost her way, but was found by a farmer who knew her, and who got her into his buggy and drove her about twelve miles to the place where the object of her affections was supposed to be On their arrival she was much disappointed to find that he was in Minnedosa, so she continued her way to the house of a friend named Alexander Abel, where she remained over Sunday. On Monday morning the young man Russell heard of the escapade, and was preparing to go out to Abel's when he heard the voice of his future father-in-law, and fearing arrest, got out through the back door of the hotel and made a bee line across the prairie to where his heart's idol was awaiting him. The father had come to town to have the party arrested, and while standing on Main street bridge talking to Chief Cameron about the matter, the Rev. Mr. Wellwood passed them on his way to marry the pair. Having heard the true state of affairs from the party that came to procure the license and the minister, Mr. Cameron was in no hurry to mar the happiness of two fond hearts. He started the old gentleman off to the house where the wedding was to take place saying there was no time to lose, and telling him they would get there as quickly by a short cut afoot, as he (the father) would with his pony. The chief went with Mr. Lee a short distance, and then turned to take the short cut through the woods, but the buggy was hardly out of hearing when he walked quietly back to town feeling that he had performed his duty faithfully, if not to the father, at least to the young people. But more disappointment awaited the happy couple. On the arrival of the Rev. Mr. Wellwood at Abel's and seeing the girl he refused to marry them, as she appeared to be under age. They were not to be baulked, however, and soon procured the services of another minister, who securely tied the knot which made them one flesh. They then came to Minnedosa, where with a party of friends they spent an enjoyable evening tripping it till nearly dawn.

OUR SLEEPING ROOMS.

A physician of note says, "We hear a great talk about malaria now-a-days, but there is more malaria to be found in most modern bedchambers than anywhere else." Persons who are moderately intelligent on other topics, appear to have small thought, or that very perverted, on the subject of hygiene in their sleeping rooms, and especially those occupied by children. The ventilation of a bedchamber cannot be too carefully attended to; and, as says Horace Mann, "seeing the atmosphere is forty miles deep all around the globe, it is a useless piece of economy to breathe it more than once." Yet nine mothers out of ten will carefully close all the windows, "for fear of colds and night air," and leave two or three children to sleep in a stifling atmosphere, and see no connection between the colds and throat troubles they have, and the vitiated air she compels them to breathe night after night. Let the morning air and sunshine into the bedroom as soon as possible after the occupants have risen; and if there is no sunshine, and it is not raining, let in the air. Do not make up beds too soon after they are vacated. You might get your house tidied sooner, but it is neither cleanly nor healthful to snugly pack up bed clothing until the exhalations of the sleepers' bodies have been removed by exposure to the air.

Look carefully after the wash-stand and the various utensils belonging thereto. The soap-dishes and tooth-brush mugs cannot be kept too scrupulously clean. All slops and foul water should be emptied very promptly. Wash out and sun all pitchers, glasses, and whatever vessels are used in the sleeping room. Never allow water, or stale bouquets of flowers to stand for days in the chamber after the departure of a guest. Towels that have been used should be promptly removed, and no soiled clothing allowed to hang or accumulate about the room. Closets opening into a sleeping apartment are often the receptacles of soiled clothes, shoes, etc., and become fruitful sources of bad air, particularly where there are small children. After such places the housewife should look with a keen eye for objectionable articles, and remove them with an unsparing hand. I have encountered such closets, in which one might find all the odors traditionally belonging to the city of Cologne—any one of which was enough to suggest ideas of disease germs.

Even so innocent a piece of furniture as the bureau, may by carelessness become the recipient of articles, which may taint the air of your bedchamber. Damp and soiled combs and brushes are not only unsightly and disgusting, but lying soiled and unaired from day to day, will certainly contribute to evil air and odors, as will also greasy and highly scented hair ribbons, etc. Never lay freshly laundried clothes upon the bed; nor air the same in your bedroom, if possible do so elsewhere. Do not hesitate to light a fire on cool mornings and evenings; and if so fortunate as to have an open fire place, you possess a grand means of comfort and ventilation in the bedchamber.

Dr. LOW'S Worm Syrup will remove worms and cause, quicker than any other medicine.

IN a cave lately discovered near Jacksboro, Tennessee, there are crickets as large as sparrows.

FOR nettle rash, itching piles, ringworm eruptions, and all skin diseases, use Prof. Low's Sulphur Soap.

DESTROY the worms or they may destroy the children. Use Ereman's Worm Powders, they expel all kinds of worms.

If the type-writer could spell, it would be a highly useful machine. Its orthography is abominable.

OH! how tired and weak I feel, I don't believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning! O yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Doctor Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50c.

IT is curious that in nearly all the newspaper references to the new English ambassador at Berlin Sir Edwin Malet is mentioned as Sir Edward.

USEFUL TO KNOW.—Everyone should know that Hagyard's Yellow Oil will give prompt relief; applied externally will stop any pain; and taken internally cures colds, asthma, croup, sore throat and most inflammatory complaints.

IN Lord Malmesbury's "Recollections" there are several amusing answers of children. This is one of the best:—A child being asked what at baptism was the outward and visible sign, replied: "The baby."

A GOOD RECORD—Among the many thousand bottles of Hagyard's Yellow Oil sold annually in Canada not one has ever failed to give satisfaction. It cures rheumatism, colds and all painful complaints and injuries.

A TEXAS newspaper praises the pastor of the town thus: "Rev. Mr Hole can run a horse race, and can make it hot for his opponents in a foot race. He can also jump a hurdle, sing a song, and at the end of the week preach a very good sermon withal."

EVERYBODY having a cough is invited to call on J. D. Tully and get a bottle of Hub Cough Cure for 25c. It acts very quickly on children or adults.

So many write us of the merits of Zopesa from the West, Canada, the East and at home; they write of being cured of liver troubles, dyspepsia, urniary troubles, chronic headaches, etc., but we cannot publish them—any drug store keeps Zopesa. Ask J. D. Tully.

FAT people have now their choice between four systems. 1. The original Banting, which consists of eating nothing containing starch, sugar or fat. 2. The Gorman Banting, which allows fat, but forbids sugar or starch. 4. A Munich system, which consists of being clothed in wool, and sleeping in flannel blankets instead of sheets. 4. Not eating and drinking at the same time.

MANY forget that the hair and scalp need cleansing as well as the hands and feet. Extensive use of Ayer's Hair Vigor has shown that it is the best cleansing agent for the hair—that it prevents as well as removes dandruff, cools and soothes the scalp, and stimulates the hair to renewed growth and beauty.

MURRAY & Lanman's Florida Water is probably the simplest and purest perfume ever made, being absolutely nothing more than the delicious fragrance of rare flowers, preserved and made permanent, and it is doubtless to this purity of composition that its immense popularity is in a great measure to be ascribed.

IN Russia, the late Emperor Alexander observed the sentinel always marching up and down on a grass plot. Upon enquiry, he discovered that the Empress Catharine had observed an early daisy on the plot, and had remarked to one of her state that she hoped that it would not be picked. Ever after a sentinel had kept watch and guard by night and by day over the plot.

An elastic step, buoyant spirits, and clear complexions, are among he many desirable results of pure blood. The possessor of healthy blood has his faculties at command, and enjoys a clear and quick perception, which is impossible when the blood is heavy and sluggish with impurieties. Ayers Sarsaparilla is the best blood purifier and vitalizer known.

Cash and Credit.

A respectable firm in the dry goods and grocery business at Berlin, Ont., who courageously inaugurated the "cash and produce" system early last spring, now address their customers as follows:—"The battle has been going on steadily for the last seven months, and is now declared won, fairly and squarely. On entering the field for action flying reports had it the battle would be of short duration, but, to the contrary, the fight is going on bravely, the enemy is subdued and at bay and we have the field. Braced the storm, stood to the helm of our ship, struck shore, landed customers and ourselves high and dry out of the dregs, slums and shackles of high prices and long credit, and determined in the future to cling to the new ship, store and firm and sail under the ready pay cash and produce system; by doing so we remain free and independent citizens and will owe no man a dollar, being fully satisfied no inducement, however great, could again tempt our thousands of customers to fall back into the broiling deep and fight for life under long credit and high prices, and ruin in the end; hundreds and thousands of our sturdy yeomanry, skilled mechanics and artisans of every description, as well as the retired millionaire, heartily approve of the stand adopted by us, and will stand by us not for an age but for all time to come, so sure as the rising and setting of the sun."—Journal of Commerce.

TIES TO ONE HUNDRED FEET.

There was addressed to the Register this week the query: "How many ties are laid to 100 feet of track, and, also, how many to the mile?" The number of cross-ties in a mile of track varies largely in different roads. Every first-class line has at least 2,640, or one every two feet, and some exceed 3,200 per mile. Then again, there is a difference on different parts of the same road. A tie, to grade, must present a clear surface of eight inches and a thickness of six inches. Sometimes ties below grade are used and the difference balanced by increased numbers. To illustrate the existing difference take the following examples from St. Louis roads: The Cairo Short Line uses 2,640 cross-ties per mile, as does also the Missouri Pacific on all new road; The Wabash, from 2,700 to 3,000; with the St. Louis and Cairo, 3,000 is the standard. The Vandalia Line uses 3,200 cross-ties per mile, and this also the average on the Frisco Line, although there are as high as 3,280 on some portions of the Arkansas division of the latter road. Of the railways entering this city perhaps 2,900 cross-ties per mile would be a fair average.—Railway Register.

A Church Built With One Tree.

A redwood tree, cut in this country, furnishes all the timber for the Baptist church in Santa Rosa, one of the largest church edifices in the country. The interior of the building is finished in wood, there being no plastered walls. Sixty thousand shingles were made from the tree after enough was taken for the church. Another redwood tree, cut near Murphy's mill, in this country, about ten years ago, furnished shingles that required the constant labor two industrious men for two years before the tree was used up. The above statements are vouched for as true by Supervisor T. J. Proctor, of Santa Rosa.—Santa Rosa (Cal.) Republican.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—Fortelling the weather is a useful science, but relieving the effects of its sudden changes is a better one Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam cures coughs and colds, incident to sudden changes.

WE have a speedy and positive cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria, Canker mouth and Headache, in Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. A nasal injector free with each bottle. Use it if you desire health and sweet breath. Price 50c. For sale by J. D. Tully.

INHUMAN CRUELTY.—It is a barbaric cruelty to torture the weak stomachs of chronic invalids with harsh purgatives and sickening drugs, when Burdock Blood Bitters will regulate the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys in so agreeable and effectual a manner.

A REMARKABLE DISCOVERY.—A council of doctors declared Mrs. Adelaide O'Brien, of 372 Exchange St., Buffalo, incurable. Her liver was badly disordered; she vomited green mucous; could retain no food; skin yellow and full of humors. She was rapidly sinking; but Burdock Blood Bitters cured her.

A GOOD TEST.—For over 16 years G. M. Everest, of Forest, has sold Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, and its sales are steadily increasing. It cures coughs, colds and all lung complaints; is pleasant to take and always reliable.

CHOLERA

—IS—

COMING!

The countries where Cholera prevails, as in India, China and Africa, Pain-Killer is considered the surest and safest of all remedies, and the natives place the most perfect confidence in it.

Read the following extract from the letter of a missionary in China:

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness to send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours.

J. M. JOHNSON,
Missionary to Swaton, China

Have received, as usual, the highest awards. The following report of the judges shows:—

IMPROVEMENTS.

Class 13, section 8.

1. New horizontal bellows and extra large air chest, also extra feeding bellows for the foot blowing.
2. New concave and radial top facing pedals, as recommended by the College of Organists of London, England.
3. The centre C of the manual opposite the centre C of the pedal.
4. The front of the pedal sharps form an arc of a circle, having a radius of 8 ft. 6 in.
5. A new pedal to swell coupler.
6. A new double octave coupler.
7. A new stop in reed organ (a three-rank mixture).

ORCHESTRAL ORGANS.

Class 13, section 19.

The new sub-bass in these organs reaches the 16 feet fancy stops of the treble, thus avoiding the usual break noticed in ordinary organs when drawing full organ.

Considering the above improvements, both mechanical and artistic, which enhance the touch, tone, and durability of the instruments, and considering also that this display is the largest and most varied, and best assorted, that has ever been exhibited here, we, the undersigned judges, recommend that the committee should take it into their best consideration to award the highest recompense.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Strong winds and moderate gales from the west and north-west; cloudy to rainy weather; falling temperaturtes; clearing cool weather to-night and to-morrow.

Curling.

With the frosty weather and the prospect of the covenience and increased accommodation of the new rink, curling interests are fairly "booming." The skips appointed at the annual meetmeeting are already making up their rinks, and will be ready for the first ice. Numbers of new members have signified their intention of playing, and there is little doubt that this will be the liveliest and best season on record in the history of the club.

Induction and Confirmation Services.

At St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, next Sunday morning, during the 11 o'clock service, the Lord Bishop of the Diocese will induct the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw into the possession of the parish of Ashburnham, it having recently been constituted a Rectory. The service of Induction appointed by the Provincial Synod will be used on the occasion, and the sermon will be preached by the Right Reverend the Bishop of Toronto. CORNICE POLES complete at A. CLEGG'S, only $1.75.

Buggy Smashed.

On Tuesday evening at about half-past five o'clock, a horse attached to a buggy, and belonging to Mr. Wm. Collins, of North Monaghan, ran furiously down Hunter street. The horse was tied to a ring at Mr. R. H. Green's grocery store, but a carriage passing rapidly by frightened the animal, which broke its halter and bolted. When the horse reached the Hunter street bridge some little girls narrowly escaped being run over, some of them having crossed the street immediately in front of the horse. When across the bridge the buggy came in contact with a post, the tugs of the harness broke and the horse was free. The buggy was badly smashed, but the horse, which was caught near Croft's hotel, met with trivial injuries.

Personal.

In its notice of a Grand Union Choral Concert held in Port Hope, the Guide has the following notice of the part taken by one of Peterborough's favorite singers:—

"Miss Cluxton sang 'With Verdure Clad,' and 'Our God Alone Can Save Us.' She was rapturously encored, and in response gave 'One Sweetly Solemn Thought' very, very sweetly. This young lady made a most favourable impression on the large assemblage, and will be royally received when she again favours a Port Hope audience."

We are pleased to see Mr. R. Sailsbury back to his usual post. He has recovered from his recent illness.

Mr. Van Horne, General Manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and Messrs. Hugh Ryan, Superintendent of construction, H. D. Lumsden, Chief Engineer, and W. Whyte, Superintendent of Ontario Division, arrived in Peterborough on Tuesday night in Mr. Van Horne's private car. They remained in town during the night, and departed westward at 5.52 o'clock in the morning.

Bradburn's Opera House.

On Tuesday evening Mr. L. Grover's farce comedy, "All Crazy," was presented by the Barry & Fay Company at Bradburn's Opera House. The hall was well filled, and we may safely say that everyone was satisfied with the performance. The "play," from beginning to end, is full of incongruities, comicalities, and for side-splitting complications it throws Dickens' "Winglebury Duel" far into the shade. The principal characters are Judge O'Grady, a New York police justice and his "coort" officer. The overpowering but somewhat impaired dignity of the one, and the ready wit of the other keep the audience in almost perpetual convulsions of laughter. Messrs. W. Barry and W. H. Lyttell took the parts of the court officers respectively. The supporting officers were well taken, and altogether it is a lively piece of nonsence, which will doubtless meet with immense success.

WHITE AND GREY COTTONS, all qualities, at unusually low prices. Also a lot of Canton Flannel Sheets, cheap. J. ERSKINE.

An Omission.

We omitted to mention in our issue of yesterday evening that a string band has been engaged for the entertainment in St. Mary's School House on Friday evening, and that every preparation is being made for those who wish to "chase the glowing hours with flying feet."

Direct from Germany.

Mr. G. W. Morgan, chemist and druggist, has recently imported a stock of Fahrenheit thermometers from Messrs. Bahmann & Hoehn, Germany. They are all very handsomely finished. Some are finished in porcelain, some in ebony, some are inlaid in wood of different kinds, and others in glass. The thermometers are of various kinds, including the dairy, self-registering, clinical, and bath. The bath thermometer is conveniently encased in wood, so that the instrument may be used to stir the water and at the same time ascertain the temperature. The cream tube, together with the dairy thermometer, will be found to be of great use to farmers. Mr. Morgan has also imported in the above mentioned goods an expensive and very accurate urinometer. He will analyze free of charge for the physicians, and the above instrument will be found to be of invaluable service to medical men in the diagnosis of disease.

Evening Entertainment.

An evening entertainment consisting of a concert, ball and supper was held in the Grange Hall, Swan's Corners, Otonabee, about six miles from Peterborough, in aid of St. Peter's Cathedral building fund. A large number of Peterborough people attended and took part in the programme. The concert was opened by a solo and chorus entitled "Norine Moreen." Miss Mary Dunn sang the solo in a very creditable manner and the chorus was rendered in good style. Mr. F. Clark played three musical instruments at the same time and at another interval brought down the house in a comic song. Mr. T. Dunn contributed a beautiful ballad called "The Old-fashioned Homestead." He possesses a rich and well cultivated baritone and sings with perfect ease. Messrs. T. Dunn, M. Tierney and M. Dunn sang during the evening two choruses, "Genevieve" and "The Bucaneer's Bride," in a finished manner, the solo in the former being taken by Mr. T. Dunn and the chorus sung unaccompanied. Messrs. Wallbrook and Simons in their clog dancing were well received. Mr. M. Tierney gave a song and dance with banjo and organ accompaniment. It was well rendered and was pleasingly effective. Miss Redmond sang a pretty solo very sweetly and the rendition of "Baby's Lullaby" by Miss Annie Dunn was particularly recognized with well deserved applause. The concert passed off most pleasantly. The cross fire of good natured banter between the stage manager and "Muldoon" from Peterborough excited loud laughter. The hall was filled to overflowing and the ball afterwards was enjoyed by all present. A large number sat down to the delightful supper furnished at the residence of Mrs. Swan and the evening closed most happily.

A Curious Teetotal Lecture.

There's danger in the glass. Beware lest it enslaves. They who have drained it find, alas! Too often early graves. It sparkles to allure, With its rich, ruby light; There is no antidote or cure, Only its course to fight. It changes men to brutes; Makes women bow their heads; Fills homes with anguish, want, disputes, And takes from children bread. Then dash the glass away,
And from the serpent flee;
Drink pure cold water day
by day,
And

He Catches the Speaker's Eye.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The constituency which I have the honor to represent is eminently a constituency of well-dressed men. This is not a peculiarity, but a usual and an acknowledged fact.

Now, good clothes are the trade marks of civilization. (Cheers). A well-dressed man is an ornament to society; and society appreciates the compliment by er—ah,—a—a— Gentlemen, you understand. (Hear, hear).

The question may properly be raised, How does it happen that my constituents are well-dressed? I say properly raised, sir, undoubtedly so, most decidedly so, particularly so—if not more so. I feel gratified to find myself in a position to at once, sir, reply to reply with confidence and—and—thank you—with pride to that enquiry.

My constituents are gentlemen of perception and taste. They are men of great discrimination. They—they—in short, know a good thing when they see it. They buy from DOLAN & Co. I may take the liberty of expressing my entire and perfect approval of their judgment; and I, Mr. Speaker, would beg to move, if any honorable member will second it,—That DOLAN & Co. are entitled to the—I appeal to the chair, I will not be put down! PROFANE LANGUAGE.

THURSDAY, Oct. 23.—J. Wilson was charged by P. C. Adams with having used profane language in a public place. The prisoner said that he supposed that he was guilty, but it was his first offence. The Magistrate remarked that he would fine him $2 so as to impress on his mind the insadvisability of so doing in the future.

NON SUPPORT OF FAMILY.

The Shuter non support of family case came up this morning. The evidence of the eldest daughter was taken and that of Mr. G. Carton in reference to groceries supplied. It seems that both parties were to blame. The wife refused to sit at the same table with her husband and the husband in retaliation locked the victuals up in a box. The case was adjourned for a month. Mr. G. W. Hatton for the complainant and Mr. A. P. Pousette for the defendant.

DISTURBING THE SAVED ARMY.

Henry Marshall was charged with having wilfully disturbed a number of persons assembled for public worship at the old Music Hall. The prisoner pleaded not guilty. Several witnesses were examined and the charge proved. The prisoner was fined $2 and costs. Mr. A. P. Pousette for the prosecution and Mr. C. W. Sawers for the prisoner.

Here they will camp out and enjoy themselves for about a week in making havoc among the ducks and partridges of that thickly wooded region. This party has gone to the back lakes every spring and fall for the past 25 years and they have lain in that time, a good many hundred ducks, partridge and other game.

Mr. Calcutt expects, before the season closes, to bring up several more hundred cords of his excellent beech and maple.

POLITICAL FIENDISHNESS.

A Diabolical Attempt to Wreck the Logan Train Frustrated.

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 22.—There was an imposing demonstration in honor of General Logan to-day. He was met at Galesburg by a reception committee of various organizations and escorted to the city. At a point a mile west of Knoxville an attempt was made to wreck the train conveying the party. The train was running at the rate of 40 miles an hour and upon rounding a curve the engineer noticed a obstruction on the track. He put on the brakes immediately but did not succeed in bringing the train to a standstill until the engine had run over two or four of the ties which had been laid across the rails. The train reached the city safely. Logan was escorted to his hotel. In the evening Logan addressed a large crowd, speaking briefly on the tariff question.

AN IMPORTANT INVENTION.

The Chicago Railway Age, a paper exclusively devoted to railways, in its last issue gives a lengthy description of a newly invented passenger coach, which in all probability will soon come into general use and no doubt make the fortune of its inventor. The carriage is known as Holmes' Anglo-American railway coach, and is the invention of W. H. Holmes, of Chicago, son of Mr. Josiah Holmes, of this city. So favorable has its model appeared to competent judges that it is already patented in Great Britain, France, Canada and the United States. To those who may not have an opportunity of seeing the drawings which accompany the description, we may state that the interior is divided into eight compartments, one of which is a smoking room. Each compartment has seating space for eight passengers and is connected by a sliding door with plate glass windows which enters on a passage running the full length of the car and having exits in a hallway at both ends, attached to which are lavatories. It is lighted by electricity and heated from beneath the floor, having also the modern air brakes, patent couplers, and water tanks at each end for use in case of fire. The advantages claimed are manifold, the principal being that in case of collision or accident the chances of escape are far better, as the opportunities for exit are greater, and in case of fire there is no possibility of escape being cut off at both ends. It also affords the retirement and privacy of the English coach, while at the same time every part of the train is accessible, and, if necessary, it can be entered or left by the station platform without climbing the steps. On the whole it appears to be the ideal car of the future, and shows the spirit of advancement of the age, which in all matters pertaining to railways is making great strides. Fifty-three years ago, when the first American coaches ran over the Albany and Schenectady railway, the seating apartments were old coach bodies procured from an Albany livery stable and mounted on trucks, which were coupled with chains, and at every stopping place the occupants were nearly jerked out of their boots. Those on outside seats had their clothing nearly burned off with sparks from the engine, whilst horses in the vicinity were so scared that at some points the highway was strewn with the wrecked vehicles of the curious who drove out to see the railway train. There is now over 100,000 miles of iron track built in America and value to thousands of millions of dollars upon them, amongst which are palatial sleeping, dining, smoking and passenger cars, in which the traveller rests as comfortable as in a dining-room. The invention and improvements of Mr. Holmes will further add to those comforts, and it affords us much pleasure to congratulate a St. Catharines boy on so important a success, for behind the discovery, we feel assured, is a handsome fortune.—St. Catharines Journal.

A New Sea Serpent.

On Tuesday morning it was reported at the Central Police Station that a sea serpent, thirty feet long, was washed ashore at Hochelaga. It was described as having a head like a horse, with a big mane to it, and of a black color, with a body the thickness of a man. Down at Hochelaga a good many people seemed to have heard of the rumour, but no one seems to have seen the animal. It is the latest thing in "fish stories."—Montreal Witness. [N.B.—There was some foundation for the rumour. It was the body of a dead horse which had been washed ashore.]

MR. MOWAT'S VETO.

THE rumour that Sir David Macpherson may be the next Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario is the subject of an editorial by the London Advertiser, which says :—

"Sir David has violently attacked Mr. Mowat and his colleagues. He did this not only before the Bribery Commission, but also in the Senate Chamber before the close of last session. His personal animus toward Mr. Mowat and his colleagues is of a character to make it impossible that any other feeling than that of mutual distrust could exist between him and those who would be his sworn advisers."

This is indeed the wolf accusing the lamb of muddying the stream. It was Attorney-General Mowat who violently attacked and foully slandered Sir David Macpherson in a speech in the House, though he dared not repeat his calumny when on oath before the Royal Commission. If being slandered by Attorney-General Mowat is to be a disqualification for the position of Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, none of the Dominion Cabinet can assume that office, for Mr. Mowat in an after-dinner speech at Montreal falsely accused the whole of the Ottawa Administration of endeavoring to corrupt members of the Ontario Legislature. The constitution does not limit the choice of a Lieutenant-Governor to those who may escape vilification and slander in speeches by Mr. Mowat. If so, the leading men of the Province would be excluded to gratify the malice of a defeated conspirator, angry at having failed by means of his paid decoys to implicate his political opponents in an illegal act. If Mr. Mowat were thus allowed to veto Dominion appointments he might become even more general in his slanders.

PAYING FOR THE BOOM.

IT now appears that there is a large deficiency in the accounts of the Mowat Boom Committee. In spite of the advantage of the cheap fares to the Exhibition, in spite of the contributions of the faithful, in spite of the banquet tickets sold to twice the number for which food was provided, this so-called "spontaneous ovation" cost far more than the funds in hand. It is true that the expenses of drawing a crowd to cheer Mr. Mowat will eventually be paid, for evidently foreseeing that the expense of providing such an artificial welcome would be heavy, the managers took the precaution to obtain a guarantee from a hundred gentlemen to defray the cost of the show over the receipts. We know how it is in Peterborough, where a "spontaneous reception and grand procession" in honor of Mr. Blake was invited by an urgent circular to those who might be induced to attend. This is right enough, since the Reformers cannot give their leader a decent reception without these artificial aids, but it is not honest to pretend that these manufactured demonstrations are the unbiased expression of public opinion.

IT cannot be said that all the evils of the United States Presidential election are confined within the boundaries of the Republic so long as a Canadian journal is allowed to perpetrate such a "joke" as the following from the Toronto Telegram :—

"Washington was the father of his countrymen, but it is unlikely that Mrs. Belva Lockwood will ever be the father of hers."

SOME Canadian Reform journals are pointing to workmen out of employment in the United States as an effect of a protection policy. It might be remarked that if times are so very bad in the States, Canada is not affected by it as much as it was at the time of the depression across the lines before the National Policy was adopted here.

MR. MERCIER has been paraded lately as a Reform leader in the closest sympathy with those in this Province.—We all know that Mr. Blake is in favor of Imperial Federation. A few days ago Mr. Mercier condemned this idea as evil and dangerous, and as an attempt at centralization which should be opposed. The Reform policy is apparently chaos.

THE Globe takes the opinions of a Jamaican paper in regard to annexation to Canada to be the opinions of the people of the island. It is not safe to do do so, as anyone who would accept the Globe's utterances as the opinions of the people of Canada would be sadly led astray.

THE Kingston Whig says that Lord Salisbury "can talk as much nonsense as any common person," from which we draw the conclusion that the Whig is not a common person.

THE Belleville Ontario admits that the Review was right in its contention that the remission of duties on breadstuffs in England was really protection.

Reform Principles.

"The Liberals," says the Globe, "never act in violation of principle—never seek to attain power by a sacrifice of principle." Which reminds us of a favorite quotation of Mr. Blake's from Lowell's "Biglow Papers :"

"A merciful Providence fashioned us holler,
On purpose that we might our principles swaller.
Ain't principles precious? Then who's goin' to use it
When there's risk uv some chap gettin' up to abuse it?
Ef he can't keep it all to himself when it's wise to,
He ain't one it's fit to trust nothin' so nice to."

The Grits didn't show much disposition to expose their principles to abuse in the Hart case, for instance. Condoning electoral corruption on condition of obtaining a vote for Mowat is hardly conduct in accordance with the Globe's grandiloquent utterances.—Toronto News (Independent.)

PORT HOPE.

LOST A LEG.—When the Tuesday morning express going west was about three-quarters of a mile west of the station, a tramp named D. Jolly, a native of Bradford, Yorkshire, England, was run over and one of his legs cut off—he was otherwise mangled. His leg was amputated just below the knee by Drs. Clemesha and Powers, and he is now lying at Christopher's Hotel—an object for the charitably disposed. The man is about 45 years of age and has a wife and family in England.—Guide.

A Horrible Accident.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 21.—A horrible accident occurred at Bedford, eight miles from here, on the International, last night. Wm. Sweeney, a middle aged laborer, left the station for home a few miles distant, at Beaver Ban, about 11 p.m., somewhat intoxicated, and nothing more was seen of him until early this morning, his body was found in a hundred pieces, the head fifty yards from the trunk, he having evidently being run over by a night freight, at 11.15, almost in front of the station. The finding of the remains with the tracks in the vicinity covered with blood and gore was the first intimation of the accident. He leaves a helpless wife and family.

An Old Book.

The well-worn Bibles of the Police Court have recently been invested in new covers of substantial calf, and this has brought to light probably an interesting old book—in a new dress—as any to be found in this city, namely, the first Bible in the English language, ever officially used in a court of justice in this city. Not much besides this is known of the history of the old book. Its title page, and three chapters of the book of Genesis, have vanished, and there must be several pages missing from the back, and the date of the volume is therefore not to be found. The paper is, without doubt, hand made, and yellow with time, the ink is quite black, however, and the text, though the long s is used, is quite easily read. The cover of a court Bible is its vulnerable part, so the old book has been repeatedly rebound, and, as a matter of course, clipped, so that what margin there once was to the leaves have vanished. What myriads of lips of all kinds and varieties have been pressed to this volume—it must be one of the most kissed objects in this Canada of ours. How many right hands, some quiet and steady, some nervously, tremblingly, clutching it, the thought of the purjury or of the terrible questions of the lawyers, that may search out that which would fain be hid, so undoing that hand's possessor that his limbs refuse their duty.—Montreal Witness.

SAVED BY A LOAD OF HAY.

A Woman's Thrilling Leap from a Train Over a Trestle.

"I tell you what, boys, I've railroaded it for years and been mixed up in all kinds of disasters, but I hope to croak right here if I want to be the eye-witness again of such an awful sight as I saw a day or two ago."

The speaker was a brakeman on the Erie. "A day or so ago," he continued, "a tall and handsome woman got into the ladies' car at Dunkirk. With her bright and interesting boy, possibly two years of age. The child laughed and croaked and played with the passengers. When the train left Cattaraugus the woman, who seemed nervous, got out of her seat, picked up the baby and started for the rear end of the coach.

"A short distance east of Cattaraugus is a long, deep gulf, over which the railroad has built a high trestle. The distance from the top of the trestle to the waggon road below is perhaps one hundred feet. A sharp and short curve leads to the trestle. As the train rushed over the gulf a woman's piercing shriek was heard. I looked and saw an object leap from the platform into the rocky gulf. That object, sir, was the lady passenger and in her arms closely clasped to her breast was her infant. I pulled the bell-cord and the train came to a hault. How it happened I cannot say, but at the time the woman jumped, a load of hay, drawn by oxen, passed under the trestle. Mother and child landed squarely in the centre of the hay and were thus saved from a horrible death. The farmer was so horrified that he jumped from his waggon and darted up the hill. The woman, who was not hurt in the least, said her name was Mrs. Adam Scell and her home in Michigan. She was on her way to visit friends in the old country. Her's was indeed a miraculous escape."

Mrs. Scell said that she could not explain her action. When near the car door she was seized with an insane desire to jump from the train.

The farmer, as he drove along, was thinking of his dead wife and daughter. When the visitors came through the clouds, as it were, and landed on his hay, he thought that the dear departed had come back to earth to revisit him.—Philadelphia Times.

THE LANSDOWNE.

The Grand Trunk's New Transfer Boat Nearing Completion.

According to a Detroit exchange the Grand Trunk Company's new transfer boat, the Lansdowne, is nearing completion, and is a model of her class. In the course of three or four weeks it is hoped she will be able to go into commission. Her general outline resembles that of the Great Western. Her upper werks are modelled after that craft. But the design of the hull of the Lansdowne is different, being of three-fourths inch iron plates and designed expressly for keeping a passage clear in the ice. Her sheer is extreme, and as she is a double-ender, equal speed can be made backward or forward. Her machinery and boilers are those used in the old Michigan. The machinery was thoroughly overhauled and tested before before being placed in the Lansdowne. The two engines have a combined strength of 900-horse power, which it is estimated will drive the vessel through the heaviest ice forming in the river. She has two low pressure condensing engines with 50-inch cylinder and nine feet stroke. The wheels are twenty-nine feet five inches in diameter, built of oak and sheathed with wrought iron. The whole space occupied by the two tracks is open, so that she will carry as little unnecessary weight as possible. On either side of the wheels are the officers' rooms and waiting-rooms, small but ample to meet all requirements. The pilot houses are most substantialy built, being elevated on wooden frame-work and tied in with iron work. They are connected with each other by a long gallery. The whole dimensions are 318 feet long, 41 feet beam, and 72 feet over the guards, and depth of hold 15 feet. She draws seven feet of water on an even keel. The hull was erected by the Detroit Dry Dock Company at Wyandette, the duty on which amounted to $13,000.

What Did She Mean.

A convalescent invalid, Mr. B——, brought a suit lately against his doctor, and alleged that the said Esculapius had persisted in calling upon him personally after he was cured, fees or which he now refused to pay. Dr. F——" denied the fact, and called in a nurse who attended the invalid to prove it. "Is it true," asked the Court, "that Dr. F—— continued his visits when Mr. B—— had no necessity for them?" "Upon my word, sir," naively answered the witness, "as long as I saw the doctor with Mr. B—— I thought he was in considerable danger."

THE FALL IN THE PRICE OF WHEAT

NOWHERE, AS COMPARED WITH

The Still Greater Fall in the Price of Clothing

—AT—

LeBRUN'S.

It will pay Farmers better to sell their wheat now at present prices, and buy their winter's supplies of Clothing at the City Clothing Store while you can buy so very Cheap, rather than run the chance of waiting to get a few cents more for their wheat and pay 25 per cent higher for Clothing later on. The Farmers and LeBRUN are in the same position—both have large stocks on hand, and nothing will be gained by holding on to them at present. Sell your Wheat now and exchange it for Cheap Clothing at LeBRUN'S.

I am determined to offer the bulk of my present very large stock without reserve for the next three months. Remember the prices will be lower than were ever offered in Peterborough before.

JUST LOOK AT A FEW OF THE QUOTATIONS:—

OVERCOATS—$4.50, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00, 9.00

TWEED SUITS for $6.50, 8.00, 9.00, 10.00 These prices are fully 28 per cent lower than the regular quotations.

ORDERED CLOTHING made up at prices to correspond in cheapness with the above, as for example :

FINE SUITS to order for $14, 15, and 16. No better value ever offered for the money. Activity in every Department.

BOYS' and YOUTHS' CLOTHING.—It will pay you to see our large stock. It is suitable for all ages ; made nobby and genteel.

TWEEDS and FULLCLOTHS for common wear, at very low prices. Can be cut on the premises free of charge.

UNDERWEAR—I have the best assortment of sizes, largest stock and cheapest fall and winter Underwear in Peterborough.

GLOVES.—I have a large assortment in this line, as I make a specialty of Gloves, and sell for less than any house in the trade.

SHIRTS, COLLARS and CUFFS.—As usual, selling lower than any other house.

TIES.—The run on our Ties this season is immense. Our 25 cent Ties are equal in quality to any 50 cent Tie in the town.

My great aim has always been to give superior goods at inferior prices. My increased business shows how well I have succeeded.

will be found especially worthy of attention. Many think that low prices are incompatible with choice and sterling goods, and so much are they influenced by this opinion that they frequently pay far more than is necessary for many articles under the impression that they must be good because they are dear. I feel sure that I can and do give sterling goods, pure, genuine, and of good qbility at low prices.

I make RICH GOODS, MEDIUM GOODS, and COMMON GOODS alike compatible with low prices, because I am satisfied with a very small advance on all the goods I sell.

HASTINGS.

From Our Own Correspondent.

OUR VILLAGE.—Hastings and its environments still exists by the waters of the swift flowing Trent, on which river a process of mild repair, caulking and splicing is going on. The slides are patched and the lock gates are being overhauled. Thus does the T. V. C. keep itself before the minds of all who believe in the future.

BUSINESS CHANGE.—Mr. John Murray has opened out a smart grocery and provision store, together with a rival bakery, the bread being delivered as hot as "hot cross buns" by the proprietor in a swell turn out.

NEW WOOLLEN MILL.—Mr. H. M. Fowlds has just erected the frame of a new carding and woollen mill, which, when completed, will be occupied by Mr. Askey, who has hitherto carried on the business in Norwood. The mill is to employ not less than four hands. Thus do our industries rise on the ashes of former ones, showing that the N. P. is not yet dead.

SHIPMENT OF LIVE STOCK.—A large number of sheep and cattle were shipped east the other day by John Walsh and others.

GRAIN TRADE.—This trade shows signs of improvement and loads are coming in much faster, bright barley being in brisk demand. The rival buyers have quite an eloquent time of it occasionally, to the amusement of Agricola, and the raising of prices on one another. If the outside market was good Hastings would soon be flooded with grain.

A RECENT LAW SUIT.—The heroine of the late suit in Peterborough of Christie vs. Byrom is a resident of our fair town, who, being successful, is more engaging than ever; though the result of the verdict will cause lonely and unprotected males to take more closely to heart the advice of Welier, sr., to his dutiful son, "Samivel, Samivel, beware of the viddera!"

COAL.—"Leaves have their time to fall," and coal in price to rise. The standard price here is $8.25 per ton. A good spec. might be made on the article at a dollar less.

SETTLED.—In the suit of Fox, the livery keeper, and the Council, after much "lawing," talent being engaged from Colborne and Peterborough on the levality of the case, it was finally agreed to make humble pie and share proportionately.

SUNDAY TRAINS.—For the last two Sundays the usual quiet of villages and country crossroads has been broken by the transit of long freight trains, which make people wonder as to the actual necessity of such things. There are no Sundays at sea in stress of weather, but surely the G. T. R. can give its over-worked employees that day or the greater part of it to themselves.

A LEGACY.—Dame Fortune let fall from her lap the other day a sum of $75,000 on one of our residents, George Upton; owing to the timely demise of a wealthy relative in that land of unequal wealth, old England. George will no longer be compelled to work upon the railway, as the hero of the song did, when "in 1851 his corduroy breeches he put on, to work upon the railway." The legatee will find plenty of friends.

APSLEY.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

AN IMPORTANT POINT.

If Sir John Macdonald's stomach holds out the Reformers will have to stay where they are, in the cold shades of opposition. If the stomach collapses the Reformers will probably secure the reins of power. This is what we gather from the remarks of the Reform organs on Sir John's illness.—Toronto Telegram (Indep.).

A MOWAT WITNESS.

Robert McKim, M.P.P., save the mark, who swore that he was himself a liar, and if his oath is to be cridited, proved himself to be a spy, a hypocrit and a Sabbath breaker, had a number of witnesses recently summoned to testify that he was a respectable citizen and worthy of credence.—Arthur Enterprise.

DREAMS REALIZED.

Who would have said, twenty-five years ago, that in less than a quarter of a century the Atlantic would be connected with the Pacific by a Canadian railroad, and that Asia would be joined to British America by a Canadian line of steamers? And yet we are on the point of realizing what would then have seemed a dream. When we look back on the last half century, are we not justified in saying that the Conservative party has well deseved of the country?—Le Courier du Canada.

BLAKE REASONING.

Mr. Blake has been going about the country for some weeks past telling the people that the taxation involved by the present tariff has been increased by the difference between the customs receipts in 1878 and 1883. Perhaps the leader of the opposition will take note of the fact that in the last fiscal year the customs revenue decreased $3,000,000 and that, according to his reasoning, the taxation has been reduced by that amount.—Montreal Gazette.

COME ALONG JOHN.

The party maintains the struggle against fraud, falsehood and corruption, with energy ever renewed.—Toronto Globe (Reform).

THE MOST POPULAR MAN.

If Canada elected her own Governor-General she would be certain to get a much more pronounced politician than Lord Lansdowne is, or ever dreams of being. The first one chosen would be Sir John Macdonald, for of course the choice would be made by popular vote, and Sir John is by all odds the most popular man in Canada.—Toronto Telegram (Indep).

A FUNEREAL POLICY.

The kind of statesmanship which consists in waiting for a funeral is not likely to appeal to the popular sympathies. There is not much chivalry in politics, but there is too much for that.—Toronto News (Indep.)

USEFUL TO KNOW.—Everyone should know that Hagyard's Yellow Oil will give prompt relief; applied externally will stop any pain; and taken internally cures colds, asthma, croup, sore throat and most inflammatory complaints.

To Preserve Autumn Leaves.

The only way we know of successfully preserving autumn leaves is to press them until they are perfectly dry. Rinse off carefully in cold water whatever dirt is on them, wipe them dry in a soft towl, and lay them so that they will not touch each other, between sheets of coarse paper—blotting paper is the best, old newspapers will do; place several thicknesses of paper between the layers and change the leaves to dry papers every day or so for the first when they will only need changing every two or three days, and, later, once a week. The object is to remove every particle of moisture and at the same time keep them under sufficient pressure to secure complete contact. When thoroughly dry they may receive a light coat of fine varnish or wax, if the shiny appearance thus given is not objected to, but they will do very well without. To wax them rub a wax or parafine candle over a warm flat iron and pass this over the face of the leaves. Take care that the iron is not very hot or it will detroy the colour. It is said that if the leaves are waxed when only half dry, and then pressed again in dry papers that they will be much more pliable and be less liable to brake when handled, but we have never tried this plan. We have had maple leaves simply pressed, and not varnished at all, retain their shape and color for two years. To press them, lay them on the floor under a heavy box or under a board weighed with bricks or irons.

Singular Fate of a Moose.

A large moose deer experienced a singular fate a few miles west of Mattawa on the Canadian Pacific Railway on Wednesday. While No. 38 mixed was coming east at a high rate of speed the driver thought that he observed through the morning mist a dark object on the track a short distance ahead. Every effort was made to bring the train to a standstill, but without success, for the next moment, the obstruction was struck and sent flying from the track. It proved to be nothing less than a large sized moose deer, which becoming bewildered at the sight of the approaching train was utterly powerless to move from the spot. Death must have resulted instantaneously, as its side was literally smashed to a jelly. The antlered monarch weighed 750 pounds and is said to be one of the largest specimens of the moose killed in that locality for several years. The head, which was handed over to Mr. W. P. Martin, station agent at Mattawa, was sent to Montreal to a taxidermist to be properly dressed.—Montreal Star.

PROVISIONS.

The prevailing low prices of Provisions ought to be an incentive to vigorous economy during the fall months while work is yet plenty, so that sufficient means will be laid aside for the purchase of a Stock of Staple Supplies for the table during the winter. Prices have not been as low for many years.

Flour, best Roll Ground, $2.00 per hund.
Potatoes, 45c. per Bag.
Oat, Corn and Wheat Meal, 3c. per Pound,

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Cool.

The mercury in the Rev. V. Clementi's self registering thermometer went down to 31° last night.

Look Here!

Don't forget Langford's great sale of furniture to-morrow afternoon. Everything will be sold, so you can count on bargains.

The Date of Polling.

The election in No. 1 ward, for the purpose of selecting a councillor in place of the late S. F. Allin, will take place on Monday, Oct. 27th. The polling place will be at the Mission School house, Dalhausie street.

A Close Call.

A man, who wished to take the Cobconk train at Blackwater on Wednesday evening, had a narrow escape from being killed. He mistook the Toronto train for the one going north, and as it was leaving the station he attempted to get on it. His foot slipped and he fell between the train and the platform, but he did not fall on the track, and by remaining quiet until the train had passed he escaped unhurt.

CORNICE POLES complete at A. CLEGG'S, only $1.75.

Ward No. One.

Mr. John McNaughton informs us that he will positively go to the poll as a candidate for the vacant seat in the Town Council for the First Ward. Mr. McNaughton has already served at the Council Board, and as his record is before the electors they can form their own judgment upon it, so it is unnecessary for us to express our opinion upon his candidature as if he were a novice.

The Port Hope Opera House.

Mr. E. C. Hill departed this morning to take charge of the remoddling of the Port Hope Opera House. A new stage will be erected, new seats will be put in and a new horse-shoe gallery will be built. Handsome and artistic scenery (all new) will be painted, and by the time Mr. Hill leaves Port Hope it will have an Opera House which will do credit to the town. Mr. Hill has large and long experience in such matters and the proprietors have used discretion in placing the work in such capable hands.

Acknowledgement.

The ladies of the Peterborough Protestant Home beg, with thanks, to acknowledge the receipt within the last few months of the following:—T. G. Hazlitt, cucumbers; Melville Millar, pails; Mrs. Samuel Dickson, bag of apples; a friend, basket of cakes from social; bed stead and pillows from Mrs. Dunlop; Mrs. Manson, parcel of clothing; Mrs. Walter Paterson, jr., parcel of clothing; a friend, pickles and preserves; Mrs. Vernon, kitchen table, half dozen knives and forks, ham and butter.

A Treat in Store.

Miss Jessie Couthoui, the great elocutionist, will appear at the Oddfellows' Concert and Entertainment at the Opera House on 5th November. Miss Couthoui has made a great sensation in the cities in the United States, and the press is loud in her praise. The Lawrence Daily Journal says of Miss Couthoui:—

"She possesses a vast amount of personal magnetism, and her recitations are full of vitality. Her imitations of the Scotch dialect were exceptionally fine."

The Buffalo Morning Express says:—

"To a graceful presence, a bright and comely countenance, and a gentle voice—that chief charm of woman—Miss Jessie Couthoui, by careful study and a desire not only to please, but to please by genuine merit, has added such other excellencies that she is to-day one of the most successful readers on the stage."

The Hartford Evening Express says:—

"Miss Couthoui, although quite young in years, stands in the front rank of American elocutionists, and when Hartford comes to know her as well as Boston, Chicago and Washington, she will meet with the same enthusiastic reception here that is accorded her in those cities. Her chief attraction is a fine voice, which is well adapted to all kinds of reading."

An Attractive Window.

Mr. F. Mason has on exhibition in the window of his town office, post office block, two very handsome Musa Ensetes or Abysinian bananas. They are each about five feet high, the leaves being about four feet long and fourteen inches broad. The leaves, or properly branches, are of a bright green and the formation is very delicate. These plants have of late attracted considerable attention, most people taking them for a species of lilies. In tropical and semi-tropical countries the banana trees grow in rank luxuriousness, some of them attaining the height of even forty feet. Mr. Mason has also established direct telephone communication between his town office and the greenhouse, so that orders may be attended to with despatch. In the greenhouse in the rear of the store he has placed a little fountain where boquets may be kept quite fresh until taken away. Mr. Mason's establishment is, in truth, complete in all its appointments.

BURGLARS STILL HAUNT

OUR STREETS DURING THE DARK HOURS OF NIGHT—TWO PLACES ENTERED.

The Butcher Shop of Mr. H. C. Winch is Visited—No Gain for the Prowlers—Six Hundred Dollars Worth of Goods Taken From Mr. R. B. McKee's Hardware Store—The Goods Recovered.

It seems that Peterborough is not yet free from villainous persons burglariously inclined. On Tuesday night the butcher shop of Mr. H. C. Winch was visited by the but happily they were foiled in their design. They entered by a back door, which is usually kept bolted. In the morning when Mr. Tenice Guerin, the foreman, opened the shop, the first thing he discovered was that the till had been pried open and that the desk had been rifled. Fortunately for Mr. Winch, Mr. Guerin makes a practice of leaving no money, except change, in the till at night. The only booty offered for the burglars was two cents, which they, it seems, did not think worth while disturbing. Mr. Guerin thinks that whoever it was that entered the place must have, some time during the day, quietly walked to the back part of the shop and unbolted the door.

NOCTURNAL PROWLERS,

A HAUL MADE.

On Wednesday night the knights of the "jimmy" were more successful. The back door of the hardware store of Mr. R. B. McKee was forced open and goods to the value of six hundred dollars were abstracted. The audacity of the burglars is marvellous. They actually lit a lamp to discover the sought for goods, when there was no blinds on the plate glass doors. Anyone coming along the street must surely have seen them at their felonious work. It seems by their selection of goods that they must be good judges of hardware. Four of the best rifles were taken, together with every razor in stock and fifteen revolvers. The best and most expensive cutlery was also found, consisting of pocket knives and table cutlery. Half a dozen of very expensive silver knives were included in the above.

When the burglars had secured the desired goods they took two rubber coats belonging to Messrs. R. H. Fortye and H. Roper, and wrapped therein their spoils. On opening the shop this morning Mr. Hughes was surprised to find paper boxes and other marks of suspicion strewed about the floor. On further examination he found that the above mentioned goods had been taken and that the entrance had been made by the back door already mentioned. The lock is not very strong and it seems to have been easily forced in.

THE STOLEN ARTICLES FOUND.

This morning at about twenty minutes after six when Mr. Ambrose Jones, caretaker of Romaine's brickyard, was taking his usual morning survey over the premises, he spied a plank turned up in a rather suspicious manner. He went to it, turned it down, and was astonished to find almost sufficient stock to start a hardware store. He returned to his house, which is adjacently situated, and called his brother to take charge and keep watch until he went for the police. Chief Johnston was informed, and the two proceeded to the place where the goods were concealed. The articles were all fished out and carried to the police office, where they were soon claimed, taken to the store and placed in their original positions on the shelves.

It is surmised that the burglars concealed the goods thus conveniently to the Ontario and Quebec railway station so that they could be easily removed and taken away on the night train, or that those who committed the burglary intended taking them down the river.

PAINTED Window Shades, with handsome dados, at A. CLEGG'S.

Personal.

Mr. John Tabener, foreman in the REVIEW book binding department, has just returned from his trip to England, where he has spent his holidays very pleasantly and profitably (as will be see in another column). He also comes back to us with enlarged experience in the various new devices in the book-binding art of the old world.

The Love of Society.

Ever since the creation of the human family the love of society has formed one of our strongest characteristics. It is society that forms the mental spring to the cultivation of the arts and sciences. It is society that gives actitude to the exercise of all our social enjoyments. It is the love of society that brings us together, to advise one with another as to the better mode of securing a more permanent basis upon which society may rest secure from the influence of temptation and be bold, be frank, and fear not what others may think so long as you are obeying the dictates of conscience. Remember that it is with our judgments as our matches; none go just alike, yet each believes his own, and that is the reason why so many agree in saying buy your oysters at Smith's.

First Ward Councillor.

It will be seen that several of the numerous gentlemen who were nominated as councillors for No. 1 Ward have resigned in favour of Mr. Andrew McNeil. We think they have shown good judgment, for Mr. McNeil with his well known energy, enterprize, good sense and business abilities would no doubt make an excellent councillor. For one thing Mr. McNeil is strongly in favour of taking some step to abate the nuisance in Spauldings Bay, a matter that has been too long neglected, with very injurious effects upon the health of the surrounding portion of the town. He has frequently taken an active part in the management of semi-public affairs, and always with success. The opportunity of obtaining such an acquisition to our Town Council Board should not be missed.

The Contest in No. One Ward.

Although nomination day is barely passed for candidates to fill the position of Councillor in the above ward, some of those gentlemen who received the nomination are already hard at work canvassing the voters. It is possible that this contest will be a hot one, and as the electors of No. One Ward always take a deep interest in anything of a municipal nature, it is sure to be a very spirited, yet friendly fight. The inhabitants of this town are, as a rule, fond of the little excitement that springs up during the municipal elections, and this battle in the banner ward will be no exception to the rule. While your attention is drawn to this item, it will not be amiss to give the respective candidates and their friends some wholesome advice (pardon the suggestion). The candidate that goes from house to house seeking votes must look his best, as the fair sex have something to say as to whom the "old man" will vote for. Now in this connection we would advise all to go to Habiliment Hall, and don one of McNEIL'S nobby suits, when they are sure to come to the front "like a solid man."

WHITE AND GREY BLANKETS, all wool, good value; also, a lot of white a little soiled, of good quality, very che

Governor Cleveland's Assailant.

ALBANY, Oct. 22.—Three physicians have examined Boone, the man who attacked Governor Cleveland on Monday last, declared that he is sane but labouring under severe nervous excitement and liable to do violent acts. Boone was arraigned before Justice Gutmann at the police court this afternoon. He obtained permission to make a statement, and said he had been greatly worried over his brother's case, and had scarcely slept for several nights. He admitted his conduct had been hasty, and said he was sorry for what he had done. He insisted that he never intended doing the Governor any harm. Justice Gutmann said he had received a letter from the Governor in which he stated that he had no desire to prosecute the prisoner and recommending leniency. Boone was then discharged, and with his wife and father-in-law left this evening for home.

A Murderous Ruffian.

CAIRO, Ill., Oct. 22.—On a Paducah and Memphis train on Sunday night, Herman Marshall, of Dyerburg, Tenn., who was drunk, went up and down the aisles with a knife drawn threatening everybody and indulging in frightful obscenity. Finally Boon Hutsfettie, of Maysville, Ky., struck him, whereupon Marshall cut and slashed Hutsfettie's face, head and shoulders in a sickening manner. The latter ran to the platform, and Marshall followed, plunged a knife in his bowels, and threw him from the train as it was passing over a bridge. The train stopped, and Hutsfettie was taken up barely alive. Marshall continued his promenade through the cars, daring anyone to touch him. He was not arrested.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1884.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK.

FRIDAY, Oct. 24.—Michael McGuire was charged by P. C. Adams with having been drunk in a public place. The prisoner said that he had just come down from Lindsay, and he supposed that he had had a drop too much. If His Worship would give him a chance he would go back to work at once. The Magistrate said that he would let him off this time, but if he ever came up again, the circumstances would be different.

NON-SUPPORT OF FAMILY.

Jacob Roberts was charged by his wife, Bella Roberts, with having without lawful excuse neglected to provide necessary food and clothing for his wife and children.

The prisoner pleaded not guilty, and elected to be tried summarily. Several witnesses were examined for the prosecution and the prisoner was heard.

The Magistrate in giving judgment said that these cases were most painful ones. They were being continually brought before him. Wives would bear with their troubles until they could bear them no longer, and then they would come to him. He could not make the man better, nor could he stop his drinking; he could only send him to gaol. A man who has a family of little children was legally bound to support them. He could not understand how a man could demean himself so much as to gratify an appetite for whiskey while his little children were at home crying for bread. He could only enforce the law; the pardoning power lay with the Government. The case was enlarged for one month.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

ANOTHER PLACE ROBBED

MR. J. MILLS, HATTER, IS RELIEVED OF ABOUT $300 WORTH OF GOODS.

General Excitement Throughout the Town—The Boldness of the Burglars Amazing—They go About Their Work with Astonishing Coolness—They make an Attempt to Enter J. White's Store.

This morning about seven o'clock it was discovered that the stores of Messrs. J. Mills, hatter and furrier, and J. White, boot and shoe maker, had been visited during the night by a burglarious gang. The wildest rumours at once flew up and down George street and the excitement ran high.

The boldness of the burglars is astonishing. Only the night before they entered Mr. R. B. McKee's hardware-store and abstracted a large quantity of goods, which were happily recovered. Maddened, perhaps, at their dark design being foiled, they again settled their eyes on a fresh victim. It is, doubtless, the same gang who are robbing these different places, and they must have remained all day yesterday in the heart of the town.

THE FIRST BREAK IN.

The first place of attack was the boot and shoe store of Mr. John White. They merely took out a light of glass from one of the windows in the back shop, raised the window and were inside. They next secured convenient tools to force the door leading from the back shop to the front one. The door was, however, strongly barred and resisted their utmost force. Finding that it was impossible to work their way into the front shop they retraced their steps and next attacked which is situated next door. They first tried to force the door, removing some earth so as to obtain a firm footing. The door was too strong and they then had resource to the window. A top pane was broken, the window raised, and they had easy access to the main store. They proceeded to the front window and possessed themselves of 1 Astrachan jacket, 4 South Sea Seal caps, 2 Persian Lamb caps, 2 pair of Beaver gauntlets, 1 Persian Lamb collar or Russian Lamb collar, 1 Beaver cap, 5 Astrachan caps, 4 Coney caps, 1 ladies' Bocharin cape, 2 black Coney cape, a pair of ladies' Seal gauntlets. In fact they gutted the window completely, taking every article of value. They then went to the glove case which stands near the door and stripped the show bars of between 3 and 4 dozen of fine English kid gloves.

This is where the coolness comes in. They took from the shelves three large hat boxes, removed the hats, placed the hats again on the shelves in perfect order, filled the boxes with the ill gotten goods and walked to the back part of the store. When getting in the window there were some empty hat boxes on the window sill. These must necessarily have been knocked down while they were crawling in. But their faculty of order must have been highly developed. They replaced the empty boxes in a symmetrical pile on the sill, turned the key which had been left on the inside of the door, and departed.

MORE PROTECTION NEEDED.

Peterborough is now almost a city; she has two trunk lines of railway running through her, and our business men must take the necessary precautions to guard against burglaries. On the other hand, there should be more night watchmen. One man is entirely inadequate to attend to the duties devolving upon him. The town's people generally were, to-day, loud in their denounciation of the town council for their non-providance in the matter. Something should be done, and that at once, to protect the people from such depredations.

A LARGE variety of New Splashers for back of washstands, from 15c. each, at J. ERSKINE'S.

Police Notes.

Chief Johnston departed this morning for a two weeks' visit to his son in Detroit. These are his only holidays this year.

P. C. Pidgeon has returned from Kingston, having placed Purcell safely within the walls of the penitentiary.

P. C. Adams has been of late up north to the Township of Anstruther making investigations and examinations in regard to the shooting of the late John Johnston.

Match with Trinity School.

A team has been selected from the Peterborough Foot Ball Club to play a match with the Foot Ball Club in connection with the Trinity College School, Port Hope. The team will go down to morrow forenoon. The following are the names of those who compose the team:—Messrs. Lawford, Wright, Kelly, Halliday, Stratton, Cooper, Henry, Snyder, Greenwood, Orde, Alf. Rogers, Eastwood, Tyler and Dayman.

Chit Chat.

—Cool.
—Cooler.
—Does anybody hug the coal stove?
—The burglars displayed a remarkable degree of coolness.
—Will it be made hot for them?
—There will be a meeting of the Dufferin Literary Club to-night.
—Then, when and where will these burglaries end?
—Now the aesthetic young man forgets sunflowers, sticks his hands in his pockets and fondly thinks of Florida.

The Contest in No. One Ward.

Although nomination day is barely passed for candidates to fill the position of Councillor in the above ward, some of those gentlemen who received the nomination are already hard at work canvassing the voters. It is possible that this contest will be a hot one, and as the electors of No. One Ward always take a deep interest in anything of a municipal nature, it is sure to be a very spirited, yet friendly fight. The inhabitants of this town are, as a rule, fond of the little excitement that springs up during the municipal elections, and this battle in the banner ward will be no exception to the rule. While your attention is drawn to this item, it will not be amiss to give the respective candicandidates and their friends some wholesome advice (pardon the suggestion). The candidate that goes from house to house seeking votes must look his best, as the fair sex have something to say as to whom the "old man" will vote for. Now in this connection we would advise all to go to Habiliment Hall, and don one of McNEIL'S nobby suits, when they are sure to come to the front "like a solid man."

NIGHT WATCHMEN.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—At a meeting of our worthy Town Fathers some time ago, they in their wonderful wisdom decided that it was not necessary to appoint a night watchman. A great many people blamed them very much for what seemed to be such a miserable attempt at economy, but they looked upon it in a different light than the Councillors did. The ratepayers thought it was a man to watch the stores at night to discover any attempts at burglary or arson, &c., but the Councillors were considering the watching of the whole town, and as it was so bulky they thought it perfectly safe. It does look as if it were, and to the eyes of a stranger would appear impossible to move, but when we see the way the storekeepers and others have been robbed by midnight mechanics lately, and the cool audacity with which the robbers have effected their purpose, it does seem within the range of possibility that they will remove the town bodily some night, and the only thing they will think worthless is our police force, who claim they watch the buildings in turn all night, especially after the stupid mistake of the chief in carting away the goods that were found without attempting to entrap the burglars.

A STOREKEEPER.

Peterborough, Oct. 24, 1884.

HOUSE MOVING.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I am prepared to bet any amount of money that I can move any frame house, that stands within the fire limits, five hundred yards, without any one of our policemen seeing me. The fest to take place between the hours of midnight and five a.m.

Yours,
A NIGHT OWL.

FIGHT IN A COURT-ROOM.

A Judge and Lawyer Indulge in a Free Fight.

Sensation was caused in the Louisville Court House, on Saturday, by a fight between Judge Hargis, until recently Chief-Justice of the Court of Appeals, and Colonel Binnett Young, a well-known lawyer and President of the Southern Exposition. In argument in an injunction case, Hargis made a remark reflecting on Young, who denounced him as an infamous liar. Hargis hurled two law books at Young, when they clinched and were having a regular mill when separated.

The Scott Act.

Voting took place on the Scott Act in the County of Peel on Thursday. The majority against the Act was 166, with Toronto Gore to here from, which was expected to increase that majority.

A Gambling Note Declared Void.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 22.—In the case of the National Bank against Robt. E. Cunningham for payment of a note for $3,500, given in a cotton future speculation, the court charged that if the note was so given it was void, and the jury found for defendant. The case attracted much attention.

Shot on the Eve of Marriage.

RICHMOND, Oct. 22.—E. O. Fitzgerald who was to be married to Mayor Carrington's daughter this evening, was found in his room this morning with a pistol shot wound in his head. It is supposed he shot himself while examining the pistol. The wound will probably prove fatal.

Fatal Railway Collision.

MONTREAL, Oct. 23.—A freight train and an express train collded at Pointe Claire. The engineer of the express, Alexander Stewart, aged 50 years, was unfortunately killed, and his fireman, Charles Bawden, aged 24, had his leg fractured and foot crushed. Several passengers were injured. An inquest was held and the jury returned a unanimous verdict of accidental death.

Some Facts About the Knabe Pianos.

These Pianos have established their excellence in every community where they have been introduced, and the most eminent performers have given them the most unqualified approval. Their appreciation, however, is not confined to the class known as professional artists, but they are as highly prized in the parlor as in the school-room or upon the stage. The fact is, they are as perfect as any instruments of the kind that have yet been made, and possesses many qualities which strike the critical ear as superior to all other pianos. This is the whole secret of their great popularity and the high appreciation in which they are held by both amateurs and professionals.

Collision on the Midland.

A serious accident occurred on the Midland railway, near Agincourt, on Wednesday night. Owing to some misconception as to the crossing of a freight train by the conductor of another train, a collision occurred near the station, resulting in the smashup of a number of freight cars, and in considerable damage to a couple of engines. Fortunately, as the trains approached each other, the drivers of the locomotives saw the headlights in front of them, and had time to get the brakes put on so as to reduce the force of the collision. The train hands got off the cars before the engines clashed into each other, so that no one was injured. An auxiliary train was sent from here, and the debris was removed, and the line made clear for traffic next morning.—Mail.

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1884.

Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION.

FRIDAY.

9 A.M.—This morning half an hour was spent in devotional exercises, Mr. H. E. Rendall, of Queen's college, presiding.

GREETING FROM BROOKLYN.

The President read the following telegram which he had just received:—"Brooklyn Association send greetings. Read I Timothy vi, 12, 17 and 18 —J. WILKIE, Secretary."

Mr. D. A. BUDGE suggested that, with an answer to the greeting, the Convention send an expression of sympathy for Mr. Wilkie, who had been bereaved by the death of his wife.

The PRESIDENT approved of the suggestion.

Mr. W. E. BURFORD, of Toronto, engaged in prayer, mentioning especially the bereaved brother and the Brooklyn Association.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

The following Committees were appointed by the President, and approved of by the Convention:—

BUSINESS COMMITTEE.—D. A. Budge, Montreal, D. B. Gardner, Peterborough, W. H. Stevens, Sherbrook, H. B. Gordon, Toronto, and H. E. Kendall, Montreal.

DEVOTIONAL COMMITTEE.—F. Lansdale, Hamilton, J. K. Ainsworth, Montreal, John J. Gartshore, Toronto, C. B. Tweedale, Guelph, G. M. Roger, Peterborough, and W. J. Orr, St. Thomas.

COM. ON EX. COM.'s REPORT.—R. Henderson, Montreal; J. D. Nasmith, Toronto; J. F. Clark, Port Hope; Geo. A. Cox, Peterborough, and W. W. Johnson, Peterborough.

COM. ON RESOLUTIONS.—W. Craig, Port Hope; John J. Gartshore, Toronto; A. Hines Colborne; W. E. Bessey, Brantford; —, McLeod, Toronto University.

THE SOCIAL ELEMENT IN THE WORK.

The following topic was discussed:—"What can we do for young men socially?"

Mr. D. A. BUDGE, of Montreal, said they should do everything needful for the young men. It had been considered impossible to combine the social element with the Christian work, which had caused the organization of many secret societies, many of which has done evil to young men. The Secretary of an Association and his assistant should carefully study their own habits and bearing, so as to favorably impress strangers and young men whom they met. Before they could influence a young man towards the Christian life they must win his respect and confidence. The Reception Committee was organized for the purpose of welcoming young men. They should not consider that they only had to take care of the room, but welcome all who visited the rooms as if they were welcoming them to their own home. And the work begun in the rooms should be followed up, and when they met the young men again on the street, they should remember them. Every Association should hold monthly open receptions, calculated to instruct those who attended. It should also have a stranger's register, and the members should assist the Secretary in getting the names of the young men who came to the town. Each Secretary should have one evening in each month for a social evening with members and strangers —the aim being to have it a real home evening. In Montreal they held meetings in the homes of members, for their active workers. A personal invitation from the members to strangers whom they might meet to take tea with them was often followed by good results. In carrying out these suggestions they needed the grace and wisdom which shone out so brightly in the life of Christ.

Mr. E. D. INGERSOLL, of New York, empasized the importance of greeting strangers cordially.

Mr. W. E. BURFORD, Toronto, asked whether Mr. Budge would have the monthly social meeting opened with prayer?

Mr. BUDGE said he would. He suggested as subjects for discussion at these meetings, "Hindrances to Christian Growth," and "Personal work." The addresses should be definitely spiritual.

Mr. R. C. MORSE, New York, said that a great many went to hear a leading lawyer of New York lecture on "Christian Evidences," and a very strong impression was produced.

Mr. F. LOSSDALE, of Hamilton, urged the importance of having the Reception Committee well trained.

Mr. D. A. BUDGE said that a secretary always had plenty to do, but when he left his work to greet a stranger he should be careful not to show any annoyance. He should deal frankly with a stranger, and members should not exhibit undue familiarity with strangers.

Mr. W. P. CROMBIE related an instance illustrating the results which sometimes followed invitations given to attend Association meetings.

Mr. BUDGE said that in Montreal, in receiving new members, they sent them an invitation to attend the monthly social to which he previously referred. Thus they became acquainted with each other.

The hymn "Son of My Soul" was sung, and Mr. W. N. Bessey, of Brantford, engaged in prayer.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

Mr. GARTSHORE, Secretary of the Executive Committee, read the report of that committee. The report covered a period of three years. At the Dominion Convention held in Truro in 1882, Mr. W. P. Crombie was elected General Secretary, but had been compelled to resign through ill health. Mr. T. S. Cole was appointed to the vacancy, and spent four months in the Maritime Provinces, and the remainder of the time in Ontario and Quebec in resuscitating and building up societies. They had been assisted by the International Committee of New York. At Barrie, Sherbrooke, Perth and Toronto district conferences had been held. Work among railway men was regularly carried on at Toronto, London and St. Thomas. The interest in college work was increasing. They regretted that, while so much work had been done, they had not received sufficient funds to meet expenses, and were compelled to report a deficit of $375. They recommended that some systematic scheme should be devised to raise funds. Nineteen Associations had reported a membership of between 4,000 and 5,000, and other reports were yet to be received. In 1881 there were 6 paid Secretaries engaged in the work, and now there were 13.

GENERAL SECRETARY'S REPORT.

Mr. T. S. COLE, General Travelling Secretary, read his report, giving the names of the places he had visited and some of the results of his visits. Secretaries had been engaged at Hamilton, Peterborough, Port Hope, Guelph, Brantford, Toronto Railway Association and Owen Sound. He had attended several conferences in the United States and district conferences in Canada. He had travelled 17,000 miles. His report gave cheering accounts of the progress of Associations.

It was decided that the report should be read again at this evening's meeting.

DISCUSSION ON THE REPORT.

Mr. MORSE, of New York, said that it was necessary that the work should be continued, and, although the Association had accomplished much they should push the work on. The Executive Committee should be better supported. They owed a great deal to the Secretary, Mr. Gartshore, who had done more than he should be called upon to do.

Mr. INGERSOLL, of New York, supported what Mr. Morse had said.

Mr. H. HAWKINS, of Port Hope, spoke of the benefit the Association of that town had derived from Mr. Cole's visit.

Mr. W. N. BESSEY, Brantford, Mr. F. Lonsdale, Hamilton, and Mr. D. A. Budge, of Montreal, gave similar testimony.

M. W. P. CROMBIE said that he was greatly pleased with Mr. Cole's report, and he was pleased that Mr. Cole had succeeded him as General Secretary.

Mr. J. F. JEFFERS testified to the good Mr. Cole's visits had accomplished in Peterborough. He asked from what source the funds of the Executive Committee were derived?

Mr. GARTSHORE said from contributions from individuals in the various places who felt interested in the work.

The hymn, "To the Work," was sung and Mr. W. P. Crombie engaged in prayer. The Convention then adjourned until 2.30 o'clock.

At the meeting this evening Mr. T. S. Cole, General Traveling Secretary, will read his report. A Bible reading will follow, and the Rev. A. H. Munro will read a paper on "How we came by our English Bible." The meeting will commence at 7.30 o'clock, and the public are invited.

THE DELEGATES.

The following is a supplementary list of delegates and the names of those in whose homes they are staying. More delegates are still expected:—

J. P. McNaughton, Queen's College—D. W. Dumble, Edinburgh street.

Alf. Gandier, Queen's College—D. W. Dumble, Edinburgh street.

E. Skitch, Campbellford—J. C. T. Lacey.

D. McGillivray, Brantford—Rev. T. Manning, Reid street.

T. G. King, Orillia—W. C. Nicholls, McDonnell street.

W. Craig, jr., Port Hope—Mrs. Gilmour, Park street.

H. G. Hawkins, Port Hope—J. B. Pentland.

J. A. Cosgrove, Queen's College—Rev. E. D. St. Dalmas, Smith.

T. N. Henry, Belleville—Mrs. (Dr.) Kincaid, George street.

Dancing Assembly.

As the Peterborough Orchestra have an engagement for Thursday evening next, the weekly assembly will be held on Friday evening, at the usual place and hour.

The Convention.

Several more delegates arrived last night and this morning to attend the Young Men's Christian Association Convention and more are expected.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Light to moderate winds, fair to cool weather.

Piano Tuning.

Geo. G. Gumpricht, tuner for Messrs. Mason & Rich, Toronto, is in town for a few days. Orders left at Mr. T. Menzies' bookstore or Messrs. Taylor & McDonald's drug store will be promptly attended to.

The First Flurry.

Many of the townspeople were surprised on going out last night after tea to find that the "beautiful" was blowing and whirling in blustering gusts. This is, however, the time of year when we may expect to experience the first chilling wind, and doubtless before many weeks more cold and colder waves will follow. The snow disappeared before the morning sun.

A Meritorious Instrument.

Mr. D. Smart, the enterprising dealer in musical instruments, has shown us at his warerooms, on George street, an organ possessing great merit both in finish and tone. It is a concert organ, with 19 stops, a blow lever, 7 sets of reeds in the treble and 4 sets in the base. It has also in addition to the blow lever the ordinary feet pedals. It is of a beautiful design (Victoria case), and made of polished oak. It is manufactured by the celebrated makers, Bell & Co., of Guelph. Mr. Smart is is always to the front in securing the best instruments in the market, and this one really does him credit, which is saying a great deal.

CORNICE POLES complete at A. CLEGG'S, only $1.75.

The Protestant Home.

The ladies connected with the Peterborough Protestant Home desire to call the attention of the Town Council and people generally to the necessity of additional shelter for the aged and infirm. The Home is now full and we are unable to take in any more. It has been a quiet haven of rest to not a few weary and homeless ones. Some can bless God that their steps were directed thitherward. Considerable expense has been incurred in necessary improvements which are at present in progress, consequently have had to encroach largely on Mrs. Robert Nichol's donation. It will be esteemed a great boon if some entertainment could be got up by our kind, energetic young people in town for the benefit of the Home. We are sure this has only to be mooted in order that it may be put in practice. "He that hath a bountiful eye shall be blessed for he giveth of his substance to the poor." We would also remind our merchants that any unsaleable goods would be very acceptable. We have four fatherless children as well as the sick and aged, and as our Canadian winter is fast approaching, anything that that they would give would be thankfully received. Our farmers we trust will give what produce they can spare; donations in money to be given to our treasurer, Mrs. Jeffers. The churches will, no doubt, give their annual collection. Let us all try to strew loving deeds as we journey on, smoothing each other's path, remembering the Saviour's gentle reminder, "Inasmuch as yet did it to one of the least of these ye did it unto me." "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

The Provincial Exhibition

The President and Directors of the West Riding Agricultural Society have been recently looking at a number of places in the vicinity and within the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough suitable on which to erect exhibition buildings. The following gentlemen composed the delegation:—Mr. James Campbell, President; Messrs. Rutherford and Riddell, South Monaghan; Messrs. Fitzgerald, Bell, Garbutt and Elliott, Smith; Messrs. McClelland and Walton, Peterborough, and Mr. Collins, North Monaghan, Directors of the Society. They visited twelve places in all and have now under their consideration lots both in the north and south portions of the town. The grounds will be chosen with a view to their suitability on which to hold a Provincial Exhibition, which, it is expected, will take place in Peterborough at a not far distant period.

PAINTED Window Shades, with handsome dados, at A. CLEGG'S.

The Love of Society

Ever since the creation of the human family the love of society has formed one of our strongest characteristics. It is society that forms the mental spring to the cultivation of the arts and sciences. It is society that gives actitude to the exercise of all our social enjoyments. It is the love of society that brings us together, to advise one with another as to the better mode of securing a more permanent basis upon which society may rest secure from the influence of temptation and be bold, be frank, and fear not what others may think so long as you are obeying the dictates of conscience. Remember that it is with our judgments as our matches; none go just alike, yet each believes his own, and that is the reason why so many agree in saying buy your oysters at Smith's.

We do not Claim

That Shaker Blood Syrup will cure everything, but the fact that on the purity and vitality of the blood depends the vigor and health of the whole system, and that disease of various kinds is often only the sign that nature is trying to remove the disturbing cause, we are naturally led to the conclusion that a remedy that gives life and vigor to the blood, eradicates scrofula and and other impurities from it, as Shaker Blood Syrup undoubtedly does, must be the means of preventing many diseases that would occur without its use; hence the field of its usefulness is quite an extended one, and we are warranted in recommending it for all derangements of the system which are caused by an unnatural state of the blood.

Gentlemen.—I was a great sufferer from Salt-Rheum on my limbs, for 12 years previous to the summer of 1876, at which time I was cured by Shaker Blood Syrup. The skin would become dry, chap, crack, open, bleed and itch intensely, so that I could not help scratching, which of course made them worse. At the time I commenced taking Shaker Blood Syrup (in the summer of 1876) they were so bad that they discharged, and I was obliged to keep them bandaged with lines cloths. The skin was drawn so tight by the best of the disease that if I stooped over they would crack open and actually bring tears to my eyes. The first bottle benefited me so much that I continued taking it till I was cured. Hoping many others may learn the value of Shaker Blood Syrup, and receive as much benefit as I have, I am,

Very truly yours,
C. A. HOWARD,
West 11th St., New York.

POLICE COURT.

PROFANE LANGUAGE.

SATURDAY, Oct. 24.—Mr. Jemison was charged by P. C. Adams with having used profane language in a public place. The prisoner pleaded guilty. In answer to a question from the Magistrate he said that he came from the United States. The Magistrate said that as this was a foreign importation he would impose a duty of $2, so as to keep it out of the country.

DRUNK.

Alex. Campbell, hailing from Truro, N. S., was charged by P. C. Adams with having been drunk. The prisoner pleaded guilty and was fined $2.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

Extensive Improvements.

During the past month the appearance of the dry goods store of Mr. John Erskine has undergone a complete change. The old-fashioned front has been taken out and a front in the latest city style has been put in. The front consists of 12 pieces of plate glass and suitable ironwork. The eastward front lights are 106 x 48 inches, and the side lights 106 x 46. The westward front lights are 112 x 60, and the side lights 112 x 56. The doors are of handsome woodword and plate glass. The windows are dressed with taste, and Mr. Erskine's goods thus shown to the best advantage. Mr. Erskine may justly boast now that his store has as good light as any in Peterborough, and that the front is equal in attractiveness to any in the town. Another story and a mansard roof has also been built on the store, adding greatly to its appearance. The upper story is used as a stock wareroom.

THE CITIZENS TAKE ACTION.

They Meet and Consider the Cause and Cure of the Recent Burglaries.

On Friday evening a large and influential meeting of the business men and citizens of the town of Peterborough was held in the Council Chamber to consider the best means whereby the property in the business portion of the town might be protected from thieves and burglars, and also to enforce the Town Council to take some action in the matter.

Mr. Geo. A. Cox was elected chairman, and Mr. T. Kelly filled the office of secretary.

Mr. Cox on taking the chair stated that it was unnecessary to tell them why the meeting was called, as they already knew the end to which they were met in this room. He would like to hear an expression of feeling from each of those present, and then means might be taken to have more protection to property than was now available.

CONTINUALLY IN DANGER.

Mr. WM. LECH said that it was a shame to the town that the property was so poorly protected, that people were in danger of losing all they had through burglaries. The Council should take immediate action in the matter. He was sorry that the councillors from the upper and lower wards did not take more interest in the heart of the town. Outside councillors were against anything for the benefit of George Street. He referred particularly to the stand which a certain councillor had taken in this matter, but he would like to know what Peterborough would be without George street.

CHIEF OF POLICE.

Mr. J. MCCLELLAND spoke in favor of having an efficient Chief of Police appointed. He had nothing against Mr. Johnston, but he thought a younger and more experienced man would be more effective en managing a police force. Mr. Johnston might be kept busy with street and bridge improvements. He also spoke of the corner loafer nuisance as an evil which would have to be eradicated.

Mr. J. HARRIS also expressed his feelings on the lack of sufficient protection of property.

Mr. A. RUTHERFORD made a few few forcible remarks, coinciding with what Mr. McClelland had said.

AN INTOLERABLE NUISANCE.

Mr. J. H. ROPER said that another evil which would have to be remedied was that of corner loafers. It was a disgrace to a civilized community that a respectable lady could not go along the streets in the evening or on Sunday without being disgusted with the profane language, obscene remarks and filthy tobacco spitting of these individuals. The only way he saw to remedy this evil was to employ a capable chief of police and give him a sufficient staff.

JUST WHAT WE WANT.

Mr. A. MCNEIL moved, seconded by Mr. I. ROBINSON,—That we, the merchants and residents of the town of Peterborough, hereby authorize His Worship the Mayor to appoint two or three night watchmen, or as many as he may deem sufficient for the protection of the property of the merchants in the business part of the town, until such time as the Council shall take further action.—Carried.

THE POLICE FORCE.

Mr. J. MCCLELLAND moved, seconded by Mr. J. BRADEN,—That in the opinion of this meeting the Council should, without delay, appoint an efficient chief of police for the town.—Carried.

The meeting then adjourned.

A LARGE variety of New Splashers for back of washstands, from 15c. each, at J. ERSKINE'S.

Rather Cool.

The mercury in the Rev. V. Clementi's self-registering thermometer went down to 30° last night.

Dufferin Literary Club.

A meeting of the Dufferin Literary Club was held on Friday night in their room in the Mechanics' Institute. There was a good attendance and the programme for the evening was exceedingly interesting. The Honorary President, Mr. D. W. Dumble, who was present, was unanimously elected to take the chair. Several new members were admitted. After the routine work had been done the debate for the evening, "Resolved,—That capital punishment be abolished," was in order. Affirmative, Messrs. F. P. Henry and E. L. Harning. Negative, Messrs. F. Scott and A. Clegg. The Chairman decided in favor of the negative. The first two parts of a very able essay, favorably comparing Canada with the United States and advocating our present status, were read by Mr. Long. The Honorary President made some pointed and concise remarks regarding the working of the Club, and also made some valuable suggestions. He was convinced that the object of the Club was a good one and dwelt specially on the art of speaking. He said that it was an art which was too much neglected. He asked what use a man's education was to him if he could not show it to good advantage among his fellow men. Men with inferior ability who cultivated the art of speaking would rank higher on a public platform than a man with superior ability who had neglected the art. A subject was chosen for debate at the next meeting and the meeting adjourned.

John Ruskin on the Bible.

Be sure you try accurately to understand your Bible, and transfer its teaching to modern words, by putting other names for those that have been superseded by time. Read your Bible, making it the first morning business of your life to understand some portion of it clearly, and your daily business to obey it in all that you do understand. To my early knowledge of the Bible I owe the best part of my taste in literature, and the most precious, and, on the whole, the one essential part of my education.

Terrible Accident.

A Port Arthur despatch says information was received to-day of a terrible accident on Thursday on McLeod's contract at Red Sucker Cove, 170 miles east. A powerful blast started a large ledge of rock, which in its fall buried six men. Three bodies had been removed.

THE BURGLARIES.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—If you will kindly give this space in your valuable paper you will oblige your subscribers. I don't wonder, when I pick up a paper, to see another daring burglary last night; it is the first thing we look for. Now truly our quite little town is getting on fast. Our police is not taking the best plan to put a stop to this night prowling. When Mr. McKee's goods were found, if, instead of removing them, they had set a hiden watch over them they would soon get the thief or thieves. I think the best opportunity is past. I hope if such a chance comes again that our protective force will go to work more wisely. I should have acted very different, although a woman.

Yours truly,
C. R.

THE BET TAKEN.

To the Editor of the Review

SIR,—In a letter under the caption "House Moving" in Friday evening's REVIEW 'Night Owl' offers to bet any amount of money that he can move any frame house within the fire limits, a distance of five hundred yards without the removal being observed by a member of the police force, the house to be moved between the hours of midnight and 5 a.m. Now sir, I will accept his wager, and hereby select the old Wilson hotel on Hunter street, as the house to be moved. So confident am I of winning, that I will give "Night Owl" a month to accomplish this feat, and he may also operate all night, if he likes, instead of from midnight to 5 o'clock a.m. The reason of my certainty of his inability of performing this feat, is, that on account of the present blockade on Hunter street it would be impossible for him to drag the house through the piles of rubbish and debris in a single night half that distance, and, as the house would be left in the middle of the street in broad day light our perspicacious, keen, quick-sighted and discerning policemen, would at once "catch on."

Yours, etc.
PROWLER.

Peterborough, Oct. 26th 1884.

COUNCILLOR FOR NO. 1 WARD.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I sincerely hope that the ratepayers in No. 1 Ward will have the good sense to place Mr. McNeil at the head of the poll on Monday by a large majority. If elected, he will be a credit to our Ward and will, I feel assured, prove one of the most useful, as he will certainly be one of the most intelligent members of the board.

You reminded us, in a recent issue, that Mr. McNaughton had on previous occasions represented our Ward, and that we cannot fail to know what he did for us and for the town at large during his tenure of office. My own impression is that during that term the benefit occruing from his position may be represented by 0. If I am not much mistaken he opposed every good measure that was introduced at the Council Board, and chiefly, I believe, for the purpose of currying favor with the small ratepayers, by a wretched cry of economy. But the economy he advocated was of a most mistaken nature so far as the interests of the town were concerned. "Onward" has been the cry of the intelligent inhabitants of Peterborough, and the cry has proved successful, as witness the many great improvements which are constantly taking place in our town. But if, unhappily, Mr. McNaughton should again be elected to a councillor's seat we shall find him once more opposing every advantageous measure that may be suggested. We have already, on several occasions, tried him and "found him wanting," as evinced by our rejection of him at the last municipal election, and I, as one of those who have a considerable stake in the Ward, beg leave to express a hope that my fellow-wardsmen will show him, on Monday morning, that they do not want him back again as our representative.

In writing thus I desire to add that I have not the slightest intention of casting any reflections on Mr. McNaughton's character. He has always conducted himself as a respectable member of our community, but it is pretty well known that he has been elected on former occasions partly on account of the fun he created in the council chamber by his vagaries, and that is not quite the sort of man we desire to have for our spokesman.

Yours, &c.,
AN ELECTOR.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK.

FRIDAY, Oct. 24.—Michael McGuire was charged by P. C. Adams with having been drunk in a public place. The prisoner said that he had just come down from Lindsay, and he supposed that he had had a drop too much. If His Worship would give him a chance he would go back to work at once. The Magistrate said that he would let him off this time, but if he ever came up again, the circumstances would be different.

NON-SUPPORT OF FAMILY.

Jacob Roberts was charged by his wife, Bella Roberts, with having without lawful excuse neglected to provide necessary food and clothing for his wife and children.

The prisoner pleaded not guilty, and elected to be tried summarily. Several witnesses were examined for the prosecution and the prisoner was heard.

The Magistrate in giving judgment said that these cases were most painful ones. They were being continually brought before him. Wives would bear with their troubles until they could bear them no longer, and then they would come to him. He could not make the man better, nor could he stop his drinking; he could only send him to gaol. A man who has a family of little children was legally bound to support them. He could not understand how a man could demean himself so much as to gratify an appetite for whiskey while his little children were at home crying for bread. He could only enforce the law; the pardoning power lay with the Government. The case was enlarged for one month.

ANOTHER PLACE ROBBED

MR. J. MILLS, HATTER, IS RELIEVED OF ABOUT $300 WORTH OF GOODS.

General Excitement Throughout the Town—The Boldness of the Burglars Amazing—They go About Their Work with Astonishing Coolness—They make an Attempt to Enter J. White's Store.

This morning about seven o'clock it was discovered that the stores of Messrs. J. Mills, hatter and furrier, and J. White, boot and shoe maker, had been visited during the night by a burglarious gang. The wildest rumours at once flew up and down George street and the excitement ran high.

The boldness of the burglars is astonishing. Only the night before they entered Mr. R. B. McKee's hardware-store and abstracted a large quantity of goods, which were happily recovered. Maddened, perhaps, at their dark design being foiled, they again settled their eyes on a fresh victim. It is, doubtless, the same gang who are robbing these different places, and they must have remained all day yesterday in the heart of the town.

THE FIRST BREAK IN.

The first place of attack was the boot and shoe store of Mr. John White. They merely took out a light of glass from one of the windows in the back shop, raised the window and were inside. They next secured convenient tools to force the door leading from the back shop to the front one. The door was, however, strongly barred and resisted their utmost force. Finding that it was impossible to work their way into the front shop they retraced their steps and next attacked which is situated next door. They first tried to force the door, removing some earth so as to obtain a firm footing. The door was too strong and they then had resource to the window. A top pane was broken, the window raised, and they had easy access to the main store. They proceeded to the front window and possessed themselves of 1 Astrachan jacket, 4 South Sea Seal caps, 2 Persian Lamb caps, 2 pair of Beaver gauntlets, 1 Persian Lamb collar or Russian Lamb collar, 1 Beaver cap, 5 Astrachan caps, 4 Coney caps, 1 ladies' Bocharin cape, 2 black Coney caps, a pair of ladies' Seal gauntlets. In fact they gutted the window completely, taking every article of value. They then went to the glove case which stands near the door and stripped the show bars of between 3 and 4 dozen of fine English kid gloves.

This is where the coolness comes in. They took from the shelves three large hat boxes, removed the hats, placed the hats again on the shelves in perfect order, filled the boxes with the ill gotten goods and walked to the back part of the store. When getting in the window there were some empty hat boxes on the window sill. These must necessarily have been knocked down while they were crawling in. But their faculty of order must have been highly developed. They replaced the empty boxes in a symmetrical pile on the sill, turned the key which had been left on the inside of the door, and departed.

MORE PROTECTION NEEDED.

Peterborough is now almost a city; she has two trunk lines of railway running through her, and our business men must take the necessary precautions to guard against burglaries. On the other hand, there should be more night watchmen. One man is entirely inadequate to attend to the duties devolving upon him. The town's people generally were, to-day, loud in their denounciation of the town council for their non-providance in the matter. Something should be done, and that at once, to protect the people from such depredations.

The Contest in No. One Ward.

Although nomination day is barely passed for candidates to fill the position of Councillor in the above ward, some of those gentlemen who received the nomination are already hard at work canvassing the voters. It is possible that this contest will be a hot one, and as the electors of No. One Ward always take a deep interest in anything of a municipal nature, it is sure to be a very spirited, yet friendly fight. The inhabitants of this town are, as a rule, fond of the little excitement that springs up during the municipal elections, and this battle in the banner ward will be no exception to the rule. While your attention is drawn to this item, it will not be amiss to give the respective candicandidates and their friends some wholesome advice (pardon the suggestion). The candidate that goes from house to house seeking votes must look his best, as the fair sex have something to say as to whom the "old man" will vote for. Now in this connection we would advise all to go to Habiliment Hall, and don one of McNeil's nobby suits, when they are sure to come to the front "like a solid man."

NIGHT WATCHMEN.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—At a meeting of our worthy Town Fathers some time ago, they in their wonderful wisdom decided that it was not necessary to appoint a night watchman. A great many people blamed them very much for what seemed to be such a miserable attempt at economy, but they looked upon it in a different light than the Councillors did. The ratepayers thought it was a man to watch the stores at night to discover any attempts at burglary or arson, &c., but the Councillors were considering the watching of the whole town, and as it was so bulky they thought it perfectly safe. It does look as if it were, and to the eyes of a stranger would appear impossible to move, but when we see the way the storekeepers and others have been robbed by midnight mechanics lately, and the cool audacity with which the robbers have effected their purpose, it does seem within the range of possibility that they will remove the town bodily some night, and the only thing they will think worthless is our police force, who claim they watch the buildings in turn all night, especially after the stupid mistake of the chief in carting away the goods that were found without attempting to entrap the burglars.

FIGHT IN A COURT-ROOM.

A Judge and Lawyer Indulge in a Free Fight.

Sensation was caused in the Louisville Court House, on Saturday, by a fight between Judge Hargis, until recently Chief-Justice of the Court of Appeals, and Colonel Binnett Young, a well-known lawyer and President of the Southern Exposition. In argument in an injunction case, Hargis made a remark reflecting on Young, who denounced him as an infamous liar. Hargis hurled two law books at Young, when they clinched and were having a regular mill when separated.

A Gambling Note Declared Void.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 22.—In the case of the National Bank against Robt. E. Cunningham for payment of a note for $3,500, given in a cotton future speculation, the court charged that if the note was so given it was void, and the jury found for defendant. The case attracted much attention.

Shot on the Eve of Marriage.

RICHMOND, Oct. 22.—E. O. Fitzgerald who was to be married to Mayor Carrington's daughter this evening, was found in his room this morning with a pistol shot wound in his head. It is supposed he shot himself while examining the pistol. The wound will probably prove fatal.

Fatal Railway Collision.

MONTREAL, Oct. 23.—A freight train and an express train collided at Pointe Claire. The engineer of the express, Alexander Stewart, aged 50 years, was unfortunately killed, and his fireman, Charles Bawden, aged 24, had his leg fractured and foot crushed. Several passengers were injured. An inquest was held and the jury returned a unanimous verdict of accidental death.

Some Facts About the Knabe Pianos.

These Pianos have established their excellence in every community where they have been introduced, and the most eminent performers have given them the most unqualified approval. Their appreciation, however, is not confined to the class known as professional artists, but they are as highly prized in the parlor as in the school-room or upon the stage. The fact is, they are as perfect as any instruments of the kind that have yet been made, and possesses many qualities which strike the critical ear as superior to all other pianos. This is the whole secret of their great popularity and the high appreciation in which they are held by both amateurs and professionals.

Collision on the Midland.

A serious accident occurred on the Midland railway, near Agincourt, on Wednesday night. Owing to some misconception as to the crossing of a freight train by the conductor of another train, a collision occurred near the station, resulting in the smashup of a number of freight cars, and in considerable damage to a couple of engines. Fortunately, as the trains approached each other, the drivers of the locomotives saw the headlights in front of them, and had time to get the brakes put on so as to reduce the force of the collision. The train hands got off the cars before the engines clashed into each other, so that no one was injured. An auxiliary train was sent from here, and the debris was removed, and the line made clear for traffic next morning.—Mail.

NEGLECT OF DUTY.

THAT we should have burglaries committed in the town of Peterborough week after week, and indeed night after night, is a very serious matter, though it seems to be regarded with the most sublime indifference by those whose duty it is to take precautions for the protection of the property of the ratepayers. For what purpose do the Mayor and Councillors suppose they are elected, if it is not to conduct such matters on behalf of the people as require concerted, instead of individual, action? And what could be more clearly comprised among these than the protection of property from the midnight thief? Is it the idea of our Council that property holders are to arm themselves and protect their goods by the strong arm, as if we were a community of savages, instead of a civilized municipality? If so, by what right do they exact taxes on the personal property, the stock in trade of our merchants? When complaint is made of the burden of these taxes, the reply is, that in return for the payment the property is protected. So it should be, but so it is not. The law imposes this duty upon our municipal authorities, and they certainly neglect it.

So long as these burglaries are allowed to go on unchecked, the sufferers and those who are exposed to similar loss will hold the Mayor and Councillors morally responsible. It may be a question if they are not also legally responsible on account of their wilful neglest of one of the chief duties placed upon them by the law.

It would be useless for them to allege that there is sufficient protection for property. The facts plainly contradict such an assertion. It is not as if there were an isolated robbery which could not be forseen, for it has now become a matter of course to learn in the morning that some store on our principal streets has been robbed during the night. There could not be a plainer proof that we have not sufficient police protection, and that the neglect to provide it is wilful and deliberate.

WAS HE PLEDGED?

THE Globe is still endeavouring to excuse the corrupt inducements by which Mr. Mowat prevailed upon Mr. Hart to turn traitor to those who elected him for Prince Edward County and to support the Reform Administration which he was elected to oppose.

The Globe says that Mr. Hart "had given no pledge to join the Tory ranks in case of his being elected," and again that Mr. Hart was elected with the assistance of Conservatives "promising them nothing." The Globe itself is our authority for stating that the Globe is either telling deliberate falsehoods or is treating as venial the most fraudulent and treacherous conduct on the part of Mr. Hart. It was from the Globe among other sources that we learned that Mr. Hart was chosen as the Conservative candidate by the Liberal Conservative Convention of Prince Edward County after several ballots. By the same authority we were informed that Mr. Hart had accepted the nomination of the Liberal Conservative Convention.

We think that this is authority that cannot be denied by the Reform party for our saying that Mr. Hart did give a pledge of supporting their views to the Liberal Conservatives of Prince Edward County. If we are to understand that Mr. Hart and the Globe do not consider that Mr. Hart gave a pledge and a promise by formally accepting the formal nomination of the Liberal Conservative Convention of the County, it is evident that Mr. Hart is just such a fraudulent rascal as would sell his vote to Mr. Mowat, and that the Globe is a disgrace to journalism for advocating such a disgraceful fraud.

Is it to be supposed that political morality is at such a low ebb in Canada, that a candidate can accept a party nomination, and yet be held to owe no allegiance to the party with which he thus identifies himself? We do not believe it. We know scores of honest Reformers who would scorn to accept the morality of their purchased ally and of their fraudulent organ.

THE TRUE CHARGE.

THE leading organ of Mr. Mowat repeats the stupid falsehood that Mr. Meredith made a charge "to the effect that Mr. Mowat had entered into a 'conspiracy' to turn himself out of office." Mr. Meredith's charge, which was proved, was "to the effect" that Mr. Mowat and his colleagues had conspired with some informers and decoys to solicit the commission of an illegal act, that he might expose it, and so make political capital for himself. Mr. Mowat found that several of his followers were deserting him, so he devised this plot in order to frighten or purchase them back into his ranks. He was also inconveniently pressed by the enquiry into the doings of himself and his colleagues, in regard the mock election of the self-confessed fraud Lyon, and wished to raise an excitement of some sort to call off public attention from his own misdeeds. No one ever accused Mr. Mowat of plotting to turn himself out of power, but he was accused and proved guilty of conspiring to keep himself dishonestly in power.

BECAUSE we stated that we knew of no Conservative promise that protection would prevent commercial depression, the London Advertiser kindly says:—"This is by no means the limit of what our esteemed contemporary does not know." We do not pretend to be omniscient. But there is this difference between ourselves and the Advertiser; we do not make a statement unless we know it to be true, while our contemporary not only states what it does not know to be true, but even goes further oftentimes by stating what it knows to be false. It would be better for the Advertiser to give, in place of abuse, the exact particulars of any Conservative statement that protection would prevent commercial depression—if it can.

KILLED BY A BULLET!

THE ADJOURNED INQUEST ON JOHN JOHNSTON'S DEATH.

Three More Witnesses Examined. Further Evidence asked for by the Jurymen—A Mysterious Affair.

The inquest on the body of the late John Johnston, adjourned from Friday, the 17th of October, was held in the Council Chamber on Thursday night, Dr. Fife, county coroner, presiding. At shortly after seven o'clock all the jurymen were present and the inquest was continued.

THOS. DOUGLAS, sworn,—My name is Thos. Douglas. The last place I saw the deceased was at Irwin's camp, Serpentine Lake, in the township of Anstruther, in the County of Peterborough. He left the camp in company with William O'Brien for the purpose of starting a dog after deer. The day was Sunday, the 5th of October. They departed from camp in a canoe, and took the dog with them. They had no gun or firearms of any kind. They went away at about 8 o'clock a.m. They started to go to the end of the lake, which is about a mile from the camp. That is the last I saw of the deceased. O'Brien returned to the camp in about half an hour in a canoe, but without Johnston or the dog. When he returned he told me that he had left Johnston and the dog at the landing at the head of the lake, and in accordance with a previous arangement I started back to meet him. I went with O'Brien before 9 in the morning, in the canoe, to an island in the centre of the lake. We took with us a double-barrelled shot gun. Neither of us loaded the gun, but it was loaded. John Johnston loaded the gun; I saw him load it with fine shot in one barrel and buckshot in the other. We did not fire any shots while at the island, or going to it. We left the island at eleven o'clock, myself and O'Brien in the canoe. We went towards the head of the lake. While going up I fired a shot at a partridge and killed it. It was the barrel loaded with shot that I fired. Neither I nor O'Brien fired any other shot that morning. When we reached the head of the lake I called 3 times, receiving no answer. I neither saw nor heard any person. We then put a barrel of flour into the canoe and returned to camp. We arrived at about 12 o'clock noon. I took dinner with the rest of the men and stayed at the camp until evening. I then went out in a canoe and paddled all round the shores of the lake, calling at different points. I called to see if I could get any tidings of Johnston, but received no answer. I then went back to camp, arriving at about nine o'clock. No more search was made that night. The dog in the meantime had returned to camp. No search was made on Monday, but on Tuesday 5 men and myself went out all around the lake looking for the deceased, finding no trace of him. On Wednesday nothing was done, but on Thursday we again started out, and at the same time made inquiries at another camp a few miles away. We found no clue to him. On Friday and Saturday we did not search, but on Sunday 12th October between 25 and 30 men turned out and made a general investigation of the coast line of the lake, but still nothing was heard or seen of him. On Monday two brothers of the deceased and myself went out to look for him, taking a belt of country 3½ miles from the lake shore. The reason we kept near the lake shore was because he was to have started the dog and then come to the shore to meet O'Brien and myself in the canoe. We all came to the conclusion that he was either disabled or dead. On Monday evening I went to Apsley, and the brothers of the deceased went home. When I came back to camp the deceased had been found. I knew where he was found and went to it. The first time I saw the deceased after he was found, it was about 200 yards from the head of the lake and about 800 yards from where I shot the partridge. The shot was not fired in the direction of where the body lay. I heard a shot fired at about eleven o'clock, before I left the island on the day referred to. It sounded as if fired near the landing where I got the barrel of flour. The body was found at a distance of about half a mile from the landing. After I heard the shot, I paddled up the lake. None of the men at the camp were out hunting on that day. There were hunters' dogs running in the neighbourhood all that week, but do not know to whom they belonged. The dog the deceased took up the lake was not his own; it was a dog which I found between the two camps. When I found it its feet were cut from the effects of running. It followed me to the landing, where I put it on a crib and took it to camp. On Sunday last Mr. Adams and myself examined the place where the body was found. We observed the marks left by a bullet coming through the woods. Little birch and willow trees were scathed and cut off exactly in the line were the body lay. The shot came from the south. The place were the body was found is about half a mile in a straight line from the camp. I could plainly see Mr. Adams 25 yards away, through the woods. There was no rifle in the camp that day. The person who shot the deceased must have been between the camp and the deceased. I may be mistaken in regard to the location of the sound of the shot I heard fired at eleven o'clock, on the day mentioned. The shores of the lake are rocky, and the report may have been in another direction altogether. The deceased was on friendly terms with the men at the camp. I am unaware of any circumstance which might have led to his death.

To a Juryman.—The shot may possibly have been a stray one. The person who fired the shot must have been within 25 or 30 yards from the deceased, as the body was found on the commencement of a slight declivity and if farther away the one who fired would have been on the other side of the knoll.

To another Juryman.—It was about half a mile from the landing where the body was found. The gully is about 300 or 400 yards wide. Reports are rife that years ago Johnston was at variance with a man named Cochrane, but I do not know whether they are true. I do not know of any malice borne towards Johnston, which would have been likely to have caused his assassination or wilful murder. The body was found in a thick bush, but I don't think at 25 yards away he would be mistaken for a deer. I do not know whether Cochrane was in the neighborhood or not. Cochrane is a farmer and he lives in the Township of Cavendish if I am not mistaken.

MR. O'BRIEN sworn,—I am the man who went with John Johnston up Serpentine Lake on Sunday, the 5th of October. I went with him to put out a dog after the deer. We went to the landing near the head of the lake. He got out of the canoe, told me to hurry back, and then walked away. I do not know which way he intended to go. I paddled back and went with Douglas to the island in the centre of the lake. The rest of the evidence given by the former witness is, as far as I am aware of, correct. I saw the deceased when he was found. I saw the mark on his breast. I think that he came by his death by being shot, but I do not know who fired the fatal ball.

To a Juryman.—The barrel of flour was at the landing place when I left Johnson.

POLICEMAN ADAMS, sworn.—My name is Robert H. Adams. I examined the ground where the boyd was discovered. On last Sunday morning Mr. Douglass and my self went up the lake in a canoe and made an examination of the place. We found marks on little trees and twigs which were riddled, and we supposed this to be caused by a bullet. The twigs were not broken, they were riddled. At the time when Johnston met with his death it must have been harder to descry through the woods than it was when Douglass saw me, as there had been considerable bush cut away. The ball which caused Johnston's death must have come from a southward direction, judging from the marks on the trees and the position of the body. The ground where he lay was fairly level. The shot may have been fired from the other side of the gully a distance of about 300 or 400 yards. I could not say whether the deceased met with his death by an accidental shot or by wilful murder. There was a hunting party in the vicinity, but I understand they were not out on that day. The hunting party was composed of Messrs. John Isbister, H. Steele, Walter Casement, B. Elliot, Lakefield; H. Ne[illegible] and John Boyce, Smit[illegible] portage between E[illegible] is situated about three miles distant from where the man was shot. Mr. Isbister told me that two of the party went across to Deer Bay on that day and shot a deer.

DR. KINCAID, who made the post mortem examination made the following statement:—On the 16th day of October, 1884, in accordance with a summons from the Coroner, I held a post mortem examination on the body of the late John Johnston. I found the body to be that of a strong, healthy, well-developed man of about 50 years of age. There were no marks of violence upon his body, except one in the right breast, which, upon superficial examination, appeared large with torn edges about two inches and a half in circumference. My first impressions were that he had fallen upon a stake, but on opening the chest and following the course of the wound, I found that it (the wound) had evidently been inflicted by a bullet. The bullet entered the chest on the right side between the third and fourth ribs, passing downward and backward, penetrating the middle of the right lung and the right and left auricles of the heart. It passed through the left side of the chest between the fifth and sixth ribs and penetrated the left arm at the middle third on the inner side. It then passed around the arm and lodged under the skin on the outside, where I found it and took it out. As this injury of itself would be sufficient to account for almost instantaneous death I made no further examination of any other organs of the body. The ball, which I handed to the Coroner, was evidently of that kind used in Winchester rifles.

As the above evidence was not of a conclusive character the jury decided on again adjourning until Monday evening, the members of the hunting party and John Cochrane to be subpoenead to appear.

Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION.

Meeting of the Ontario and Quebec Association.

PETERBOROUGH WELCOMES THE DELEGATES TO THE ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

The Work of Organization—Officers Elected—Reports from Local Associations—Particulars of the Proceedings up to Noon To-day.

The convention of the Young Men's Christian Association of the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, which is being held here, is an important meeting of the Association, and is especially so, as no such convention has been held for three years.

THURSDAY.

2:30 P. M.—This afternoon there was a very good attedance from various parts of both Provinces at the opening session of the Association, which was held in the Sunday School room of the George Street Methodist Church. Mr. John J. Gartshore, of Toronto, Secretary of the Provincial Executive Committee, occupied the chair. In addition to the delegates a number of ladies were present.

A hymn was sung, and some minutes were spent in silent prayer, after which several delegates engaged in prayer.

THE GOLDEN GOSPEL BELL.

Dr. BARNARDO, of London, Eng., who was invited to address the convention, said he regretted that he had to leave Peterborough that evening, as he would therefore be unable to attend the larger meetings. He was a member of the Association and was glad to meet so many representatives of the Association in Canada. There were many towns in Canada where there was no Association and where the work was not progressing, that would be benefitted by their presence. He then delivered an address, based on Exodus xxviii., 34:—"A golden bell and a pomegranate, a golden bell and a pomegranate, upon the hem of the robe round about." His address was practical and instructive, and listened to with marked attention.

The convention engaged in prayer for a short time.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

Mr. Henry Hawkins, of Port Hope, was elected Secretary of the Convention pro tem.

The Chairman nominated the following committees:—

PERMANENT ORGANIZATION.—R. Henderson, Montreal; J. D. Nasmith, Toronto; Wm. Craig, Port Hope; J. F. Jeffers, Peterborough, and Chas. Midgley, Hamilton.

TEMPORARY BUSINESS COMMITTEE.—D. A. Budge, Montreal; D. B. Gardner, Peterborough, and W. H. Stevens, Sherbrooke, P.Q.

The committees retired to consult and the devotional exercises were continued.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Mr. HENDERSON, for the Committee on Organization, reported the nomination of the following officers:—

PRESIDENT—R. Kilgour, Toronto.

VICE-PRESIDENTS—D. W. Ross, Montreal; Geo. A. Cox, Peterborough; S. Tapscott, Brantford.

SECRETARY—Hy. Hawkins, Port Hope.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY—F. Pratt, Montreal.

The report was adopted.

Mr. KILGOUR, in taking the chair, returned thanks for the honor conferred upon him. He had for years taken an interest in the Association, and one reason was because he owed so much to it.

LOCAL ASSOCIATION REPORTS.

Beports from local Associations were called for, and several verbal reports were given.

Mr. J. J. GARTSHORE reported in behalf of Eglington. He gave a sketch of the origin of the Association and the report was very satisfactory.

Mr. H. B. GORDON reported for the Toronto Association. He said that scarcely a week passed in the Association without conversions. They had held 700 devotional meetings with an aggregate attendance of 50,000. He thought it better to have the meetings for young men only. It was so in Toronto, except the Sunday afternoon Bible class. He gave particulars of the holding of the meetings, and of other work of the Association.

Mr. W. H. STEVENS, of Sherbrooke, P. Q., said that in that town, of 8,000 inhabitants there were 400 Protestant young men. They were getting along very well. He suggested that the Travelling Secretary visit Sherbrooke.

AN INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE.

Mr. R. C. MORSE, of New York, reported regarding the International Conference held at Berlin, Germany. He described the character of the Associations in Germany, and referred to the growth of one Association, organized on the American plan, in Berlin, which, in eighteen months, had increased from a membership of 11 to 980, and had a fine building. The best talent among the secretaries of America, England and Scotland were at the Conference, and they were brought in contact with the clergy and young men and much good would result.

COLLEGE WORK.

Mr. J. K. UNSWORTH, of the McGill College Association, Montreal, said he brought cheering news. The membership had largely increased since the Association was organized, and the members were in earnest. He gave glowing accounts of the work.

The Convention sang, "Praise God from Whom all Blessings Flow."

Mr. H. E. KENDALL, of the same Association, reported regarding the work among medical students.

Mr. D. A. BUDGE, Secretary of the Montreal Association, supplemented the reports in reference to the College Association by some remarks.

Mr. J. F. JEFFERS engaged in prayer, especially on behalf of the work in the colleges.

MORE PROGRESS REPORTED.

Mr. CHAS. MIDGLEY reported that the Hamilton Association was progressing and he believed that before long it would be the largest in the Province.

Mr. J. J. GARTSHORE asked whether the young men in attendance at the Peterborough Collegiate Institute could be got to attend the session when college work would be discussed.

Mr. J. F. JEFFERS suggested that that session be held in the evening.

It was finally decided that the Business Committee interview the Principal.

RAILWAY WORK.

Mr. W. C. JEX, Toronto, reported regarding the railway work. The Canada Pacific had a paid secretary and rooms, and his work was with the Grand Trunk and Northern men. The work had been extended and efforts were being made to extend it still further.

Mr. E. V. BALSTON, Toronto, reported in behalf of the Canada Pacific Association.

MORE CHEERING REPORTS.

Mr. W. CRAIG, Port Hope, reported favorable regarding the Association in that town.

Mr. C. B. TWEEDALE, Guelph, reported that the Guelph Association, though not long ago in low water, had been revived and a permanent secretary had been sent to the Association.

Mr. J. F. JEFFERS, president of the Peterborough Association, spoke in complimentary terms of the secretary, Mr. Geo. E. Williams. They were feeling the public pulse with a view to getting a building of their own, and he thought they would succeed. The meetings were well attended, and, although they were not doing all they would like to, they felt encouraged.

Mr. R. HENDERSON, Montreal, reported on behalf of the Montreal association. God was blessing the work.

Mr. D. A. BUDGE read a report of the Business Committee.

The session was closed by singing "Onward Christian Soldiers," and Mr. W. P. Crombie, Picton, engaging in prayer.

THE CONVENTION WELCOMED.

7.30 P. M.—The evening session was opened by the singing of a couple of well-known hymns and by the Rev. A. E. de St. Dalmas leading in prayer. The Peterborough Association had charge of the first part of this session, and Mr. J. F. Jeffers, President, occupied the chair.

WELCOMED BY THE CHURCHES.

The Rev. E. F. Torrance addressed words of welcome to the Convention on behalf of the churches of the town. It was, he said a pleasant duty to perform. They welcomed them as Christian men. They came here to discuss matters of interest to the church of Christ at large. There were agencies at work which tended to bring the different branches of the church closer together, such as the Evangelical Alliance and the Sunday School Convention, but nothing had tended so much to bring the churches closer as the Young Men's Christian Association. They welcomed them also as a company of Christian men who were doing a great work in behalf of the young men. They looked upon the young men as the hope of the church. There were many things to allure the young men away—there were so many temptations—and seeing that this Association was doing so much to save them, they extended a welcome. It might be asked, why could not this work be done in the family or in the church? He did not depreciate these agencies, but there were many young men who had no homes. The Association was doing a work the churches could not do. In many of the churches the social element was at a low ebb, and such work as they were engaged in was necessary. It was important that places of healthful recreation should be supplied. It might be said that evil disposed young men would go to less healthful places of recreation anyway, but the objection was not sound. When the Saved Army came to Peterborough the billiard saloons were almost deserted, and a theatrical troop left in chagrin. As the Association furnished places of resort and healthful recreation they welcomed them to Peterborough.

The hymn "What a Friend I have in Jesus" was sung.

THE TOWN EXTENDS A WELCOME.

Mr. GEO. A. COX, Mayor of Peterborough, welcomed the delegates on behalf of the town. If he could not command the language of the previous speaker, he would not, he said, be second in the cordiality and sincerity of the welcome he extended to them on behalf of the town. They were pleased that the town was honored by having this convention held in it. Since Mr. Williams had come to Peterborough the local Association had made great progress, the people were taking a greater interest in it, and he believed it would continue to progress. When he visited other towns he felt somewhat ashamed that the Association here had not better rooms than they now possessed, but when the convention was held here again, and he hoped it soon would be, he hoped the Peterborough Association would have a building of its own. He again, on behalf of the citizens, welcomed them to Peterborough, and hoped they would have a successful and beneficial convention.

WELCOMED BY THE LOCAL SOCIETY.

Mr. J. F. JEFFERS, on behalf of the local Association, also welcomed the Convention. There were representatives present from the sister Province of Quebec, from our own Province, the apostle of railway work in America, Mr. Ingersoll, of New York, and Mr. Morse, of New York, and they welcomed them all. Their welcome might have some selfishness in it, as they hoped that by the presence and influence of the delegates the interest and support of the local Association would be increased. A business man, to succeed, must have one idea, and it was the same with this Association. That one idea was the salvation of young men. And they used young men to reach the young men. There were two classes of members—active, who were members of some church, and associate, who, though not members of a church, were moral young men. They had this advantage over the churches, that they welcomed young men who were not professing Christians, as they believed that Christian influences would be beneficial. They might be called the skirmishers who went out to search for young men. At the time the Association was organized there was much need of it. The support they received was volantarily given. They welcomed the members of the convention, also, because they took it as a compliment that they had come here. The Peterborough Association wished the Associations throughout the world "God speed."

THE CONVENTION REPLIES.

Mr. D. A. BUDGE, of Montreal, replied, on behalf of the convention, to the expressions of welcome, and returned thanks to the speakers and to the people of Peterborough. The hospitality that they received was appreciated. The time of experiment in connection with these organizations was now passed, and God had so honored the organization that it was felt to fill a need and to occupy fields that had been vacant They should carry out the work for which it was organized—that of a mission for young men. As they brought a blessing that was not perishable, it was a work that must last. The results had been so great that they felt encouraged. He again returned thanks for their welcome and invited the citizens to attend the sessions of the convention, as they would then become familiar with the work and would become interested. Their motto was to make popular the study of the Bible. They had gatherings absolutely all around the world, all affiliated together. He gave instances of the benefit derived from the affiliation of the societies. He hoped that God would bless the Association.

THE CONVENTION RESUMES.

Mr. Kilgour, President of the Convention, took the chair. A hymn was sung, and Mr. Gartshore, of Toronto, engaged in prayer.

AN IMPORTANT POINT DISCUSSED.

The following question was then taken up:—"Why should our work continue to be especially for young men?"

Mr. E. D. INGERSOLL, of New York, was called on, and he said that he first wished to deliver a message. He was at the convention of the State of Illinois, and the convention of the State of Wisconsin, and he was instructed to greet this convention for them. It was simply because they were a Young Men's Christian Association that they attempted to save young men. This was what the first Association was organized for, and when they found that they were trying to do too much they returned to first principles. There were not only men who followed one profession, but men who made a speciality of one department of a profession, and they were the most successful. So this Association had one special work to do. Everything in Peterborough, which was an evil and which they desired to get rid of, they would find existed for the ruin of young men. Statistics showed that every sixth person was a young man, but church rolls were not made up with that proportion. They had a great example. Christ spent three years to train young men to do His work. They did well to follow in His footsteps.

Mr. F. LONSDALE, Secretary of the Hamilton Association, next addressed the Convention. It was said that the young men were the hope of the churches, and yet a great many did not attend church services. The best workers in the churches were the active workers of the Association. They should also try to reach the young men, because they were the hope of the country; they would be called upon to rule the country. The young ladies could assist by using their influence to persuade the young men to attend the Association meetings. He argued that the Association meetings should be for young men alone.

Mr. CROMBIE, of Picton, said that he had seen many young men brought to Christ through the instrumentality of this Association. Their object was a glorious one, and demanded the prayers and the co-operation of everyone. They were reaching out to save the young men; that was their mission, God had raised it up for that purpose. He had just returned from the Old Country, and he was pleased to see what the Association was doing in England and Scotland.

He prayed the Lord would bless the Convention, and that the delegates would return home more determined in the work.

Mr. R. C. MORSE, of New York, said he believed that, in order to reach the young men, they should concentrate the efforts of the Association exclusively on that object, because that work was more difficult than any other which was related to undenominational organizations. At the convention in Montreal they had a memorable discussion on this subject. The secretaries gave their experience in the matter, and they came to the almost unanimous conclusion that their work should be exclusively for young men. There was one exception, that was the railway work, for the railway secretaries had to deal with the railway men and their families, but they held some meetings for young men only. The state conventions in the United States had come to the conclusion that the work should be exclusively for young men, and at the international convention the same opinion was expressed. When there were so many places open for the demoralization of young men, they should at least have one attractive place open for their salvation. If the Dominion executive committee was properly supported they could double the number of associations in the Dominion during the coming year.

The Secretary read a letter from Mr. W. H. Howland, of Toronto, Chairman of the Executive Committee, expressing regret because he was unable to be present.

A hymn was sung, and the Rev. I. Tovell engaged in prayer. The Convention then adjourned until Friday morning.

CHOLERA

—IS—

COMING!

The countries where Cholera prevails, as in India, China and Africa, Pain-Killer is considered the surest and safest of all remedies, and the natives place the most perfect confidence in it.

Read the following extract from the letter of a missionary in China:

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness to send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours.

Missionary to Swatow, China

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1884.

Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION.

FRIDAY.

9 A.M.—This morning half an hour was spent in devotional exercises, Mr. H. E. Rendall, of Queen's college, presiding.

GREETING FROM BROOKLYN.

The President read the following telegram which he had just received:—"Brooklyn Association send greetings. Read I Timothy vi, 12, 17 and 18 —J. WILKIE, Secretary."

Mr. D. A. BUDGE suggested that, with an answer to the greeting, the Convention send an expression of sympathy for Mr. Wilkie, who had been bereaved by the death of his wife.

The PRESIDENT approved of the suggestion.

Mr. W. E. BURFORD, of Toronto, engaged in prayer, mentioning especially the bereaved brother and the Brooklyn Association.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

The following Committees were appointed by the President, and approved of by the Convention:—

BUSINESS COMMITTEE.—D. A. Budge, Montreal, D. B. Gardner, Peterborough, W. H. Stevens, Sherbrook, H. B. Gordon, Toronto, and H. E. Kendall, Montreal.

DEVOTIONAL COMMITTEE.—F. Lansdale, Hamilton, J. K. Ainsworth, Montreal, John J. Gartshore, Toronto, C. B. Tweedale, Guelph, G. M. Roger, Peterborough, and W. J. Orr, St. Thomas.

COM. ON EX. COM.'s REPORT.—R. Henderson, Montreal; J. D. Nasmith, Toronto; J. F. Clark, Port Hope; Geo. A. Cox, Peterborough, and W. W. Johnson, Peterborough.

COM. ON RESOLUTIONS.—W. Craig, Port Hope; John J. Gartshore, Toronto; A. Hines Colborne; W. E. Bessey, Brantford; —. McLeod, Toronto University.

THE SOCIAL ELEMENT IN THE WORK.

The following topic was discussed:—"What can we do for young men socially?"

Mr. D. A. BUDGE, of Montreal, said they should do everything needful for the young men. It had been considered impossible to combine the social element with the Christian work, which had caused the organization of many secret societies, many of which has done evil to young men. The Secretary of an Association and his assistant should carefully study their own habits and bearing, so as to favorably impress strangers and young men whom they met. Before they could influence a young man towards the Christian life they must win his respect and confidence. The Reception Committee was organized for the purpose of welcoming young men. They should not consider that they only had to take care of the room, but welcome all who visited the rooms as if they were welcoming them to their own home. And the work begun in the rooms should be followed up, and when they met the young men again on the street, they should remember them. Every Association should hold monthly open receptions, calculated to instruct those who attended. It should also have a stranger's register, and the members should assist the Secretary in getting the names of the young men who came to the town. Each Secretary should have one evening in each month for a social evening with members and strangers —the aim being to have it a real home evening. In Montreal they held meetings in the homes of members, for their active workers. A personal invitation from the members to strangers whom they might meet to take tea with them was often followed by good results. In carrying out these suggestions they needed the grace and wisdom which shone out so brightly in the life of Christ.

Mr. E. D. INGERSOLL, of New York, empasized the importance of greeting strangers cordially.

Mr. W. E. BURFORD, Toronto, asked whether Mr. Budge would have the monthly social meeting opened with prayer?

Mr. BUDGE said he would. He suggested as subjects for discussion at these meetings, "Hindrances to Christian Growth," and "Personal work." The addresses should be definitely spiritual.

Mr. R. C. MORSE, New York, said that a great many went to hear a leading lawyer of New York lecture on "Christian Evidences," and a very strong impression was produced.

Mr. F. LONSDALE, of Hamilton, urged the importance of having the Reception Committee well trained.

Mr. D. A. BUDGE said that a secretary always had plenty to do, but when he left his work to greet a stranger he should be careful not to show any annoyance. He should deal frankly with a stranger, and members should not exhibit undue familiarity with strangers.

Mr. W. P. CROMBIE related an instance illustrating the results which sometimes followed invitations given to attend Association meetings.

Mr. BUDGE said that in Montreal, in receiving new members, they sent them an invitation to attend the monthly social to which he previously referred. Thus they became acquainted with each other.

The hymn "Sun of My Soul" was sung, and Mr. W. N. Bessey, of Brantford, engaged in prayer.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

Mr. GARTSHORE, Secretary of the Executive Committee, read the report of that committee. The report covered a period of three years. At the Dominion Convention held in Truro in 1882, Mr. W. P. Crombie was elected General Secretary, but had been compelled to resign through ill health. Mr. T. S. Cole was appointed to the vacancy, and spent four months in the Maritime Provinces, and the remainder of the time in Ontario and Quebec in resuscitating and building up societies. They had been assisted by the International Committee of New York. At Barrie, Sherbrooke, Perth and Toronto district conferences had been held. Work among railway men was regularly carried on at Toronto, London and St. Thomas. The interest in college work was increasing. They regretted that, while so much work had been done, they had not received sufficient funds to meet expenses, and were compelled to report a deficit of $375. They recommended that some systematic scheme should be devised to raise funds. Nineteen Associations had reported a membership of between 4,000 and 5,000, and other reports were yet to be received. In 1881 there were 6 paid Secretaries engaged in the work, and now there were 13.

GENERAL SECRETARY'S REPORT.

Mr. T. S. COLE, General Travelling Secretary, read his report, giving the names of the places he had visited and some of the results of his visits. Secretaries had been engaged at Hamilton, Peterborough, Port Hope, Guelph, Brantford, Toronto Railway Association and Owen Sound. He had attended several conferences in the United States and district conferences in Canada. He had travelled 17,000 miles. His report gave cheering accounts of the progress of Associations.

It was decided that the report should be read again at this evening's meeting.

DISCUSSION ON THE REPORT.

Mr. MORSE, of New York, said that it was necessary that the work should be continued, and, although the Association had accomplished much they should push the work on. The Executive Committee should be better supported. They owed a great deal to the Secretary, Mr. Gartshore, who had done more than he should be called upon to do.

Mr. INGERSOLL, of New York, supported what Mr. Morse had said.

Mr. H. HAWKINS, of Port Hope, spoke of the benefit the Association of that town had derived from Mr. Cole's visit.

Mr. W. N. BESSEY, Brantford, Mr. F. Lonsdale, Hamilton, and Mr. D. A. Budge, of Montreal, gave similar testimony.

M. W. P. CROMBIE said that he was greatly pleased with Mr. Cole's report, and he was pleased that Mr. Cole had succeeded him as General Secretary.

Mr. J. F. JEFFERS testified to the good Mr. Cole's visits had accomplished in Peterborough. He asked from what source the funds of the Executive Committee were derived?

Mr. GARTSHORE said from contributions from individuals in the various places who felt interested in the work.

The hymn, "To the Work," was sung and Mr. W. P. Crombie engaged in prayer. The Convention then adjourned until 2.30 o'clock.

At the meeting this evening Mr. T. S. Cole, General Travelling Secretary, will read his report. A Bible reading will follow, and the Rev. A. H. Munro will read a paper on "How we came by our English Bible." The meeting will commence at 7.30 o'clock, and the public are invited.

The following is a supplementary list of delegates and the names of those in whose homes they are staying. More delegates are still expected:—

Dancing Assembly.

As the Peterborough Orchestra have an engagement for Thursday evening next, the weekly assembly will be held on Friday evening, at the usual place and hour.

The Convention.

Several more delegates arrived last night and this morning to attend the Young Men's Christian Association Convention and more are expected.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Light to moderate winds, fair to cool weather.

Piano Tuning.

Geo. G. Gumpricht, tuner for Messrs. Mason & Rich, Toronto, is in town for a few days. Orders left at Mr. T. Menzies' bookstore or Messrs. Taylor & McDonald's drug store will be promptly attended to.

The First Flurry.

Many of the townspeople were surprised on going out last night after tea to find that the "beautiful" was blowing and whirling in blustering gusts. This is, however, the time of year when we may expect to experience the first chilling wind, and doubtless before many weeks more cold and colder waves will follow. The snow disappeared before the morning sun.

A Meritorious Instrument.

Mr. D. Smart, the enterprising dealer in musical instruments, has shown us at his warerooms, on George street, an organ possessing great merit both in finish and tone. It is a concert organ, with 19 stops, a blow lever, 7 sets of reeds in the treble and 4 sets in the base. It has also in addition to the blow lever the ordinary feet pedals. It is of a beautiful design (Victoria case), and made of polished oak. It is manufactured by the celebrated makers, Bell & Co., of Guelph. Mr. Smart is is always to the front in securing the best instruments in the market, and this one really does him credit, which is saying a great deal.

CORNICE POLES complete at A. CLEGG'S, only $1.75.

The Protestant Home.

The ladies connected with the Peterborough Protestant Home desire to call the attention of the Town Council and people generally to the necessity of additional shelter for the aged and infirm. The Home is now full and we are unable to take in any more. It has been a quiet haven of rest to not a few weary and homeless ones. Some can bless God that their steps were directed thitherward. Considerable expense has been incurred in necessary improvements which are at present in progress, consequently have had to encroach largely on Mrs. Robert Nicholl's donation. It will be esteemed a great boon if some entertainment could be got up by our kind, energetic young people in town for the benefit of the Home. We are sure this has only to be mooted in order that it may be put in practice. "He that hath a bountiful eye shall be blessed for he giveth of his substance to the poor." We would also remind our merchants that any unsaleable goods would be very acceptable. We have four fatherless children as well as the sick and aged, and as our Canadian winter is fast approaching, anything that that they would give would be thankfully received. Our farmers we trust will give what produce they can spare; donations in money to be given to our treasurer, Mrs. Jeffers. The churches will, no doubt, give their annual collection. Let us all try to strew loving deeds as we journey on, smoothing each other's path, remembering the Saviour's gentle reminder, "Inasmuch at yet did it to one of the least of these ye did it unto me." "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

The Provincial Exhibition.

The President and Directors of the West Riding Agricultural Society have been recently looking at a number of places in the vicinity and within the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough suitable on which to erect exhibition buildings. The following gentlemen composed the delegation:—Mr. James Campbell, President; Messrs. Rutherford and Riddell, South Monaghan; Messrs. Fitzgerald, Bell, Garbutt and Elliott, Smith; Messrs. McClelland and Walton, Peterborough, and Mr. Collins, North Monaghan, Directors of the Society. They visited twelve places in all and have now under their consideration lots both in the north and south portions of the town. The grounds will be chosen with a view to their suitability on which to hold a Provincial Exhibition, which, it is expected, will take place in Peterborough at a not far distant period.

The Love of Society.

Ever since the creation of the human family the love of society has formed one of our strongest characteristics. It is society that forms the mental spring to the cultivation of the arts and sciences. It is society that gives actitude to the exercise of all our social enjoyments. It is the love of society that brings us together, to advise one with another as to the better mode of securing a more permanent basis upon which society may rest secure from the influence of temptation and be bold, be frank, and fear not what others may think so long as you are obeying the dictates of conscience. Remember that it is with our judgments as our matches; none go just alike, yet each believes his own, and that is the reason why so many agree in saying buy your oysters at Smith's.

We do not Claim

That Shaker Blood Syrup will cure everything, but the fact that on the purity and vitality of the blood depends the vigor and health of the whole system, and that disease of various kinds is often only the sign that nature is trying to remove the disturbing cause, we are naturally led to the conclusion that a remedy that gives life and vigor to the blood, eradicates scrofula and and other impurities from it, as Shaker Blood Syrup undoubtedly does, must be the means of preventing many diseases that would occur without its use; hence the field of its usefulness is quite an extended one, and we are warranted in recommending it for all derangements of the system which are caused by an unnatural state of the blood.

Gentlemen.—I was a great sufferer from Salt-Rheum on my limbs, for 12 years previous to the summer of 1876, at which time I was cured by Shaker Blood Syrup. The skin would become dry, chap, crack, open, bleed and itch intensely, so that I could not help scratching, which of course made them worse. At the time I commenced taking Shaker Blood Syrup (in the summer of 1876) they were so bad that they discharged, and I was obliged to keep them bandaged with linen cloths. The skin was drawn so tight by the heat of the disease that if I stooped over they would crack open and actually bring tears to my eyes. The first bottle benefited me so much that I continued taking it till I was cured. Hoping many others may learn the value of Shaker Blood Syrup, and receive as much benefit as I have, I am,

Very truly yours,
C. A HOWARD,
West 11th St., New York.

SATURDAY, Oct. 24.—Mr. Jemison was charged by P. C. Adams with having used profane language in a public place. The prisoner pleaded guilty. Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

Extensive Improvements.

During the past month the appearance of the dry goods store of Mr. John Erskine has undergone a complete change. The old-fashioned front has been taken out and a front in the latest city style has been put in. The front consists of 12 pieces of plate glass and suitable ironwork. The eastward front lights are 106 x 48 inches, and the side lights 106 x 46. The westward front lights are 112 x 60, and the side lights 112 x 56. The doors are of handsome woodword and plate glass. The windows are dressed with taste, and Mr. Erskine's goods thus shown to the best advantage. Mr. Erskine may justly boast now that his store has as good light as any in Peterborough, and that the front is equal in attractiveness to any in the town. Another story and a mansard roof has also been built on the store, adding greatly to its appearance. The upper story is used as a stock warehouse.

THE CITIZENS TAKE ACTION.

They Meet and Consider the Cause and Cure of the Recent Burglaries.

On Friday evening a large and influential meeting of the business men and citizens of the town of Peterborough was held in the Council Chamber to consider the best means whereby the property in the business portion of the town might be protected from thieves and burglars, and also to enforce the Town Council to take some action in the matter.

Mr. Geo. A. Cox was elected chairman, and Mr. T. Kelly filled the office of secretary.

Mr. Cox on taking the chair stated that it was unnecessary to tell them why the meeting was called, as they already knew the end to which they were met in this room. He would like to hear an expression of feeling from each of those present, and then means might be taken to have more protection to property than was now available.

CONTINUALLY IN DANGER.

Mr. WM. LECH said that it was a shame to the town that the property was so poorly protected, that people were in danger of losing all they had through burglaries. The Council should take immediate action in the matter. He was sorry that the councillors from the upper and lower wards did not take more interest in the heart of the town. Outside councillors were against anything for the benefit of George Street. He referred particularly to the stand which a certain councillor had taken in this matter, but he would like to know what Peterborough would be without George street.

CHIEF OF POLICE.

Mr. J. MCCLELLAND spoke in favor of having an efficient Chief of Police appointed. He had nothing against Mr. Johnston, but he thought a younger and more experienced man would be more effective en managing a police force. Mr. Johnston might be kept busy with street and bridge improvements. He also spoke of the corner loafer nuisance as an evil which would have to be eradicated.

Mr. J. HARRIS also expressed his feelings on the lack of sufficient protection of property.

Mr. A. RUTHERFORD made a few few forcible remarks, coinciding with what Mr. McClelland had said.

AN INTOLERABLE NUISANCE.

Mr. J. H. ROPER said that another evil which would have to be remedied was that of corner loafers. It was a disgrace to a civilized community that a respectable lady could not go along the streets in the evening or on Sunday without being disgusted with the profane language, obscene remarks and filthy tobacco spitting of these individuals. The only way he saw to remedy this evil was to employ a capable chief of police and give him a sufficient staff.

JUST WHAT WE WANT.

Mr. A. MCNEIL moved, seconded by Mr. I. ROBINSON,—That we, the merchants and residents of the town of Peterborough, hereby authorize His Worship the Mayor to appoint two or three night watchmen, or as many as he may deem sufficient for the protection of the property of the merchants in the business part of the town, until such time as the Council shall take further action.—Carried.

THE POLICE FORCE.

Mr. J. MCCLELLAND moved, seconded by Mr. J. BRADEN,—That in the opinion of this meeting the Council should, without delay, appoint an efficient chief of police for the town.—Carried.

The meeting then adjourned.

A LARGE variety of New Splashers for back of washstands, from 15c. each, at J. ERSKINE'S.

Rather Cool.

The mercury in the Rev. V. Clementi's self-registering thermometer went down to 30° last night.

Dufferin Literary Club.

A meeting of the Dufferin Literary Club was held on Friday night in their room in the Mechanics' Institute. There was a good attendance and the programme for the evening was exceedingly interesting. The Honorary President, Mr. D. W. Dumble, who was present, was unanimously elected to take the chair. Several new members were admitted. After the routine work had been done the debate for the evening, "Resolved,—That capital punishment be abolished," was in order. Affirmative, Messrs. F. P. Henry and E. L. Harning. Negative, Messrs. F. Scott and A. Clegg. The Chairman decided in favor of the negative. The first two parts of a very able essay, favorably comparing Canada with the United States and advocating our present status, were read by Mr. Long. The Honorary President made some pointed and concise remarks regarding the working of the Club, and also made some valuable suggestions. He was convinced that the object of the Club was a good one and dwelt specially on the art of speaking. He said that it was an art which was too much neglected. He asked what use a man's education was to him if he could not show it to good advantage among his fellow men. Men with inferior ability who cultivated the art of speaking would rank higher on a public platform than a man with superior ability who had neglected the art. A subject was chosen for debate at the next meeting and the meeting adjourned.

John Ruskin on the Bible.

Be sure you try accurately to understand your Bible, and transfer its teaching to modern words, by putting other names for those that have been superseded by time. Read your Bible, making it the first morning business of your life to understand some portion of it clearly, and your daily business to obey it in all that you do understand. To my early knowledge of the Bible I owe the best part of my taste in literature, and the most precious, and, on the whole, the one essential part of my education.

Terrible Accident.

A Port Arthur despatch says information was received to-day of a terrible accident on Thursday on McLeod's contract at Red Sucker Cove, 170 miles east. A powerful blast started a large ledge of rock, which in its fall buried six men. Three bodies had been removed.

THE BURGLARIES.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—If you will kindly give this space in your valuable paper you will oblige your subscribers. I don't wonder, when I pick up a paper, to see another daring burglary last night; it is the first thing we look for. Now truly our quite little town is getting on fast. Our police is not taking the best plan to put a stop to this night prowling. When Mr. McKee's goods were found, if, instead of removing them, they had set a hiden watch over them they would soon get the thief or thieves. I think the best opportunity is past. I hope if such a chance comes again that our protective force will go to work more wisely. I should have acted very different, although a woman.

Yours truly,
C. R.

THE BET TAKEN.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—In a letter under the caption "House Moving" in Friday evening's REVIEW 'Night Owl' offers to bet any amount of money that he can move any frame house within the fire limits, a distance of five hundred yards without the removal being observed by a member of the police force, the house to be moved between the hours of midnight and 5 a.m. Now sir, I will accept his wager, and hereby select the old Wilson hotel on Hunter street, as the house to be moved. So confident am I of winning, that I will give "Night Owl" a month to accomplish this feat, and he may also operate all night, if he likes, instead of from midnight to 5 o'clock a.m. The reason of my certainty of his inability of performing this feat, is, that on account of the present blockade on Hunter street it would be impossible for him to drag the house through the piles of rubbish and debris in a single night half that distance, and, as the house would be left in the middle of the street in broad day light our perspicacious, keen, quick-sighted and discerning policemen, would at once "catch on."

Yours, etc.

COUNCILLOR FOR NO. 1 WARD.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I sincerely hope that the ratepayers in No. 1 Ward will have the good sense to place Mr. McNeil at the head of the poll on Monday by a large majority. If elected, he will be a credit to our Ward and will, I feel assured, prove one of the most useful, as he will certainly be one of the most intelligent members of the board.

You reminded us, in a recent issue, that Mr. McNaughton had on previous occasions represented our Ward, and that we cannot fail to know what he did for us and for the town at large during his tenure of office. My own impression is that during that term the benefit occruing from his position may be represented by 0. If I am not much mistaken he opposed every good measure that was introduced at the Council Board, and chiefly, I believe, for the purpose of currying favor with the small ratepayers, by a wretched cry of economy. But the economy he advocated was of a most mistaken nature so far as the interests of the town were concerned. "Onward" has been the cry of the intelligent inhabitants of Peterborough, and the cry has proved successful, as witness the many great improvements which are constantly taking place in our town. But if, unhappily, Mr. McNaughton should again be elected to a councillor's seat we shall find him once more opposing every advantageous measure that may be suggested. We have already, on several occasions, tried him and "found him wanting," as evinced by our rejection of him at the last municipal election, and I, as one of those who have a considerable stake in the Ward, beg leave to express a hope that my fellow-wardsmen will show him, on Monday morning, that they do not want him back again as our representative.

In writing thus I desire to add that I have not the slightest intention of casting any reflections on Mr. McNaughton's character. He has always conducted himself as a respectable member of our community, but it is pretty well known that he has been elected on former occasions partly on account of the fun he created in the council chamber by his vagaries, and that is not quite the sort of man we desire to have for our spokesman.

Yours, &c.,
AN ELECTOR.

Daily Evening Review

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1884.

A DASTARDLY OPPONENT.

ACCORDING to the Globe, the wish being further to the thought, Sir John Macdonald is a dying man. We are glad to say that we believe the leading Reform journal is as inaccurate as usual, but it must be judged by it own belief, and this is the disgraceful manner in which it speaks of a dying man in its opinion :—

"Every day furnishes additional proof that he is neither the great constitutional lawyer that he pretended to be, nor the statesman his admirers allege he was, but a miserable trickster, void of principle and of shame, without patriotism or self-respect, an adapt in bribery and corruption and all those artifices and devices by which unscrupulous men distort or baffle public opinion. No one who loves Canada could wish that such a man were forced by ill-health or any other cause to quit public life until the people of Canada have pronounced upon him and his misdeeds the judgment which will brand them infamous for all ages."

Could anything be conceived more venomous and dastardly than such an attack upon a man whom the Globe has described with fiendish glee as being face to face with death? And it must be remembered that this vile slander is an insult not only to the greatest statesman of the Dominion, but is also an insult to every one of the great majority of Canadians who have chosen Sir John Macdonald as their leader, and have for so many years retained him in power to manage their affairs. We may even go further and say that it is an insult to that great body of Reformers, who though they may conscientiously differ from Sir John in politics, are proud of him as one of the great men of Canada, and would scorn to revile and calumniate him so basely. They blush to have for the leading organ of their party a journal that has no hope for success except in the death of a political opponent, and no better policy than abuse and calumny for those who differ from it in opinion.

JAMAICA AND CANADA.

Some important points have been brought out this week in the discussion of the entry of Jamaica into the Canadian Dominion. On the one side Mr. George Baden-Powell has been urging some of the more important objections to the proposal from British, Canadian, and West Indian stand points respectively. To these, or the greater part of them, Mr. Henry Berkeley, the Solicitor-General for the Leeward Islands, has replied, so that the case is fairly before the public. Mr. Powell first urges against the assertion that the West Indies produce in a year five times the possible Canadian consumption, in reply to which Mr. Berkeley points to the rapid growth of the Dominion, and the power Canada would have, with a tropical province, to compete with the sugar refiners of Germany in the English market, especially as the Canadian Government would probably be prepared to meet bounty by bounty. Surely, he says, it adds to the wealth of a country to have more of a given product than she can herself consume. As to the damaging effect West Indian importations would have upon the future Canadian industry of making sugar froom beet, Mr. Berkeley asserts that beet sugar-making has been tried in the Province of Quebec, and proved a failure, and that it is therefore imperatively necessary that Canadian sugar manufacturers should obtain the raw material else-where, and where so well as from the West Indies, should they become provinces? The food of the West Indian population would, moreover, he claims, be cheaper by union with Canada, while the right of representation in the Canadian Parliament would accord to the West Indies that direct access to the Central Government, which every one connected with the colonies knows has been grievously felt. Mr. Berkeley goes on to show that in those islands nor under the Crown Colony system, the colonial command of finance has resulted favorably, and also dwells upon the strategetic value of the West India Colonies, especially having regard to the opening of traffic through the Panama Canal. Either, says Mr. Berkeley, in effect, we must have union with Canada, or we must inevitably become absorbed by the United States, and this strategetical value be transferred to that Power.—Canadian Gazette.

Steel Rails.

A press dispatch from Scranton, Pa., states that a contract has been entered into with a company of that city for the manufacture of 10,000 tons of steel rails for the Canadian Pacific railway. As a means of keeping Canada for the Canadians, no doubt, an act of Parliament was passed to allow supplies for the syndicate to enter this country duty free.—London Advertiser.

Will the Advertiser have the goodness to let us know how much less duty the Pacific railway company pays on steel rails than other companies pay? And how the remission of duty on steel rails enables the company to get those rails in the United States rather than in England? And what Canadian steel rail works have been injured by the order going to Scranton? We thirst for information about those steel rails. Would the Advertiser be surprised to learn that no duty is collected on steel rails entering Canada? But the point of real interest is that while the Advertiser and other free protradiction journals have been shrieking that the poor people of United States are ground down beneath the iron heel of a steel rails monopoly, that the iron heeled monopoly is actually competing with England in a neutral market. Protection has induced competition in the United States, and competition has brought down prices.—Hamilton Spectator.

A Kingston Idea.

A committee, on motion of Ald. Bermingham, has been appointed to consider the advisability of printing the assessment rolls, and having copies distributed among the ratepayers. If they are printed, then people will be able to see who are assessed, who are not assessed, and to what extent each resident is assessed. It can then easily be seen whether partiality has been shown by the assessors, and whether the hundreds of rich men in the city who hold thousands upon thousands of dollars in mortgages and notes pay taxes on them as personal property. If the assessment rolls are printed Mr. Gordon will be relieved of a great deal of the difficulty connected with his position, as then people will take an interest in seeing that they are not assessed higher in proportion than their neighbours, and that their neighbours do not escape contributing their share to the treasury. As it is, he has to do the work single-handed, and Alds. Bermingham and J. Wilson claim that no one man can do it properly.—Kingston News.

GONE TO MEXICO.

A Winnipeg Defaulter Runs Away with a Daughter of a Victim.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 20.—Some days ago Frank Rigney, of Rigney & Haverty, wholesale liquor dealers, suddenly left the city. All sorts of rumors were afloat regarding the cause of his departure, and it was said he had taken $50,000 with him. The papers, in the absence of direct proof, refrained from making any charge. It was discovered to-day that the absconder had committed wholesale forgery and gone to Mexico, where he hopes to end pursuit and extradition. To-day notice was sent out by the Merchants' Bank to many gentlemen well known in the city, saying it held notes alleged to be signed by them given by Frank Rigney. Among those who have received notices to this effect are the following:—John Baird, Seymour House, $287.60; W. W. Carter, $370; Thomas Headley, Grand Pacific Hotel, $415; John Grady, $382.16; Patrick O'Connor, $240; W. Congher, $95; John Whelan, $250; James Carey, $140; C. Laporte, Commercial Hotel, $400; Hunt & Dickson, $200; T. O'Reilly, $800. The above list does not represent all those who have been victimized, but it includes those on whom forgeries were committed for the largest sums. A young girl, daughter of one of the absconder's victims, and deemed the handsomest female in Winnipeg, was enticed away by Rigney and is now believed to be with him.

BRITISH COLUMBIA GOLD.

A Big Rush to the Mines Expected in the Spring.

VICTORIA, B.C., Oct. 15.—The steamer Boscowitz arrived from the North last evening, bringing encouraging news from the Lorne Creek mines. B. W. Washburn and a party of four, took from their claim $3,000 in gold in one month. Other claims are doing equally well. From $3,000 to $7,000 was taken out of each claim during the past month. A big rush to the mines is expected in the spring. The miners are taking out from $8 to $10 per day. The diggings are easy of access by canoe, eighty miles from the mouth of Skeene river. Provisions are plenty. The Northern Indians are still troublesome, and the miners fear an outbreak. At Metlakathla the Indians nailed up the door of Bishop Ridley's Mission House, and otherwise made themselves obnoxious. The settlers say the Indians will have to be taught a severe lesson.

Sunday School Convention.

The following report of the address of the Rev. A. H. Munro, pastor of the Baptist church, Peterborough, delivered at the Sunday School Convention at Brockville on Thursday night, is taken from the Mail:—

Rev. A. H. Munro, of Peterborough, spoke on "The present and future of Sunday School Conventions." In discussing the raison d'etre of the Sunday school convention he took the position that it should not be permitted to die for several reasons. It had given a stimulus, direction, and form to Christian effort which it needed, and by which it had benefited; it had conferred benefits on teachers and scholars; it had done good to pastors and churches, and had given a practical demonstration of Christian things and encouraged a spirit of holy emulation in different departments of Christian work. As to the future of the convention, he thought its chief object should be to promote the study of the Word of God. He thought that at future conventions special subjects of Bible study, history, archæology, topography, or philology, might be allotted to competent men. Something might be done by conventions in the way of publishing a teacher's library, and in connection with that reading clubs might be instituted. He advocated a thorough prosecution of mission school work. There was plenty of room for it in this province. Within thirty miles of Peterborough was a well settled district without a church or Sunday school, the nearest being twenty-one miles away. There was plenty of work for the Sunday School Convention to do, and he trusted that it would go on and prosper in it.

Curious Features of Life.

Owing to the small proportion of moisture in mountain air and the low barometric pressure, evaporation is very rapid. Even after the heaviest rain the ground dries in a few hours. The quality of the air tends to make perspiration more profuse, and the skin dry faster than is the case at lower elevations. There is greater thirst, the tissues waste faster, and a high authority has said that a man's tissue is the only thing it is his duty to waste, new tissues being out of all comparison better than the old.

It is probably this rapid evaporation at great heights, and the thirst which it engenders, that the Swiss have to thank for their wonderful drinking powers. The other week the marksmen of Canton Vaud held their annual rifle meeting at Payerne, a picturesque village on the Broye, and the local papers mention, with something like pride, that the shooters and their friends drank the place dry. On Sunday, Aug. 10, which was the great day, they consumed 6,000 bottles of wine and 5,000 litres of beer, a total consumption for the three days being 10,000 bottles of the one and 7,300 litres of the other. Everybody who has been in the highlands of Scotland or any other mountain land, and tried the experiment, knows that he can drink with impunity much more whiskey, or whatever the vin du pays may be, than he can drink at home. This, it may be as well to observe, is mentioned as a dry fact, not as an additional reason for going to the mountains.

Miss Garrett's Immense Fortune.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Garrett, the daughter of the late John W. Garrett, of Baltimore, is now said to be the richest unmarried lady in this country. The estimates of her father's wealth run from $15,000,000 to $50,000,000, and of this she receives a third. Miss Garrett receives as her share of her father's magnificent property the elegant and costly residence at the corner of Monument and Cathedral streets, with all the plate, furniture and pictures it contains. She will also be the owner of Montebello, one of the finest and most extensive pieces of property owned by Mr. Garrett, and of the beautiful Garrett Cottage at Deer Park, where her father died. In addition to this property Miss Garrett will also come in for her third of the personal estate of the testator. Miss Wolff, of New York, has until now been considered the wealthiest unmarried lady in America, but Miss Garrett's fortune will be even greater than hers. Miss Wolff is a maiden lady, over fifty years of age, who has devoted her years to deeds of charity. Miss Garrett is only 28, but has had more experience than probably any lady of her years in the country.—Washington Star.

A New Depot for the C. P. R.

The next big movement on the part of the Canadian Pacific railway in Toronto is the erection of a depot of their own near the vicinity and north of the present Union station. It is also probable that the Pacific will endeavor to secure the right of way over a strip of land on the south side of Front street and put down as many tracks as possible. On Thursday afternoon General Van Horn, Mr. Wells, solicitor, Mr. Lumsden, mechanical superintendant, and Ma. Purcell, of Purcell & Ryan, contractors, made a detailed inspection of the localities mentioned. It is understood that steps will at once be taken to the end indicated.—World.

Wrecked in Lake Erie.

PORT ROWAN, Oct. 23.—The steam barge Fortune, of Hamilton, loaded with staves and bolts from Port Talbot for Buffalo, began leaking, and was run ashore on Long Point, west of the West End Lighthouse last evening about eight o'clock. The life boat from this station went this morning to her assistance, and rescued all hands. Her rails are now under water and beginning to break up. Should the heavy sea continue she will be a total wreck.

FARM AND GARDEN.

CALIFORNIA farmers raise sixty-two bushels of sun flower seed to the acre, and after grinding a gallon of oil from each bushel feed the refuse to the chickens and cows.

A FARMER in Maine recommends in the Home Farm sprinkling air-slaked lime on potatoes, when being stored in the cellar, to prevent rotting. It is a cheap remedy and worthy of a trial, as it can do no injury.

OCTOBER is a good time to gather in a good stock of forest leaves; they are capital covering for keeping frost out of cabbage beds, celery pits, and all sorts of pits in fact, and when plenty may be used for litter with advantage.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Scientific American says that for want of a cheap, practical process of fire-proofing wood, $100,000,000 worth of property is destroyed every year in the United States. He thinks it a disgrace that such a process has not yet been invented.

KEROSENE oil and milk, in the proportion of one quart of the former to five quarts of the latter, makes a wash which will destroy the apple-tree bark louse. It will also kill the striped cucumber and squash bug, and many other pests. It can be applied with a large syringe.

ALL celery should now be banked up without delay, for there is no danger of rotting now in the cool weather. That which is intended for late keeping should be banked last and only banked once, just enough to crowd the leaves together, so that it will pack well in the pit.

THE fall is probably the best time to top dress grass, as the rains now due make a growth which prevents the courser particles from washing away. The winter snows and rains carry the valuable portions of the manure among the grass roots, which will be responded to by an earlier and more vigorous growth in the spring.

THE method of curing hay in Norway is peculiar. In driving along the highway one notices out in the midst of a field ten or a dozen lengths of post or rail fence in a straight line. What is the object of the fences? When the grass is cut it is laid over these rails, tier above tier, to dry. In the curing process it has the benefit of the wind as well as sun, and in case of rain the water runs off readily. The color of the hay is nearly as bright a green as the standing grass.

"LET a drop of fresh milk fall," says Professor S. A. Heath, "into a glass of pure water. If the milk promptly disseminates itself through the water, the cow that yielded that milk is not with calf; but if it sinks to the bottom of the glass as it falls upon the water, and produces but little of a milky cloud, the cow is pregnant. The specific gravity and viscidity of the albuminous milk being heavier than water, thus retains the drop of milk and causes it to sink."

CHOLERA

—IS—

COMING!

The countries where Cholera prevails, as in India, China and Africa, Pain-Killer is considered the surest and safest of all remedies, and the natives place the most perfect confidence in it.

Read the following extract from the letter of a missionary in China:

DEAR SIRS,—I ought to have acknowledged long ago the box of Pain-Killer you had the goodness to send me last year. Its coming was most providential. I believe hundreds of lives were saved, under God, by it. The cholera appeared here soon after we received it. We resorted at once to the PAIN-KILLER, using as directed for cholera. A list was kept of all to whom the Pain-Killer was given, and our native assistants tell us that eight out of every ten to whom it was prescribed recovered.

Believe me, dear sir, gratefully and faithfully yours.

Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION.

MEETING OF THE ONTARIO AND QUEBEC PROVINCIAL ASSOCIATION.

How Can Weak Associations be Assisted and New Ones Organized? — College Work — The World's Conference at Berlin.

FRIDAY.

2.30 p. m.—This afternoon Mr. W. E. Burford, President of the West End Railway Association, Toronto, presided during the praise and thanksgiving meeting. Mr. Burford conducted a Bible reading, illustrating two thoughts, "the demoralizing effect of being where we should not be," and "the elevating effect of standing for the right regardless of consequences."

ASSISTING WEAK SOCIETIES.

At 3 o'clock the President took the chair and the following topic was taken up:—"How can Secretaries assist Associations already existing in small places in their neighborhood?"

Mr. E. D. INGERSOLL said that they could assist by making their own Association so influential that the work would commend itself. A plan adopted in some of the States was for each Secretary on Monday morning to write a brief epitome of his work of the previous week and send it to the Secretary nearest on his left, who forwarded it on in the same manner, and the letters finally reached the State Secretary.

Mr. D. A. BUDGE said that a good plan was to get the business young men interested who travelled between both places, by which a connection was established. Members could go to smaller places and give addresses, which would be beneficial. He referred to a small Association near Montreal, illustrating the benefit derived from such societies.

Mr. W. H. STEVENS, Sherbrooke, P. Q., said that by holding meetings in the neighborhood of that town they were endeavoring to prepare the way for Associations.

Mr. T. S. COLE suggested that Secretaries should have an intervisitation and see what towns were between them that could be assisted.

Mr. INGERSOLL said that they learned how to do a thing by finding out how not to do it. They should be careful of only their own special work—look after the young men.

NEW ASSOCIATIONS.

The next topic was "How to assist in organizing new Associations?"

Mr. INGERSOLL warned them not to be too enthusiastic, and not to organize Associations in towns until its work was thoroughly understood, and its necessity felt. They should be very sure the time was come when the Associations were needed, and the material was there to work with.

MR. J. J. GARTSHORE said that in many towns in Canada an Association was needed. A Bible Class might be formed, conducted by some strong man, which would form a nucleus of an Association.

Mr. INGERSOLL offered, as a similar suggestion, a weekly meeting for young men.

Mr. GEO. E. WILLIAMS asked, could not Secretaries assist by sending Association literature to young men in neighboring towns? He thought that would become good plan.

The Rev. W. F. D. MEIKLE, of Lindsay, said that in Lindsay a young men's meeting was held each week, and he believed they would soon have an Association. They were encouraged by the reports from the Peterborough Association.

Mr. INGERSOLL said that the first requirement was for the young men to belong to or become members of a church.

Mr. W. E. BURFORD, of Toronto, related an experience in the organization of an Association, illustrating the benefits of quietly organizing a society where it was needed and where young men wished to unite in one.

Mr. J. D. NASMITH deprecated having too many officers and too much formality, and not enough work.

Mr. INGERSOLL was reminded of a story of President Lincoln. At the opening of the war he had numerous applications for the position of Brigadier-General, but the President said what he needed most was mules. The Association wanted men who were willing to do hard work.

COLLEGE WORK.

Mr. R. C. MORSE, of New York, conducted the discussion on "The Work among College Students." He said that he brought the greetings of the American College Associations, of which there were 181. In these Associations Bible and prayer meetings were held, and the members assisted in Sunday School work. Some of them had a committee to consider foreign mission work. They were always very solicitous about the incoming freshman class.

Mr. J. P. MCNAUGHTON, of Queen's College, Kingston, said that when the freshman class entered Queen's they gave them a formal reception and showed them that they had an interest in them. On Friday afternoon they held a meeting and gave personal invitations to students to attend.

Mr. ALFRED GANDIER, also of Queen's College, said that they held an informal Bible class on Sunday morning. When they began active work in a college it caused the students to take definitely two sides, and the object was to draw those on the one side into the Association also. They held an evangelistic meeting in a large hall, where addresses were given, and the students attended it, and when they were impressed by the addresses they spoke to them personally. The Christian young men in a college were liable to become burdened with their studies and cold in religious life, but the Association kept their minds on religion. A majority of the students in the University were Christians and the Association wielded a strong influence.

Mr. J. A. COSGROVE, of the same college, referred to the work done by the students outside of the college.

Mr. A. T. MCLEOD, of University College, Toronto, said that the University was sometimes called a Godless college, but the Association was enough to redeem its character. The Thursday evening meeting was well attended, and three days in the week, immediately after breakfast, several of them met together. Outside of the college, they intended to visit the hospital, as well as the Newsboys' Home. They had a committee which was appointed especially to look after the freshmen, and they made it a point to invite every student to attend their meetings. They thought this year of devoting one column of the Varsity to religious reading.

Mr. H. E. KENDALL, of McGill College, Montreal, said their Association was in its infancy, but it was vivacious. The principal phase of their work was a prayer meeting on Sunday afternoon. The work was leading them on. He could not say that they had seen many tangible results, but he believed that good results would soon follow.

Mr. J. K. UNSWORTH, of the same college, gave further particulars of the working of that Association. Their watchward for the coming winter was "McGill for Christ." They had plenty of room for work, and they were wakening up to the necessity of doing it.

Mr. D. A. BUDGE, Montreal, also referred to the association work in McGill College.

The Rev. Mr. MEIKLE strongly commended college associations, and referred to the good work they were doing.

Mr. MORSE said that within the last few months 800 students had asked and obtained permission to attend conventions of the Young Men's Christian Association. He emphasised the importance of having a foreign missionary committee, which would periodically lay before them the facts concerning some mission field. In 101 colleges there were 37,000 students, of which 12,000 were Christians and 25,000 were not professing Christians, but of the latter number 1,700 professed conversion during the past year. The work was full of promise.

The Rev. I. Tovell engaged in prayer. The business committee reported. The doxology was sung, and the Rev. E. F. Torrance pronounced the benediction.

DEVOTIONAL EXERCISES.

7.30 p.m.—This evening the devotional exercises were conducted by Mr. W. N. Bessey, of Brantford. The attendance was large. During the evening Miss Rose Clark presided at the organ efficiently.

After the devotional exercises, which consisted of singing, Bible reading and prayers, the President took the chair.

THE EXECUTIVE'S WORK.

The PRESIDENT explained that there was an Executive Committee, which had charge of the work in Ontario and Quebec, and a Travelling Secretary was employed to visit various places and foster the work.

Mr. T. S. COLE, Travelling Secretary, then read his report, which had been read at the morning session.

Mrs. Chambers sang a solo, "Mother's Good-bye," in an excellent manner, and was loudly applauded.

Mr. W. P. Crombie led in prayer. A collection to defray the expenses of the Convention was taken up, and the hymn, "Wonderful Words of Life," was sung.

A paper was to have been read by the Rev. A. H. MUNRO, on "How we came by our English Bible," but he had not returned from the Sunday School Convention at Brockville. Mr. R. C. Morse, of New York, filled the gap.

THE WORLD'S CONFERENCE.

Mr. MORSE gave an account of the World's Conference, held at Berlin, Germany, last August. He said that they were familiar with the Peterborough Association, and most of them knew that there was a Provincial Executive. There was also an International Convention, with an International secretary, railway secretary, college secretary, western secretary, &c. There were over 800 Associations in America. Twelve years ago there was about a dozen secretaries, and now, including assistants and librarians, there were over 350. There was contributed to support the Associations in the Dominion and the United States $660,000. This group of Associations had the strongest representation at the Berlin Conference. He sketched the circumstances which led to the appointment of an Executive Committee for the world, and referred to their report at the last Conference. At that Conference there were delegates present from Russia, Italy, Switzerland, Austria and other countries. He related incidents showing some of the difficulties which the International Secretary met with in some countries. The German Associations were affiliated with those in America, but they were different, as they did not embrace all denominations. However, in Berlin there was a prosperous Association on the American plan. It possessed a building on the main street of Berlin, including a gynasium, &c., and evening classes were held. There were 20,000 waiters in Berlin, who could not get out to these classes, and a midnight meeting was held every Tuesday for them. The delegates at the Conferences from other parts of Germany, seeing how the Berlin Association was working, wanted that work extended, and Mr. Von Schlembach, formerly German International Secretary in America, was engaged in that work in Germany. As the result of the Conference he expected that the work would be greatly extended on the continent of Europe.

A hymn was sung and the Rev. E. F. Torrance led in prayer. The session was concluded by the Rev. T. Manning pronouncing the benediction.

Daily Evening Review

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1884.

Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION.

SATURDAY.

9 A. M.—The devotional exercises this morning were conducted by Mr. H. B. Gordon, of Toronto.

SECULAR AGENCIES.

The President took the chair at 9.30 o'clock. The first topic taken up was, "To what extent have secular agencies been helpful in Association work?"

Mr. W. N. BESSEY, of Brantford, said that the work had four departments, the spiritual, intellectual, social and physical. Under the head of intellectual department, they had reading rooms, libraries, practical talks, &c. In the physical department they had gymnasiums, rambling clubs, &c. The Reception Committee, social meetings, &c., were parts of the social department. Each of these departments could be made an ally of their spiritual work. In towns where there was not a business college to monopolize the young men, there might be educational classes.

Mr. BUDGE gave an instance of where teaching a young man how to write led to his conversion.

Mr. COLE said that sometimes, when a man was converted, he wished to learn. They had a snow shoe club in Quebec, and it was very helpful to them in their spiritual work, as it brought young men to their rooms who otherwise would not have come. They should be careful to make these clubs an agency for the salvation of young men.

Mr. LONSDALE said the difficulty with secular agencies was that Christian young men were liable to forget their chief object.

Mr. BURFORD gave an instance of the benefit of secular agencies. He had been asked what benefit it was to bring a young man to their rooms if he was not converted?

Mr. BESSEY said that their Association had a practical philanthrophy, and they believed that, if they could do no more, they should try to save young men from debauchery.

Mr. BUDGE inquired regarding the best means of organizing educational classes.

Mr. BESSEY said that in Brantford they got several persons competent to teach to give one evening in the week.

Mr. MORSE said that if they could get a man out of a purely secular institution and into the Association classes for educational advantages, where he would feel that he owed it to religious influences, it would be better.

Mr. BUDGE said that in Montreal they separated the classes from the Association membership, and by that plan they reached young men who otherwise would not attend. They gave prizes at the end of the year, and held two receptions for the class students.

Mr INGERSOLL gave illustrations of the benefit of having a gymnasium.

WORK FOR BOYS.

The next topic for discussion was "Work for Boys."

Mr. W. H. STEPHENS read a paper prepared by Mr. W. H. Sallmon, President of the Boys' Branch, London. It showed the importance of having a branch for boys, and made suggestions as to conducting the meetings.

Mr. A. R. SAUNDERS read a paper prepared by Mr. Chas. Edwards, of the Boys' Branch, Toronto. He thought the Boys' Branch should be to the Association what the Sunday School is to the Church. He advocated at length the importance of the work.

Mr. JOHN JOHNSTON, Toronto, gave further particulars regarding the Boys' Branch in that city.

Mr. CHAS. MIDGLEY reported regarding the Hamilton Boys' Branch. They had various clubs, and several of the boys had united with churches.

Mr. F. LONSDALE expressed his sympathy with the boys work and emphasized the importance of having the right kind of men to carry on the work.

Mr. T. M. PRATT, Montreal, reported regarding the work among newsboys in that city. They had their meetings announced in the Sunday schools in the city.

Mr. W. N. BELSLY reported for the Brantford Boy's Branch.

Mr. INGERSOL said that more importance was being given to this branch, and it was right that it should be so. It trained workers for the Association.

Mr. BUDGE said that in Montreal they reached a number of thinking boys by having good and interesting books in the library.

Mr. J. F. JEFFERS, of Peterborough, gave the Convention the benefit of some of his experience with children.

Mr. STEVENS reported for the Sherbrooke, P. Q., Boys' Branch. They kept a roll of members, and when one was absent they tried to ascertain the cause.

BIBLE CLASS.

The Convention then discussed "The Young Men's Bible Class. Why should there be one in every Association?"

Mr. T. S. COLE, who conducted the discussion, said that Bible classes were as necessary for an Association as meals for a man who worked. They could not be "workers together with God" unless they studied His word. Every secretary should have a Bible class, as it was an additional incentive for him to study the Bible. He gave illustrations showing the importance of being thoroughly acquainted with the Scriptures.

Mr. BUDGE did not think that an Association deserved its name unless it had a Bible class.

Mr. LONSDALE said he could not understand an Association without a Bible class.

A census was taken by show of hands and it was found that all the Associations represented, except the college Associations, had Bible classes.

Mr. H. B. GORDON gave more illustrations of the necessity of these classes.

Mr. J. J. GARTSHORE said that it was important to have a Bible class for the benefit of young converts.

Mr MORSE said that in many Sunday Schools there was an alarming absence of young men, and it made the Bible class more necessary in the Associations. He thought, if there was any comparison to be made, a Bible class was more necessary in a college, where the Scriptures should be studied practically. It was hard to establish a rule regarding the use of the Sunday School lesson in the class, but they should bear in mind the needs of the young men in their classes.

Mr. INGERSOLL instanced the success of Mr. Moody, owing to his familiarity with the Scriptures.

The session was concluded by the Rev. Mr. Meikle engaging in prayer.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

Delegates to the Convention will give gospel addresses at the following services:—

You Don't Say So!

Positive fact! Adam Hall is selling his beautiful hanging lamps for $3.00—just the cost price. Admirable for lighting up your hall, sitting room or dining room, with chain pulleys, in various designs, black and bronze, all bronze, or blue and black. All other lamps in same proportion. Go for them!

WHITE AND GREY BLANKETS, all wool, good value; also, a lot of white a little soiled, of good quality, very cheap. JOHN ERSKINE.

The Farewell Service.

The farewell service of the Y. M. C. A. Convention, to be held in the George Street Methodist Church to-morrow evening, will be preceded by the regular service commencing at 7 o'clock, and conducted by the Rev. I. Tovell, pastor. The subject will be "A Young Man's Noble Career."

The Floral Society.

A meeting of the Young People's Floral Society, in connection with the Charlotte Street Methodist Church was held last Saturday night. Dialogues, recitations, readings, etc., were rehearsed preparatory to the evening entertainment which will be held on the evening of Thursday next.

Number One Ward.

It is well to remind the ratepayers of Number One Ward that although there were so many nominations for the vacant seat at the Council Board there are now only two candidates in the field, Mr. Andrew McNeil and Mr. John McNaughton. Several gentlemen who were nominated, and who would have been a credit to the ward if elected, resigned in favor of Mr. Andrew McNeil.

The Election.

The election in No. 1 Ward, for the purpose of choosing a representative to supply the place of the late S. F. Allin, is now exciting considerable interest. Several gentlemen were nominated, but, as will be seen by advertisement, all have withdrawn from the contest, except Messrs. A. McNeil and J. McNaughton. The election will doubtless be hotly contested, but in a friendly spirit. The poll, which is at the Mission school house, opens at 9 o'clock a.m.

Now in stock, a large assortment Painted Dado Window Blinds. Orders filled promptly. A. L. DAVIS & Co.

Thoroughly Alarmed.

The George street merchants have at last awoke to the real danger in which their goods are placed. There seems to be a general feeling of uneasiness throughout the town on account of the recent and numerous burglaries. Last night most of the merchants had a night watchman and some two night watchmen on their premises. To-day rooms conveniently situated to the various stores are being fitted up and some of the merchants are even placing beds in their places of business.

St. John's Church.

On Sunday the Archdeacon of Ottawa will take part in the morning service, and the Bishop of Toronto in the evening service. On Monday the annual missionary meeting will be held in the Sunday School at 8 o'clock in the evening, when it is expected that the Bishop of Toronto, the Archdeacons of Ottawa and Kingston, the Rev. W. F. Campbell, Mission Secretary, and other clergymen will be present. On Tuesday there will be celebrated the anniversary of the restoration of St. John's Church. There will be services at 8.30 a.m., 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. The Rev. Canon Dumoulin, Rector of St. James', Toronto, will preach in the evening. The Bishop of the Diocese and a large number of the clergy will take part in these interesting services. The collection throughout the day will be in aid of the organ fund.

Now in stock, a large assortment Painted Dado Window Blinds. Orders filled promptly. A. L. DAVIS & Co.

An Enjoyable Evening.

A very pleasing and interesting entertainment was held at the No. 1 Ward Separate School under the auspices of the Ladies of No. 1 Ward connected with St. Peter's Cathedral. The entertainment was opened by an overture (violin and banjo) by Messrs. Clarke and Roubtley. Miss Simons contributed an instrumental solo and Miss McIlmoyl, Miss Simons and Mr. J. Coughlan furnished vocal solos. Two quartettes were sung by Messrs. Picord, Picord, LeGros and Barlean. Misses McFadden and Lynch sang a very pretty duet, and Messrs. Simons and Wallbrook gave a clog dance. The entertainment was closed by a social hop and the evening was most pleasantly spent by all those present. The financial part of the entertainment was most successful. The receipts will be applied to the St. Peter's Cathedral building fund. Mrs. J. Dunn and Mrs. J. Henry are especially worthy of praise for the energetic way in which they worked for the success of the entertainment. Mrs. T. Henry, Mrs. Coughlin and Mrs. Hurly also rendered valuable assistance.

Induction and Confirmation Services.

At St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, next Sunday morning, during the 11 o'clock service, the Lord Bishop of the Diocese will induct the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw into the possession of the parish of Ashburnham, it having recently been constituted a Rectory. The service of Induction appointed by the Provincial Synod will be used on the occasion, and the sermon will be preached by the Right Reverend the Bishop of Toronto. His Lordship will also hold a Confirmation service at St. Luke's Church on Sunday afternoon next at three o'clock, when a class will be presented for this sacred rite. To these interesting services the general public are heartily invited.

PAINTED Window Shades, with handsome dados, at A. CLEGG'S.

The Love of Society.

Ever since the creation of the human family the love of society has formed one of our strongest characteristics. It is society that forms the mental spring to the cultivation of the arts and sciences. It is society that gives actitude to the exercise of all our social enjoyments. It is the love of society that brings us together, to advise one with another as to the better mode of securing a more permanent basis upon which society may rest secure from the influence of temptation and be bold, be frank, and fear not what others may think so long as you are obeying the dictates of conscience. Remember that it is with our judgments as our matches; none go just alike, yet each believes his own, and that is the reason why so many agree in saying buy your oysters at Smith's.

Methodist Hymn Books.

Turnbull's Show Rooms are now laden with choice Millinery to suit all ages. Now is the time to make a selection.

The Contest in No. One Ward.

Although nomination day is barely passed for candidates to fill the position of Councillor in the above ward, some of those gentlemen who received the nomination are already hard at work canvassing the voters. It is possible that this contest will be a hot one, and as the electors of No. One Ward always take a deep interest in anything of a municipal nature, it is sure to be a very spirited, yet friendly fight. The inhabitants of this town are, as a rule, fond of the little excitement that springs up during the municipal elections, and this battle in the banner ward will be no exception to the rule. While your attention is drawn to this item, it will not be amiss to give the respective candicandidates and their friends some wholesome advice (pardon the suggestion). The candidate that goes from house to house seeking votes must look his best, as the fair sex have something to say as to whom the "old man" will vote for. Now in this connection we would advise all to go to Habiliment Hall, and don one of MCNEIL'S nobby suits, when they are sure to come to the front "like a solid man."

CORNICE POLES complete at A. CLEGG'S, only $1.75.

Some choice Astrachan Mantles at Turnbull's, personally selected from a very large stock. See these goods, you will be pleased with them.

An Old Soldier's EXPERIENCE.

"Calvert, Texas,

"I wish to express my appreciation of the valuable qualities of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

as a cough remedy.

"While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where, on asking for some remedy, I was urged to try AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

"I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the PECTORAL constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung diseases. J. W. WHITLEY."

Thousands of testimonials certify to the prompt cure of all bronchial and lung affections, by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily.

The Love of Society.

Ever since the creation of the human family the love of society has formed one of our strongest characteristics. It is society that forms the mental spring to the cultivation of the arts and sciences. It is society that gives actitude to the exercise of all our social enjoyments. It is the love of society that brings us together, to advise one with another as to the better mode of securing a more permanent basis upon which society may rest secure from the influence of temptation and be bold, be frank, and fear not what others may think so long as you are obeying the dictates of conscience. Remember that it is with our judgments as our matches; none go just alike, yet each believes his own, and that is the reason why so many agree in saying buy your oysters at Smith's.

He comes from London, England, and has of late been teaching in western Canadian towns, and in the city of Toronto. He brings with him several high recommendations among which are one from Judge Dartnell, (whose daughters were under his tuition) of Clinton, and E. Kranz, M. P., of Berlin.

A Word in Season.

This is the sort of weather that should be looked carefully after, or in other words, the general public should take due precaution against, the sudden and severe changes that are daily taking place in the weather. Let horse racing, U. S. elections, the Nile expedition, night watchman, house moving, and all matters of minor importance be a secondary consideration to the prudent and watchful care of one's own health. Now, this is the time when every business man, tradesman, professional man, gentleman, dude, habitan—yes, everybody should have, without borrowing, both an oil-cloth coat and an umbrella. In order to supply this urgent demand, A. McNeil, at Habilment Hall, has, as usual, a large and varied stock of the above requisites. Call and examine. They are the "pure stuff."

The Pauline Markham Co.

The Montreal Gazette, of October 21st, says: "There were two things well worth seeing at the Royal matinee yesterday afternoon. One was the performance of "The Two Orphans" by the Pauline Markham Company, and the other was the audience which packed the auditorium from bottom to top. What there could be especially remarkable about a matinee audience at the Royal may, at first sight, be a question, but those who watched the people in the theatre yesterday were well repaid. It was a curiously composed gathering. Old and young, mothers and children, many of the youngsters still in arms, school boys and girls, all ranks of society. It was a strangely excitable and sympathetic audience. They followed the performance with intense interest. The sorrows of the hapless Louise brought forth tears, when the brutal Jacques threw her to the ground they groaned and hissed, when Pierre covered her with his cloak they cheered, when Frochard pinched and knocked her down they shuddered, when Pierre came to her rescue they encouraged him with exclamations and applause, and when Frochard and Jacques were finally worsted they fairly howled with delight. So sympathetic and enthusiastic an audience is seldom seen, and the performance was certainly a good one. Miss Markham is fully up to the requirements of Louise, and she deserves credit for the success which she has obtained."

The Gazette also gives great praise to the other leading characters. The above company will appear in Bradburn's Opera House on the evenings of Tuesday and Wednesday, the 28th and 29th.

Stabbing Affray at Bracebridge.

BRACEBRIDGE, Oct. 24.—A gang of Italian navvies raised a row here on Wednesday night using revolvers and knives freely. A man named Louis Johnston happened to be in the way of an Italian who was carving a road to freedom, when he received two stabs from the Italian's knife, one through the breast and the other through the muscle of the right arm. Johnston's brother procured a shot gun, and pursuing the Italians, succeeded in shooting the brim off the hat of the man who used the knife so freely. There were two arrests made.

Schooners in Distress.

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 24.—The steamer Georgian, with steam pump on board, was towed here this morning by the wrecking tug International. She has on a cargo of steel rails consigned to the Canadian Pacific Railway at Heron Bay. She was taken off Haywood Island, where she was wrecked some time ago. The damage is not ascertained yet. Wednesday night last during a snow-storm the schooner Golden West went ashore on Snake Island about five miles east of Cove Island, Georgian Bay. The crew abandoned her and are safe at Tobermoray. The vessel was heavily loaded with corn from Chicago to Midland and seems to be in a bad condition, the corn bursting out of her hull.

FIRE AT LINDSAY.

Freight Shed and Storehouse Burned on Sunday—Heavy Loss.

At about 11.30 o'clock on Sunday the freight shed and storehouse, known as the Whitby and Port Perry storehouse, owned by the Grand Trunk Railroad and occupied by W. D. Matthews & Co., Toronto, was discovered to be on fire. The flames were first seen in the corner of the building near where the office was situated. It spread rapidly. The firemen were called out and attached the hose to the hydrant at Messrs. Blackwell & Lightfoot's corner, but they had not hose enough to reach the fire. The building was destroyed, together with its contents, including a large quantity of grain. The brick station, now used as a freight office, was in imminent danger and was at one time on fire, but the flames were extinguished by the strenuous exertions of the citizens. It was considerably damaged. About fifty cars were also in danger, but they were run out of the way, except six, which were burned. If the wind had been blowing towards the station it would most probably have been burned. The loss will probably reach about $50,000, of which W. D. Matthews & Co.'s loss is about $15,000. The cause of the fire is unknown.

MINDEN.

GONE HOME.—Mr. Frank Pearson, who has been assisting in the post office here for several weeks past, has returned to his home in Peterborough. He intends going from thence to Kentucky and probably through the Southern States. Frank made himself a general favorite here, and will be very greatly missed. He had "a way with him" that made every one take to him at long. The Echo loses a valuable and jovial friend and wishes him every success wherever his lot may be cast.

NEW SAW MILL.—There has been considerable talk of a saw mill being built at Miners' Bay but we are now sure we are not going to be disappointed, for the frame was raised on Monday, 13th October. These enterprising gentlemen have located their mill at Mr. D. Galloway's, about ten rods west on the Cameron road. The need of a mill has been long felt in this part of Lattenworth, as the people formely had to draw their lumber from Kinmount or Coboconk, the former place being nine miles and the latter twelve miles distant. The people should patronize the Miners' Bay Milling Co, as they will no doubt be able to turn out lumber as reasonable as it could be got anywhere else. We wish them every success and trust their profits may exceed their most sanguine expectations.—Echo.

MILLBROOK.

PERSONAL.—Rev. Alex. Allen, of Nebraska, preached in St. Thomas Church, on Sunday evening, Oct. 11th. Being in attendance at a clerical meeting, in Detroit, he ran down to visit at the old homestead, driving out form Port Hope, arrived at the Rectory about 5 p. m. His many friends were pleased to see him. He returned on Wednesday morning. His father, Rev. Rural Dean Allen, accompanied him, and expects to be absent from the Parish two or three weeks.

A NEW DRILL SHED.—We understand that Capt. Chas. H. Winslow interviewed the Cavan Council on Monday, regarding the Agricultural Grounds. The Government are prepared to erect a new Drill Shed, providing the grounds, on which it is erected is deeded to the Government. As it is absolutely necessary, that there should be more accommodations for our Fall Exhibitions, this is an excellent opportunity to have things so arranged that the proposed Drill Shed could be utilized for local purposes, as well as for a Drill Shed. In this manner, the needed extension of the buildings could be effected. We understand the Cavan Council are prepared to meet the wishes of the Government as well as our agricultural friends, provided the Millbrook Council give their consent. Another much-needed improvement would be to purchase of Mr. Geo. Needler the 2 acre field adjoining the grounds, on the east of the agricultural grounds and form the whole block into a park, planting it well with trees.—Messenger.

MISS THOMPSON of the townships of Elderslie and Arran dropped dead while going for a pail of water.

Hereditary Scrofula.

Are you aware that in your blood the taint of scrofula has a prominent place? This is true of every one. It is liable at any time, on the slightest provocation, to develop itself in some insidious disease. Consumption and many other diseases are outgrowths of this impurity of the blood. Shaker Blood Syrup has a wonderful power over all scrofulous troubles, as the remarkable testimonials we have received unmistakably prove.

We refer by permission, to Mrs. P. Elliott, Hanover, Maine, who was cured by Shaker Blood Syrup of 11 Scrofula Sores, the severity of which confined her to the house for 2 years. Six months previous to taking Shaker Blood Syrup, she could not get about her room without crutches. Her friend says I did not think it possible for her to live many months; she was reduced to a mere skeleton. Her cure is hardly less than a miracle. There is no doubt that in Shaker Blood Syrup, we have the most remarkable medicine that has ever been produced, and a positive cure for Syphilis and Scrofula in their numerous forms.

Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind, colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. A GOOD REMEDY.

THE Globe is now joining in the outcry against the REVIEW for saying that "we know of no Conservative promise that protection could prevent commercial depression." It pretends that it could find something to that effect in our files for 1878, and with this vague assertion endeavours to cover its own falsehoods. The fact is that the Globe and its satellites invent a number of statements which they falsely ascribe to Conservatives, and then ask how they tally with present facts. When confronted with the truth they shuffle out of their self-created difficulty by means of some evasion.

What we held and said in 1878, we hold and say now. We did not and do not believe that protection could prevent commercial depression. Neither do we believe that "free trade" can do so. In Great Britain and in the United States neither so-called free trade nor a far higher degree of protection, have prevented them from suffering at present from much severe commercial depression than anything experienced in Canada.

We believed then however, and we still believe, that protection tends to prevent commercial depression, that it may prevent it and that it mitigates its evil effects if it does come. We claimed that the National Policy would prevent us from suffering from commercial depression in other countries by being made a slaughter market, as was the case then, and is not the case now, though there is so much commercial depression among our neighbours at present that our industries would be swamped by an influx of sacrificed goods, were it not for our tariff. Because the Reformers, then in office, denied this, and remained supine in spite of the mischief being done to Canadian industries, we accepted their own name for themselves, "flies on the wheel"—for we did not invent it. We looked, in fact, upon the National Policy as a remedy, just as men take medicine, not because it will ensure them perpetual life, but because it may cure, and is certain to alleviate the malady. If the remedy has not quite fulfilled our most sanguine hopes, it is because we did not forsee that one of the household might be administering a poison to counteract its beneficial effects. This is in truth what the Globe and its imitators have done by persistent endeavours to frighten capital from coming to Canada, by ceaseless efforts to create a commercial panic through exagerated or invented reports, and by the adoption of every possible means to check and impede the progress of Canada so long as she chooses to employ Conservative advisers.

BECAUSE the Jamaica House of Assembly was formerly elected by a minority of the population the London Advertiser says that Jamaica has been assumed to be unfit for self-government. We know of no self-governing country the legislature of which is not elected by a minority of the population. In Ontario, indeed, Mr. Mowat's majority in the House was actually elected by a minority of the voters who cast their ballots.

THE London Advertiser asks:—"Where is Big Push?" We had believed that the Hon. George Brown, whose Big Push letter was so severely condemned as corrupt by a Canada judge, was dead. We therefore have considered it very bad taste on the part of the Advertiser to be continually recalling to memory the corrupt act of a departed leader of its party.

COBOURG.

THROWN OUT.—On Sunday afternoon, as Rev. Mr. McCrae, of the Presbyterian Church, was starting for Coldsprings to conduct the services in the Congregational church there, for Rev. H. Pedley, who was in Belleville, the horse shied at some debris near a building that was being moved on Ontario street, and upset the buggy, throwing the occupants out. Mr. McCrae fell on his back across a piece of timber, but fortunately no bones were broken. He is progressing favorably. Mr. Henderson, of the Toronto Bank, took Mr. McCrae's place at Coldsprings, and Mr. Wilson, who is attending Victoria University, preached in the Presbyterian church in the evening.—Sentinel-Star.

SPORTING.—Captain Bottum returned from his hunt on Tuesday. He camped in the township of Snowdon, about nine miles from the village of Haliburton, on Lake Koclong. The party consisted of Dr. DeGrassi, Dr. Bonnell, Mr. W. Boyd, Capt. Bottum and one or two others. In the five days the Captain was with the party they killed seven deer. The first day they killed two very large bucks. The deer were very numerous, and the sport excellent. The Captain brought back with him a splendid saddle of venison. The party is still in camp.—Independent.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 24.—Captain S. R Radford died last night after an illness of three weeks. He was engaged to be married to a Miss Ragland of Liberty, and when he found his end approaching he caused a telegram to be sent to her with the wish that they might be united before his death. Miss Ragland arrived in the city Tuesday morning and the nuptials were at once solemnized at the bedside of the groom

GRANT'S PHILADELPHIA HOUSE.

The Circumstances Under Which it Was Presented to Him.

A Philadelphia paper tells this story about General Grant's house in that city: General Grant's Philadelphia "residence"—he only occupied it a short time, near the close of the war—is soon to be sold to satisfy the mortgage Mr. Vanderbilt holds against it. The property consists of the house and lot at 2008 Chesnut street. Just before the Grant & Ward failure in New York, General Grant borrowed $150,000 of Mr. Vanderbilt, giving a mortgage on the house as partial security. The fact that the house was presented to General Grant by patriotic citizens of Philadelphia is very generally known, but just how the presentation came about has never been published. During the war, George H. Stuart, while on a visit to the army of the Potomac, as President of the United States Christian Sanitary Commission, was accompanied to the boat at City Point by General Grant, then Lieutenant-General of the army. As he was about leaving Mr. Stuart turned to the General and asked him if there was anything he could do for him in Philadelphia. At first the General said "No," but, upon second consideration, added: "Yes, you can do me a favor. My children are at school in Philadelphia, while my wife is living in Burlington, N. J. I should like them nearer together. If you could get me a nicely furnished house at moderate rent I should feel greatly indebted to you."

Upon Mr. Stuart's return to the city he promptly called a meeting of some of the prominent citizens and proposed that they should purchase a house and present it to General Grant. A committee consisting of Messrs. George H. Stewart, A. E. Borie, William C. Kent, E. C Knight, Davis Pearson, George Whitney and James Graham, were appointed, who soon collected not only the necessary funds to buy a house and lot, but to furnish it handsomely, the whole costing about $44,000. All this time the General was in ignorance of what Mr. Stuart was really doing. When everything was in readiness an elegant reception was tendered the General and his family by the committee, who also had their families present. After the festivities, while all were assembled in the parlour. Mr. Stewart formerly presented the General the deed of the house in the name of the "Loyal citizens of Philadelphia." The deed of conveyance was very handsomely engrossed.

This was towards the close of 1864. Some time afterwards the General's family occupied the house, but remained only for a few months following the end of the Rebellion. Since then it has been rented.—Boston Star.

LIFE ON THE RAIL.

A Veteran Engineer—Nearly Forty Years on the Footboard of a Locomotive.

The oldest railroad locomotive engineer in the United States is Lawson Lufkins, generally called "Squire" Lufkins, of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad. He is as tall as Don Quixote, and almost as thin, but his career and and character are the reverse of Quixote. For nearly forty years the rider of the swiftest of steeds and in constant danger, he has never met with a windmill or other serious accident, and, so far from roaming in search of adventures, he has devoted his whole thought and energy to his plain duty—to the carrying of his passengers safely to their destination and on time.

"Mine has been a very simple life," said the 'squire last night, "and when I look back over the thirty-seven years I ran a swift passenger engine it makes me wonder that so few things stand out. It's all a dead level now. I began engineering when I was just 20 years old, which was pretty young, and you see I needn't be tottering on the edge of the grave to be the oldest engineer. When I began I hadn't served an apprenticeship as a fireman, but I was a well-trained machinist. Locomotives were my delight to study, and when I got one to run myself my ambition was realized. I just settled down to my life-work then and there. At first I was bothered by people wondering at such a boy engineer, but I attended strictly to my work, and soon I knew that I was all right and safe, and the officers came to the same opinbefore long. I loved my work, and I never let my mind run off the track. Myg engine and my duty were more to me than anything else I could think about. When an engineer's miud goes off on sidetrips his train is apt to make a violent attempt to follow."

"Didn't you feel the effects of the work and responsibility on your nerves?"

"I can't say I did. I've read of doctors saying that no man can stand the physical and mental strain of running an engine more than twenty-five years. I don't believe this is so. If it is, I am a great exception. I am just as capable to-day as I ever was in my life, and I think I could go on and complete my second twenty-five years. Of course the engine shook me up, and there was noise and exposure all the time, but I got used to these things. They got to be as matter of fact as eating. As to the sense of responsibility, I felt it, of course, but it sustained me instead of breaking me down. Why, it is the soul of engineering, this thought that one is taking care of the lives of others. If I didn't have it I wouldn't run an engine. It would be like running a church without any God. And I would not work on any railroad if the safety of the passengers was not the very first thought in every department, from President down."—Philadelphia Times.

Electricity in the Future.

Mr. Edison is reported, in an interview in the Evening Post, as saying that in five years from now we may expect that some one will solve the problem of turning heat directly into electricity. At present electricity, both as a mode of light and as a motive power, is rendered unavailable except in large communities by reason of the expense involved in producing the electricity. Fuel has to be converted into heat, heat turned into steam, steam into motion, motion into electricity; and all this involves an expensive plant, and that can be afforded only where there are large interests to be subserved. Mr. Edison is confident that science will yet discover a way by which heat can be converted into electricity as directly as it is now turned into steam, and more economically. If the future realizes this hope, it may put electricity into every household, ont only as an illuminator, but as a motive power, bring the spinning wheel and loom into the home, or at least make spinning, weaving, and other like industries, possible to individual enterprise and small capital. In this connection we quote the suggestion of a prophetic mind working in another department, that of social science. We quote from John Rae's recent volume an "Contemporary Socialism":—

Mr. Babbage predicted fifty years ago that if a new power were to be discovered that could be generated in a central place in quantities sufficient for the requirements of a whole community, and then distributed as gas is, wherever it was wanted, the age of domestic manufactures would return. Every little community might then find it cheaper, by saving carriage, to manufacture for itself many of the articles now made for it at the large mills; and the small factory or workshop, so suitable, among other advantages, for co-operative enterprise, would multiply everywhere. Now, have we such a power in electricity? If so, not the least important effect of the new agent will be its influence on the diffusion of wealthy, and its aid toward the solution of the social problem of the nineteenty century.

Threshing Accident

MAREDALE, Oct. 24.—A most heartrending accident occurred on the farm of Mr. Geo. Hill, 11th line Eugrasia, at nine o'clock on Tuesday, where Stinson Bros. were threshing, in which one of the brothers met with a fatal accident. The younger brother, Thomas J., was attending to the oiling, etc., when the coupling near the gearing caught his clothes, instantly winding him up, and literally tearing both legs off below the knees before the machine could be stopped. One of the feet had passed through the cylinder and the other was found near the place where the accident occurred. Dr. Sproule was immediately sent for, and on arriving found that little or no hope could be entertained for his recovery, and the unfortunate sufferer continued to sink until 10 o'clock in the evening, when death ensued.

"I wish to express my appreciation of the valuable qualities of

as a cough remedy.

"While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where, on asking for some remedy, I was urged to try AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

"I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the PECTORAL constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung diseases. J. W. WHITLEY."

Thousands of testimonials certify to the prompt cure of all bronchial and lung affections, by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily.

Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION.

MEETING OF THE ONTARIO AND QUEBEC PROVINCIAL ASSOCIATION.

Discussions on Various Topics—Mr. Jeffers on Association Sustentation—The Sunday Meetings—Farewell Services.

SATURDAY.

2.30 P. M.—During the devotional exercises this afternoon the Rev. Mr. Meikle gave a Bible reading.

CONVENTIONS.

The first topic was "How can we make our conventions more helpful?"

Mr. T. S. COLE said they could make the conventions more helpful by working through the year and preparing papers to be read at the conventions.

Mr. BESSEY said one way, which had assisted this convention, was to have a good place to meet in, and he hoped the next convention would be held at Brantford.

Mr. LONSDALE said his board unanimously wished the convention held in Hamilton.

It was decided to leave the question of where the convention should be held next year with the Executive Committee.

Mr. INGERSOLL, continuing the discussion, suggested that they read reports of other conventions across that line that did not divide them, and where they would be welcomed.

Mr. BUDGE suggested that the Executive consider the advisability of holding the convention in February or March.

Mr. GARTSHORE said that the date of the present convention was decided at the suggestion of college students.

Mr. BESSEY said they should come to the conventions with the idea of learning something.

DISTRICT ORGANIZATION was the next topic taken up.

Mr. F. LONSDALE, of Hamilton, said that as Associations multiplied the necessity of conventions, in order to assist the strong and strengthen the weak Associations, was felt. Last year 27 State and Provincial Conventions were held, and 15 State and Provincial Secretaries were employed. He referred to the success of Associations in England as showing the benefit of conventions. By district organizations, with a District Secretary, new Associations could be assisted, and thus saved from an early death or a long sickness. He gave details as to how district organizations could be operated.

Mr. W. CRAIG, Port Hope, believed that good results would follow district conventions.

Mr. J. J. GARTSHORE said that district conferences would unite the different Associations and concentrate their efforts,

Mr. BURFORD suggested holding the district conferences quarterly in different towns. The people would become more interested in the work.

Mr. STEVENS said that much good was done by the district conference at Sherbrooke, P.Q.

Dr. KELLOCK, of Perth, gave similar testimony regarding the conference held at Perth.

Mr. LONSDALE looked on the district organization as an important matter. He proposed that the matter be referred to the Executive Committee and the Travelling Secretary to organize such conferences.

This suggestion was adopted by the Convention.

THE EXECUTIVE.

Mr. HENDERSON read the report of the Nominating Committee:—

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.—R. Kilgour, Toronto, President; John J. Gartshore, Toronto, Secretary-Treasurer. John Macdonald, John Harvie, S. R. Briggs, Robt. Baldwin, C. S. Gzowski, Jr., H. B. Gordon, J. O. Anderson, W. H. Howland, Toronto; Abner Kingman, Geo. Hague, T. J. Claxton, J. S. McLachlan, John Murphy, Warden King, D. A. Budge, R. Henderson, Montreal; V. Cronyn, London; Jno. Armstrong, Owen Sound; John Harris, Geo. Foster, Brantford; P. Murray, Orillia; J. F. Jeffers, Geo. A. Cox, Peterborough; F. B. Allan, Perth; Geo. Rutherford, Hamilton, W. A. Copeland, Collingwood; T. Gibson Guelph. Jas. Woods, Galt; J. C. Moorehead, St; Thomas; Wm. Craig, Jr., Port Hope: C. Lawes, Cobourg; B. Robertson, Kingston; J R. Pall, Sherbrooke; H. C. Patterson, Cornwall; C. F. Falconer, Ottawa.

The Committee recommended that the service of Mr. Cole as Travelling Secretary be continued; that $1,500 be raised; the observance of the second Lord's Day in November and week following as a week of prayer and that a collection be taken in aid of the International Committee; that the work of preparing the way of placing General Secretaries where there are none and fostering existing Associations be continued; and that the report of this convention be printed and distributed.

Mr. BURFORD, Toronto, said that there were 100,000 railway men in Canada and he thought that the railway interest should be better represented on and receive more attention from the Executive.

The report was adopted.

THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE.

Mr. INGERSOLL advised all the delegates to subscribe for the Watchman. He also spoke of the work of the International Committee and said that it should be supported.

Mr. BURFORD bore testimony to the assistance rendered by the International Committee.

The session was concluded by Mr. S. R. Briggs, Toronto, engaging in prayer.

ASSOCIATION SUSTENTATION.

7.30 P. M.—The devotional exercises were conducted by Mr. S. R. Briggs, of Toronto, after which Mr. E. D. Ingersoll, of New York, took charge.

The first topic for the evening was "The Sustentation of Associations in small Towns."

Mr. J. FRITH JEFFERS said that he would take a general view of the subject. No matter in what place the Association was, its object and force were the same, but the appliances varied. Its object was to bring young men to Christ. The three aspects of the work were to prevent, reclaim and sustain. The first force was the Word of God, the second was the influence of the Holy Spirit—these were the two great forces in the work. Another force was the personal influence of members. To be an association there must be more than one, and where two were united to use these forces good results must follow. The sustaining influence of an Association was the power it had to overcome the difficulties which assailed it. One difficulty was the confusing of the forces referred to with the appliances. They had a field from which to draw sustentation and in which to operate. The field was large, and as it was able to sustain the larger efforts, it should be able to sustain the smaller efforts. The support the Association received was voluntarily given, and to be supported the sentiment of the community must favor it. When an Association became recognized as a necessary factor in a community, they might look for support. They needed reading rooms, gymnasiums, &c., to bring young men within the sound of the Gospel. The sentiment among the people of the community who were not Christians depended on the persons in the Association. If the community had confidence in the Association, then the field was open for them. Those who thought an Association should exist in a community should give it monetary support. He hoped that every Christian community would support every agency that endeavored to save the young men and boys of our country.

THE RAILWAY WORK.

Mr. INGERSOLL opened the discussion on the railway work.

Mr. W. C. Jex, Secretary of the Railway Association, Toronto, said that he was an old railway man, and he did not use to ride in a Pullman, but toughed it on top of the cars. He referred to his methods of reaching the men, and said that the officials of the railways, especially the Grand Trunk, assisted him a great deal.

Mr. W. J. ORR, Secretary of the Railway Association at St. Thomas, was also formerly a railway employee. There were about 1,000 railway men in St. Thomas, a large number of whom lived in boarding houses. The Association was organized in 1882, and the membership now was 500. They had a well supplied reading room and a library of about 800 volumes, in both of which they had literature especially suitable for railway men. They also had a game room, post office and a hospital room in which men who were injured on the railways were attended to. They also visited the sick. He gave instances of the good results which came from the work.

Mr. W. E. BURFORD, of the Canadian Pacific Railway Association, Toronto, gave an interesting account of the work of the Association. They had a reading room supplied second to none in the city. The officials of the railway saw the advantages of the Association to such an extent that that they sent out circulars advising the men to attend the rooms, and the company cheerfully contributed to its support. God had blessed the work to the conversion of many souls and the building up of believers.

Mr. THOMAS CLOUSTON and Mr. E. D. BATSTON, of Toronto, gave further instances of the good work done by the Toronto Railway Associations.

Mr. F. LONSDALE, of Hamilton, formerly of Montreal, gave a brief account of the railway work in the latter city.

Mr. T. M. PRATT, of Montreal, gave further particulars of the railway work there.

Mr. T. S. COLE, Travelling Secretary, reported regarding the railway work in London and other places.

Mr. INGERSOLL referred to the small beginning of several of the Railway Associations. It was only 12 years since the work was first thought of by anyone; now there were 60 secretaries engaged in it in the Dominion and United States, and $50,000 was contributed by railway companies. He referred to the spiritual result of the work.

The session was concluded by Mr. S. R. Briggs leading in prayer.

SUNDAY.

9 A. M.—The delegates held a prayer meeting at this hour in the School Room of the George Street Methodist Church, which was conducted by Mr. F. Lonsdale.

CONSECRATION MEETING.

9.30 A. M.—A consecration meeting was held, conducted by Mr. E. D. Ingersoll. The exercises consisted chiefly of singing and prayer.

MASS MEETING.

4 P. M.—A mass meeting of young men was held at this hour in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church, at which there was a large attendance. The meeting was opened by devotional exercises, Mr. W. P. Crombie, of Picton, leading in prayer.

Mr. W. J. ORR, of St. Thomas, who conducted the meeting, read portions of Mark x. and Luke xix., and commented thereon.

Mr. J. K. UNSWORTH, of McGill College, Montreal, dwelt on the right of Christ to demand their services.

Mr. J. P. McNAUGHTON, of Queen's College, Kingston, read from the New Testament a case where a young man had decided for the world, another where a young man first did wrong and afterwards repented, and another where a young man always stood firm for the right. He pointed to the result in each case and advised them to decide at once and for God.

Mr. W. H. STEVENS, of Sherbrooke, Que., urged the necessity of deciding whether they would accept Christ or not, and the importance of deciding to accept him.

Mr. ALFRED GANDIER, of Queen's College, Kingston, pointed out the position of unsaved persons and the attitude of God towards them.

Some minutes were spent in silent prayer, and at the same time Mr. Orr requested any young man who had decided for God to raise up and thus ask to be prayed for. One young man arose. The meeting was concluded by Mr. J. F. Jeffers engaging in prayer, after which an enquiry meeting was held.

FAREWELL MEETING.

8.30 P. M.—The farewell meeting—the last of the series of meetings in connection with the Convention, was held in the George Street Methodist Church. There was a large attendance and the proceedings were very interesting. Mr. R. C. Morse, of New York, Secretary of the International Committee, conducted the meeting, which was opened by singing and prayer.

Mr. MORSE said that they, like the disciples on the Mount of Transfiguration, had been on a mount of privilege, but when they descended from it they would meet with human needs. Some of the delegates would return to hard fields of labor, and he would like to look in the Bible for words of comfort for them.

A hymn was sung and the delegates read many texts containing promises and encouragement. Suitable passages were also read for any who might have come to the Convention expecting great things and who might feel a little disappointed, for the younger delegates who had not before attended a Convention and who might feel they were too young to do such work as they had heard about, and for any who might feel disappointed or slighted through feeling that they had not had the opportunity to speak as much as they would liked to have done.

Mr. MORSE then asked those delegates who had received helpful impressions during the Convention to give expression to them briefly.

Messrs. T. S. Cole, W. J. Orr, W. C. Jex, S. R. Briggs, T. M. Pratt, John Johnston, W. E. Burford, D. A. Budge, and others responded.

Mr. R. C. MORSE had during the Convention been impressed with the power represented—the quality of the work and the workers. They would return with faith amounting to a certainty that the work in Canada was on a better basis and gave brighter promise. He asked the Secretary of the Peterborough Association, who had been so helpful to them during the Convention, to speak.

Mr. GEO. E. WILLIAMS said he could not express the thankfulness to God which he felt for blessings He had bestowed upon him in the four days, and especially on this day. He thanked the delegates because of the blessings to himself, because he knew they were sent in answer to their prayers. He had received more benefit from this convention than from any convention he had ever attended. If there had been no other result than that which occurred at the afternoon meeting that day, he felt that it would be enough to compensate them for all their trouble, as he believed that souls had been saved. That was reward enough for him for any trouble he had taken. The effect of the Convention on the workers and friends of the Peterborough Association would be good, and the work would be less difficult. He believed that souls would be saved through the influence of the meetings of the Convention, and all who had been given any trouble on account of the Convention would count it a privilege and be thankful. They would like to have the Convention held here again next year, but it would be too selfish to expect that.

Mr. MORSE said that they felt grateful to the brethren in Peterborough who had done so much for them while here, and he asked Mr. Cole to pray for a blessing upon them.

Mr. T. S. Cole responded by leading in prayer.

Mr. D. A. BUDGE said that while Mr. Williams was speaking he remembered when he first spoke to Mr. Williams, in the office where he was employed, about going into this work. Mr. Williams then felt that he was not capable of doing it, and he was glad to hear his cheering words to-night. Mr. Williams had given up things that would have been better for him in a worldly sense in the hope that God would use him in the work, and he (Mr. Budge) was pleased that He was doing so. On behalf of the delegates, he said that they felt indebted to the people of Peterborough for their entertainment. They hoped that God would minister unto them as they ministered unto the delegates, and he hoped that the convention would leave a blessing behind.

Mr. MORSE said that the greatest privilege they had had was that of pointing the young men of Peterborough to Christ.

After some minutes spent in prayer, the delegates and the members of the Peterborough Association joined hands and sang the hymn beginning "Blessed be the tie that binds," and Mr. E. D. Ingersoll led in prayer.

The doxology was then sung and the meeting was concluded by the Rev. T. Manning pronouncing the benediction.

BOYS' MEETING.

4 P. M.—A boys' meeting was held in the George Street Church, of which Mr. F. Lonsdale had charge. Messrs. T. M. Pratt, C. B. Tweedale, Chas. Midgley, John Johnston, A. R. Saunders and others, took part.

MOTHERS' MEETING

At the same hour a largely attended mothers' meeting was held in the Baptist Church, and was conducted by Mr. D. A. Budge.

NOTES.

The general secretaries in attendance at the Convention paid a visit to Mr. G. B. Sproule's gallery and were photographed in a group.

During the Convention Mr. Geo. E. Williams had his hands full of work. The "post office," of which he took charge, was a convenience for the delegates.

The greater number of the delegates departed on the early trains this morning. The others followed on later trains during the day.

Sell your Wheat now and exchange it for Cheap Clothing at LeBRUN'S.

I am determined to offer the bulk of my present very large stock without reserve for the next three months. Remember the prices will be lower than were ever offered in Peterborough before.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Cloudy weather with rain, followed by winds shifting to west and north-west, and increasing to gales in most places; partially clearing colder weather with snow flurries to-night.

At Port Hope.

On Friday a team was chosen from the Peterborough Football Club to play a match on Saturday with the Trinity College School Club of Port Hope. When the time for departure came, however, only nine out of the fifteen appeared at the station. The undaunted nine went to Port Hope and played against a full team, but were as a matter of course, badly beaten, they having only secured one point against 30. They returned home the same evening. The Trinity College School Club will play a match here on Saturday, November 8th, when a different result is expected. The Peterborough Club have also arranged a match for Thanksgiving Day. They will go down to Kingston and play one of the clubs of that city.

WHITE AND GREY COTTONS, all qualities, at unusually low prices. Also a lot of Canton Flannel Sheets, cheap. J. ERSKINE.

St. John's Church.

On Sunday morning in St. John's Church, Peterborough, the Rev. J. W. R. Beck, Rector and Rural Dean, read the service, and the Ven. J. S. Lauder, Archdeacon of Ottawa, preached. He took for his text I Cor., iii., 9. "For we are labourers together with God," and showed how, in the Bible, in the Church, and in the spiritual life of the individual Christian, the human element was associated with the Divine, drawing thence the lesson that men must not, like the fatalists, remain passive, awaiting God's grace, for that was in a manner rejecting it. In the evening the Rector read the prayers and the Ven. Archdeacon Lauder the lessons, the Bishop of Toronto preaching from the text, "And he said, Lord that I may receive my sight." Luke, xviii., 41 His Lordship, after dwelling upon the physical deprivation of sight, so common in the East, applied the lesson to be drawn from this miracle as to spiritual blindness, and especially exhorted his hearers to show the same simple faith as the blind beggar. The Rector announced that a missionary meeting would be held in the Sunday school on Monday evening at 8 o'clock, and earnestly pressed upon the congregation that they should attend, as it was both a duty and a privilege. He also announced the anniversary services on Tuesday, the festival of S. S. Simon and Jude, namely, an early celebration at 8.30 a.m.; morning service, sermon and celebration of the communion at 11 a.m.; and evening service and sermon at 8 p.m. At the missionary meeting on Monday the Bishop of Toronto, the Archdeacon of Ottawa, the Rev. W. F. Campbell, Mission Secretary, and other clergymen will be present and some interesting addresses on missionary work may be expected. In the anniversary services to commemorate the restoration of the church, the Bishop of the Diocese and a large number of his clergy will take part, and the services will no doubt be as full of interest as on previous occasions. The collections throughout the day will be in aid of the organ fund. Mr. Ewing, the accomplished organist, and his excellent choir will, therefore, be sure to surpass themselves, and the musical portion of the services will be one of the most beautiful and impressive features of the anniversary. The following is the music selected for the occasion:—

Hymns: 326, 426, 438, 436, 295 and 435.
Psalms from Turle's Psalter: Ps. 136 and 138 to the 6th tone; Ps. 138 to Tonus' Peregrinus.
Venite to 3rd tone.
Te Deum, Anglican, from Turle's Psalter.
Jubilate, Anglican.
Magnificat—Persian chant (6th. tone), alternate verses harmonized and unaccompanied.
Nunc Dimittis, Parisian chant (1st tone), harmonized and unaccompanied.
Kyrie, Dr. Bexfield in F.
First anthem, "Gloria in Excelsis," from Mozart's 12th Mass.
Second anthem, "Lord of all Power and Might." Mason.

RECTORY OF ST. LUKE'S,

THE REV. W. C. BRADSHAW IS INDUCTED BY THE LORD BISHOP OF TORONTO.

The Induction Service—St. Luke's Church Well Filled—His Lordship Preaches an Eloquent Sermon—Confirmation in the Afternoon.

On Sunday morning St. Luke's Church was filled to its utmost capacity on the occasion of the induction of the Incumbent of the mission, the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, to the newly-made Rectory of Ashburnham, by His Lordship the Bishop of Toronto. The ceremony was conducted most impressively, and was listened to with that rapt attention which the solemnity of the occasion demanded. The service was commenced at 11 o'clock a.m.

THE BISHOP—Brethren, we are here assembled together to induct the Reverend W. C. Bradshaw as Rector of this Parish; he having been already instituted by the Bishop to the cure of souls.

THE INCUMBENT then read the declaration of assent as follows:—

"I, William Charles Bradshaw, do willingly subscribe to, and declare that I assent to, and abide by, the canons which have been, or shall be, from time to time, passed by the Provincial Synod or the Synod of the Diocese of Toronto.

"Given under my hand at Ashburnham this twenty-fifth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four.

"WILLIAM CHARLES BRADSHAW."

THE BISHOP then read the mandate of Induction as follows:—

ARTHUR, BY DIVINE PERMISSION, LORD BISHOP OF TORONTO.

To all Rectors and Clerks whomsoever, wheresoever resident throughout that part of the Province of Ontario comprised in the present Diocese of Toronto.

Greeting:

Whereas, By virtue of the authority committed to me I have admitted Wm. Charles Bradshaw, Clerk, to the Rectory or Incumbency of the Parish of St. Luke, Ashburnham, in the County of Peterborough, in the said part of the Province to which he was presented by the Lord Bishop of Toronto, the true and undoubted patron thereof, and have duly and canonically instituted him in and to the said Rectory or Incumbency, and invested him with all and singular the rights, members and appurtenances thereunto belonging; you are therefore hereby desired, jointly and severally, to induct and cause the said Clerk, or his lawful Proctor, in his name and for him to be inducted into the real, actual and corporal possession of the said Rectory or Incumbency of the Parish of St. Luke, Ashburnham, and of all and singular the rights, members and appurtenances thereunto belonging, and to defend him so inducted; and what you shall do in the premises, you, or whosoever of you that shall execute this present mandate, are only to certify to the said Lord Bishop, his suffragan or Vicar General, or General Commissionary, or other competent judge or person in his behalf when required so to do.

(SEAL) Given under our seal this Twenty-fifth Day of October, in the year of our Lord One Thousand Eight Hundred and Eighty-four, and of our Consecration, the Sixth.

ARTHUR TORONTO.

THE BISHOP then said, "In the name and on the behalf of this parish, we do now induct you into the real, actual and corporal possession of the Incumbency of the said Parish, and of all the rights, privileges and emoluments thereto pertaining. And in token thereof, we give into your hands the keys of this Church."

Mr. R. Meade, acting Church Warden, then handed Mr. Bradshaw the keys.

THE RECTOR in reply said, I receive these keys of this House of God at your hands, as the pledges of my Induction and of your reception of me as your appointed Minister. And I on my part do promise by God's help to be a faithful shepherd over you, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

THE BISHOP then presented the Rector with the Bible and Book of Prayer saying, receive these books and let them be the rule of thy conduct in dispensing God's Holy Word, in leading the devotions of the people, in administering the Sacraments of Christ, and in exercising the decipline of the Church. And be thou in all things a pattern to the flock committed to thy care.

The service of the day was then conducted by His Lordship, assisted by the Rector and the Rev. Vincent Clementi. His Lordship took for his text 1st Thessolonians v, 12 and 13, "We beseech you brethren, to know them which labour among you, and which are over you in the Lord, and admonish you, and esteem them very highly in love for their work's sake."

His Lordship dealt very ably with his text, lucidly setting forth the duties, the offices, the functions, the trials and the hardships of Christian pastors. The occupation of the clergyman was one which might not be taken up or laid aside at pleasure, but it was a serious and urgent business, the most serious to which a man could devote his life, one that does not bear to be trifled with, postponed or neglected. Nothing was more erroneous than the common idea that a clergyman worked but one day in the seven. Nothing to do but to rest after his last Sunday's exertion, or prepare his sermon for the next. The faithful pastor would not allow it even if it were possible. The calls on the pastor's time and strength were innumerable. There was the sick to be visited with consolations of religion, the bedside of the dying to be cheered with hopes of immortality, the failing eyes to be pointed to Him who is able to save, the wandering sheep to be sought out, the absentees from services to be inquired after, the systematic visiting of the whole parish to be kept up, for the private ministrations of reading, instruction and prayer, for the keeping together of the flock, for the better acquaintance with the several circumstances and surroundings, the special spiritual condition of each, for the finding out of strangers as they come to the parish. Responsible duties are continually falling upon him. To comfort the sorrowing, to instruct the inquirer, to counsel the doubting, to succour the distressed, to make peace between brethren that are at variance, to be the bold witness against sin, to gently restore the penitent and with these duties of visiting are all the multifarious professional duties which crowd the week.

He needed the strength of soul, the refreshment of spirit, the upholding of the hands which the laity could give him, and which is their duty to give him, in the grateful recognition of his self-denying labours. They should not allow themselves to criticise his preaching or manner, thus constituting themselves judges of his doctrine, but they should receive him as one set over them in the Lord for his work's sake. They should accord him their very high esteem, their very cordial love.

His Lordship congratulated the congregation on the step they had taken in founding a perpetual endowment thus securing the status of a settled parish, and providing a contingency against any unforeseen emergencies of depression or change of circumstances which might at any time weaken their financial ability. He also congratulated them on the excellent condition of the parish. It afforded him deep satisfaction to know that in the present pastor who to-day becomes their Rector, they had realized those qualities of a Christian minister which are laid down by St. Paul; and that he has been so happy as to win from them that love and esteem which St. Paul enjoins as due from people to Pastor. He trusted that when the solemn day came when their pastor would have to give an account of their souls he might do it with joy and not grief; and having in his office as Shepherd over the flock of Christ, been faithful unto death he may, when the Chief Shepherd shall appear, receive the crown of life that fadeth not away.

CONFIRMATION SERVICES.

In the afternoon at three o'clock His Lordship administered the holy rite of Confirmation to eighteen candidates who presented themselves for this Apostolic Rite. The number of candidates confirmed at St. Luke's Church this year is forty-four, forty-six having been confirmed on the 9th of July last, the eighth anniversary of this parish.

A Correction.

In a notice published last week of donations to the Protestant Home, Mr. T. G. Hazlitt's gift should have read "lumber," and that of Mr. M. Millar should have read "nails."

A Runaway Engine.

On Sunday evening the coupling link connecting the locomotive with the train from Toronto on the Grand Trunk broke about four miles on this side of Omemee. The engine sped across the big bridge at a fast rate, but soon returned and, being again coupled, came on to Peterborough.

Wm. Reynolds and Wm. McDowell were charged by P. C. Pidgeon with having been drunk on Sunday last in a public place. They pleaded guilty, and were fined $1 and $2.10 costs each.

FURIOUS DRIVING.

Wm. Whalen and Frank White were charged by P. C. Adams with having driven through the public streets at an immoderate rate of speed. They pleaded guilty, but urged that it was a cold night, and that they were coming from the last train. It was their first offence. The Magistrate said that he would inflict no fine, but the defendants would have to pay the costs.

LARCENY.

John Ferguson was charged with having, on the 30th of June last, feloniously stolen and carried away one silver watch, the property of Henry Noyes. The prisoner pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried summarily. The case was adjourned until to-morrow morning.

Worth Knowing.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

A LARGE variety of New Splashers for back of washstands, from 15c. each, at J. ERSKINE'S.

The Love of Society.

Ever since the creation of the human family the love of society has formed one of our strongest characteristics. It is society that forms the mental spring to the cultivation of the arts and sciences. It is society that gives actitude to the exercise of all our social enjoyments. It is the love of society that brings us together, to advise one with another as to the better mode of securing a more permanent basis upon which society may rest secure from the influence of temptation and be bold, be frank, and fear not what others may think so long as you are obeying the dictates of conscience. Remember that it is with our judgments as our matches; none go just alike, yet each believes his own, and that is the reason why so many agree in saying buy your oysters at Smith's.

UNDER A CLOUD.

The Cause of John Johnston's Death Still a Mystery—The Inquest Continued.

The inquest on the death of John Johnston, who was shot in the woods at Anstruther, was resumed on Monday evening, Dr. Fife, coroner, presiding. Mr. C. W. Sawers appeared for the friends of the deceased.

CHARLES BOYCE, who was in the north with a hunting party on Oct. 5th, was sworn. None of his party fired a shot that day, that he knew of, and their dogs were kept tied up. He heard a shot at about 8 a. m. He was then about the middle of Eagle Lake and the shot appeared to come from the head of the lake. There were two other hunting parties near there. He knew nothing of how John Johnston came to his death.

JOHN ISBISTER was sworn and corroborated the evidence of the last witness.

BENJ. W. ELLIOTT, who belonged to another hunting party, was sworn. On Oct. 5th he was on the portage between Eagle Lake and Dear Lake. He was out hunting that day and had a 44 Winchester rifle. He fired two shots, at about 10 a. m., at a deer on the Lake, and killed the animal. Both shots struck the deer. Their dogs were started on the north side of Deer Lake. None of the party followed the deer through the woods. He knew nothing of the death of John Johnston. He met Thos. Eastland, Mahar Washcorn and some others, who were hunting back there. He saw no other rifle there like his, but heard that Eastland had one like it. The ball taken from the deceased was a 38 ball. Eastland asked for a 38. He was a clerk in a hardware store in Lakefield and had sold that kind of cartridges to strangers; they had sold more than a thousand of them.

LAUGHLAN NOLAN, who was with the same party as the last witness, was sworn and corroborated his evidence. He was one of the men who put out the dogs. He heard two shots north of them when the dogs were running, one a shotgun and the other a rifle report, but did not know who fired them. They were about twenty minutes apart. It was before Elliott shot the deer. He and the other man with him did not fire a shot. Eastland's camp moved on Sunday to Wolfe Lake. He knew nothing whatever about Johnston's death.

The Jury consulted for some time, and the inquest was adjourned until Monday, November 10th.

Personal.

Mr. J. Moloney, Reeve of Douro, was in town to-day.

Mr. A. S. Manhard, Travelling Passenger Agent for the Canadian Pacific Railway, is at the Grand Central Hotel.

Mr. T. McNamara, for the last two years one of Mr. T. Dolan's efficient clerks, departed yesterday to fill a lucrative situation in St. Catherines.

Railway Notes.

The parlor car which is run between Peterborough and Toronto was sent to the shops at Port Hope on Monday evening for repairs to a damaged spring.

Residents of the township of Cavan have sent in a petition to the authorities of the Ontario and Quebec Railway, asking for a flag station at Kelly's corner, about five miles from Cavanville. There were fifty signatures to the petition.

In the item yesterday regarding the runaway engine an obvious error crept in. It was on Saturday evening it happened.

A Fall in Buckwheat.

Shortly before noon to-day Mr. W. J. Rutherfoord, of Douro, tied his horses to a post in front of Mr. J. Flavelle's flour and feed store, while he went in to effect the sale of 21 bags of buckwheat, with which the waggon was laden. While Mr. Rutherford was in the store the horses became frightened at a man who was digging directly in front of them. They sprang out sideways, broke the halter, and sped down Simcoe street at a rattling pace. When coming to the corner they veered round down George street. In the quick turn the waggon was upset, and the bags of buckwheat strewed in the mud. One of the horses fell and was besmirch with dirt, but no serious injury happened. Some of the bags were badly torn, but the remainder were again loaded on the waggon and drawn away. When the waggon turned the George street corner it swung round, and it looked as if the plate glass windows in the dry goods store of Mr. T. Kelly would inevitably be smashed. Neither of them were, however, injured in the least.

COLLISION ON A RAILWAY.

Death of a Canada Southern Conducter —Several Railway Men Injured.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—A collision occurred last night at Montroso Station on the C. S. R. which resulted in the death of Conductor Herbet Taylor, of St. Thomas, and the injury of several other trainmen. Special train No 16, composed of empty cars, in charge of Conductor Thos. Reynolds and Engineer Carleton reached Montrose at 5.30 p.m. from Victoria, and was mistaken by the switchman for a light engine and caboose. He switched it on a side track, upon which four cabooses were standing. The back of the train struck these. The jar upset a stove in the second caboose, where several trainmen were seated, and they were thrown from their seats. The stove fell on Herbert Thayer, pinning him to the floor, and the caboose instantly took fire. All efforts to rescue Thayer proved abortive, and he had to be left to his terrible fate. His brother Willard Thayer, brakeman on the caboose, kept hold of his hand as long as he could bear the heat, but finally was driven back scratched and exhausted, and pulled through the windows; when assisted outside it was found his leg was broken. Brakeman Schofield was slightly hurt; Conductor McGregor had his feet badly burned. Three cabooses were completely burned. When Thayer's body was recovered it was charred to an unrecognizable mass. He was 21 years of age, and had only been married a few weeks.

Fire at Brockville.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Oct. 27.—About nine o'clock on Saturday night a fire broke out in Richards' rivet works at the foot of Kincade street, and adjoining the large machine and moulding shops of Smart & Shepperd. The building, a frame structure, about 25 by 40 feet, was completely gutted, though the firemen were successful in keeping the flames from spreading. Mr. Richards' loss on machinery and stock will probably exceed the amount of his insurance, $9,000; Smart & Shepperd lose four grinding machines and a quantity of skates and door hangers, but are fully covered by insurance. The origin of the blaze is not known.

A REMARKABLE DISCOVERY.—A council of doctors declared Mrs. Adelaide O'Brien, of 372 Exchange St., Buffalo, incurable. Her liver was badly disordered; she vomited green mucous; could retain no food; skin yellow and full of humors. She was rapidly sinking; but Burdock Blood Bitters cured her.

MURRAY & Lanman's Florida Water is probably the simplest and purest perfume ever made, being absolutely nothing more than the delicious fragrance of rare flowers, preserved and made permanent, and it is doubtless to this purity of composition that its immense popularity is in a great measure to be ascribed.

A DENIAL.

DUBLIN, Oct. 27.—The Crown Solicitor, Mr. Bolton, denies the assertion recently made by Mr. Healy in the House of Commons that three months' time had sufficed for Mr. Bolton to make Delany a respectable man and a destroyer of other men's lives. He denies any knowledge of Delany, professional or otherwise.

CANADIAN CAMP INSPECTED

CAIRO, Oct. 27.—General Lord Wolseley inspected the Canadian camp at Wady Halfa today.

DEPRESSING IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The motion of Lord Dunraven for appointment of a joint commission from the House of Lords and the House of Commons to enquire into the cause of the depressed condition of trade and agriculture receives support of the Tories. The Government is inclined to refuse the appointment of such a commission on the ground that the enquiry would have no practical result. The Tories will make the bad condition of the country the subject of a plank in their election platform.

A PATHAN DEFEAT.

SIMLA, India, Oct. 27—The Zehob Valley expedition attacked 500 Kaber Pathans in a strong position. The latter were defeated with a loss of 56 killed.

GORDONS POLICY

LONDON, Oct. 27.—In a letter dated April 22 General Gordon says he has offered freedom and pay to slaves who desert the Mahdi. This policy, he hopes, will sound the doom of slavery in the Soudan. He declares if Shendy is captured it will be due to the goverment's failure to send Zebehr Pasha to him. He hopes that for the sake of the honor of England the Abyssinians will not be engaged to fight England's battles.

WOLSELEY'S ORDERS.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Official correspondence relating to Egygtian affairs is published. Lord Wolseley's instructions stated the object of the expedition was to bring Gen Gordon and Col. Stewart back from Khartoum. No further offensive operations then necessary to secure this end will permitted. Neither the English nor Egyptian Government was prepared to assume the responsibility of the government of the Nile valley beyond Wady Halfa, though they would be glad to see an independent government established at Khartoum which would keep peace with Egypt, encourage commerce and prevent the slave trade. When it was known that Gen. Gordon had sent Col. Stewart to buru Berber the Government directed that counter orders should be sent.

MOB VIOLENCE.

HONG KONG, Oct. 27.—Advices say the Roman Catholic priests under French protection at Swatow were ordered to leave by the Chinese authorities. When those at Chou Chou Fu had left the place the Chinese soldiers went to their house and destroyed everything they could find. It is said they ravished the femaleconverts. At Kite Yung the mob destroyed the Roman Catholic places of worship as well as those belonging to the English, Presbyterian and other missions. The Wesleyan chapel at Chang Tsung, was destroyed on 14th Sept. by a mob.

The Brunswick Succession.

BERLIN, Oct. 25.—The Regency Council of Brunswick has refused to countersign the manifesto of the Duke of Cumberland. The majority of the Bundeserath favor Prince Albert of Prussia.

The Clawson Polgamy Case.

SALT LAKE, Oct. 25.—In the Clawson polygamy case this morning Lydia, the second wife, concluded to testify. She admitted her marriage. The prosecution then rested. The jury rendered a verdict of guilty. Sentence will be pronounced November 3rd.

Trouble Feared.

BUENOS AYRES, Oct. 27.—It is feared the arrive of two steamers from Genoa with four hundred passengers will cause trouble, this port being closed to vessels from Genoa. The Government has decided not to allow them to enter. It is said the Italian Consul will protest and that an Italian war vessel will order the steamers to anchor.

Swindler Arrested.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Achille Verdalle, a dealer in bric-a-brac, was arrested to-day. He secured 3,500 francs, a diamond brosch valued at 10,000, francs and other jewellery from a woman named Marie Bessi, representing that he was intimate with Vanderbilt and Gould and would invest the value of the articles for her benefit.

Game.

"So you have just retuned from the west, have you, Mr. D?" Said a man meeting an old croney on the street yesterday.

"Yes, sir, been all through the territory."

"Game abundant there?"

"Game is very abundant, sir, very."

"What kind predominates?"

"Well faro takes the lead, with poker a good second."

"Oh, good-day."

"Good-day."

Daring Robbery.

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 27.—During the night the office of the City Clerk was entered, the vault opened, and the private cash box of Mr. Flanagan was removed. The box which contained money and valuables was broken open and dropped on Sydenham street. The cheques deposits, receipts, etc., were left, the money alone being removed. The City Clerk's office is above the police headquarters, and the thief evidently gained admission through the police rooms or the door at the back of them.

Miraculous Escape.

LONDON, Oct., 26.—Mrs. Landry, the wife of an employee of the car shops, tried to run across in front of a shunting engine, at the William street crossing last night, but was struck by the engine and knocked down. Her escape from a frightful death was almost miraculous. She was knocked down on the track, and dragged about twenty yards. Her life was saved by her clothes catching and holding her from beneath the wheels. The tips of the fingers of one hand were crushed, and she was bruised about the legs and body, but upon being extricated after her perilous ride was able to proceed home.

Loss of Flesh and Strength,

With poor appetite, and perhaps slight cough in morning, or on first lying down at night, should be looked to in time. Persons afflicted with consumption are proverbially unconscious of their real state. Most cases commence with disordered liver, leading to bad digestion, and imperfect assimilation of food—hence the emication, or wasting of the flesh. It is a form of scrofulous disease, and is cured by the use of that greatest of all blood-cleansing, anti-billious and invigorating compounds, known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Nor another Pill shall go down my throat again, said a citizen, "when I can get such a prompt and pleasant cure for my Billous attacks, as Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. It renders the Blood Pure and Cool and makes a splendid Spring Medicine. Large Bottles 5 cents.

Answer this Question.

Why do so many people we see around us seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming up of the Food, Yellow Skin, when for 75c. we will sell them Shiloh's Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them. Sold by J. D Tully.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning? The signal perhaps of the approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cts., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough It never fails. This explains why more than a million bottle were sold the past year. It relieves croup or whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest use Shiloh's porous plaster. Sold by J. D. Tully.

FIRE, WATER AND GAS.

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough :

GENTLEMEN,—The Fire, Water and Gas Committee beg leave to report that in reference to the petition of Mr. A. White in regard to lighting George street with electric light, they recommend that the offer of the Peterborough Electric Company to place on George street six lights, at the rate of 25 cents per night for 300 nights in in each year, and to be kept burning until 12 o'clock, midnight. Your Committee beg to recommend that these lights be placed on the following streets, viz., at the intersection of George and McDonnell streets, George and Murray, George and Brock, George and Hunter, George and Simcoe, and George and Charlotte streets, and also that the Clerk be authorized to notify the Gas Company that on and after the first day of December next ensuing to discontinue the supply of gas consumed at the lamps on George street between McDonald and Charlotte streets.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

A. RUTHERFORD, Chairman.

Councillor RUTHERFORD, in moving the adoption of the report, stated that the gas consumed lighting the said part of the town cost $300, whereas the electric light would afford better light it would burn 90 more lights during the year and would cost only $100 more.

Councillor CAHILL said that it was very desirable to introduce the electric light on George street, but he thought the distribution unfair. In his opinion the principal traffic of the town did not lie in the neighborhood of McDonnell street, but between the post office and railway stations. He was in favor of introducing the electric light, but if distributed more southward it would serve the townspeople better and also the gas lamp now asked for by the Canadian Pacific Railway would not be needed.

Councillor DOUGLAS did not agree with Councillor Cahill. Two large churches were in the vicinity of McDonnell street.

Councillor HARTLEY did not blame Councillor Cahill for trying to get all the light possible for his ward, but he did not believe in leaving No. 4 Ward entirely in darkness. He suggested increasing the number of lights by two, one more to be placed in the north and one in the south.

Councillor KELLY said that in his opinion the lights should burn all night. It was in the darkest part of the night they were needed the most. All the recent burglaries were committed after the gas lamps had been put out

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that if the lights were kept on all night a man would have to be kept on and the light would cost double as much. In reference to the changing of the positions of the lamps he thought the Committee had selected the best places for them. Next year they might increase the number of lights. The light was exceedingly cheap and he thought there should be no opposition to the report.

Councillor KELLY said that the additional expense would not be very great if the lights were kept on all night. The same carbons would do and the cost of a man from 12 o'clock until morning was about the only expense to be incurred.

Councillor HARTLEY did not agree with Councillor Kelly. It would no doubt cost considerable more and as far as the burglars were concerned he thought the watchmen could have a better chance if the full blaze of light was not on. He did not support the all night lighting.

Councillor CAHILL said that no one disputed the brilliancy or cheapness of the light, but the Chairman of the Committee did not dispute the necessity of more light towards the railway stations. He thought it more to the interest of the town to have it distributed more southward.

Councillor GREEN agreed with Councillor Kelly in reference to the all night lighting.

Councillor KENDRY also coincided with Councillor Kelly. He thought that a few lights should be kept burning all night in the business portion of the town.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that the all night lighting would probably cost $200 more per year, but if all the members of the Council were in favor of it he would not oppose it.

Councillor CAHILL moved,—That the report be so amended by the Committee that it read "lights be placed on the corners of King and George and Dalhousie and George streets." He asked why the North Ward could not wait until next year as well as the South Ward for the lights. He believed if the lights were to be distributed they should be distributed equally. The members of the Council should act in the matter without prejudice.

Councillor KELLY moved in amendment, seconded by Councillor MILLAR,—That the report be referred back to the Fire, Water and Gas Committee with power to ascertain the cost of keeping the lamps in operation until daylight, and that they report at the next meeting of the Council.

Councillor CAHILL withdrew his motion and Councillor Kelly's amendment was carried.

CHARITY.

The following report of the Charity Committee was read :—

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough :

Your Committee on Charity beg leave to report and recommend that the account of Mr. Hope, for the maintenance and board of the boy Manning, be paid.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

R. H. GREEN, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

THAT SIDING AGAIN.

Councillor DOUGLAS moved, seconded by Councillor KELLY,—That the by-law regarding the Bethune street siding be not read for the first time, but that it be referred to the Town Solicitor to find out if it contains proper conditions for the compensation of property owners, who might suffer by the construction of the said siding.

Councillor YELLAND made a few explanatory remarks regarding the By-law referring to the siding. He had been for a long time trying to get the siding constructed and he thought the By-law contained every provision required.

The By-law was read for the first time.

Councillor KELLY said that he was in favor of passing the By-law allowing Mr. Yelland to construct the siding and it was only right that he should have it. But he thought that Mr. Yelland should consult the Town Solicitor and get his opinion in the validity of the By-law.

Councillor CAHILL thought that the By-law fully covered the ground. As far as he could see the property owners would be reimbursed for their loss, but he was in favor of having it referred to the Town Solicitor after the second reading.

The Council went into Committee of the Whole on the second reading of the By-law, Councillor Kelly in the chair. The By-law was considered clause by clause and passed.

PROPERTY REPAIRS.

Councillor KELLY moved, seconded by Councillor HARTLEY,—That the Special Committee on property be authorized to repair the roof over the Fire Hall and also that some repairs be done to the house occpied by Mr. T. Smith and to the market weigh scales.

THE FIREMEN.

Councillor RUTHERFORD moved, seconded by Councillor HARTLEY,—That the Treasurer of this town be authorized to pay to the Treasurer of the Fire Brigade the sum of $60, their expenses to Toronto.

Councillor DAVIDSON, Chairman of the Finance Committee, said that the Committee thought the sum asked for was rather too large.

Councillor YELLAND thought that the firemen should be properly encouraged. At a recent fire he knew of several firemen who suffered loss through damage to clothing.

Councillor CAHILL raised a point of order, stating that the motion was out of order as the matter was before a committee for consideration.

He was, however, overruled by the majority of the Council and the motion was passed.

SIDEWALKS.

Councillor RUTHERFORD moved, seconded by Councillor YELLAND—That the Street and Bridge Inspector be instructed to put down a sidewalk in front of Mr. Tully's store on the corner of Aylmer and McDonnell streets.—Carried.

Councillor KELLY referred to several places badly in need of sidewalk accommodation.

Councillor HARTLEY also stated that part of Union street needed a sidewalk. Several new houses had been built and were without a sidewalk.

Councillor HARTLEY moved, seconded by Councillor KENDRY,—That the Street and Bridge Inspector be instructed to lay a sidewalk on Union street.—Carried.

RAILWAY CROSSINGS.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON,—That the Clerk be instructed to communicate with the Chief Engineer of the Ontario and Quebec Railway requesting him to cause the approaches to the railway at the several street crossings west of George street in this corporation to be put in a proper state of repair as required by law, and also to provide a proper outlet for the water across Chamberlain street now impeded by the construction of the said railway.—Carried.

THE POLICE FORCE.

The CLERK read a resolution which was passed at a recent meeting of the citizens regarding the numerous burglaries which had been committed in the town.

The ACTING MAYOR said that Mr. Cox, the the Mayor, was now in Toronto with a view of securing a proper man for chief of police.

Councillor CAHILL questioned his right to take such action.

Councillor KELLY said that at a meeting of the Committee on Appointments, which was held immediately after the meeting of the citizens, the Mayor was authorized to enquire after an efficent man to fill the position of chief of police and also that two night watchman had been appointed to act until the Council take further action.

The ACTING MAYOR said that the Mayor would probably call a special meeting as soon as he returned.

Councillor CAHILL asked that proper notice be given of such meeting as it would likely be an important one.

THE TAXES.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved, seconded by Councillor CAHILL,—That the Collector be instructed to issue posters notifying the public that 5 per cent. would be charged on all taxes not paid before the first of December.—Carried.

RAILWAY WHISTLES AND LIVERY STABLES.

Councillor RUTHERFORD asked the Clerk if he received a copy of the by-law passed at Toronto respecting the railway whistles?

The CLERK replied that such by-law had not yet been passed.

Councillor YELLAND said that no doubt the railway whistles were a great nuisance, but he thought there were greater nuisances in town to be abated. One was that of livery-stable keepers allowing their horses to be hired for pleasure driving on Sunday.

Mr. BEAVIS, Inspector of Licenses, was instructed to look after the matter.

TOWN TRUST.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved, seconded by Councillor CAHILL, That the Commissioners of the Town Trust Fund be requested to send in a statement of receipts and expenditures of the year as required by law.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned until Thurskay evening.

A CONCORD LOVE SONG.

Shall we meet again love,
In the distant When love,
When the Now is Then, love,
And the Present Past?
Shall the mystic Yonder,
Over which I ponder,
I sadly wonder,
With thee be cast?

Ah, the joyous fleeting
Of our formal meeting,
And the fateful greeting,
Of the When and Why!
Ah, the Thingness flying
From the Hereness, sighing
For the love undying,
That fain would die!

Ah, the Ifness sadd'ning,
The Whichness madd'ning,
And the But ungladd'ning,
That lie behind!
When the signles token
Of love is broken
In the speech unspoken
Of mind to mind!

But the mind perceiveth
When the spirit grieveth
And the heart relieveth
Itself of woe;
And the doubt-mists lifted
From the eyes love-gifted
Are rent and rifted
In the warmer glow.

In the inner Me, love,
As I turn to thee, love,
I seem to see, love
No Ego there,
But the Meness dead, love,
The Theeness fled, love,
And born instead, love,
And Usness rare!

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

Two Morbidly Disposed Youths Decide to Die Together—Victims of Dime Novels.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 25.—The curious case of pistol shooting in which James L. Clayton, an 18-year-old boy, fired two shots into the brain of his friend, John S. Baker, and then put a bullet into his own head and fell dying by the side of his comrade, which occurred here last night, is a subject of general comment. There is no apparent motive for the crime. Baker is but 17 years of age, the son of a paper hanger, and resided at the corner of Seventh and Brown streets. Clayton was the son of a printer, and was employed in Dorey's hat band factory on North Third street. He resided in Calvin Place. Yesterday young Baker was confined to his bed with a sore throat and a severe cold. In the evening Clayton visited him. The two were firm friends. Baker lay on the sofa in the parlor and Clayton sat on a chair beside him. They chatted in a most friendly way. Mrs. Baker went up stairs and left the friends alone. Mr. Baker was seated in the basement smoking. About 9.30 o'clock the parents were startled by three pistol shots discharged in rapid succession. Rushing down stairs into the parlor Mrs. Baker saw her son lying on the sofa in the same position which she left him, with the blood streaming from two bullet holes in the head. Clayton was in a half sitting posture, with his head resting on the arm of his friend. There was a bullet hole just above the right temple. On the floor at his side lay a twenty-eight calibre revolver of the British bulldog pattern. Three chambers were empty. The parents were horrified. Dr. Thos. Conard and Dr. E. B. Shapleigh, the family physicians, were summoned. They found that Baker was dead. Clayton was still alive, but sinking rapidly. He died an hour later without having regained consciousness. Both bullets had passed through Baker's brain and he must have died instantly. His face was blakened with powder, showing that the revolver had been held close to his head.

There is no apparent cause for the shooting, and it is known that the boys were the best of friends, and had never quarrelled. They were both fond of sensational literature, and it is believed that they conceived that it would be a heroic thing to die together. The friends of the boys say there is no doubt that they made an agreement to die together. Clayton was to shoot his friend, and then kill himself, and the plan was carried out. They were naturally of a morbid disposition.

MARMORA.

From Our Own Correspondent

WHAT'S IN A NAME?—We have the Gatling Gold Mine, named "Delora" or the place of gold, but the old chronicles forget to mention whether they named "Marmora" from the sea of Marmora in the East or from Marmor, signifying marble and put the "A" to it as a finishing touch. On considering which of theset his place was named after, two suppositions arise and stare us in the face, 1st that their knowledge of geography extended beyond that of their own country, and secondly that their geological acquirements were extremely limited when they made the mistake of taking for marble, what was only in reality limestone, which so plentifully abounds in this blessed township. Here science has kindly thrown her shield around her Marmora votaries in order to save their memories from doubtful imputations. But no matter how it got named, we must look at its present and future prospects, and go ahead. We have had varying weather with three decided days of Indian summer, with a thunder storm on Sunday the 19th. As for business, during the summer it was rather slack, but now the harvest is in and partly threshed there has been a brightening up.

NEW INDUSTRIES.—Building prospects are very good. Mr. T. P. Pearce is erecting a woollen factory on the one sett plan to meet the requirements of trade, and it is being pushed on as fast as possible. A Mr. Bird is about completing arrangements to build a small foundry here, and the stone will be quarried this winter, and as far as possible the building materials will be got on the ground ready for spring work.

NEW BUILDING.—Capt. O'Neil has moved into his new house, a very fine building, well designed and presenting a fine appearance, besides making a valuable addition to our village.

ACCIDENT.—Capt. Wallis, of Delora, met with a bad accident on the 15th inst. Whilst superintending the miners in the shaft, a large rock weighing over a ton fell and broke both legs below the knees, fortunately large stones underneath prevented the monster from crushing his legs to pieces, making a miraculous escape. Medical assistance was obtained from Marmora and Madoc and the injured man is progressing as well as can be expected.

MORE BUILDINGS.—I forget to mention in the building item, that the building of five other houses are contemplated, but not definitely arranged, but I have every reason to believe that that will be built during the early part of next year.

MASONIC HALL.—The brethren of Marmora Lodge, No. 222, of A. F. and A. M., have determined at last to proceed with the erection of a hall in which to hold their meetings, and on Sept. 30th the first sod therefor was turned by Bro. D. G. Bowen, one of the oldest inhabitants, as well as one of the oldest Masons in this section. The hall is to be of frame veneered with brick, 26x46 and 22 feet high, is to be finished below for a public hall and the second storey for lodge purposes. The brethren are determined to lose no time in its erection and intend to have as nice a lodge room as any in the county. They expect to get up a demonstration at the laying of the corner stone. The most prominent members of the order in the Province are to be invited and will probably attend. No pains or expense will be spared to make it one of the most successful meetings of the kind.—PETREL.

Political Riots in Illinois.

BLOOMINGSON, Ill., Oct. 26.—Last night Fred. Schultz, while drunk, threw a stone at a Republican procession, striking on the head and rendering insensible a member of the mounted cavalry. The company dismounted and chased and caught Schultz, beat him severely, and, putting a rope around his neck, hauled him up to a lamp post and left him strangling. He was cut down by the police in time to save his life. The Republican procession subsequently brickbatted Postmaster Dick and the brother of Governor Hamilton, who was severely injured.

A New Branch

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.—It is stated that the contract for the construction of a branch railway from Buckingham station to the village of the same name will be commenced by the C. P. R. company at once and completed within two months.

ONTARIO AND QUEBEC.

The deplorable state into which the Conservatives of Quebec have brought their Province financially is so often and with so much glee dwelt upon by our Reform friends as a reason why the Conservatives should not be allowed to attain power in Ontario, that it will not be amiss to place before our readers the following comparison of the expenditures of the two Provinces:—

The assertion is frequently made that Ontario under Liberal rule has been much more economically governed than has Quebec under Conservative rule. A brief examination of the public accounts will show the fallacy of this statement. If we take the ordinary expenditure of the two Provinces for a period of two years we have this result in Ontario:—

	1871	1883.
Legislation	$ 94,177	$ 133,366
Civil Government	114,613	202,898
Justice	182,621	275,244
Education	351,306	512,347
Public Institutions	213,039	648,895
Immigration	29,712	47,764
Agriculture	74,927	139,725
Miscellaneous	34,559	103,717
Total	$1,094,045	$2,065,056

In this period the public expenditure of the Province has increased about a million dollars, while the revenue has remained about stationary, the receipts from crown lands having been as large in 1873 as in 1883, the result being the conversion of a substantial surplus into a deficit of $450,000. To-day the Province of Ontario is living upon the surplus, and it is only a matter of time when the resource will disappear altogether, it having been reduced from $5,756,352, in 1874 to $4,384,241 at the close of 1883.

The expenditure of Quebec has been as follows:—

	1871.	1882.
Legislation	$ 128,921	$ 197,134
Civil Government	128,673	179,234
Justice	271,212	380,693
Education	284,013	356,387
Agriculture	59,748	96,767
Immigration	19,581	14,600
Colonization	221,652	82,240
Public works	134,008	121,263
Charities	172,193	298,299
Total	$1,420,001	$1,727,017

The increased expenditure in Quebec in twelve years has thus been only three hundred thousand dollars, against an increased expenditure in Ontario of a million dollars in the same period. The item of civil government is deemed a fair test of the economy of Government. In Ontario the expenditure under this head has augumented $88,285 since 1871; in Quebec the increase has been only $50,561, or not much more than one-half, and a similar favourable comparison may be instituted of nearly every item of expenditure in the two provinces. It is true that Quebec has had deficits for some years past, and that these have been as large as that of Ontario last year, but this fact is not in any sense a sign of extravagance or misgovernment. Ontario has no debt; it has abstained from liberally subsidizing railways; it has contributed not a dollar to the construction of the great national highway, the Pacific railway, from the provincial treasury. Quebec, on the other hand, has not only subsidized purely local roads, to the same extent as Ontario, but it has paid the whole cost of construction and equipment of 300 miles of railway from Ottawa to Quebec. In 1883 the receipts of Ontario were $2,439,941, and the expenditure $2,887,037, a deficit of $447,096. The interest on the debt has been omitted in the payments by Quebec, but this must be done in order to fairly compare the position of the two provinces. It is no matter of rejoicing that Ontario had a deficit of $447,096 in 1883; and an estimated deficit in the present year of a like amount; at the same time it shows that our Province is not alone in not reducing the expenditure to the receipts. In this connection it should always be kept in mind that Quebec is under the necessity of keeping up two languages in our legislative proceedings, involving the employment of educated men as translators, the printing in both languages of all public documents, thus more than doubling the expense of most of the proceedings, over what the other provinces have to incur.

Daily Evening Review

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Best by Long Odds.

Th Orillia Packet says:—

"The Peterborough REVIEW, by long odds the best of the dailies outside the large cities of the Province, has been enlarged for the third time. We are pleased to note these repeated evidences of deserved success."

The Pile Driver Erected.

A force of workmen have arrived at the Ontario and Quebec station, and the building of the bridge leading to the new siding across the creek will be at ouce proceedd with. The pile driver has been erected and operations will be at once commenced.

Complimentary Benefit.

The entertainment on Thursday evening is being got up by friends of Mr. Orm. Dixon in the town as a complimentary benefit for him, and they wish to correct an arroneous impression that Mr. Dixion is getting up the entertainment himself.

Y. M. C. A. Bible Class.

In consequence of his recent accident, the Rev. A. H. Munro will not be able to meet the above class this evening. The Rev. T. Manning, B. A., has kindly consented to take his place, and it is hoped there will be a large attendance. The class is held at eight o'clock, in the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

New Water Column.

Another water column has arrived at the Ontario and Quebec station. It will be placed up the track 250 feet from George street, so that west bound trains will not necessarily stand at the intersection of the railway track and George street while the engine is being supplied with water. It will be supplied with water from the large tank which stands in the vicinity. The water column at the station will be used for supplying water to east bound engines.

More Thieves.

A resident of the South Ward reports that two sneak thieves entered his yard on Monday night and stole a number of his fowl. A noise was heard and the cowards, who took to their heels, were observed running through an adjacent lane. Any man having no more ambition than that of robbing a hen roost, deserves to be tarred, and to be feathered with the plumage of the stolen foul. The resident informs us that further attempts at the same place will be dangerous to the dastardly fellows.

WHITE AND GREY COTTONS, all qualities, at unusually low prices. Also a lot of Canton Flannel Sheets, cheap. J. ERSKINE.

Pauline Markham To-night.

The Montreal Star in speaking of Pauline Markham Theatrical Company, which will appear in Bradburn's Opera House to-night, says:—

"The Two Orphans was presented at the Royal Theatre Museum last night by the Pauline Markham Company for the last time to a crowded house. The phenominal success which has attended this engagement, when the wonderfully low prices are considered in connection with the class of the attraction, is not to be wondered at, and the only marvel is that such an attraction can possibly be offered at such low prices. Miss Markham is an actress of high order, and her part is characterized by a tone which justifies her in the claim to being one of the strongest emotional actresses on the American stage. The support was uniformally good, and decidedly better than the average travelling company."

The Montreal Gazette says:—

"The best evidence of the excellent nature of the performance given by the Pauline Markham Company at the Royal is to be found in the fact that, notwithstanding the two performances daily, hundreds have been unable to gain admittance so great has been the rush. Last night at a quarter to seven—the performance does not commence until eight—there was a crowd all across the street waiting for the opening the doors."

The company will appear to-night and to-morrow night at Bradburn's Opera House.

Complimentary Benefit.

Remember the complimentary benefit to Mr. Orm Dixon, the young and popular ventriloquist, on Thursday, Oct. 30th, at Bradburn's Opera House, where, in conjunction with local vocal and instrumental talent, Mr. Dixon will appear for the first time before a Peterborough audience in six years, during which time he has filled very successful engagements in all the principal theatres of the United States and Canada. We append a few of the many notices he has received:—

Orm Dixon kept the audience in a continual roar. His imitations are marvellous, and his vocal deceptive powers wonderful.—Toronto Sun.

One of the many features at the Park Theatre last night was Orm Dixon, who is an unusually clever ventriloquist and imitator.—Detroit Free Press.

Orm Dixon pleases even those who are tired of ventriloquals as a class.—Detroit News.

Orm Dixon with his remarkably clever ventriloquial performance and excellent imitations of a steamboat whistle, was a taking feature at the Colisseum.—Cincinnati Inquirer.

Orm Dixon gave a very fine performance of ventriloquism and was well received.—Boston Globe.

Orm Dixon in his ventriloqual specialties carried the house by storm.—Cincinnati Inquirer.

SERVICES AT ST. JOHN'S.

COMMEMORATION OF THE RE-OPENING OF THE PARISH CHURCH OF PETERBORO.

The Bishop of the Diocese and Many of His Clergy Assist—A Well Attended Mission Meeting—The Anniversary Services.

On Monday evening there was a very successful and well attended mission meeting in the Sunday School of St. John's Church, the unfavorable weather not preventing a large number of the congregation from being present, so that the building was well filled.

The RECTOR, the Rev. J. W. R. Beck, presided, and having opened the meeting with prayer, delivered an impressive address. He expressed his regret for the absence through illness of the Rev. W. F. Campbell, who had been expected.

The REV. DR. SMITHETT, of Omemee, Rural Dean of Haliburton, next addressed the meeting, giving his experience of mission work in his backwood rural deanery.

The VEN. J. S. LAUDER, Archdeacon of Ottawa, made a stirring appeal for aid in the missionary cause. He described the work that was being done in his diocese of Ontario, especially along the Upper Ottawa and the track of the C.P.R. He gave an account of the way in which they managed mission matters in his diocese. He dwelt on the duty of giving as an act of worship.

His Lordship the Bishop of Toronto, gave some statistics as to diocesan, domestic and foreign missions, showing that there had been an increase in the funds contributed for these purposes. He stated that the Mission Board had not had to refuse a single application for a grant. In fact the want of money was not their chief difficulty. For the pioneer missionary work they wanted young, active, unmarried men, but unfortunately the young men taking orders were not adequate in numbers for this work. He was glad to find that Peterborough was foremost in cordially accepting his scheme of parochial missionary associations, and had done so with much success. His Lordship expressed his appreciation of the services of the lady collectors and of Mr. and Mrs. Poussette in this respect. He concluded by discribing the great missionary efforts of the Church of England in the last fifty years, its great results being commesurate with modern progress in other respects. This missionary zeal had sprung from the spiritual revival in the church, and by its reaction had strengthened that revival.

Between the various addresses appropriate hymns were sung, and during one of them a collection was taken up by the churchwardens, Mr. A. P. Pousette and Dr. Geo. Burnham, the contributions being liberal.

The Rector called attention to the two celebrations at half past eight and eleven o'clock next morning, and the doxology having been sung, the Bishop dismissed the audience with the benediction.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.

This morning being the festival of S.S. Simon and Jude there were anniversary services at St. John's church to commemorate the re-opening and in thanksgiving for the progress of the church.

At half past eight o'clock, there was an early celebration of the Holy Communion, the celebrant being the Rev. J. W. Burke, Rector of Belleville, assisted by the Rev. J. W. R. Beck, Rector of Peterborough.

At eleven o'clock there was a morning service with a sermon, and the celebration of the Holy Communion.

While a processional hymn was being sung, His Lordship the Bishop of Toronto entered from the vestry, and proceeded through the church to the chancel with the surpliced choir and the clergy, among whom were the Ven. J. S. Lawder, Archdeacon of Ottawa, The Rev. Canon Du Moulin, Rector of St. James' Toronto, The Rev. J. W. R. Beck, Rector of Peterborough and Rural Dean, The Rev. W. T. Smithett, of Omemee, Rural Dean, The Rev. J. W. Burke, Rector of Belleville, The Rev. V. Clementi, the Rev. John Farncombe, Lakefield, the Rev. J. Gibson, Norwood, the Rev. P. Harding, Apsley, the Rev. A. J. Fiddler, Whitby, the Rev. R. H. Harris, Brighton, and the Rev. T. H. Angel, Haliburton.

The prayers were read by the Rev. J. W. Burke, Rector of Belleville, the first lesson by the Rev. John Farncombe, of Lakefield, and the second lesson by the Rev. J. Gibson, of Norwood.

The ante-communion service was read by the Bishop of the Diocese, the gospeller being the Rev. Canon DuMoulin, and the epistler the Rev. Dr. Smithett.

The sermon was preached by the Ven. Archdeacon Lauder, who took for his text:—"I speak concerning Christ and the Church." Ephesians v., 32. Describing the wickedness that had prevailed in spite of the abundance of preaching, he doubted whether the sermons had been sufficiently practical. The congregations were not sufficiently exhorted to a holy life, or rebuked for sins or shortcomings. Now, however, there was more than a dawn of greater earnestness. There were many manifestations of a revival in the church, of a thorough awakening, which he briefly described. Many congregations were not sufficiently acquainted with what was taking place, and the clergy might often do well to leave the sermon and explain to their flocks such changes as were being introduced for the good of the church. Our church was now much talked of, sometimes much blamed by those without it, but we had the satisfaction of knowing that this was a sign that we were stirring, and awaking from their lethargy those who were slumbering, as had unfortunately been too much the case. Earnest men were working to restore that use of the services of our church that had been too long neglected, and this was having the most beneficial results both here and in the old country. We happily had our synods in Canada to frame our own regulations, and now fortunately the Convocations of Canterbury and York were recovering their old power of discussing and considering the wants of the church, so that it was to be hoped that the old power of legislating for the church would be restored. In short the Church of England was alive and stirring, and had thrown off the inactivity which seems to have a charm for some minds. Even old prejudices should be respected, but they should not be allowed to stand in the way of the life, the progress, the work of the church. The church need fear nothing from without, what it had to fear was from within. All its members should unite to work for it, for the church and the Divine Head.

The Holy Communion was then administered his Lordship the Bishop of Toronto being the celebrant, assisted by the Rev. V. Clementi and the Rev. J. W. R. Beck.

The Bishop then pronounced the benediction and "Nunc Dimittis" was sung as a recessional.

The musical portion of the service was what might be expected from the organist Mr. C. W. Ewing and the excellent choir, an admirable and hearty semi-choral service of the Anglican type.

The Communion table, the entrance to the chancel, the font, &c., were beautifully decorated with flowering plants in vases, cut blossoms, ferns, autumn foliage and moss.

This evening there will be another service, when the sermon will be preached by the Rev. Canon Du Moulin, of St. James' Church, Toronto.

The collection in the evening, as in the morning, will be for the organ fund.

The following is the music selected for this evening:—

Hymns: 436, 275 and 435.

Psalms from Turle's Psalter: Ps. 136 and 137 to the 6th tone; Ps. 138 to Tonus Peregrinus.

Magnificat—Parisian chant (6th tone), alternate verses harmonized and unaccompanied.

Nunc Dimittis, Parisian chant (1st tone), harmonized and unaccompanied.

First anthem, "Gloria in Excelsis," from Mozart's 12th Mass.

Second anthem, "Lord of all Power and Might," Mason.

Number One.

The No. 1 Ward election is over and Mr. A. McNeil is returned by a handsome majority. All day Monday considerable intesest was felt throughout the town and in the Ward more directly interested the excitement ran high. At the close of the poll the ballot stood:—

Andrew McNeil	139
John McNaughton	107
Majority for McNeil	32

The number of votes cast were 246 and only one spoiled ballet was handed to the Deputy Returning Officer, it having been accidentally torn. Mr. Joseph Landy was the Deputy Returning Officer, was efficient in the work allotted to him, and Mr. Jas. G. Macdonald acted as pole clerk. In the evening the City Band proceeded to Mr. McNeil's residence for the purpose of serenadiug him. Sweet strains were indulged in for a short time and in the absence of Mr. McNeil his amiable spouse entertained them in a hearty and substantial way.

There are lots of people going around grumbling, and half sick at the Stomach all the time; who might be well and happy if they only used Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters occasionally. It is a splendid Blood Purifier. All Druggists, 50 cents.

"Calvert, Texas,

"I wish to express my appreciation of the valuable qualities of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

as a cough remedy.

"While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where, on asking for some remedy, I was urged to try AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

"I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the PECTORAL constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung diseases. J. W. WHITLEY."

Thousands of testimonials certify to the prompt cure of all bronchial and lung affections, by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily.

Daily Evening Review

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1884.

THE Montreal Times, which is laboring hard to deserve the name of the "Lower Canada Globe," a title that once belonged to the Herald, does not believe that Sir John Macdonald has gone to England on account of his health, because, it says, he had just returned from "a frolic at the seaside," where, it further says, he was able to entertain deputations, and to attend to important public business. The Times appears to have very odd ideas of frolicking. Does it mean that receiving deputations and attending to important public business is a simple kind of work that should be regarded as a pleasure? Or does work that would be laborious at Ottawa become a frolic when transacted at Reviere du Loup? Or does the Times mean that Sir John's great ability and large experience fits him so eminently for statesmanship that work that is trying on the constitution of others is to him as a pastime?

The Love of Society.

Ever since the creation of the human family the love of society has formed one of our strongest characteristics. It is society that forms the mental spring to the cultivation of the arts and sciences. It is society that gives actitude to the exercise of all our social enjoyments. It is the love of society that brings us together, to advise one with another as to the better mode of securing a more permanent basis upon which society may rest secure from the influence of temptation and be bold, be frank, and fear not what others may think so long as you are obeying the dictates of conscience. Remember that it is with our judgments as our watches; none go just alike, yet each believes his own, and that is the reason why so many agree in saying buy your oysters at Smith's.

SERVICES AT ST. JOHN'S.

COMMEMORATION OF THE RE-OPENING OF THE PARISH CHURCH OF PETERBORO.

The Bishop of the Diocese and many of his Clergy Assist—Eloquent Preachers—Grand Music—Hearty Service.

On Tuesday evening St. John's Church was filled with the congregation that assembled to attend the anniversary service.

The Bishop of the Diocese and a large number of his clergy, with the surpliced choir, entered from the vestry, and while a processional hymn was sung proceeded through the church to the chancel.

The Rev. J. W. Burke, Rector of Belleville, read the evening service, the Rev. P. Harding, Incumbent of Apsley, the first lesson, and the Rev. R. H. Harris, Incumbent of Brighton, the second lesson.

The Psalms for the evening were chanted from Turle's Psalster; Ps. 136 and 138 to the 6th tone, and Ps. 137 to Tonus Peregrinus. The Magnificat was chanted to the 1st Parisian tone, the alternate verses harmonized and unaccompanied, and the Nunc Dimittis to the Tonus Reginus, harmonized and unaccompanied. The grand anthem was the "Gloria in Excelsis" from Mozart's Twelfth Mass.

It might here be mentioned that the chanting of the Psalms was very effective, especially the 137th Psalm, "The Water of Babylon," to the Tonus Peregrinus.

The Rev. Canon DuMoulin, Rector of St. James', Toronto, preached from the text, "And are built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner stone; in whom all the building fitly framed together groweth unto an holy temple in the Lord." Ephesians ii., 20-1. He enlarged upon the idea of the Church as a building. The foundation was laid by the prophets and the apostles built it up, but only on Christ as the corner stone. The church has gone through ages of persecution, of torpor, of blasphemy, and this might be termed an unsettling age. The science, the literature, the thought of the age were all unsettling. There had been no age when there had been greater need of the assurance that the one firm foundation of the Church was Christ. The truths of Christianity were alone unshaken. The Church built upon this foundation was not to be overthrown; all assaults upon it were in vain. As our Saviour said, "Upon this rock I will build my Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." The preacher pointed out that we also learn from this text that this building, the Church, is compact, and held together on and by this strong foundation. Though marred by the schisms of men, it had unity, the outward signs of which were the Sacraments of our Lord's own appointment, Baptism and the Holy Communion. There was good reason to hope that there would be one united Church. The recent drawing together of branches of different denominations might be taken as a sign of this. Our own Church presented a fitting platform on which might unite all the sundered, scattered Christian bodies. Division weakened, while union strengthened, and when Christendom presents an unbroken front then the church would fulfil the ideal of its Lord. Finally he dwelt upon the "growth" that was ascribed to the church. It was increasing and growing, Christians being the living stones that were built into this temple. There was growth in knowledge, in territory, in number, and as was so well pointed out in the sermon of the morning, growth in the adaptability of our church to the wants of a changing world. Yes, our beloved church was growing, and so might it continue till the church militant became the church triumphant.

The Bishop pronounced the Benediction.

A second anthem was sung, Mason's "Lord of all Power and Might," the grand music being most admirably given.

His Lordship, with his clergy and the choir, then left the chancel and returned to the vestry while a recessional hymn was sung.

The musical portion of the services, including the voluntaries played by Mr. Ewing, the excellent organist, added at once a beauty and a heartiness to the whole series of anniversary services. The thankfulness of the congregation for the fine edifice, fitting accessories for worship, and beautiful and devotional services may be somewhat blunted through use, but should be revived again on such an occasion as this anniversary, on hearing the hearty approval and almost envy of so many of the visiting clergy from other places, few of which are so fortunate in these respects.

POLICE COURT.

LARCENY.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 29.—The John Ferguson watch stealing case came up this morning. It was again adjourned until to-morrow morning.

Matched Trot.

The matched trot, Fannie B. vs. Indian Billy, the former owned by Mr. E. Brown and the latter by Mr. E. Thompson, will take place on the Driving Park to-morrow afternoon. No doubt the race will be interesting. Fanny B. has beaten all her opponents thus far, but it is expected that this race will be very close.

WOLSELEY'S PLANS.

CAIRO, Oct. 28.—The plan of Lord Wolseley's expedition to Khartoum furnishes him a total force of 8,500 English troops. He will take 5,000 of these to Dongola, leaving a reserve corps of 3,500 at Wady Halfa. The Mudir of Dongola has promised to furnish a contingent of 3,000 men, composed of members of mercenary tribes, armed with Remington rifles. If an advance force is deemed necessary beyond Dongola, reserves will be pushed on from Wady Halfa. Several Sheikhs are escorting Lord Wolseley from Wady Halfa to Ambigol.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD.

His Health Almost Completely Restored—No Cause for Anxiety.

A special despatch from London to the Mail says:—Sir John Macdonald, who has been in England now several days, has consulted Sir Andrew Clark, the distinguished London physician, and the result of his diagnosis of the Premier's condition will relieve the anxiety of his host of friends and admirers. Dr. Clark declares that the right hon. gentleman has no chronic or organic disease, and that his malady is comparatively trifling. He has prescribed for Sir John Macdonald, and already the health of his patient is almost entirely restored.

TERRIBLE TYPHOON.

Yokohama Devasted—Many Vessels Wrecked and Hundreds of Lives lost.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 28.—A steamer from China and Japan brings further details of the great typhoon on September 15. The storm came up so rapidly and with such tremendous fury that no precautions could be taken. The entire lower part of Yokohama was completely wrecked. Not a house was left standing. The inhabitants fled for their lives to escape drowning from the rushing waters driven on land by the fury of the wind. In the higher portions of the city several of the largest and most substantial buildings were swept away, as if built of pastboard. In that section 128 houses were destroyed and 390 damaged. The loss of life on shore is less than at sea. Out of about 80 sailing vessels 53 were lost with 223 persons. Twelve vessles with 120 persons, are missing. Of five lifeboats that went to the rescue of the drowning crews four were swamped, and ten persons drowned. The typhoon was the severest since 1870.

Obituary.

Another old landmark has been removed. We regret to chronicle the death of Mr. William Malcolm, one of our oldest and most respected citizens. Mr. Malcolm was born in Stirling, Scotland, in 1802 and came to this country in 1842. He settled in Peterborough and embarked soon after in the watchmaking and jewellery trade, and about 1848 he and his son, William, opened out a foundry on Simcoe street. He had three of a family, one daughter and two sons, of which there is but one surviving, Mrs. John Simm, of this town. The deceased was a man of sterling principles, he took an active part in public matters and enjoyed the respect of his fellow citizens. His death will be regretted by a large circle of acquaintances. He was 82 years of age.

Returned from the Lakes.

A deer hunting party consisting of Messrs. R. A. Morrow, G. B. Sproule, H. C. Winch, R. B. Lundy and A. Sawers have returned from their ten days sport in the neighbourhood of Eagle Lake. They had with them a pack of hounds numbering six, with Mr. Simpson in charge. They were very successful in their hunt, having slain eleven deer during their stay. Coming down a thrilling episode occurred. While passing Gull Lake they espied a young man named Windowver in a canoe on the lake in quest of a deer. As he fired his gun the canoe upset. Our "heroes" at once set out in canoes and reached the man just as he was about to give up and sink. He was taken to a neighboring shanty, where, after being chafed for some time, and strengthened with invigorating draughts, he revived.

Silks! Silks!

Ladies are advised to watch for T. Kelly's silk announcement in to-morrow's DAILY REVIEW. Mr. Kelly's store has always had a favourable reputation for silk goods, and perhaps the fact that the goods are always honestly represented has contributed to this very valuable virtue of reliability.

Canadians Officially Thanks.

OTTAWA, Oct. 28.—A despatch has been received by the Governor General from the Colonial Office expressing the thanks of the Imperial Government of Canada for the assistance rendered in connection with the Canadian contingent to the Nile expedition for the relief of General Gordon.

Not another Pill shall go down my throat again, said a citizen, "when I can get such a prompt and pleasant cure for my Bilious attacks, as Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. It renders the Blood Pure and Cool and makes a splendid Spring Medicine. Large Bottles 5 cents.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning? The signal perhaps of the approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cts., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough it never fails. This explains why more than a million bottle were sold the past year. It relieves croup or whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. Daily Evening Review

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1884.

THE BLAKE POLICY.

As not only Conservatives, but Independents and even Reformers, have been commenting upon the fact that Mr. Blake has not condescended to lay before the people his policy, if he has such an article, the Globe makes a melancholy attempt to supply the omission.

We may remark that we are not sure whether the Globe is authorized thus to speak for Mr. Blake. Some months ago the Globe represented Mr. Blake's policy as being to buy up wholesale and with the public money the whole representation of Quebec. Mr. Blake, after waiting to see the effect of the Globe's offer in his name, and finding it a failure, repudiated his agent. He may do so now.

However that may be, this Globe-Blake policy is not likely to have much attraction for the electors. Much of it consists of grandiloquent generalities so vague as to have little practical value. Another large portion is only abuse of his political opponents, which he has already been told is not sufficient, for the people want to know what he proposes to do himself. Some of the heterogeneous clauses of this farango are very hard upon one of Mr. Blake's allies. We learn that Mr. Blake, if he could only get power, would not imitate Mr. Mowat in such matters as setting Province against Province, gerrymandering the constituencies, or employing such an agent as his friend Lynch.

It is gratifying to learn that Mr. Blake (if it is Mr. Blake) has learned something while in Opposition. He would not if—oh, if—he could only get power again, veto local legislation, as he did when in office. He would make the Senate elective, not clamour for power to make more Senators, as he did while in office. He would not spend public money to import mechanics and operatives as he did while in office. He would reduce the public expenditure, though he increased it while in office. He would people the North-West with prosperous, happy settlers, though he left it uninhabited while in office. He would develop Canada's immense resources, though he preferred to develop those of other countries, as he did while he was in office. He would not attach men to him by bribery, though both at Toronto and Ottawa he bribed with public money and office Conservatives to sit in council with him. In fact, it is seen that his only chance of obtaining popular favor is to reverse his policy while in office.

This, however, would be more satisfactory if the country had not already tried Mr. Blake and found him to be much better at promising than performing. We remember, for instance, that Mr. Blake, when in Opposition once before, thought thirteen Cabinet Ministers too many for Canada, and then took office as a fourteenth Cabinet Minister.

The people shake their heads in doubt and prefer so continue to trust Conservative statesmen upon whom they can rely.

THAT $5,000 AFFAIR.

Our Ontario contemporaries of the Grit persuasion persist in stating that Mr. Mercier simply obtained his costs in the famous five thousand dollar affair, and that he is in no way, therefore, guilty of having obtained a sum of money on condition of having abandoned a petition for the disqualification of a political opponent. That is Mr. Mercier's latest defence, his first being that he never received the five thousand dollars at all, and that the charge against him in La Minerve was, as he stated to Star reporter, the first he had heard of it. Unfortunately, however, the facts are against this theory, and the evidence of Mr. Mercier's own friends literally knocks the bottom out of it. Mr. Trudel's evidence is very emphatic, and although an attempt has been made to discredit his testimony, it is sustained by Mr. Mercier's own "life and death" letter to his friend, Mr. Langelier. Mr. Doutre's testimony, in which, to the astonishment of most people, he elevated blackmail to a position among the cardinal virtues, declaring that the amount to be demanded must depend upon the importance and ability of the victim, was equally emphatic. Mr. L. O. David, who was chief negotiator in the whole transaction, when counsel asked him, "This sum of $5,000 would therefore not have "been paid to Mr. Mercier if he had not dis- "continued the action for disqualification," answered promptly and laconically "Certainly not." While the Hon Mr. Laflamme, certainly not an unfriendly witness, said in his evidence:

"The consideration for the abandonment of the proceedings for disqualification was the sum of $5,000. I do not approve of the sale of a contestation, but such things are done. It is a sale, if there is a consideration in money. In the present case the amount over and above the costs was the consideration of the abandonment of the action for disqualification. According to my judgment it is not proper to abandon a contestation for money."

That is not only an admission but a condemnation. Mr. Laflamme declined to go as far as Mr. Doutre, and become not simply the apologist for, but the advocate of, the system of blackmail in politics, and he accordingly contented himself by putting in a plea of extenuation, namely, that such things are done. He was quite right in this. The same thing was done by Mr. Mercier in the $3,800 case, which the Patrie described as "a job which would rest as a blot upon his character as a public man," and which both the Witness and Mr. Trenholme denounced as utterly unworthy of a man who claimed to be the leader of a party. There is no escape from the case with Mr. Mercier. Those who, like Mr. Doutre, believe in blackmail as a political weapon, may condone the offence, but there can be no justification for him with honest men.—Montreal Gazette.

SWAN'S CORNERS, OTONABEE.

CARD OF THANKS.—The ladies of Otonabee, who held the social at the Grange Hall, Swan's Corners, on the 21st Oct. in aid of the building fund of St. Peter's Cathedral, beg leave to offer their sincere thanks to their numerous friends who attended. A great number contributed liberally and cheerfully. We also thank our neighbors for their liberal patronage in attending and granting special favors, not forgetting our Peterborough friends, who so earnestly endeavored to make the social a success, especially Mr. M. Tierney, who so successfully conducted the concert which was given. The committee realized the handsome sum of $186. Signed on behalf of the Committee. THOS. EGAN.

A Lunatic Runs Away.

ACTON VALE, Que., Oct. 27.—On Thursday last, Messrs. Henderson and Lapointe arrived here from Aultsville, Ontario, by the 10.15. p. m. train. They had with them a man named Denis Cartier, who said he had come form St. Michel de Yamaska. The latter seemed to be rather troubled in his mind. During the night, in spite of the strict watch of his two guardians, the poor lunatic disappeared from the Richelieu hotel, were he was kept by his two companions. He had no clothes on except his trousers, shirt and stockings. Search is being made at Acton Vale and in the neighbouring municipalities, but up to this time without any success. Any information would be received with gratitude by Mad. Cartier, at St. David de Yamaska, or by Mr. D. Forget, lawyer, of Acton Vale.

AWFUL MINE DISASTER.

Twenty-Five Miners Entombed by an Explosion of Gas.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 27.—An explosion of fire damp occurred at the mine of the Youngstown Coke Company, four miles from here, between four and five o'clock this evening, on a flat where 25 men were at work. The fire boss made his rounds as usual this morning and discovered no sign of gas. The explosion shattered the windows for a mile around. Five minutes later there was a second report, and immediately after flames burst forth from the opeging, blocking the avenues of entrance. The news of the disaster spread quickly, and the relatives of the doomed miners gathered around the mouth of the mine, but the flames prevented any attempt to rescue. After an hours work the flames were subdued sufficiently to descend by way of the air shaft. So far volunteers are able only to reach part of the mine, owing to after damp. It is feared the entire roof of the flat has fallen in. If so, none of the miners at work there can be saved. The men in other parts of the mine who escaped in the explosion attempted to rescue their companions, but thus far are unable to reach them. The killed and injured discovered to this writing are:—Joseph Seebleys, killed; J. Lopes, killed; J. Cole and D. Cole, fatally injured; Chauncey Wilson, slightly injured.

LATER.—Washington Kebber has just been rescued. He had the presence of mind to lie down in a pool of water and avoided inhaling the gas. So far six have been taken out, two dead and four injured. Every effort is being made to rescue the others, but up to a late hour to-night unsuccessfully. There is scarcely a chance for any of them to be taken out alive, as it is thought all have perished from the deadly after damp before this. The air in the vicinity of the mine is filled with the cries of the wives and children of the imprisoned men. There are plenty of willing hands and hearts ready to rescue them, but it is impossible to get at them before the morning.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 28.—The worst fears touching the fate of the men imprisoned in the coal mine have been realized. Six miners were taken out last evening soon after the disaster. Two were dead and two fatally wounded. A search for the remainder was continued throughout the night, and by this morning the bodies of twelve of them had been brought out and delivered to their relatives. It is not known whether there are any more in the mine, but it is believed all have been found. It cannot be stated whether the explosion is the result of the carelessness of the company or not. The miners allege that it was. The mine was considered a dangerous one. The miners claim the fire boss was incompetent.

THE CANADIAN CONTINGENT ON THE WAY TO KHARTOUM.

A Pen Picture of Gibraltar—Incidents of the Voyage—The Arrival at the Land of the Pharaohs.

ON BOARD THE OCEAN KING,
MEDITERRANEAN SEA,
Oct. 1st, 1884.

"Oh Calpe and Abyla! great landmarks of the ages past,
Towering to Heaven so stern, and so grand,
Whose shadows have great histories o'er cast;
Grim sentinels of Europe and of Africa's land—
The Carthaginian and the moor,
Abyla, have been sheltered on thy shore,
And Calpe, once the key to ancient, glorious Spain,
How seared thy brow, with efforts—all in vain
To stem the Moslem horde, who drenched the sunny plains with gore, &c."

DEAR EDITOR,—Lest I should be promoted to the elevated literary position of Poet Laureate to Peterborough, I shall come down from Parnassus and mount old Gib.

I closed my last as we were entering Gibraltar Bay, and with all the noise, dust and dirt of coaling could not get a chance to write again while there. On the 29th ult. we drew up beside a coal hulk and the deck was soon swarming with Hybrid Spaniards vulgarly called Rock Scorpions.

Boats drew alongside and we were all allowed to go ashore. The first dive was for the money brokers, where we found considerable difficulty in getting our Canadian currency changed for the circulating medium in use on the Rock, and owing to our ignorance of the respective values of Canadian and Spanish monies we were cheated to our hearts' content.

Looking from the ship the Rock presents a grand sight, towering above us 1,400 feet, so steep in many places that a goat could scarcely find footing or climb its sides. The town is at the foot of the hill and has a large population of civilians and five or six thousand soldiers. The buildings are of stone and brick, with tile roofs. The streets are from 10 or 12 feet to 20 or 25 in width, and very irregular. You climb from one street to another on great stone steps and in some places make your way through winding lanes paved with very small stone. The town proper appears spotlessly clean (thanks I should say to British rule and strict sanitary laws) no dust or dirt, and, to use a common saying, you might eat off the road you walk on.

The city is divided into two parts, one to the north and one to the south, between these subdivisions lies the Almeida or Park, which, in the evening time, is the grand promenade where all sorts of sparks are glowing, from the fire flies, cigar and cigarette ends and pipe bowls, and it seems like profanation to add in this connection from the bright eyes of the Spanish ladies, whose dark lithe forms in their black dresses and heads covered with the graceful mantilla glide more than walk through its leafy avenues, plying their fans with a dexterity that would make a New York or Saratoga belle get too utterly too too with envy.

In the centre of the Almeida is placed a one hundred ton gun which with others of like proportions plentifully distributed on every vantage ground of the Rock command the straits and being worked by machinery, they can be brought to bear on any part of the harbour or gut, as the straits are vulgarly called. The rock seems absolutely bristling with cannon, from the 24 pounder to the 100 ton rifle; from the level of the water to the extreme summit in every conceivable and inconceivable place are guns; in great holes and caves hewn out of the rock, masked by grassy glaces or standing out defiantly through the great granite embrasures on the line or sea wall, more than a thousand of these death dealers, are guarding the greatest strong-hold in the world, a fortress which has stood three sieges since 1704 when it first became British property the last and greatest having been spun out for three years.

In the north point of the rock commanding the neck of land or sand which connects it with Spain and is called the neutral ground, I believe, is a great chamber hewn out of the solid Rock fifteen feet high, and large enough to contain 600 men, the floor is dressed and polished with embrasures in the east, west and north sides the guns of which command the Spanish main and the waters of Gibraltar and Catalan Bays.

From this chamber you go up a narrow shaft, dark as midnight, by a winding stair until you reach the highest point on the northern face, when there is another fort and from whence the view that bursts on the sight is so grand that it would be almost desecration on my part to attempt its description.

I never expected that it would fall to my lot to see such a glorious panorama, a panorama not made with the artistic touches of the painter, but one made by the great Architect of the Universe, God omnipotent. To the south and east the ever blue Mediterranean, dotted here and there with the white canvas of fishing smacks and sailing vessels of large tonnage. To the north the Serra Morena with its tops hid in dark and frowning clouds, at your feet the quarantine ground or neck of land I spoke of before, and the town of Lena with its arena, where the Spaniards hold their periodical bull fights, in the distance the town of San Roque on the top of a hill as high as Gib, on our western side, the two towns so closely built with their narrow streets and lanes that from the height we viewed them, they looked like one vast huge building, and the Bay and harbour filled with vessels and boats of every size imaginable, from the little steam yacht to the ponderous men-of-war both British and Spanish, and in the far western side of the Bay about seven miles across, a small town Algesiras, nestling at the foot of a mountain, like a patch of snow on a drab background, and in the dim distance southwards the shores of Morocco, the land of the Moor, and the Island of Ceuta, eleven miles or so across from the Rock, garrisoned I hear by Spaniards. If Great Britain only had a hold of it, I should like to be a witness (perched out of gun shot you may be sure, under the shelter of some friendly crag) to all the combined fleets of Europe trying to force their way through under the fire of British guns manned by British soldiers or sailors. I think they would get left—at the bottom of the sea.

From the top of the Rock I could hurl a stone into the very clouds, which were not more than twenty or thirty feet over my head.

In doing the city the boys were under the guidance of the soldiers, who used them with all possible kindness. One of the 23rd Fusileers, named Higgins, acted as pilot to our foreman, Mr. Anderson, and myself, and on parting presented me with a razor and a comb, in memoriam of our visit. Everywhere and by everyone we met we were welcomed and hospitably treated.

We all got on board that night and next morning no one was allowed on shore, as Col. Denison had received a telegram that Lord Wolseley was anxiously awaiting our arrival, and could not proceed without us.

"In the years to come, in our snow capped land,
Many a tale will be told of the voyageur band
Who left their loved, their native land,
To die, may hap, on the desert sand,
For the rescue of General Gordon."

The 30th Sept. was spent in lolling about the decks, and by a dozen of us in a grand bathe in the Bay, which we continued until the Colonel stopped us, for the captain of the steamer had told him that an American sailor had been killed last summer by a shark while enjoying himself the same way. The water is very clear and buoyant, and you can see to a great depth. Thousands of small fish swarmed around us, and a curious looking genus of jelly fish, from the size of my hand to that of a pail, was particularly noticeable. At the crown it was shaped like a toadstool, and that part looked as if it was made of blanche mange, or corn starch, as you could see through it, and in the centre it appeared to be filled with a substance like sponge; it had long string-like fibres, or feelers, wriggling behind it. Some of the smaller ones stung a few of the boys, causing a swelling and a stinging sensation, such as produced by nettles, for some time.

The smaller kinds of fish are very beautiful; some purple, with silver spots, some red, some green, white, and blue; the colors ever changeable and beautiful.

Some of the men brought liquor on board and two brothers from Ottawa raised a disturbance and got over the side into the ship's boat, and tried to cast off the painter (not this painter, mind), and they acted in a most disgraceful manner, abusing the officers very shamefully. At last nine of the station police tried to capture them, but they were too many for the Spaniards, who had to take to their own boat again. Not but they might have succeeded in making prisoners of them, but their comrades on the steamer commenced forcing their way past the officers, and the police got afraid, and well they might, for they seemed more like demons than men.

After a while the men were persuaded to come out of the boat and come on board, and to-day they were fined two dollars each. Another man from Ottawa insulted Captain McCrae and one of the officers of garrison while on shore here. The colonel decided to dismiss him (for he had previously created a disturbance at Sidney by insulting a school mistress), but the men pleaded hard for him and he was allowed to remain.

At 5 p.m. on the 30th Sept. we bade good-bye to Gibraltar and soon were ploughing the blue waters of the Mediterranean. The sun soon went down and then followed one of the loveliest nights I ever experienced—a faint breeze could be just felt, but the sea was as calm as our Little Lake. The brilliancy of the moon was almost startling—it was something we might have read of, have thought of, have dreamed of, but the experience had a charm that made me forget there was such a thing as sleep and the wee small hours were creeping on when I sought my berth.

OCT. 1ST.—At noon we were keeping about 10 miles off the Algerian coast, and were 202 miles from the rock. 36.25 N. L., 1.15 W. Long.

OCT. 2ND.—5 miles north of Cape Bengat in Algeria. Passed three or four large towns or cities this morning too far off to estimate their size. When off Bengat I got a telescope and had a good view of a walled town with a large square built castle above it.

A chain of mountains, the Atlas, I suppose, follows the coast of Africa; some of them must be many thousand feet high, as their tops were quite lost in the clouds. Our run for the past 24 hours, to noon to-day, was 256 miles.

FRIDAY, 3rd Oct.—At noon we were 8 miles off the Fratelli Rocks, a small group—we ran between them and the coast; about two miles from the shore were two giant pillars of rocks springing up from the sea in solitary grandeur, looking like the dread sentinels of The Inferno,—nothing else can I compare this coast to. Sterile and rugged, with its great mountains frowning on the bleak stretches of yellow and black shadowy valleys—a scorched and adust land.

Nothing of interest has occurred since yesterday. One solitary bird with hardly enough vim in it to flap its wings crossed our wake, and a few flying fish disported themselves around us, I suppose because they had nothing else to do. Wind sails have been put down all the hatchways and awnings are stretched over the decks for the comfort of the men, and really I think, for such a wild lot, we are well used. The grub is not bad and we have no cause to grumble. Our Peterborough boys are all well and are all getting surprisingly fat except myself. But you know I am one of "the lean kine," and I intend to investigate the matter closely "in the land I am going to" and see if I am a lineal descendant from that peculiar class mentioned in Joseph and Pharaoh's time.

The Ottawa man Edge, who was so ill, is getting along first rate, and will soon be as sound as ever. Last night through some unexplained cause the engines got heated, and the vessel had to lie too for a couple of hours. Distance last 24 hours, 255 miles.

Oct. 4,—Made 275 miles last 24 hours to noon. When we were 8 miles from Valetta, the chief city of Malta, and the famous stronghold "of the knights of old," after ten last night, passed many vessels both under steam and canvas going in all directions. At 7 p.m., the troop ship Creole passed us bound for Alexandria with 600 men on board. She must have been going fully 15 knots an hour or she could not have passed us so easily. About 8 bells we passed two mountainous islands off Cape Bonita; both had revolving lights.

At sunrise this morning we passed a large steamer that we were overhauling all night. We were too far off Malta as we passed to make much out of it, it seemed rocky shored and tabled topped. We were somewhat disappointed in not touching there.

3 p.m.—Are quite out of sight of Malta. Some of the boys complain of the heat, but as it is only 103 in the shade I feel rather comfortable myself. After tea Surgeon-Major Nelson gave us a lecture on the danger of intemperance in the east, and the probable effect it would have on a man raised in a cool climate. He dwelt on all the dangers we may be subject to, and the lecture, both interesting and instructive, was wound up by an appeal to the men to pledge themselves against taking any more than the Government allowance, and I feel pleased to say that the majority of the contingent did so.

The lecture over, we amused ourselves by dancing and a game called shove the slipper, and being a man of most philantropical tendencies I would advise all of my friends in particular and the public generally, who may be inclined through curiosity or recklessness to try that very enjoyable pastime, to provide themselves with a copper-plated pair of breeches. Dear friends you'll need them,

After the fun some of us adjourned to the bow and found that a chunk had been knocked out of the moon while we were fooling. It was full and brilliant in the early eve. But now all hands turned up to view a total eclipse of fair Luna. In a short time we were in darkness and the phosphorescent shimmerings of the ocean had full sway. The spray dashed from our bows looked like showers of stars set in a cloud of foam while our wake seemed as if it was lit up with millions of flashing, glittering, dancing diamonds.

Our days are delightful, indeed, but the nights, oh, the lovely nights! they are beyond description.

To-night as the sun was setting in the west the full moon arose from the east and for the first time in my life I saw the moon rise gradually from and the sun apparently sink into the sea—as if they were connected by a bar and we were the pivot on which it swung.

Oct. 5th.—Another glorious morn, with its boundless track of sunlight stretched like a golden awning over the blue, dancing waves. Great masses of white and violet clouds with, here and there, a vista as if you could look up right into the heaven of heavens—and then a change came; as I looked to the south a great pall, as it were, of grey lead and cloud, stooping down to the sea with a still dark strip across the horizon, met my sight—so strange, so dread in its weird like appearance—I asked one of the sailors what caused this phenomenon and he told me that it was a waterspout with its base hidden by intervening clouds. I tell you that such scenes and sights as we meet on our voyage awaken thoughts and feelings in a man's heart that won't tend to demoralize him very much in his after life.

266 miles in the last twenty-four hours, and in 34.24 N. L. 19.35 L. Everything calm and not a ripple. Dublin, as we call our crazy Irishman, rigged up an elephant and a camel, and I assure you the likeness was good as well as laughable.

The Colonel had divine service for the Protestant portion of the contingent, and the Priest for the R. Catholics on the 5th.

6th Oct.—At noon to-day made 262 miles, 32.44 N. L., 23.24 E. L. Nothing of any account to-day.

7th Oct.—Up at sunrise. At ten o'clock we were ordered on deck with our kits, which were all examined to see that we had not any more than our regulation allowance of clothes.

This afternoon we were all in eager expectation of seeing land, and we sighted it at 3 p.m., but before the land proper was visible we could see away on the starboard bow an object which some say is Pompey's Pillar, but I could get nothing reliable about it. Soon the long, low, flat shore came in view, and we could see Alexandria in the distance, with a great city's usual companion, a black pall of smoke over head.

A pilot soon came out and took charge of the ship. I climbed into the rigging and from there had a fine view of the city and surrounding country. As we approach the shore on the right is a large fort commanding the mouth of the harbor and the offing, and almost in front of us is an immense building that required no description to tell us its use. For any one who has read anything of eastern countries could tell that it was a Mosque, with its immense dome, its many pinnacles and minarets, and I could almost fancy I heard the Muezzin about his Allah il Allal—God is great, come to prayer.

The shore as you enter the harbor is very rough and seems to be chiefly hammocks of rocks studded with round Martello towers and near the city the same form of building seems to prevail very much, and the huge revolving fans inform you that "there is corn in Egypt" and that they are grinding it there. To the left as we enter the harbor is a grand breakwater forming the sea side of the harbor, it is built with great square blocks of dressed stone, but they are not laid one on the other like regular built masonry, but piled on every way and any way, showing a a rough side to the sea, and now the dark skinned boatmen are alongside in their wide pants and fez caps. They are as a rule better looking than some copper skins I have seen elsewhere and some of them have very picturesque costumes indeed. The quays are built of solid stone and the warehouses of corrugated iron. We are now moved alongside the quay and sentries are placed to guard the ship. Real sentries this time and no mistake, and the gleaming of the cold steel seems to chase away all chance of exploring the city, several officers of rank have just come on board but I cannot tell their rank or names, the bustle and excitement consequent on our arrival renders it impossible to gain any information. At 7 p.m. 12 men were picked out to go ahead and cook for us. We are now being served out with ammunition, boots, and helmets.

Night is on us and I cannot give any description of the town. We start in the morning for Cairo. Two thousand troops go on to night and more to-morrow, it is reported that the rebels have retaken Berber and that Gordon is again hemmed in. But we will fetch him out for you. I must close now and trust that you will not criticise my correspondence too severely as I write under very great disadvantages, not the least of which is my hand being more used to the brush than the pen, I will write from Cairo if at all possible. Good-bye for this time, but I must tell you before I close that all the men feel now that the eyes of their countrymen not only in Canada, but all the world over are upon them, that the honor of their country is at stake, and that they all to a man are determined to do their duty as men, and leave a record that Canada may be proud of.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Their Address.

The address of the members of the Canadian Contingent in Egypt, as furnished by Col. Lambert, is as follows:—"Alexandria, Egypt, care of Col. Dennison, Canadian Contingent. To be forwarded."

The Voters' List.

As will be seen by reference to a notice in another column, His Honor Judge Dennistoun will hold a Court of Revision on the Voters' list for 1844, at the Council Chamber, on Saturday, November 8th next. There are only twelve appeals, mainly for changes of residence or property.

To-Morrow Night.

The public are again reminded that the complimentary benefit, arranged by the friends of, and to be accorded to, Mr. Orm. Dixon, will be held in Bradburn's Opera House to-morrow night. The people should turn out in large numbers and hear Mr. Dixon, who has wonderfully improved in the art of ventriloquism since his departure from Peterborough a few years ago.

Musical Entertainment and Hop.

The ladies of No. 2 Ward, who are so actively engaged in the work of the R. C. Bazaar, are making arrangements for a musical entertainment which will take place on the evening of Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, Nov. 6th, in the Murray Street Separate School. The preparations which are being made warrant us in saying that it will be the best of the season, so far. An oyster supper and hop will be given at the close of the entertainment. Further particulars will be given in a few days.

Fire on King Street.

Shortly after 12 o'clock on Tuesday night a fire was discovered at the residence of Mr. J. D. McIlmoyle, on King street. The fire alarm was rung, and the firemen at once turned out. They proceeded to the house but the services of the engine happily were not required. The fire arose from a defective flue and was put out by water being dashed on it from pails. The damage to the house will not be large, but that to the furniture will be considerable. The loss is covered by insurance.

Fire at the Golden Lion.

On Tuesday evening at about five o'clock a fire occurred in the millinery department of the dry goods store of Messrs. Fair, VanEvery & Co. The large floral cross, so much admired of late, which was formed by flowers being trained around the gas fittings, caught fire from the gas jet. In an instant the cross was enveloped in flames and reduced to ashes. Water was at once brought to bear on the flames through the hose attached to the water works, and the fire was soon drowned out. The loss is about $100.

The Two Orphans.

The Pauline Markham Company presented "The Two Orphans" in Bradburn's Opera House on Tuesday evening. The notice given of their coming was a short one, and the audience was limited. The play is well known and usually draws large houses. On this occasion it was well put on the boards, and the company is a strong one. The principal parts were taken by actors and actresses of ability, and the support was good throughout. The hearty, frequent and long continued applause showed that the audience was more than satisfied. This evening the company will appear again in "The Ticket of Leave Man."

Y. M. C. A.

The Finance Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association are now canvassing the town for funds to meet their current expenses for the ensuing year. The amount needed (including a deficit from last year) is about $1,300. Any who are not called on, and who would like to help the Association in its work, are asked to kindly notify any member of the committee or the Secretary of the Association. The committee are Messrs. J. F. Jeffers, D. B. Gardner, Dr. Fife, J. C. Turnbull, M. Millar, W. W. Johnson, Sheriff Hall, J. F. Holden, W. J. Munro, M. Cummings, J. Richardson, W. A. Smith, A. W. Jones. As the rooms at present occupied by the Association, and for so long a time given free of charge by Mr. Cox, are needed for other purposes, it is necessary for the Association to secure rooms elsewhere. They will endeavour to secure premises better suited to their work, and in doing so, will, of course, find it necessary to incur increased current expenses.

WHITE AND GREY COTTONS, all qualities, at unusually low prices. Also a lot of Canton Flannel Sheets, cheap. J. ERSKINE.

A HANDSOME DEPOT.

The New Ontario & Quebec Railway Station Almost Completed.

So great has been the change in the appearance of the lower part of George street during the past year that a resident departing from town one year ago, and returning to-day, would scarcely recognize the locality between Wolfe and Dalhousie streets. Instead of the weary waste overgrown with thistles and weeds and forming a refuse dumping ground all is now life and activity.

Since the advent of the Ontario & Quebec Railway to Peterborough numerous improvements have been made on their property in the above mentioned vicinity. New tanks and water columns have been erected, a large freight shed was built last spring, and now one of the finest stations on the line is nearly finished. A waiting room will be opened in a few days and the rest of the building will be ready for occupation in about two weeks.

The station is one storey high, 100 x 35 feet. The upper part of the foundation, consisting of broken ashlar stone, rises three and a half feet above the platform. The walls upwards consist of white brick. The roof is covered with black and green slate arranged in tasteful patterns. There are four gables, one facing to the north, one to the south, one to the east, and one to the west, each of which is faced with ornamentally cut black slate. On the top of the building, cresting of a pretty design runs along the main roof and the gables. It is painted blue and tipped with gold.

The building contains six rooms, viz., gentlemen's waiting room, ladies' waiting room, ladies' lavatory, ticket office, parcel office and baggage room.

The entire place inside is wainscotted six feet high with the very best quality of pine. The windows are of two sizes, the large size 9x5 feet and the small size 9x3 feet. They are all ornamented at the top by fanlights of different colored glass, and have sills and lintels of cut limestone. The doors are also ornamented at the top by little windows of colored glass having a bulls-eye centre pieces. The rooms have each a 16 ft. ceiling.

The gentlemen's waiting room is a spacious apartment 32x32. It is situated at the west end of the building. The wainscotting is finished in oil and varnish and is capped by heavy mouldings. There are four large sized windowns in it and also two doors, one facing the south and one the north. The ceiling is ornamented with heavy cornices and a heavy plaster of paris centre piece, all of hard finish. The ladies' waiting room is 32x22, with two large sized windows and two doors, one facing north and one facing south. The wainscotting is similar to that of the gentlemen's waiting room and the finish of the ceiling is also similar. Adjoining this room is the ladies' lavatory. It is 10 x 10 with two small sized windows. It is fitted with marble. Between the two waiting rooms, and facing the south, is the ticket office. It is 10 x14, with a square bay window in front. The ticket wickets (one for each room) are 2½x2½, and are finished in black walnut. Immediately in the rear of the ticket office is a small parcel room 10x10. The baggage room is 24x32. The wainscotting is painted green, and the ceiling is finished, as becomes the room, in a plain manner.

The heating will be done by coal stoves and the lighting by gas. Handsome gasoliers will be placed in the waiting rooms, and suitable office fittings will also be put in.

At the south side the roof extends over the platform a distance of 8 feet, and at either end of the station it forms a projection of 16 feet. The platform running all the way around the building is 16 feet broad.

The building is a credit to the contractor and architect. It is convenient, commodious, and no doubt it will well serve the purpose for which it is intended. The company have, during the past year, spent fully $12,000 in buildings and other improvements on their property in Peterborough. Messrs. Wm. Hood & Son, Montreal, are the contractors for the station.

To the Musical Public.

D. Smart has now a complete stock of American sheet music, quartette folios, anthem books, and a choice selection of popular piano music from the well-known publishers, P. Bainard & Sons, Cleveland and Chicago.

How to Deal with Fits.

1. If the man with the fit has on a new hat, and you have an old one, always change hats with him. This relieves the pressure on the head.

2. If it happens to be a convivial looking tramp, remark in a loud tone: "It's too bad, but there's not a drop of brandy in the crowd." In nine cases out of ten, he will then walk off using healthy, coherent, and muscular Anglo-Saxon.

3. Should the patient only have a slight attack and retain conciousness, tell him it is not fitting for him to act so. This will undoubtedly make him get up and take off his coat. Then run.

4. In case the man is a school teacher, two of his pupils will be dilated; the rest will be elated.

5. Give him plenty of air, this kind of generosity is inexpensive. Open his mouth. Then get a stretcher. If he won't open his mouth, get a glove-stretcher; that'll make him.

6. Carry him in to McNEIL'S Fashionable Tailoring Establishment where no man was ever known to come out without a "Fit."

Complimentary Benefit.

Remember the complimentary benefit to Mr. Orm Dixon, the young and popular ventriloquist, on Thursday, Oct. 30th, at Bradburn's Opera House, where, in conjunction with local vocal and instrumental talent, Mr. Dixon will appear for the first time before a Peterborough audience in six years, during which time he has filled very successful engagements in all the principal theatres of the United States and Canada. We append a few of the many notices he has received:—

Orm Dixon kept the audience in a continual roar. His imitations are marvellous, and his vocal deceptive powers wonderful.—Toronto Sun.

One of the many features at the Park Theatre last night was Orm Dixon, who is an unusually clever ventriloquist and imitator.—Detroit Free Press.

Orm Dixon pleases even those who are tired of ventriloquals as a class.—Detroit News.

Orm Dixon with his remarkably clever ventriloquial performance and excellent imitations of a steamboat whistle, was a taking feature at the Coliseum.—Cincinnati Inquirer.

Orm Dixon gave a very fine performance of ventriloquism and was well received.—Boston Globe.

Orm Dixon in his ventriloquial specialties carried the house by storm.—Cincinnati Inquirer.

Hereditary Scrofula.

Are you aware that in your blood the taint of scrofula has a prominent place? This is true of every one. It is liable at any time, on the slightest provocation, to develop itself in some insidious disease. Consumption and many other diseases are outgrowths of this impurity of the blood. Shaker Blood Syrup has a wonderful power over all scrofulous troubles, as the remarkable testimonials we have received unmistakably prove.

We refer by permission, to Mrs. P. Elliott, Hanover, Maine, who was cured by Shaker Blood Syrup of 11 Scrofula Sores, the severity of which confined her to the house for 2 years. Six months previous to taking Shaker Blood Syrup, she could not get about her room without crutches. Her friend says I did not think it possible for her to live many months; she was reduced to a mere skeleton. Her cure is hardly less than a miracle. There is no doubt that in Shaker Blood Syrup, we have the most remarkable medicine that has ever been produced, and a positive cure for Syphilis and Scrofula in their numerous forms.

"Rough on Corns."

Ask for Wells' "Rough on Corns." 15c. Quick complete cure. Hard or soft corns, warts or bunions.

Merit Proven.

Dollar upon dollar is frequently spent on the faith of recommendations for articles entirely worthless. Not so with McGregor's Speedy Cure; you are not asked to purchase it until its merits are proven. Call at John McKee's drug store and get a free trial bottle, and if not convinced it will cure you of the worst forms of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, etc., no matter of how long standing, it costs you nothing. Sold in 50c. and $1.00 bottles. See testimonials from persons in your own town.

A HOME DRUGGIST

TESTIFIES.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."

River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

SALT RHEUM. GEORGE ANDREWS, overseer in the Lowell Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with Salt Rheum in its worst form. Its ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883.

RAILWAY WHISTLES.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR.—I see by your report of the meeting of the Town Council that they are waiting till Toronto passes a by-law to prevent the nuisance of railroad whistles. How long are they going to wait? Surely we have talent enough in Peterborough to frame such a by-law. It is a nuisance that might be stopped, and that at once. We are more persecuted with railroads than any other town or city in the Dominion. It would take one man all his time to look after the railroads, to keep them from running faster than the law permits, from blocking streets, etc. I would suggest that during the day, as our police have very little to do but walk around, that they have special instructions to look after the railroads.

Yours truly,
PROGRESS.

IN the election in Megantic, Que., on Wednesday, for the Local House, Mr. Whyte, Liberal, according to the latest returns, received a majority of 15.

Some of the finest flavoured teas to be had in Peterborough are for sale at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square. Housekeepers, hotel keepers, and boarding house keepers who have tried in vain for a sample of tea to suit them, should try Carton's. The price is by no means high, and if you take the trouble to ask around the tea table how the tea is liked, you will be convinced that you have found the sample that suits the popular taste.

A LARGE variety of New Splashers for back of washstands, from 15c. each, at J. ERSKINE'S.

The Love of Society.

Ever since the creation of the human family the love of society has formed one of our strongest characteristics. It is society that forms the mental spring to the cultivation of the arts and sciences. It is society that gives actitude to the exercise of all our social enjoyments. It is the love of society that brings us together, to advise one with another as to the better mode of securing a more permanent basis upon which society may rest secure from the influence of temptation and be bold, be frank, and fear not what others may think so long as you are obeying the dictates of conscience. Remember that it is with our judgments as our watches; none go just alike, yet each believes his own, and that is the reason why so many agree in saying buy your oysters at Smith's.

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

SHIPPING BARLEY.—Mr. Samuel Nelson our enterprising grain buyer shipped five car loads of barley to Port Hope on Wednesday.

GRIST MILL.—Mr. Hull's flour mill which has been closed down for some time on account of the building of the new dam at Lakefield, will, it is understood, be running again next week. The stoppage of this mill has materially interfered with the Lakefield traffic. The want of it being so quickly felt shows the value of this grist mill to the prosperity of the village.

BELLEVILLE.

DROWNING ACCIDENT.—An eight year old son of Wm. McCaskey was drowned in the ferry on Wednesday morning. His body was in the water about two hours before it was found by Thos. Ryan, who with Mr. P. J. Shannon and a pike pole, pulled the body onto the wharf, where it was indentified. Constable Hayes soon arrived and notified Coroner Burdett, but he thought an inquest was unnecessary. It appears the unfortunate lad accompanied his father to the ferry intending to cross the bay for a load of pine blocks, but changing his mind, fell between the cribwood of the pier unnoticed, and was drowned. This was where the body was found shortly before noon.—Ontario.

The Ohio Scott Act.

The Supreme Court, Columbus, Ohio, three judges affirming and two dissenting, on Tuesday declared the Scott liquor tax law unconstitutional. The decision will do away with the collection of the tax this year, and make it necessary to pay back the amounts collected under the law last year with interest. It will bankrupt nearly all the cities in the State, as the levies for the year were made under the impression that the law was constitutional. In Columbus, for example, about $50,000 was realized from the tax last year, and none paid this year. The departments are behind in the payments of salaries two and three months. Other cities are similarly situated. The great question with the municipal and county authorities is how they will secure immediate relief from the embarrassing situation the Legislature not being in session to grant authority.

Not to be Imitated.

An insight into American political methods is given by the item, which is floating round the papers, that five cases of Henry rifles have been shipped to the New Orleans Republican Committee from the National Republican Committee. In Chicago, it is said, that the deputy-marshals armed with shot-guns, will be out in force as they were at Cincinnati, and that the Democrats, who have the control of the city government, intend appointing a large number of civic policemen for the express purpose of fighting the deputy-marshals. It it evident that next Tuesday is going to be a lively day in these cities.—Montreal Star.

Fearful Storms in Lower Mexico.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 28.—Guaymas advices say disastrous storms have occurred on the coast of Lower California. The Mexican steamer Estado de Sonora, with nineteen passengers, and a crew of thirty-eight, is believed to be lost with all on board. The American schooner Dara is also believed to be lost. A three days' storm, beginning Oct. 7th, destroyed 20 houses at Cape St. Lucas. A large number of cattle were killed. Nine Mexican coasters, with crews of three to five each, were lost, and all on board perished.

Insane Asylum Rascality.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., Oct. 29.—The supreme Court has granted a writ of Habeas Corpus, in the application of H.W. Leonard, for the release of Chas. E Richards, confined in an insane asylum at Flushing since 1874, Leonard says Richards was committed without process, and is perfectly sane. He is connected with a wealthy family in Philadelphia, and was brought to the asylum after he had a quarrel with his brother.

Not Wholly a Coward.

When the Russian Emperor was at Skiernievice it is alleged that he expressed dissatisfaction at the extraordinary proceedings of protection on his account, and the London Times correspondent testifies that his Czarish Majesty, than whom no man in Russia is more indifferent personally to the supposed danger that surrounds him or more unconscious in most cases of the means used to protect his person, has driven about Warsaw without any other visible escort than that of the charming presence of his Imperial Consort, risking the gravest consequences by what appeared to many of his entourage an extremely reckless kind of procedure.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1884.

WOULD THEY SUBMIT?

Some of the Reform journals are urging that the question of the incorporation of Jamaica and other West Indian Islands with the Dominion of Canada, should be submitted to the people. We notice that some of the same journals are interesting themselves in Old World politics, and are scouting the idea of Mr. Gladstone submitting his franchise bill to the people, though it more than doubles the number of electors.

We would ask our contemporaries to tell us why they are so anxious that this West Indian question should be submitted to the people? It is certainly not because they are desirous of learning the opinion of the people that they may submit to it, for the National Policy was submitted to the people and adopted, was again submitted to the people and ratified, yet these critics do not submit to the will of the people thus plainly ascertained.

Why, then, do they desire this appeal to the people? We will not take it as a sufficient answer to be told that we are afraid of an appeal to the people. We have no objection to such an appeal if this union is to be adopted, for we are certain from past experience that our present rulers will not favor it unless they can make such satisfactory arrangements both with the Empire and with the Islands as will remove obvious objections to the union. If asked to consent to such a favorable arrangement, and we are sure the people will be asked to consent to nothing else, at all events by the present Administration, we feel sure that they would consent.

We do not wish to be understood as yielding to the idea that our members of Parliament are mere delegates who cannot move in any new matter without fresh instructions. We believe that according to our constitution our representatives are elected to transact our business for us as it arises, according to the best of their judgment, without being bound to come back to the electors for their opinions, except in cases of exceptionably grave importance. We have, however, no objection so to consider this West Indian question if it should ever come up for practical discussion.

Again we ask why these gentlemen are so anxious to obtain the popular verdict, since they would not submit to it if given against them.

As we are not likely to obtain a straightforward answer, we will give the explanation. They want to have another opportunity of falsifying the actions of the present government and to make stump speches full of false pretences, so as if possible to prejudice the people of Canada against the statesmen they have chosen to administer their affairs.

DISPELLING DELUSIONS.

We entertain no doubt that Mr. Blake, if in power, would "dispel delusions;" he and his friends succeeded in this beyond expectations from 1874 to 1878, therefore they would prove no 'prentice hands at the business. For instance:

(1) The electorate confiding in the solemn promises and pledges of Mr. Blake in 1872, were deluded into believing he and his party would oppose "coalition," but one year after the Hon. R. W. Scott, Hon. R. Cartwright, Hon. Mr. Coffin, Hon. Mr. Ross, Hon. J. Burpee and Hon. A. J. Smith, all former supporters of Sir John Macdonald, entered the Cabinet of Mr. Mackenzie, and to these was afterwards added Hon. J. Cauchon. That "delusion" was dispelled!

(2) Hon. Edward Blake from 1867 had denounced non-portfolio offices. He had said in the House of Commons on the 27th of November, 1867: "It is necessary to prevent, by stringent enactments, the possibility on the part of the Crown of filling the House with more than the necessary number of executive officers." He urged that by adding non-portfolio officers the "whole House might be controlled by placemen, who, nominally, were servants of the Crown." In 1873 Mr. Blake agreed to the policy of fourteen Ministers, he, Mr. Blake, being "added" to the Executive Council with impunity—and, of course, without a portfolio! Again the delusion that Grit promises made in Opposition would be sacredly kept, was ruthlessly dispelled.

(3) The "Reform" party denounced in scathing terms the policy of having thirteen Ministers. Hon. A. Mackenzie, at London, on the 24th of October, 1870, propounded the "Reform" principle that "There was no necessity of a Cabinet of thirteen." And yet two years after he not only formed a Cabinet of thirteen, but added a non-portfolio, or fourteen Ministers, and in doing this broke at once three pledges, strangled three Reform principles, (1) "No coalition"; (2) reduction in the number of Ministers; (3) no non-portfolio Minister. This might reasonably be termed an effective style of "dispelling delusions."—Ottawa Citizen.

CERTAIN TO IMPROVE TRADE.

What a Merchant Said About the Prospects for Oriental Trade.

"When the Canadian Pacific Railway is completed do you think it will improve the trade of this port?" asked our reporter of a gentleman whom he met on Commissioners street this morning.

"Yes, I do. The time to China and Japan will be much lessened. The run could be made in thirty days, say nine days from England to here; eight days more to British Columbia and thirteen more to China. As things are now it takes about twice as long. The tea trade will doubtless come to Montreal, and this port ought to become in a few years a very important tea port, perhaps vieing with London eventually for the trade of Europe."

"Are not your views rather sanguine?"

"I think not. Canada, if she continues to increase at her present rate, will have 60,000,000 of people before the United States, which latter have only increased from 4,000,000 in 1764, to 50,000,000 at the last census. There is a great future for Canada, and especially Montreal. We have been asleep, but when properly woke up, this country will go ahead. It will be the turn of the United States to go to sleep then.'—Montreal Witness.

THE WHITE FLAG.

Share of the Countess of Chambord in the Royalist Dissensions.

The Figaro published a long letter signed "Comte de R.," for whose competence to write authoratively on the subject the journal vouches, in which he traces the intestine dissensions that have lately declared themselves in the ranks of the French Royalists to the influence and direct agency of the Countess de Chambord. Her father, the Duke of Modena, was, he points out, the only prince in Europe who refused to recognize Louis Phillppe, and she inherits her father's aversion to the House of Orleans. She showed it in the most marked manner at her husband's funeral by relegating the princes of the younger branch to the second place, and she has since suppressed the pensions allowed by the Comte de Chambord to certain of his followers who have since his death rallied to the Comte de Paris. The writer affirms that all the trouble about the white flag is of her creation. Her influence was paramount to her husband, and what she thought herself on the question of the flag Comte de R. illustrates by reciting an incident of which he was himself an eye witness. Some years ago the dinner party at the chateau included the Comtesse Jeane de——, a lady belonging to one of the first royalist families in France and a strong legitimist, though favorable to a compromise on the subject of the flag, the nation having so unmistakably set its face against the Bourbon emblem. She was giving expression to her views on the question when the Comtesse de Chambord, taking hold of a diamond cross which hung from the Comtesse' necklace, interrupted her. "Jeane," she said, angrily, "would you, if you were asked to tread on this sacred emblem, trample it under foot?" This silenced the Comtesse; and, as the writer remarks, it would be useless, indeed, to argue with a person who was capable of suggesting such a comparison.

JOHN FRALL AS A BURGLAR.

Twenty-Six Years in Goal—A Desperate Villain Again Sentenced.

By the arrest and conviction of John Frall for complicity in the recent Rathbun silver robbery at Deseronto, one of the worst criminals of the burglar class has been placed behind the bars. This desperate villain, who was sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary at the autumn assizes now going on in this city, has since 1861 served nineteen years in the penitentiary. He has no doubt had a hand in the majority of the many burglaries that have taken place in this vicinity during the past few months, and to his cunning and experience is no doubt due the success the gang has had in so long evading arrest. For burglary at Brockville in 1861 Frall was sent to the penitentiary for two years. He then went by the name of John Smith. At the Autumn Assizes of 1863 for the County of Hastings, Frall, in company with George Frost, pleaded guilty to breaking into the store of A. Williams at Canifton, and for this he served two years in the penitentiary. At Brantford in the year 1869, under the name of Wm. B. Brown, Frall was sentenced to 5 years in the penitentiary for burglary. In January 1874, in company with others, Frall was convicted of burglary and stealing $345 in the township of Gwillimburg. He was tried at Toronto and sent to the penitentiary for a term of 5½ years. In 1878 he was convicted of burglary in St. Lawrence County, N.Y., under the name of Wm. Scott and sent to Clinton prison for a term of 5 years. While in prison at Clint on he formed the acquaintance of Zufelt and the husband of Mary Ann Harrigan, as well as a brother-in-law of Mrs. Harrigan. After serving out his term at Clinton, Frali began operations in this section, and probably had Zufelt and the Harrigans as accomplices. The Deputy Sheriff has learned from the penitentiary officials that Frali is a dangerous character and an expert burglar. Frall, in speaking of the Clare burglary, of which Zufelt was convicted, stated that he (Frall) fired through the window at Clare, who was pursuing Zufelt, intending to kill him, but a turn of Clare's body caused him to miss, shattering the lamp in Clare's hand. He said had he not been caught this time he would have perfected arrangements to "clean out" the whole city. He declares his hand shall be against every man who took part in bringing him to justice. Wherever Frall has been his appearance has given the impression to those who notice him that he is a villain of no common calibre.—Belleville Intelligencer.

Misleading.

The Globe and other Reform papers gave prominence to the opinions of the Gleaner, published in Jamaica, which opposed the annexation idea, as representing the people of Jamaica. The Ottawa Free Press, the organ of the Reformers at the capital, thus snubs them for so doing:—

"The proposed annexation of Jamacia is being pushed energetically so far as the island itself is concerned. Hon. Mr. Solomon, who was here unofficially as a deputation, has since his return to the island been chosen chairman of the executive committee of the legislative council. This looks as if the friends of annexation were exercising a controlling interest in the island council, and rather casts ridicule upon the paragraph about 'Barkis' not being 'willin' published generally by certain papers in Western Ontario. If our contemporaries had talked with many people from Jamacia or studied more than one Jamaica paper, they would not have published a paragraph which owed its birth to ignorance of the subject. No good purpose is to be served by misrepresenting the state of public feeling in Jamaica, and it is therefore, we oppose the policy of somes western paper with whom we are generally in accord."

Prospects of the Irish Potato Crop.

All over the country, except in the extreme west and north-west, potatoes are being either dug or are dug already. The weight and bulk of the crop are not so large as last year, except in a few well-tilled light loams. The tubers are of a smaller size generally than last year, in most places, and are not so numerous on the stalk. In many parts of Ireland the early sown potatoes are under the average of a fair crop, and this is evidently due to the drought in the months of May and June, and to the east winds of those and the preceeding months. A plentiful potato harvest of good quality has an immense effect in the poorer districts all along the west coast, and we are sorry to say that it is there not so good as might have been expected. —Freeman's Journal.

A Tierra Del Fuegian Canoe.

The canoe is a rough, primitive structure; several breadths of bark stitched together with sinews of the seal and gathered up at the ends. Along each side a pole is lashed, joining the gunwale rail, while several stout pieces laid crosswise serve as beam timber. In the bottom, amidships, is a mud hearth on which burns a fire, with sticks set up around it to dry. There are three compartments in the craft, separated from one another by the cross-pieces; in the forward one are various weapons—spears, clubs, and sling-stones—and fishing implements. The amidships section holds the firehearth, the men having place on the forward side of it; the women, who do the paddling, are seated further aft; while in the stern are stowed the boys, girls and dogs.

A Grasshopper Crest.

Sir Thos. Gresham, who built the Royal Exchange in London, was the son of a poor woman who, while he was an infant, abandoned him in a field. The chirping of a grasshopper attracted a boy to the spot where the child lay, and the life of the latter was preserved by this means. After Sir Thomas had, by his unparalleled success as a merchant, risen to the pinnicle of commercial wealth and greatness, he chose a grasshopper for his crest. Becoming, under the patronage of Queen Elizabeth, the founder of the Royal Exchange, this crest was placed on the walls of the building in several parts, and a vane, or weathercock, in the shape of a grasshopper, was fixed on the summit of the tower.

SWAN'S CORNERS, OTONABEE.

Card of Thanks.—The ladies of Otonabee, who held the social at the Grange Hall, Swan's Corners, on the 21st Oct. in aid of the building fund of St. Peter's Cathedral, beg leave to offer their sincere thanks to their numerous friends who attended. A great number contributed liberally and cheerfully. We also thank our Protestant neighbors for their liberal patronage in attending and granting special favors, not forgetting our Peterborough friends, who so earnestly endeavored to make the social a success, especially Mr. M. Tierney, who so successfully conducted the concert which was given. The committee realized the handsome sum of $186. Signed on behalf of the Committee. Thos. Egan.

Burned at Sea.

London, Oct. 28.—The steamship Ober, which arrived at Southampton this afternoon from New York, reports that she passed on Oct, 25th, at 11 a.m., lat. 49 degrees 36 minutes north, longitude 27 degrees 19 minutes west, the Duch steamship Massdam burning and abandoned. Her masts were gone, but the funnel was standing. Dense smoke was issuing from her hold. The Ober kept a sharp lookout around the vicinity, but was unable to find any trace of the survivors or crew and proceeded on her voyage. The Massdam sailed from Rotterdam on the 18 inst. for New York.

The Centenarian Philanthropist.

London, Oct. 28.—At the service at Ramsgate yesterday in honor of Sir Moses Montefiore, Sir Moses insisted upon standing through the entire service. At the conclusion he said in a very strong voice:—"I cannot tell a thousandth or a hundredth part of what I feel to-day, when by the blessing of the Almighty I have arrived at so full an age. I thank Him for His merciful providence, and I thank all my friends for their great kindness." Sir Moses was in excellent spirits. During the day he received over 800 letters and 600 telegrams, besides numerous addresses and bouquets. The anniversary was celebrated throughout Europe.

WANTED—A LITTLE GIRL.

Where have they gone to—the little girls,
With natural manners and natural curls?
Who love their dollies and like their toys,
And talk of something besides the boys?

Little old women in plenty I find,
Mature of manners and old of mind;
Little old flirts who talk of their "beaux"
And vie with each other in stylish clothes.

Little old belles, who, at nine and ten,
Are sick of pleasure and tired of men,
Weary of travel, of balls, of fun—
And find no new thing under the sun.

Once, in the beautiful long ago,
Some dear little children I used to know;
Girls who were as lambs at play,
And laughed and rollicked the livelong day.

They thought not at all of the "style" of their clothes,
They never imagined that boys were "beaux"—
"Other girls' brothers" and "mates" were they,
Splendid fellows to help them play.

Where have they gone to? If you see
One of them, anywhere, send her to me.
I would give a medal of purest gold
To one of those dear little girls of old,
With an innocent heart and an open smile,
Who knows not the meaning of "flirt" or "style."

DUMMER.

COUNCIL MEETING.—The council met in Warsaw on Oct. 25th. Present—Messrs. Crowe, Drain and Kirk, Councillors. Absent—Messrs. A. R. Kidd, Reeve, and D. Kelly, Councillor. On motion, George Kirk was appointed chairman. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The clerk was instructed to authorize the collector to refund a statute labor tax of $2 to Jordan Crowe, as his full labor is performed; and to abate a statute labor tax of 50 cents to James Reid. Dr. Ford presented an account for amputating the arm and attendance on Fred Rattles, which was laid over to next meeting. John Hubble applied to have steps taken to have certain lots in Methuen attached to S. S. No. 9, Dummer. The application was laid over. Mr. Thos. Buck and Mr. Elias Ferguson made statements respecting W. ½ lot 18, con. 9, Dummer. Laid over to next meeting. An order for $2, issued to E. Hawthorne, as refund of a statute labor tax against a tenant, paid by him in 1883, he having done the labor in 1884. A by-law to make an appropriation of $150 on 7th con. line and appoint commissioners to expend the same was passed. The Council adjourned to meet in Warsaw on 8th November next.

NORWOOD.

COMMENCED BUYING.—The Register says:—On Tuesday last Messrs Roxburgh & Rock commenced buying grain. The machinery, etc. has all been placed in position, and the proprietors ready for business. Considerable grain has come in already and in another column we publish the "Norwood markets."

Our High School, it is claimed, heads the list in Ontario this year. One school of two masters in an adjoining county claims two more passed, dut several are counted who received no instruction from the staff, and further, grades of certificates taken by their pupils are lower than those taken by Norwood candidates.

SKATING RINK.—An attempt is being made to secure the drill shed for a skating rink this winter. Hastings and Keene use their respective drill-sheds as skating rinks, and why not Norwood? There is not another town in the country which offers so few amusements for young people as Norwood. It is to be hoped this harmless pastime will receive the encouragement it deserves.

A NIGHT OPERATOR.—Mr. Conway, of St. Catharines, has been appointed night operator at the station here. This change will considerably relieve Mr. Moore, whose hours heretofore have been very long. With the exception of Peterborough, Norwood is the only station between Toronto and Perth that "sports an night operator.

HASTINGS.

From Our Own Correspondent.

DEARTH OF NEWS.—News is scarce. The fairs are over, the topic as to who received the prize for the biggest potato, squash, pumpkin, beet, or any other kind of vegetable is worn threadbare. Nothing now but bad roads and fixing up for winter, which, we thought, was upon us a few days ago; but just now there are many believers, your correspondont among them, in a fine fall.

DINNER AND SOCIAL.—There's going to be a "swarree" on Thanksgiving Day in aid of the funds of the Presbyterian Church. The ladies of the congregation are making every effort to have a complete success. Dinner is to be served in the Town Hall—stuffed turkies, ad lib. quail on toast. In fact the tables, according to the current "ad." of a certain hotel, "will be furnished with every delicacy which the market can afford" or run in debt for.

LITERARY.—The Literary Association, which was inaugurated from a grain of mustard seed a year ago, is now in a flourishing condition; so many are applying for admittance that it is beginning to be talked about "drawing the line," i. e., black-balling, so as to preserve a destingue air. However, this is only the talk of a few; for those in authority cordially invite all who care to join. By-and-bye they will add instrumental music to the enjoyments for the winter nights.

LACROSSE CONCERT.—The Trents, who have been on the war path all summer with mythical success, are going on a tour to the surrounding hamlets for the purpose of giving exhibitions of histrionic art, which we hope will fully equal the success which they met with in their different matches last season. They make their debut in Westwood on the 4th prox. As they will be minors, singing in a minor key for the most part, the flourishing hotels of that place are cautioned against giving them anything but the mildest.

A Shakespearean Gumboil.

"A chilly evening this, Andromeda!"

"And quite in keeping with thy wooing, sirrah."

"So, ho! Now blows the wind in troblous quarters, quotha! From what new quiver of thy mind's caprice did'st pluck this arrow of suspicion, maid!"

"From none, Sir Apathy! If thou art stabbed 'tis with an icicle of thine own unconcern."

"My unconcern! Great Socrates forbid! In all the scroll of me iniquities there is no item that will semblance that."

"Yet such is e'en the latter accusation of thy lips. There was a time when thou did'st kiss as thou would'st drain the fountain of me heart, but recent pressures of thy dainty lips are light as merest shred of thistledown."

"Ha, ha! here's freshness for thee! Dost thou know—"

"Aye! Well I know by that thou lov'st me not. The devotee at love's ecstatic shrine tips not the portal of his idol's breath as if 'twere there the smallpox bred its germs. The bee that seeks for nectar i' the bud doth some time linger at the precious mine, and only spinsters, loveless grown and sere, or toothless churls with souls o'er given to gold, do kiss as waning Romeos do kiss."

"Be all the comely comities of Cupid, I like that well! My little doxy fancies not this touching lips! She pouts at kisses that do shallow seem as flakes of ice that hint at winter's birth. Enough, sweet angel, but another day and this same gumboil that has tamed me suit will leave no trace of its restraining power, and then I'll fatten on thy ruby lips as one who knew no other fount of sustenance. Nay, an' thou cravest kisses—kisses with sweet duration in their visitings—and taste of heaven just a gliff beyond. I'll give thee such till thou dost think the god of love hath given thee bon-bons for the nourishment and banked thy mouth with pyramids of jam."—Yonkers Gazette.

Sad Domestic Calamity.

QUEBEC, Oct. 28.—News has been received of a sad accident towards the end of last week, on the line of the Quebec Central Railway, in the parish of St. Francois de la Beauce. Louis Jacques, a labourer working on the road, had his leg cut off by a ballast train, while his son, whow as working by his side, lost both his arms.

Shot His Companion.

MONTREAL, Oct. 27.—Yesterday while two young men were shooting at Cote St. Paul, one of them slipped while crossing a ditch, and his gun accidentally went off. The whole charge lodged in the hand of his companion, Cyprian Dumouchel, mangling it fearfully.

Sir John Macdonald.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Toronto General Committee appointed to arrange for the reception to Sir John Macdonald was held on Monday night, when the various committees were struck. It was decided that the reception should take the form of a convention in one of the largest halls in the city, to be followed by a banquet in the evening.

Scott Act Cases.

The referred case under the Scott Act as to whether the conditions of the Act had been properly complied with in the petition from the county of Perth was heard by the Supreme Court at Ottawa on Tuesday, and decided in the negative. The Kent petition was also taken up the question being whether electors who had signed the petition and who afterwards wished to withdraw their names could be allowed to do so. Judgment in this case was reserved.

Manitoba Wheat.

About 300,000 bushels of Manitoba wheat have been brought to the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec by Messrs. Ogilvie & Co.; 200,000 bushels have been sent to the mill at this port and 100,000 bushels to the Goderich mill. It is expected that about 200,000 bushels more will be brought across the great lakes this fall before the close of navigation, making 500,000 bushels in all taken from Manitoba this year. None has been shipped to Great Britain as yet.—Montreal Witness.

A Wonderful Clock.

Mr. J. A. LeHeup has a remarkable clock. It has a flying pendulum, composed of a piece of cord attached to which is a small ball. The cord and ball are suspended from a wire arm, located in the centre of the top of the clock. They fly first to right and then to left, catching a wire on each side of the arm and disentangling themselves. This motion is kept up for two days at a stretch. The clock keeps very accurate time and is a wonderful specimen of inventive genius.—Kingston Whig.

Fatal Dreams.

The fatality of dreaming about baked bread appears not to have been confined to Pharoah's tradesmen. A Mrs. Brown is living at Walsall who has lost several children, and previous to the death of each she dreamed—so she told the coroner—on several consecutive nights of baking bread. Recently she dreamed the same dreams and kept her little girl at home from school for fear anything should happen. The child slipped out of the house and into the canal, and it was drowned; and it will probably be some centuries before the good folk of Walsall get rid of the idea that to dream of baking bread means a death in the house.

A New Project.

Mr. Muir, real estate agent, has received intelligence from Pittsburgh that after the Presidental election several members of the company which has leased the Grand Trunk wharf at Longueuil and purchased forty acres contiguous to it, will visit Canada for the purpose of erecting chemical works on their property. The company propose to construct the largest works in Canada, and among its members are several of the wealthiest iron men and manufacturers in Pittsburgh and Cleveland. Employment will be given to over two hundred persons.—Montreal Witness.

Canadians Honored.

OTTAWA, Oct, 27.—The Emperor of Germany has awarded a gold chronometer watch to Charles Walton Murphey, late mate of the Yarmouth, N. S., barque Belle Moodie, and £5 to each of three seamen of the same barque, in recognition of their services in rescuing the crew of the German ship Der Kicine Heinrich, in October, 1882. With characteristic thoughtlessness the sailors did not give their names, probably satisfied with having done a good turn to fellow sailors in the hour of their distress, and thinking no more about it. The Emperor did not therefore learn their names. The men have not been traced so far.

Heroism of Canadian Indians.

OTTAWA, Oct. 28.—Advices from British Columbia state that the United States steamer Hassler called at Victoria on Monday last and took on board American Counsul Stevens, who had been instructed from Washington to proceed in the vessel to Neah Bay and Bonnells Point to investigate the circumstances under which several crews were saved by Indians from American vessels wrecked on the coast of British Columbia. After visiting these points Counsul Stevens will steam entirely round Vancouver Island to inquire into the meritorious efforts the natives have made in saving shipwrecked crews of American vessels.

A Colonization Scheme.

On Sunday night Mr. L. O. Armstrong, general agent of the Colonization Society, left for Mattawa by the C.P.R. in charge of a considerable number of French, French-Canadians and English settlers, who intend to take up land in this region. Mr. Armstrong intends to go to the North side of the Canadian Pacific Railway and explore all the country north of Lake Temiscamingue and surroundings, with a view to make an exhaustive report upon the character of the soil, climate, etc., for the benefit of intending settlers. It is claimed by the Colonization Society that this region, which is only opening up, is the most fertile in the whole Dominion, and it (the Society) intends to take energetic measures to press its claims upon the attention of intending settlers.—Montreal Witness.

Potatoes in New England.

Reports on the potato crop from nearly 10 00 special corresdondents of the New England Homestead show that throughout the Lower provinces, New England and New York, the acreage and yield are considerably below last year's. As a whole the acreage has decreased about 15 per cent, and the yield is about one-third less than in 1883. This makes the acreage nearly the same as in 1882, with a considerably lighter yield. Prices now range from 22 c per bu. as the lowest shipping price in New York State, to $1 at eastern Massachusetts towns; averaging 35 to 60c per bu. The rot is quite prevalent, and grubs have greatly injured the crops in many sections. The rot appears to be oldfashioned stinking decay that can be depended upon to cause great injury. Where early potatoes are rotting there is some haste to sell at current prices. The crops in the eastern Provinces and Quebec is short. In the great shipping counties of Nova Scotia it is almost a complete failure. Instead of exporting potatoes, some sections will have to import for seed. The rot is working badly in the great shipping sections of Northern Maine, and many potatoes will have to be converted into starch.—Monetary Times.

How to Treat a Cut.

Adhesive plaster ought to be the best procurable, and instead of keeping it in a roll in the drawer, it ought to be cut up into strips of different breadths. It is thus ready for immediate use, and there is no chance of its sticking together as it does it kept in bulk. When it is necessary to use this plaster to keep the edges of a wound together we must be careful; first and foremost, to see that the wound is perfectly clean, and no sand, glass or grit in it, which would cause festering and prevent it from healing. Never cover a wound wholly up with a piece of plaster; whatever be its size use long narrow strips. Warm the plaster by holding the back of it against a can of boiling water for a few seconds, then apply it across the wound, leaving a small space between each strip to give exit to the lymph. Remember that sticking plaster has no healing action in itself. The benefits derived from its use are of a purely mechanical nature. Clean cuts are better bound up with the blood, simply with a linen rag, for sticking plaster is no use until the bleeding stops. In cases of scalp wounds the hair must be shaved off before the plaster is applied.—Cassell's Magazine.

SPIRITUAL LIFE.

"Two hands upon the breast,
And labor's done;
Two pale feet crossed in rest,
The race is won;
Two eyes with coin-weights shut,
And all tears cease;
Two lips where grief is mute,
Anger at peace;"
So pray we oftentimes, mourning our lot;
God in His kindness answereth not.

"Two hands to work addrest,
Aye for his praise;
Two feet that never rest,
Walking his ways;
Two eyes that look above
Through all their tears;
Two lips still breathing love,
Not wrath, nor fears;"
So pray we afterward, low on our knees;
Pardon those erring prayers! Father, hear these.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Council Meeting.

There will be a meeting of the town council this evening at 7.30 o'clock.

Orange Meeting.

The members of the Loyal Orange Institution of Peterborough are requested to meet in their Lodge Room on Sunday next, Nov. 2nd, at two o'clock, for the purpose of attending divine service in the George Street Methodist Church.

Council of War.

A Council of War of the Saved Army will be held in Peterborough on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. A large number of the officers of the Army and delegates from the various stations are expected to be present. Mass meetings will be held each evening.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderate winds, fair weather, with a few light local showers; not much change in temperature.

To the Ladies.

We direct the attention of the Peterborough ladies to the advertisement of Mr. T. Kelly, which will be found in another column. Mr. Kelly has of late purchased a large quantity of silks at a reduced rate, and will, on Saturday, open out the stock for inspection and sale. This will, no doubt, be a rare opportunity for purchasing.

Semi-Annual Tour.

Mr. J. P. Hannaford, Chief Engineer of the Grand Trunk Railway, arrived in Peterborough on Wednesday afternoon on his semi-annual tour of inspection of the road. He remained in town over night and in the morning at 9 o'clock departed for Lindsay in company with Mr. J. G. Machlin, District Engineer, on a hand car. The official coach followed attached to the mixed train.

A Handsome Chair.

A very handsome Cleopatra chair, contributed by Mrs. N. T. Laplante for the bazaar in aid of St. Peter's Cathedral building fund, is on exhibition in the window of the furniture store of Messrs. Craig & Mooney, successors to Mr. W. J. Langford. It is covered with green plush and beautifully ornamented with needlework. The upholstering was done by Messrs. Craig & Mooney, who are practical upholsterers, and thoroughly understand their business.

The Middle State of Punishment.

The Reverend Father Conway will deliver a sermon, after Grand Vespers, on Sunday evening in St. Peter's Cathedral. A collection will be taken up to assist the building fund. As the reverened gentleman has recently returned from the seaside fully recouperated from the lingering illness that prostrated him during the summer months, an effective and learned discourse on the subject of his sermon, "The Middle State of Punishment," may be expected. All are invited.

New Photograph Gallery.

Mr. Wm. McFadden has recently established in Peterborough a very convenient photograph gallery. All of the appliances are quite modern, and, as will be seen by his advertisement, work is done in every style, including crayon, India ink and water colors. The gallery is situated on the corner of Simcoe and Aylmer streets and is the only ground floor establishment of the kind in Peterborough. This makes it very convenient for elderly people and ladies bringing their children, as baby carriages may be wheeled into the gallery without the slightest trouble.

Scotland and Ireland.

The Mechanics' Institute have made arrangements for two lectures by the celebrated Professor Ragan, being illuminated tours of Scotland and Ireland, showing views of the beautiful scenery and fine buildings of the two kingdoms, the accompanying lectures giving most interesting descriptions. The lecture on Saturday, Oct. 31st "Hollows'een" being "Glimpses of Scotland," and that on Friday, Nov. 1st, being "Picturesque Ireland." The programmes for the two nights, which have been widely distributed, show the great variety of themes embraced and the interesting nature of the subjects. The Opera House should be crowded both on Friday and Saturday, for it is seldom that there is a opportunity of hearing such attractive subjects discoursed upon by so able a lecturer, while the views have the reputation of being unsurpassed. The Mechanics' Institute deserves the thanks of the community for procuring the services of Mr. Ragan, and will no doubt be properly supported.

THE MISSING LINK.

Improvements in the Railway Line Between this Town and Omemee.

It sounds like a misnomer to still call that part of the Midland Division of the Grand Trunk Railway between Peterborough and Omemee the "Missing Link," as the "link" that was at one time so much desired has been supplied, but the name given to the projected line still clings to the completed railway.

It will be remembered that after the line had been completed, and the trains had begun to run over it, the "sink hole" in the Lily Lake swamp gave trouble. The water rose in the spring, and part of the railway gave way. The Company set to work energetically to repair the damage, and they did it so effectively that the line was made much stronger than before. Particulars of this we gave at the time.

But more work has since been done, with a view to prevent the recurrence of such a misfortune. The canal which was constructed on the south side of the track, to convey away the water, has been cleaned out and deepened. This work was completed a couple of weeks ago. At one place the canal was deepened three feet, and the average increase in depth for the entire length—three-quarters of a mile—is eighteen inches.

A bridge and an open culvert have also been constructed at this side of the swamp. The bridge is thirty feet long, and the culvert ten. These were constructed in order to afford a better passage for the drainage from the hills on the north to flow through to the natural channel of the creek.

The work was done under the supervision of Mr. J. A. Cheer, Roadmaster, and Mr. James Meaghar, the foreman. It is expected that the raising of the line, which was done earlier in the year, the deepening of the canal and the construction of the bridge and culvert will obviate the danger of a flood in the spring, and thus prevent another stoppage of travel over the line from that cause.

About thirty men are still at work upon the line. They are engaged in dressing the banks of the cuts down to a proper slope. A train is engaged in carrying out the earth thus taken from the cuts, and the material is utilized for widening the banks which form the approaches to the bridges.

The work done upon the line through the summer will make a great improvement on this part of the railway.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK.

THURSDAY, Oct. 30.—Samuel Levit was charged by P. C. Pidgeon with having been drunk in a public place. The prisoner pleaded guilty and was find $2 or ten days in goal.

Robert Taylor was charged by P. C. Pidgeon with having also been drunk in a public place. He pleaded guilty, urged that it was his first offence, and was allowed to go.

LARCENY.

Annis Handkommer, a former cook in the Grand Central Hotel, was charged by F. J. Daly with having, on the 11th day of October, feloniously taken and carried away a quantity of meat, the property of the informant. The prisoner pleaded not guilty. Witnesses on both sides were examined, the prisoner was found guilty and committed to gaol, at hard labor, for one month.

The case of John Ferguson, who was charged with stealing a silver watch from Henry Noyes, was heard this morning. As the Magistrate was not inclined to try the case summarily, the prisoner was committed for trial.

Remember.

We wish to give a gentle reminder of the fact that the oyster social and entertainment of the Young People's Floral Club will be held in the school room of the Charlotte Street Church this evening.

To-Night! To-Night!

Mr. Orm Dixon, Peterborough's ventriloquist, will give some of his wonderful imitations in Bradburn's Opera House to-night. Mr. Dixon has been travelling for five years, during which time he has become an adept in the art. His brother, Mr. W. A. Dixon, will also render some of his clever imitations. Other attractions will fill out a good programme, and the Peterborough people should not fail to show their appreciation, on this occasion, of Mr. Dixon's talent.

Davis & Co. not Depressed.

Some people talk of "hard times," but probably they are either interested in doing so, or belong to the class of those who, being deficient in business ability and energy, blame the times, competition, the seasons, &c., for their own shortcomings. A live firm like that of Messrs. A. L. Davis & Co. scout the idea of hard times, tell us that they have done as good a business as ever, and prove their sincerity in this statement by making greater preparations than ever for the Fall and Christmas trade. One of their specialties, room paper, and their stock should be seen to be appreciated, is certainly not indicative of "hard times," for it shows that either construction of new buildings or renovation of old ones is being extensively carried out. A large stock of purses shows that there is money to be carried, and a great variety of albums tells that some of it is spent in luxuries. Bibles and prayer books are happily in season at all times, and such an assortment will no doubt satisfy the most fastidious customers. Low prices for choice goods will keep Messrs. A. L. Davis & Co. busy, and confirm them in their opinion that the times are not hard at present for business men who know how to suit the wants and the purses of their customers.

How to Deal with Fits.

1. If the man with the fit has on a new hat, and you have an old one, always change hats with him. This relieves the pressure on the head.

2. If it happens to be a convivial looking tramp, remark in a loud tone: "It's too bad, but there's not a drop of brandy in the crowd." In nine cases out of ten, he will then walk off using healthy, coherent, and muscular Anglo-Saxon.

3. Should the patient only have a slight attack and retain conciousness, tell him it is not fitting for him to act so. This will undoubtedly make him get up and take off his coat. Then run.

4. In case the man is a school teacher, two of his pupils will be dilated; the rest will be elated.

5. Give him plenty of air, this kind of generosity is inexpensive. Open his mouth. Then get a stretcher. If he won't open his mouth, get a glove-stretcher; that'll make him.

6. Carry him in to McNEIL'S Fashionable Tailoring Establishment where no man was ever known to come out without a "Fit."

WHITE AND GREY BLANKETS, all wool, good value; also, a lot of white a little soiled, of good quality, very cheap. JOHN ERSKINE.

Correction.

The entertainment by the ladies of No. 2 Ward, to be held in the Murray Street Separate School in connection with the R. C. Bazaar, will consist of an attractive musical programme, to be followed with an oyster supper. Special exertions are being made by the ladies to have this social turn out the most successful yet held.

Complimentary Benefit.

Remember the complimentary benefit to Mr. Orm Dixon, the young and popular ventriloquist, on Thursday, Oct. 30th, at Bradburn's Opera House, where, in conjunction with local vocal and instrumental talent, Mr. Dixon will appear for the first time before a Peterborough audience in six years, during which time he has filled very successful engagements in all the principal theatres of the United States and Canada. We append a few of the many notices he has received:—

Orm Dixon kept the audience in a continual roar. His imitations are marvellous, and his vocal deceptive powers wonderful.—Toronto Sun.

One of the many features at the Park Theatre last night was Orm Dixon, who is an unusually clever ventriloquist and imitator.—Detroit Free Press.

Orm Dixon pleases even those who are tired of ventriloquals as a class.—Detroit News.

Orm Dixon with his remarkably clever ventriloquial performance and excellent imitations of a steamboat whistle, was a taking feature at the Coliseum.—Cincinnati Inquirer.

Orm Dixon gave a very fine performance of ventriloquism and was well received.—Boston Globe.

Orm Dixon in his ventriloquial specialties carried the house by storm.—Cincinnati Inquirer.

Orm Dixon, the ventriloquist, now performing at the Olympic Theatre, is meeting with success.—Chicago News.

A HOME DRUGGIST

TESTIFIES.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."

River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

SALT RHEUM. GEORGE ANDREWS, overseer in the Lowell Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with Salt Rheum in its worst form. Its ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1884.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK.

FRIDAY, Oct. 31.—Hugh McDonald was charged by P. C. Pidgeon with having been drunk in a public place. He excused himself by saying that he had accidentally taken too much. He asked to be allowed to go because he was working on the Ontario and Quebec Railway and was expected to do certain work, and if it was not performed the officials would be disappointed. He was fined $2 or ten days in gaol, with five days in which to pay the fine.

Lewis Wanamaker was charged by P. C. Pidgeon with having committed a similar offence. He pleaded guilty, but was allowed to go on promising to leave town nt once.

Commencing Early.

By the escape of gas in a coal-stove of Mr. Barry's boarding house, Kingston, a number of students and boarders came near being suffocated. P. McKenner, in struggling to rise, fell on the floor and woke those down stairs who were not affected. All upstairs were more or less unconscious when assistance reached them.

Three Men Drowned.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 30.—Three men were lost yesterday from a sailboat which capsized off Skillagalee. They were William Dickerson, 45 years old, who had a family living in Saginaw; Frank Gooderow, 50 years old, who had a family in Detroit, and a man named Toney, 28 years old, believed to be single.

Who Did the Mischief?

QUEBEC, Oct. 29.—On Monday night, while Mr. W. C. Richardson, leather merchant, of this city, was returning to his home at Beauport, his buggy collided with another vehicle, and he was pitched head first to the ground. He was some time afterwards found lying in an unconscious state and brought to a friend's house close by, where he still remains. At first his life was despaired of, but he is now doing well and with every hope of recovery. His horse was found dead near Beauport church, about four miles from where the accident occurred.

Escape of a Lunatic.

A Mr. Edward Morley, a private patient in Longue Pointe Lunatic Asylum, Montreal, went out through the grounds on Thursday for a walk, being accompanied by a keeper. When arriving at a lonely place near an exit from the grounds, Morley asked his attendant to stoop down and lift some flowers off the ground. As the unsuspecting keeper was complying with the request his companion struck him on the head with a large bottle he had concealed on his person, knocking his victim senseless, and then making his escape. No tidings have been since heard of the fugitive, who was not considered a dangerous maniac.

Wholesale Poisoning.

GLEASON, Tenn., Oct. 30.—Andrew Swain, a prominent merchant, died from the effects of poison administered, it is supposed, by a man named Taylor, who has been imprisoned. Intense excitement exists over the arrest of Taylor. It appears he poisoned not only Swain but men named Jones, Groomes and a fourth man. The poison used was cantharides. He attempted to poison the guard on the way to gaol. It is thought he will certainly be lynched to-night. He took matters with the utmost nonchalance, and declined to talk. He said he had killed thirteen men with the same kind of poison. He appeared of sound mind. All his victims were men of prominence.

INHUMANITY AT SEA.

Brutal Treatment of His Crew by a Captain—Evidence of Cruelty.

MONTREAL, Oct. 30.—Mason D. Cogswell, mate of the barque Alpheus Marshall, confirmed in his evidence to-day before the magistrate here the charges made in court of the gross cruelty and starvation of the men on board by the captain. The following is the chief part of the evidence given by the mate:—At half-past 12 the men went below, and at half-past 1 I told the boatswain to turn them to. They told him they were not able to do so, and they also told me personally; telling me that they were too weak. I don't know how the men felt, but had I been one of the men I would have considered the men's statement a fair one. I went aft and reported to the captain that the men would not turn to. The captain said, "Well, I guess we are men enough to make them." The men were then ordered aft, and the captain came down to them. They told him they were not able to go down to work, and that they had had no food since the previous day. The stewart was called, and he said that they had been given their soup and meat that day, but that they had eaten all their bread the night before. I was then ordered to put them in irons. Not a man refused, and I went to my room and got the irons and the second mate and boatsman to help me. They were ironed. The irons were a pair of handcuffs. As soon as the irons were on, the captain ordered us to trice them up. When he said to trice them up I knew what he meant, though I had never seen it done before. A piece of rattling stuff, rope about as thick as a pencil, and about five fathoms long, was brought out. I wished to be a little humane, and I went to put it around their irons, but the captain said to put it on their thumbs. I said that the rope was too thick, and the captain told me to unlay it. We took three of the strands out of the rattling stuff and "triced up" so that their feet just touched the deck. The captain told them that they could stay up until the d——d arms dropped off them, and I have no doubt he would have done so. I do not know how long a time a man could live when tied up. Tupper was a good man. I never knew him to complain. He saved all his complaints to make here in court. I have been at sea for eight years. There is more evidence to come, but what has been produced agrees almost completely—Mail.

MURDER IN YARMOUTH.

A Nova Scotian Killed by his Neighbour and his Body Thrown into a Lake.

YARMOUTH, Oct. 29.—There is considerable excitement here and in other towns of the county over a murder just unearthed. The guilty man and his victim both have been respected citizens. Benjamin Trefry, of East River, disappeared last Saturday and no clue could be obtained as to his whereabouts. There was suspicion of foul play, as it was known that he had some trouble with one Absalom Hurlburt, a neighbour, and hundreds of people turned out to search the woods. The search continued all Sunday and most of yesterday, without any results being obtained. Suspicion seemed to gather around Hurlburt and at last he appears to have been unmanned by ominous looks in his direction, finally making confession that he killed the man and threw his body in the lake. Hurlburt is under arrest and parties have gone to drag the lake.

HALIFAX, Oct. 29.—A telegram from Yarmouth says this morning Hurlburt said his statement was made on the strength of a dream. The prisoner was lodged in gaol. He has made no further statement than the foregoing. Some time ago Hurlburt served two years in penitentiary for cattle stealing. Trefry was a widower, about twenty-five years of age, and leaves one child.

A TERRIBLE DESCENT.

Breaking of the Cage Gearing in a Nova Scotia Mine Shaft.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 29.—This afternoon the cage was being lowered in the west mine of the Canada Steel Company's works, near Londonderry, containing the following men:—Richard H. Perry, Thomas Vipond, Nathaniel Rushton, Oliver Rushton, Daniel Chisholm, and John McInnis. It was being lowered down Dufferin shaft when some of the gearing broke, and it was precipitated towards the bottom. Some distance further down the shaft the cage caught and overturned, throwing out the men, who fell a distance of a couple of hundred feet. The three first named were killed, two others fatally injured, and the other one very seriously hurt. The inquest was begun at the mines this evening. So far as can be learned to-night, no blame is attached to anybody.

THE EBB OF THE TIDE.

Two Bank Clerks Supposed to have Gone to the United States.

A despatch from Belleville to the Globe says: An embezzlement has come to light in the merchant's bank here. A few days ago, R. Yarwood, teller, and W. W. Scott, bookkeeper, obtained leave of absence and failed to return, but as their books was supposed to be correct no suspicions were entertained. Later developments show that they have stolen large sums, of which no estimate can be made as yet, but aggregating at least $10,000. The inspectors of the bank are examining the books, and detectives have been employed to trace the absconders. It is supposed that they have gone to the States.

THE SCOTT ACT.

Large Majorities Favor the Act in Four Counties—Defeated in one.

The Scot Act was, on Thursday, Oct. 30th, voted upon in four counties in Ontario, namely, —Bruce, Dufferin, Huron, and Prince Edward. In the three former the measure was carried by overwhelming majorities, but was defeated by a narrow majority in Prince Edward. In Kent, N. B., the question of the repeal of the measure was voted upon, resulting in its being sustained by an estimated majority of 300.

An Exciting Chase.

About 2 o'clock on Thursday afternoon an exciting event took place in the water-works office, city hall building, Toronto. The office was crowded with people paying their water rates. A young man, about 23 years of age, dressed in dark clothes, entered the back door and sauntered up to the cashier's counter with his hands in his pockets. There were several bundles of bills inside the railing. The respectable-looking young man reached his hand over and seized a package of bills amounting to about $150, bolted out the back door, ran a few steps and into the front door, quietly shoving the money in his overcoat pocket. He thought that by entering the front door he might join the crowd, and escape notice. The cashier seeing him entering the door shouted to the crowd to catch him, and the thief started up to the corner and along Front-street at a good rate. He was closely followed by a crowd of men. He turned up Church, doubled back on Colborne street, and darted into a lane back of Thomson's provision store. In another moment he had doubled back on Church street, but here he was seized by Mr. W. N. Bacon, clerk in the water-works office, who had been foremost in the pursuit. After a severe tussle Mr. Bacon held him until help came and the thief was taken to No. 1 Station. He gave his name as Wm. Botfield, and said he was a shoemaker from Montreal. The police discredit this story and will work up the case.—Globe.

TRADE DEPRESSION.

DUNDEE, Oct. 30.—The mill owners have resolved to reduce the wages of their operatives five per cent. Owing to the long continued depression of trade thousands are out of employment.

DON'T LET THE LOGS LIE.

The Ottawa Free Press, refering to the throwing of mill refuse into streams, gives the following reasons why logs should not be allowed to lie in the woods:—

"The only good which can be said to arise from this drifting of dead, and very shortly after injection from the mill, water-logged refuse, is that it furnishes in poor compensation for its grievances a small amount of wood, which the farmer utilizes as kindling for his household fires. Yet what an irreparable loss is, we may consider by this apparently harmless and gratis acquisition, affixed to our overloaded forests. The farmer, instead of availing himself of the proximity of the forest, laden and embarrassed with the fallen growth of centuries, prefers gathering what is as he considers—providentially or improvidentially, as the case may be driven to his shores—while in so doing he strips his forests of a very important factor to their growth and continuance by permitting the fallen and dead timber, not only to disfigure the beauty of a properly attended forest growth, but to check quite preceptibly and irrevocably the under or young growth of incidious or coniferous woods. Besides this rude carelessness to the proper attendance of the growing trees, the older are subjected to no less disastrous drawbacks to their natural development because the ground and their roots thus burdened with the decaying moss of centuries cannot receive that benefit from external and natural causes, such as rain, the sowing of seeds, etc., which consequently is refused them as promoters to their increase and fecunity. For an example of the correctness of this assertion we have but to investigate any of the finely tended forests of the old world and compare them to our own.

A Busy Saw.

We learn from Mr. Louttit, manager of Gilmour & Co's saw mill above this village, that his operations in lumber this year will amount to a cut of about one million feet, and this work has been done by one circular saw. This exceeds last year's business by 400,000 feet. Up to the present time he has turned out close on to 900,000 feet. Since the 1st of July he has disposed of 500,000 feet, the largest record ever made there in the same number of months. In this trade alone, many thousands of dollars have changed hands during the summer.—Campbellford Herald.

Threatening Letters.

Mr. J. A. Kelly, an hotel keeper of Brighton, was arrested for sending threatening letters to residents of that village who supported the the Scott Act. He was taken before Police Magistrate Dumble, of Cobourg, on Thursday, and committed for trial.

Hereditary Scrofula.

Are you aware that in your blood the taint of scrofula has a prominent place? This is true of every one. It is liable at any time, on the slightest provocation, to develop itself in some insidious disease. Consumption and many other diseases are outgrowths of this impurity of the blood. Shaker Blood Syrup has a wonderful power over all scrofulous troubles, as the remarkable testimonials we have received unmistakably prove.

We refer by permission, to Mrs. P. Elliott, Hanover, Maine, who was cured by Shaker Blood Syrup of 11 Scrofula Sores, the severity of which confined her to the house for 2 years. Six months previous to taking Shaker Blood Syrup, she could not get about her room without crutches. Her friend says I did not think it possible for her to live many months; she was reduced to a mere skeleton. Her cure is hardly less than a miracle. There is no doubt that in Shaker Blood Syrup, we have the most remarkable medicine that has ever been produced, and a positive cure for Syphilis and Scrofula in their numerous forms.

Nor another Pill shall go down my throat again, said a citizen, "when I can get such a prompt and pleasant cure for my Bilious attacks, as Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. It renders the Blood Pure and Cool and makes a splended Spring Medicine. Large Bottles 5 cents.

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1884.

COMPARE WITH YOUR OWN TIMES.

THE London Advertiser practically confesses itself unable to answer our challenge to it to give the exact particulars of any Conservative statement that protection would prevent commercial depression.

Unable to find any foundation for the false statements in this respect of itself and other Reform journals, the Advertiser practises the dishonest evasion of quoting from the Mail of 1882 the following paragraph, which it claims to "justify Reformers in holding the Tories to their declaration that protection is a preventative of commercial depression":—

"By the operation of the tariff the business of manufacturers has increased; the wholesale merchant's trade has been doubled. The farmer obtains better prices for his produce, and the mechanic and laborer have constant employment at increased wages. The cry about the pressure on the 'poor' man is mere twaddle."

Now, this is not a prophecy that protection would prevent commercial depression, but is a truthful description of the benefits conferred by the National Policy in 1882. It would be in a great measure true if applied to the present state of affairs.

There is no commercial depression at present as compared with the state of things when Mr. Mackenzie and his colleagues were in power, but rather a commercial expansion. There is some degree of depression as compared with other periods under the National Policy, but it was never claimed that the tariff would keep our commerce at one undeviating level. It is like a flood tide, gaining ground on the whole, even though there are temporary recoils.

Among the substantial benefits of the National Policy has been that our own people are now manufacturing a vast quantity of goods, the profits of making which formerly went out of the country. Another benefit has been that with great commercial depression both in Great Britain and the United States, we have been saved from such an influx of slaughtered goods as would have taken place under the old tariff, and would have made us suffer indeed from depression.

With such benefits derived from protection, it is not necessary to claim that it can work miracles. It would be as logical to claim that because bread and beef sustain life, they can prevent a man from dying.

So greatly has the National Policy benefitted Canada that its opponents are driven to the dishonest practices of exaggerating or inventing commercial depression on the one hand, and, on the other hand, of exaggerating or inventing predictions as to the result, which they ascribe to the advocates of the present system.

OUR Tory friends in their almost frenzied craze to prove Mr. Mowat guilty of bribery in the case of Mr. Jas. Hart, M.P.P., forget to notice the important fact clearly established that he had no knowledge, direct or indirect, at the time Mr. Hart signed the agreement to support the Government in the choice of a speaker and certain other questions, that he would be even asked to sign any such document.—Belleville Ontario.

We suspect that the Ontario's "Tory" friends have not forgotten the "fact" to which it refers, for they could not forget what they never knew. But what does the Ontario mean by such a statement? Before Mr. Mowat asked Mr. Striker not to file the petition he had received assurances that Mr. Hart would support the Government, and for that reason he did not want his return petitioned against. Does the Ontario mean that Mr. Hart signed the document in order to prevent proceedings being taken against his return, and that Mr. Mowat was only bribed, and was not the briber?

WE have a suggestion for the Macdonald reception. Put Big Push in for president.—Paris Star-Transcript.

There is one insurmountable difficulty in the way of carrying out this suggestion from our Reform contemporary published at Paris—the author of the "Big Push" letter is no longer on earth, the Hon. George Brown having died several years ago. If Mr. Brown were alive at the present time, however, if he did not join the Conservatives, he would certainly not assist the present Reform party, which has departed from the lines which he laid down for it and ridicules institutions which he held to be essential.

SIR JOHN himself said he went to England because his health was bad and he needed rest from the office-seekers.—Toronto Globe.

It is almost unnecessary to say that the above statement of the Globe is a falsehood, as the stamp of untruth is on the face of it, but it is in keeping with the most of the statements of that journal regarding the Dominion Premier.

CANADA AND MEXICO.

Effect of Establishment of Good Relations Between Britain and the Latter.

OTTAWA, Oct. 29.—The Senate of Mexico yesterday ratified the agreement between Great Britain and Mexico. The President approved, and cordial relations between the two governments are now consummated after the lapse of several years. The result has chiefly been brought about by representations from the Canadian Government. Our government did not see why Canadian trade should suffer in order that holders of Mexican bonds in England should have a chance given them of obtaining security for their repudiated bonds. No doubt steps will be at once taken to increase and develop our trade with Mexico, now that comity and amity have been established. While Canada's trade with Mexico has been about nil that of the United States has been very considerable, having aggregated in the year ended June 30th last, $21,750,005, of which $12,700,000 were exports to Mexico.—Mail.

SHOT AND KILLED.

Further Particulars of a Murder Committed in Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 27.—The first murder that has occurred in Winnipeg for over two years took place at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. Dave Welch came here from New York about eight months ago, since which time he has been employed about a saw mill. He brought with him a woman of doubtful reputation, but whom he claimed was his wife. Welch drank considerable, and on Saturday night got drunk. He reached his home, a small frame house in the suburbs, about 3 o'clock yesterday morning. He found in the house a gang of five men, drinking whiskey. Besides his wife, a disreputable woman named McPherson was in the house. Welch ordered the men out, when a row ensued. At the door Welch was struck by the men and knocked into the hall. One man, Welch says, threatened to put a hole through him. Welch then went inside, got a 38-calibre revolver, came to the door, and heard the gang quarrelling about twenty yards away. In order to frighten them away, Welch, according to his own version, fired. The ball took effect in the right side of John Cameron, and pierced his body, killing him instantly. His comrades carried him away. Welch, not knowing that he had done any harm, went into the house, lay down to sleep off the fumes of the liquor, and knew nothing until arrested, two hours later. All the gang are in custody. Welch is about thirty years of age, and Cameron twenty-eight.

ORGANIZED DEADBEATS.

How Twenty-Five Shanty Men Endeavored to Beat Their Way to Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Oct. 29.—When the up train on the Canadian Pacific Railway left Montreal this evening it was found that a gang of about twenty-five shanty men had got on board and determined to beat their way to Ottawa. They refused to show any tickets or pay any fares, and gave the conductor to understand that if he attempted to put any of their number off they would turn the tables upon him. The conductor, finding himself helpless in the hands of such a mob, telegraphed to Ottawa asking that assistance be sent out to meet his train. The shanty-men, finding themselves in possession, became riotous, threatening to smash everything and and acting in a very disorderly manner. As they were not interfered with, however, they did little damage. At Hull station a posse of Dominion and city police boarded the train, armed with revolvers, and arrested seventeen men. Three escaped while the arrests were being made, and some others paid their fares and were allowed to go. The seventeen prisoners were marched to the police station and lodged in the cells, and will be arraigned before the Magistrate in the morning.—Globe.

Talk English.

H. L. Harris, in the Christian at Work, gives some amusing illustrations of the violation of the purity of language by young people, especially by boys. He says: Among the still and more common errors in the use of language are these: The mispronouncing of unaccented syllables, as terruble for terrible; the omission of a letter or short syllable, as goin' for going, and ev'ry for every; and the running of words together without giving to every one a separate and distinct pronunciation.

I know a boy who says "don't wanter," when he means "I don't want to;" "whajer say?" when he means "what did you say?" and "where de go" instead of "where did he go?"

Sometimes you hear "ficod," instead of "if I could;" "wilefrean," instead of "I will if I can;" and "howjer know?"

And have you ever heard "m—m," instead of "yes," and "ni—ai," instead of "no?"

Let me give you a short conversation I overheard, the other day, between two pupils of our high school, and see if you never heard anything similar to it:

"Warejergo lasnight?"

"Hadder skate."

"Jerfind th' ice hard, good?"

"Yes; harn'nough."

"Jer goerlone?"

"No; Bill'n Joe wetenong."

"Howlate jerstay?"

"Past ate."

"Lemmeknow whenyergoagin, woncher?" I wanter go'n showyer howterskate."

"—m, ficodn't skate better'n you I'd sell out'n quik.'

"Well, we'll tyreronce'n seefy can."

Here they took different streets, and the conversation ceased. The boys write their compositions grammatically, and might use good language, and speak it distinctly if they would try. But they have got into this careless way of speaking, and make no effort to get out of it. Whenever they try to speak correctly they have to grope their way along slowly, and their expression seems forced or cramped, as though it were hard work for them to talk.

Everyone talks enough to keep well in practice, and those who try to speak correctly on every occasion soon find that the practice makes it just as easy for them to use the language at their command as to use the most common.

One of Nelson's Sailors.

When a midshipman made a complaint Captain Collingwood would order the man for punishment the next day, and in the interval, calling the boy down to him, would say:—"In all probability the fault was yours; but whether it was or not, I am sure it would go to your heart to see a man old enough to be your father disgraced and punished on your account, and it will, therefore, give me a good opinion of your disposition if, when he is brought out, you ask for his pardon." When this recommendation, acting as it did like an order, was complied with, and the lad interceded for the prisoner, Captain Collingwood would make great apparent difficulty in yielding, but at length would say, "This young gentleman has pleaded so humanely for you, that in the hope that you will feel a due gratitude to him for his benevolence, I will for this time overlook your offence." He watched over all his men, attended them when sick, and treated them with unvarying kindness, so that "though no man less courted what is called popularity, the sailors considered him and called him their father, and frequently, when he changed his ship, many of the men were seen in tears at his departure." He would not permit his officers to make use of coarse and violent language to the men. "If you do not know a man's name," he would say, "call him sailor," and not "you, sir," and such other appellations; they are offensive and improper."

If he had to reprove an officer it was done in a few words and in the language of a gentleman, and though strict in exacting from them the due performance of every part of their duty, he never teased or worried them with unnecessary trifles. From his superiors, on the other hand, he always expected that respect to which by his character and station he was entitled.—Percy Fitzgerald.

Reverend Republicans.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—One of the most extraordinary incidents of the present political campaign was the visit of a body of clergymen of New York city to Blaine at the Fifth Avenue hotel this morning, where the Republican candidate was receiving callers. In the morning a huge crowd was outside, shouting themselves hoarse for a view of the candidate when the delegation of one thousand and eighty clergymen of all denominations marched into the hotel, and after the way was cleared went up stairs to the parlour. Mr. Blaine appeared on the stairway and spoke a quarter of an hour on the issues of the campaign, and the work Church and State found to do in a free country. His remarks were received by the reverend hearers with applause. Mr. Blaine afterwards received them personally.

Burned to Death.

BRISTOL, Tenn., Oct. 29.—John Pike drove his two daughters from home last evening. They built a fire along the road and the clothing of one of them caught fire and she was burned to death.

Now is the time to paint the house, the outhouses and fences. A little varnish or zinc paint added to the lead will prevent the paint from rubbing off like white wash in a few years.

Had Designs on a Lumber Yard.

A well-known wood engraver and designer was hurrying home to supper the other evening, and had occasion to pass through a lumber yard in order to expedite matters.

As he merged from the yard he was arrested.

"Why do you arrest me?" he said to the officer.

"For trespassing," replied the officer.

"I merely walked through the yard, sir, as it saved me many steps on my way home."

"Well, all right then," said the officer; "but be careful to go 'round next time. But what is that you have under your arm?"

"Only a drawing, or rather a design on wood."

"Design on wood! Then you have a design on wood? How do I know but you have a design on this lumber yard. I guess I'll take you in anyway."

And he did.

The officer is to-day engaged in the praiseworthy and laudable enterprise of driving a cart.—Pretzel's Weekly.

TOWN COUNCIL MEETING

ANOTHER BY-LAW PASSED IN REFERENCE TO THE BETHUNE ST. SIDING.

The Electric Light Question is Again Referred to the Committee — Police Protection—Councillor McNeil is Duly Installed.

A meeting of the Town Council was held on Thursday evening.

PRESENT—His Worship the Mayor, and Councillors Davidson, Green, Yelland, Rutherford, Menzies, Millar, McNeil, Cahill, Kelly and Hartley.

COUNCILLOR MCNEIL INSTALLED.

Councillor DAVIDSON stated that before the business of the evening was proceeded with he wished to introduce to the Council Mr. A. McNeil, the newly elected member for Number One Ward.

The MAYOR said that he was glad to welcome Mr. McNeil to the Council Board.

The CLERK announced that Mr. A. McNeil had been elected, by a majority of 32, to represent Number One Ward; that he had filed the declaration of office and necessary qualifications, and that he was now entitled to a seat at the Council Board.

Mr. McNeil then took his seat as a member for Number One Ward.

THE MINUTES.

On motion the reading of the minutes was dispensed with.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From E. H. D. Hall, requesting the Council to take action in the matter of Mrs. Costello, who was hurt by falling through a defective sidewalk on Hunter street.—Finance Committee.

From E. B. Edwards, in reference to the Bethune street siding.—Received.

From H. Carew and Henry J. Douglass, asking appointments as night watchmen.—Received.

From R. W. Errett, in reference to $4.05 costs on income tax.—Ordered to be paid.

From James Stratton, on behalf of the Baptist Church, asking for permission to erect a wooden shed within the fire limits.—Building Committee, with power to act.

THE COMMITTEE.

Councillor MILLAR moved, seconded by Councillor MENZIES,—That Mr. McNeil be appointed a member of the several committees of which the late Councillor Allen was a member, with the exception of the Health Committee.—Carried.

ELECTRIC LIGHT.

Councillor RUTHERFORD stated that he had received a communication from Mr. Hazlitt in reference to the lighting of the streets with electric light. There had been no meeting of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee since the last meeting of the Council. The extra cost of the all night lighting would be 25 cents per light. He was afraid that the matter would fall to the ground, as several members of the Council were dissatisfied with the report of the committee and others were not willing to expend so much money on lighting.

Councillor MENZIES thought as the matter was before the Fire, Water and Gas Committee it should be left until they reported on it.

Councillor KELLY agreed with Councillor Menzies. He was in favor of the all night lighting and thought the matter should be duly considered.

Mr. HAZLITT on motion was heard. He said that he was asked to submit a price for lighting the streets, and he had done so. The rate was less than half that of any city or town in Canada. He did not urge the taking of the light, as it would be a loss to the Company. He was willing, however, to lose money to have the light properly introduced. It would cost considerable extra to light all night, as double lamps and carbons would have to be provided, and a man would have to be kept on duty all night. The Company furnished as good light and cheaper than any company on the continent of America.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that he was not in favour of paying any more than 25 cents per light a night. If the George street merchants wished to have it burning any longer than mid-midnight they should pay for it.

The MAYOR said that if the lights were left burning all night the services of one or two night watchmen might be dispensed with.

Councillor MCNEIL asked if Mr. Hazlitt would be willing to allow six lights to be burned as an experiment until the end of the year.

The MAYOR read a communication from Mr. Mr. Hazlitt to the Fire, Water and Gas Committee in reference to the subject.

Councillor CAHILL thought that $900, the cost of keeping six lights burning all night throughout the year, was not what the ratepayers desired.

Mr. HAZLITT compared the cost of electric light with that of gas. Six electric lights were going, as it was proposed, to replace sixteen gas lamps. The light would be better by far than that supplied by gas. The cost of the electric light, if burned the same number of nights, was only $15 extra per year. He proposed to run it for a week or a month by way of experiment, re-carboning at midnight. If the light was adopted he would then provide the double lamps and carbons.

Councillor CAHILL was in favor of having six lights burn until twelve o'clock, provided a fair distribution was made.

Councillor KELLY referred to the recent burglaries. He was in favor of the all-night lighting. He thought that if the matter were again referred to the committee, an arrangement might be made with Mr. Hazlitt.

Councillor YELLAND said that it was in the interest of the general public for the lights to burn until twelve o'clock; if burned from that time until morning there should be a local tax levied for it, as it benefitted the persons immediately interested in property.

Councillor GREEN said that as a member of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee he asked that it should be again referred.

Councillor HARTLEY said that it would be unfair and unjust to distribute the lamps entirely in number One and number Two Wards.

Councillor DAVIDSON suggested placing one lamp on the corner of Aylmer and Charlotte, and one on the corner of King and George streets.

Councillor MENZIES moved, seconded by Councillor GREEN,—That the matter of electric light be referred to the Fire, Water and Gas Committee to report at the next meeting of the Council.—Carried.

FURTHER APPOINTMENT.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor DAVINSON,—That Councillor McNeil be appointed a member of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee.—Carried.

THE FIRE ENGINE.

Councillor MCNEIL moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON,—That the Clerk be instructed to ascertain from the Silsbey Ma'fg. Co., of New York, the cost of a heater for the fire engine.

Councillor MCNEIL, in supporting the motion, said that the outside wards, not benefitted by the water works, were placed at a great disadvantage as sufficient steam could not be generated at a short notice. He gave instances where damage was sustained through this want.

The motion was carried.

HEATING THE COUNCIL CHAMBER.

Councillor RUTHERFORD moved, seconded by Councillor MENZIES,—That the Clerk have the power to provide coal stoves for the Council Chamber and that he dispose of the old ones at his own discretion.—Carried.

THE BY-LAW IS PASSED.

On motion, a newly framed By-law referring to the Bethune street siding was read for the first time.

Councillor KELLY thought that the second and third readings should be deferred, as Councillor Douglas, who was immediately interested, was not present.

The Council went into a committee of the whole on the second reading of the By-law, Councillor Hartley in the chair.

The first clause was passed.

Mr. R. ROWE was heard on the reading of the second clause. He asked that the matter be left over until Councillor Douglas be present.

Mr. W. H. MOORE was, on motion, heard on behalf of Mr. Douglas. He pointed out that the first section of the by-law provided that the railway should have a right of way over the siding. This was objectionable as cars might be left on the siding at times inconvenient to the property owners. The covenent which Mr. Yelland was required to enter into, should be embodied in the By-law. The By-law as it now stood required Mr. Yelland to enter into a covenent with the town, and the property owners could not enter an action under the By-law unless the town chose to allow them to do so.

Councillor YELLAND said that for two years he had been trying to secure this siding. He had complied with all the requests of the interested property owners, and he suffered considerable loss by not having the siding. The frost would soon set in and he would be staved off for another season.

Councillor CAHILL said that four by-laws had already been passed in reference to this siding. He thought that the matter should be left over until Mr. Douglas be present, so that no objection might afterwards arise.

Mr. POUSSETTE was heard on behalf of Mr. Yelland. He said that the covenent entered into by Mr. Yelland with the town provided ample security to the property owners. The property owners, under the by-law, would be fully reimbursed for the loss they might sustain. The security was absolute to the property owners interested, and the protection was of such a character that it provided for any inconvenience to which they might be put. There was no valid reason for the postponement of the matter. The Town Solicitor had given his opinion that the by-law amply covered all the ground. The second clause was passed and the Committee rose.

Councillor MILLAR moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON,—That by-law No. 473, in reference to the Bethune street siding, be read for the third time and passed.

Councillor RUTHERFORD moved in amendment,—That the third reading of the by-law be postponed until Monday night.

The amendment was lost and the original motion was put and carried.

The by-law was read for the third time and passed.

STREET REPAIRS.

Councillor KELLY moved, seconded by Councillor RUTHERFORD,—That the Clerk be instructed to communicate with the Chief Engineer of the Grand Trunk Railway, requesting him to put Bethune street, opposite the residence of Mr. R. B. Lundy, in a good state of repair.—Carried.

THE POLICE QUESTION.

The MAYOR stated that at the meeting of the Committee on Appointments he would give such information as he had received in reference to the police question, and that a report would be brought in at an early date.

The Council then adjourned until the evening of Monday, November 12th.

FROM ALL OVER.

THE Czar smokes four packages of cigarettes daily.

Dr. LOW'S Worm Syrup will remove worms and cause, quicker than any other medicine.

No student in Tulane University is permitted to pursue more than four studies.

DESTROY the worms or they may destroy the children. Use Ereman's Worm Powders, they expel all kinds of worms.

EGYPTOLOGISTS have discovered that Cleopatra's nose was short, saucy and celestial.

A GOOD TEST.—For over 16 years G. M. Everest, of Forest, has sold Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, and its sales are steadily increasing. It cures coughs, colds and all lung complaints; is pleasant to take and always reliable.

A German proverb says:—"Keep your eyes wide open before marriage and half shut after ward."

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—Fortelling the weather is a useful science, but relieving the effects of its sudden changes is a better one. Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam cures coughs and colds, incident to sudden changes.

THE cable steamship Faraday left Halifax on Wednesday to repair the commercial company's broken cable.

INHUMAN CRUELTY.—It is a barbaric cruelty to torture the weak stomachs of chronic invalids with harsh purgatives and sickening drugs, when Burdock Blood Bitters will regulate the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys in an agreeable and effectual a manner.

IT is reported Germany has offered the Brunswick succession to the Duke of Cambridge, and he has refused it.

So many write us of the merits of Zopessa from the West, Canada, the East and at home; they write of being cured of liver troubles, dyspepsia, urniary troubles, chronic headaches, etc., but we cannot publish them—any drug store keeps Zopessa. Ask J. D. Tully.

LORD Marcus Beresford was committed for trial in London, on Wednesday, for assaulting Mr. Thos. Bowles, editor of Vanity Fair.

USEFUL TO KNOW.—Everyone should know that Hagyard's Yellow Oil will give prompt relief; applied externally will stop any pain; and taken internally cures colds, asthma, croup, sore throat and most inflammatory complaints.

BARON Rothschild's loan of £950,000 to the Egyptian Government, which is due to-morrow has been renewed for three months.

OH! how tired and weak I feel, I don't believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning! O yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Doctor Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50c.

NEW YORK deadheads put on airs with the theatre managers. They have their free tickets presented on golden salvers and have to be begged to come in and make up a house.

A GOOD RECORD.—Among the many thousand bottles of Hagyard's Yellow Oil sold annually in Canada not one has ever failed to give satisfaction. It cures rheumatism, colds and all painful complaints and injuries.

FIFTEEN different machines are used in the manufacture of infants' shoes, but all the machinery in the world can not make a shoe that a healthy baby won't kick out in a week.

EVERYBODY having a cough is invited to call on J. D. Tully and get a bottle of Hub Cough Cure for 25c. It acts very quickly on children or adults.

THE report of the chemist of the United States Department of Agriculture says that the sugar business in the States must languish for a time, unless new methods of manufacture are introduced.

A REMARKABLE DISCOVERY.—A council of doctors declared Mrs. Adelaide O'Brien, of 372 Exchange St., Buffalo, incurable. Her liver was badly disordered; she vomited green mucous; could retain no food; skin yellow and full of humors. She was rapidly sinking; but Burdock Blood Bitters cured her.

MURRAY & Lanman's Florida Water is probably the simplest and purest perfume ever made, being absolutely nothing more than the delicious fragrance of rare flowers, preserved and made permanent, and it is doubtless to this purity of composition that its immense popularity is in a great measure to be ascribed.

MANY forget that the hair and scalp need cleansing as well as the hands and feet. Extensive use of Ayer's Hair Vigor has shown that it is the best cleansing agent for the hair—that it prevents as well as removes dandruff, cools and soothes the scalp, and stimulates the hair to renewed growth and beauty.

Loss of Flesh and Strength.

With poor appetite, and perhaps slight cough in morning, or on first lying down at night, should be looked to in time. Persons afflicted with consumption are proverbially unconscious of their real state. Most cases commence with disordered liver, leading to bad digestion and imperfect assimilation of food—hence the emication, or wasting of the flesh. It is a form of scrofulous disease, and is cured by the use of that greatest of all blood-cleansing, anti-bilious and invigorating compounds, known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

CINGALESE Hair Renewer restores, beautifies, invigorates and renews the hair. Restores grey hair to its natural color by a few week's use. Sold by J. D. Tully.

What to Do.

If troubled with an unhealthy, slow-healing sore use McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. You will find it invaluable for healing, cleansing and completely removing your trouble. If the blood is out of order take with it a few doses of McGregor's Speedy Cure, from John McKee's drug store.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Personal.

Mr. J. Stephenson, General Superintendent of the Grand Trunk Railway, arrived in town this morning in his private car. He is on an inspection tour.

Glimpses of Scotland.

Prof. Ryan, the well known lecturer, will deliver a lecture this evening in Bradburn's Opera House on "Glimpses of Scotland." The lecture will be illustrated by life like scenes of the land of the heroes and heather. The light will be supplied by calcium.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Increasing south-east to south-west winds, mostly cloudy weath with rain by night, higher temperatures, followed by lower temperature to-morrow.

Movement in Cheese.

Fourteen waggon loads of colored cheese from the Warminster factory of North Dummer were shipped this morning over the Grand Trunk Railway. The waggons contained an average of twenty-six boxes, making in all three hundred and sixty-four boxes. The cheese was purchased by Mr. W. Flavelle, of Lindsay, for eleven cents per pound.

Picturesque Ireland.

On Saturday evening Prof. Ryan will display before his audience in Bradburn's Opera House, vivid pictures of Erin. The scenes of the Emerald Isle will be lucidly explained by the lecturer. Natives of Ireland and those who have visited the land and its beautiful scenery, should take advantage of the opportunity and refresh their memories by seeing the calcium light views.

Scotch Heather.

Messrs. Fair, VanEvery and Co., of the Golden Lion, have shown us a most welcome present they have just received, consisting of a quantity of Scotch heather in bloom. They have kindly left us a bunch, and would no doubt oblige with a spray any enthusiastic Scotchman who may call at their store. This momento of the land of heather comes most appropriately on the festival of Hallowe'en.

Train Delayed.

On Thursday night the regular train on the Grand Junction Railway was delayed about two hours, on account of a mishap which occurred on the other side of Madoc Junction. By some means a spring of the engine slipped out of place and prevented the engines forward movement. The train was backed down the track for a short distance, the spring put in its proper position and the train proceeded to Peterborough.

Hallowe'en.

To-night is Hallowe'en, or the even ing before All Saint's Day. As usual, it is probable that fun and frolic will be first in the minds of the young people, but it is to be hoped that practical jokes will not be carried to excess, as has been the case in preceeding years. The Scottish portion of any population may spend the evening most appropriately by attending Prof. Regan's illustrated lecture on "Glimpses of Scotland." No doubt the lecture will be highly interesting to the general public as well as the natives of old "Scotia."

Ventriloquism.

The benefit on Thursday night to Mr. Orm. Dixon, the celebrated ventriloquist, was a success in every respect. The beneficiary himself thoroughly sustained his reputation as the best ventriloquist on this continent. His powers have matured since the days when a resident in our town he so often delighted local audiences, and his changes of voice were marvellous. Especially wonderful was his imitation of a distant railway whistle. His brother, Mr. W. A. Dixon, also showed by his imitations that ventriloquial talent runs in the the family. The singing of Mrs. Bowman and Miss Nettie Martin was very good, and their songs were deservedly encored. Mr. T. McNaughton's illuminated club swinging was a very pleasing feature of the entertainment, and we can well believe him to be the champion club swinger of Canada. Prof. Doucet executed a piano solo with good effect. Mr. F. Clark's playing on the banjo, hamonica and triangle simultaneously was very good, as also was his banjo solo. The Peterborough orchestra played the overture and finale in the creditable manner to which we are accustomed from them. Miss Revel and Prof. Doucet were efficient accompanists.

Men's and Boys' Lamb's Wool Shirts and Drawers, all sizes, at JOHN ERSKINE'S.

AN EXCITING CONTEST.

Fannie B. Wins the First, Second and Fourth Heats in the Hatched Trot.

On Thursday afternoon a matched race between Mr. E. Brown's Fannie B. and Mr. E. Thompson's Indian Billy, was trotted on the Driving Park amid considerable excitement. The weather was unexceptionable, the attendance fair, but the track was rather heavy. At half-past three o'clock Fannie B. appeared on the ring driven by Mr. C. S. Stapleton, and was shortly afterwards followed by Indian Billy, driven by Mr. Robt. Reid. Messrs. H. C. Winch, Geo. Woods (Port Hope), and C. Leary were judges, and Mr. A. Sawers acted as timer.

THE FIRST HEAT.

On the start Fannie B. led slightly, which position she retained during the first round. Coming in to the judges' stand for the first time Indian Billy obtained a slight lead, but he lost it by a bad break, giving Fannie a start of over a hundred yards. Indian Billy regained his feet and was closing the gap in good style. Fannie, however, won by about a length. Time, 2.58 mins.

THE SECOND HEAT.

The start was very even this heat; not much difference could be observed either way for the first two hundred yards. Fannie B. eventually led out and won by a few feet. During this heat Indian Billy again made two very damaging breaks. Time, 2.52 mins.

THE THIRD HEAT

was a good exhibition of trotting. Both horses got evenly away, and for the first ¼ mile there was not a foot between them. Indian Billy trotted with magnificent action, and Fannie was left behind. She seemed to feel her loss, for she, for the first time in the race, broke slightly. She recovered well but lost her advantage by breaking on the home stretch. Indian Billy won by about two lengths. Time, 2.50½ mins.

THE FOURTH AND LAST HEAT

was scored amid general interest. Indian Billy again went out in splendid form leading considerably until coming in to the judges' stand for the first time. Here Fannie B. closed in and the two trotters were neck and neck. As the horses again went out cheer after cheer followed the drivers of the respective favorites. Indian Billy again forged ahead and his admirers were confident of his winning the heat. At the ¾ pole, however, Billy broke and had to be brought to almost a walk. Meantime Fannie had gone by and finished the heat with ease. Time, 2.54¼ minutes.

The race was contested fairly and good feeling existed throughout the afternoon between the opposing parties. Everything in connection with the Park was conducted in an orderly manner, and the refreshment stand, which was conducted in a gentlemanly way, added not a little to the enjoyment of the day.

Enterprise and Merit.

Messrs. Giroux & Sullivan, the energetic dry goods men, are now extensively advertising an important benefit sail which will open on Nov. 1st, and close on December 31st. Since their opening, about three years ago, they have adhered strictly to the small profit plan and have found it to work admirably. Although large margins are not realized on the goods, yet they have gained by the quantity sold. The volume of trade at this establishment, under the above rule, and that of treating everyone alike, is ever increasing. This extensive sale will be a rare opportunity for those who wish to procure reliable goods at low prices. These goods we are informed will be sold at cheaper rates than at any bankrupt sale and the people should improve the opportunity offered at once. Remember that the sale opens on Saturday, November 1st.

A Beautiful Sight.

The attention of the public is directed to the decidedly pretty manner in which a certain store window in Peterborough is constantly dressed. Apart from the mere fact of ornamentation and excellent taste displayed in showing the numerous articles to good advantage, the goods thus so tastefully arranged are in themselves worthy of special observation. In gentlemen's furnishings the variety is immense, and he would, indeed, be hard to please that could not select a choice from the multifarious and beautiful stock that is carried in this store. Reader, have you any hesitation in supposing where this establishment is to be found? Then, if you are still in doubt, take a walk up George street, and you will find the place described at "Habillment Hall," and the popular proprietor is A. McNEIL.

BOYS' and Girls' Knitted Ribbed Hose, strong and of good quality, all sizes. Also, a fine variety of Ladies' Black and Colored Cashmere Hose. J. ERSKINE.

An Oyster Social.

An oyster supper and entertainment was held in the school room of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church on Thursday evening, under the auspices of the Young People's Floral Club. The tables were laid out in a class room and were laden with other edibles besides the oysters. The bivalves were served up in good style. The attendance was large, the school room being filled to overflowing. After the oysters had been served, Mr. A. L. Davis took the chair, and a duet was sung by Messrs. H. Stevens and J. Miller. They were loudly applauded. Miss May Snider gave a recitation, which was received with marked favor. An instrumental solo, on a mouth organ, "The Mocking Bird," by Mr. Jas. Hannah, was encored. Miss Jennie Coe sang "Sweet Dreamland Faces," and was compelled to respond to a recall. Mr. G. Schneider gave an instrumental solo on a piano, and it was one of the best features of the programme. The execution was admirable. A recitation by Miss E. Giles, which followed, was also well received. Mr. Jas. Hannah gave an exhibition of club swinging, and showed than in this exercise he was able to execute many and difficult movements. He was frequently applauded. Miss Grace Stevens sang a solo and was heartily encored. The entertainment was concluded by the members of the club singing "That Sweet By-and-bye," after which the Rev. T. Manning pronounced the benediction. As the company moved out the club sang the National Anthem. The Floral Club was only recently organized, and they have reason to feel proud of the success of the first entertainment held under their auspices.

A HOME DRUGGIST TESTIFIES.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."

River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

SALT RHEUM. GEORGE ANDREWS, overseer in the Lowell Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with Salt Rheum in its worst form. Its ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883.

The People Rescued.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—The steamer Rhein, from Bremen, reports on October 24th at seven p.m. it fell in with the steamer Maasdam, which was all ablaze. The Rhein took from her boats, passengers and crew numbering 186 and brought them to New York.

Police and Politics.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 31.—The United States grand jury has indicted Lieuts. of Police Mullen and Burke and Patrolmen Keating and Cunningham on the charge that "by force, threats and intimidation they prevented qualified voters from exercising their rights of suffrage." This is based on the arrest on the night of October 13th of a number of colored men, who were kept in the station house till after the polls closed, and dismissed without a charge being preferred.

Workers.

There are Workers marked by much working capacity who will not allow themselves to be interfered with in the slightest way; workers who take offence at trifles, who are harsh and hard, and sometimes cross ill-natured. Energy and activity are of consequence, but God did not save us merely that we might be energetic in his work. He saved us that we "might be conformed to the image of His dear Son." He is working in our hearts to that end, He is working to make us willing to suffer wrong and take it patiently for His sake. When Jesus, though rich, became for our sakes poor than we through His poverty might be rich, He not only laid the the ground of reconciliation with God, He also left us an example that we should follow in His steps. He became poor than through His poverty we might be rich, but our becoming rich is not merely through our getting, through our giving: not only through our entring on possessions purchased for us, but through our, like Him, becoming poor for others' sake. To become thus poor does not mean merely to give up home, friends, fortune, in whole or in part, though it may mean that. It means also giving up our own will and way, a much harder thing, it would seem, in some cases. It means becoming poor in spirit, forbearing, patient, gentle. The worker is not only the one who works, but the one who works in a right spirit; he is not only one sent to labor, but one chosen to have God's will fulfilled in him, chosen to have the beauty of the Lord testing on him, chosen to be like Christ. —Word and Work.

RE-BUILT AND RE-ESTABLISHED.

The Foundry of Messrs. Whyte & Co is Again in Operation.

Since the burning of Messrs. J. Whyte & Co.'s foundry on McDonnell street, about two years ago, they have been endeavoring to supply their trade from their Campbellford foundry. It has been taxed to its utmost capacity for the past year, but at last Messrs. Whyte & Co. have found that, to retain their large connection, it was advisable to again re-build their Peterborough establishment. Not only does Peterborough possess excellent facilities for manufacturing, but as a distributing point, with its railway and steamboat lines, it is unequalled. No doubt Messrs. Whyte & Co. have taken this into consideration, and have acted with sound judgment, as their action plainly shows. As is the case in building factories, experience ever suggests improvements, and with their large experience in this matter Messrs. Whyte & Co. have erected and constructed one of the most convenient and compact foundries in the country.

During the past summer the work of erection was commenced and already some branches of the foundry are in use.

THE BLACKSMITH SHOP

is situated at the extreme west end. It is 26x36 feet, contains two smith's forges, a furnace for heating plough beams and mould-boards—all substantially built of brick—and each forge having a separate fan blast. Attached to the furnace there is a large iron press for pressing mould-boards into shape and also a large iron-form for setting plough beams. All the tools requisite for a shop of the kind are supplied.

THE MOTIVE POWER.

South of the blacksmith shop is a building 26x12, which is intended for an engine and boiler house, in which will be placed a fifteen horse power steam engine and a twenty horse power boiler, when necessity demands. At present the power is amply supplied by a Leffel turbine water wheel, which is situated under an eight foot head of water, at about twenty feet from the foundry. Over the shafting leading to the foundry the trains of the Grand Trunk Railway regularly run, so that the situation for distributing is, it is plainly to be seen, unsurpassed. The steam engine for motive power will not be required more than two months in the year—in the dry summer, when the water is low.

THE MACHINE SHOP

is well lighted and furnished with every requirement for the department. It is 32x45 and is situated immediately east of the blacksmith shop, and contains iron turning lathes, iron drilling machines, a bolt cutter, emery wheels and polishing machines. Other pieces of machinery are being put in and the shop will be, when finished, in a complete condition.

THE PATTERN ROOM.

The pattern room is the same size as the machine shop, and is situated immediately above it. It is furnished with circular saws and turning lathes and other machines required for the working of wood.

THE CASTING DEPARTMENT.

Leading from the machine shop on the east side the casting department is entered. Its dimensions are 16x45 feet. The most interesting feature in this department is the foundry furnace. It was designed and constructed by Mr. John King, the foreman of the shop, and is said to be a great improvement on the ordinary blast furnace. It is thirty-eight feet high and is capable of running off five thousand pounds of iron per hour. It is twenty-seven inches in diameter, is lined with four inch fire brick from top to bottom, and is supplied with breath by a fanning machine which turns at the rate of thirty-four hundred revolutions per minute. It is smaller than the old fashioned kind, but melts faster and with much less expense. The iron when melted runs directly into the moulding room and is poured from ladles into the moulds.

EXTENSION.

To the south of the casting department is another building in which is placed the core oven and in which will also be placed a brass furnace. By adding twenty feet to the end of this building the moulding floors might be increased, if necessary, to the size of 44x42 feet. We understand that it is Messrs. Whyte & Co's. intention to do so.

THE BUILDING

is a frame one; boarded and battoned outside and will shortly be bricked and whitewashed on the inside. The roof is covered with shingles laid in mortar and thoroughly painted with Collins Bros. Fire and Water proof paint which gives it the appearance of a slate roof. The inside will also receive a coat of fire proof paint.

THEIR LARGE WAREROOM

and paint shop is situated on Hunter street. It stands in from the street a distance of thirty feet and is 170x40, Messrs. Whyte & Co., we are informed, intend building out the vacant space in front 50x30, and if the intention is carried into execution, the appearance of the place will be considerably added to. The wareroom is stored with agricultural implements of great variety. Chiefly noticeable are the cultivators, fanning mills, land rollers, gang ploughs, and the celebrated No. 3 plough manufactured by the firm.

REMARKS.

On or about the first of December it is expected that the buildings will be all completed and the machinery all placed in position.

It is the intention of the firm to establish a manufactory for the building of self binder reapers which are now coming into general use on the other side of the creek, opposite the foundry. They have the right to back up the water so that ten feet of head may be obtained, The sight would be well utilized if such a factory were established.

Thanksgiving Social.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Andrew's Church, will hold a social on Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 6th, in the School room. Tea will be served at 6 o'clock, after which a literary entertainment will be given. Admission 25 cents.

How to Save Money,

And we might also say time and pain as well, in our advice to good house-keepers and ladies generally. The great necessity existing always to have a perfectly safe remedy convenient for the relief and prompt cure for the ailments peculiar to woman—functional irregularity, constant pains and all the symptions attendant upon uterine disorders—induces us to recommend strongly and unqualifiedly Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—woman's best friend. It will save money.

MECHANICS AND ARTISANS.

THE Reformers are making great efforts to persuade the mechanics and artisans that they are badly treated by the Conservative Administration of the Dominion. In order to convey this unfounded impression they make deliberate false statements.

The two leading falsehoods are (1) that Canadian mechanics and artisans are taxed to pay for the passages of mechanics and artisans from other countries to compete with them; and (2) that manufacturers and capitalists are protected while mechanics and artisans are not protected.

As to the first of the falsehoods, it is a fact that the Mackenzie Administration granted assisted passages to mechanics and artisans, but it is no less a fact that the Macdonald Administration long ago discontinued the practice.

As to the second of these falsehoods, it is not true that the manufacturers and capitalists are protected any more than the mechanics and artisans. Manufacturers and capitalists may come to Canada, or may even send their capital without coming, to compete with our manufacturers and capitalists, just as mechanics and artisans may come to compete with our mechanics and artisans. Our manufactured goods are protected, but they are the product of the capitalist and the artisan conjointly, who are both benefitted by the exclusion of foreign goods that would replace their own products.

It may also be remarked that of the immigrants arriving a very small proportion are artisans, and a very large proportion consumers of manufactured goods, so that recent immigration has supplied more customers for, than competitors with, our mechanics and artisans.

Our mechanics and artisans, our working men, know when they are well off, and have no wish to return to the rule of those whose idea is that Canadians should buy foreign goods, produced by foreign artisans, if they are cheaper, though for that matter they are cheaper now under the National Policy. More regular work and better wages are benefits that our mechanics and artisans have no wish to forego.

THE Globe publishes a very "funny" article on "our new Dominion as it will be when the little Island of Jamaica has been politically tacked to our skirts." The chief point it tries to make appears to be, the distance the island is from Canada, and that on that account its annexation to the Dominion is undesirable. If England had acted on that principle, how many colonial possessions would she be able to boast of? And yet Englishmen are silly enough to be proud of the many distant possessions of the empire on which "the sun never sets." The Globe tries to draw an amusing picture of Canada protecting Jamaica or Jamaica protecting Canada, but why does it leave out of consideration the magnificent navy and army of the empire? How does the Globe know that Jamaica "will be" "tacked to our skirts?" and if it should be, what reason has the Globe for supposing that Canada would be bound alone to protect the island, should it ever require protection, when the Dominion would not be compelled to stand alone in protecting itself? The whole article is supremely silly.

SOME of our Reform friends are very solicitous over the details of the proposed banquet to Sir John Macdonald. The contribution of the Lindsay Post is the suggestion that there should be a ghost at the banquet. The Hon. George Brown, the author of the notorious letter inviting Senator Simpson and others to unite in a "Big Push," so forcibly condemned by one of our judges as corrupt, is now dead and cannot appear in the flesh, nor enjoy a banquet. Perhaps the Post wishes to obtain a repetition of the late Senator's views on the veto power, elective senate, &c.

AMONG some amusing remarks by that licensed jester the Lindsay Post, our facetious contemporary hints that Mr. Mowat did not gerrymander Ontario and that Sir John Macdonald did so. It will probably be useless to ask the Post what it understands by "gerrymandering," and how it can maintain that Mr. Mowat did not gerrymander Ontario in his redistribution of the constituencies. However, if the Post condescends to reply, we will then willing give our views as to the Macdonald redistribution.

THE Globe thinks that Jamaica should not be "politically tacked to the skirts" of the Dominion. Does the Dominion wear skirts? If it does, and they reach as far as Jamaica, would it not be well to annex the island so as to get the "blacks" to hold them up and not let them drag in the waters of the Atlantic?

What His Business Was.

"Will you want a sample room, sir?" asked an hotel clerk of a guest who had just registered.

"No, sir," was the pompous reply. "I am a lawyer, sir, not a drummer. I am not selling merchandise. I am selling brains."

"Ah! I see," said the clerk. "Of course you don't want a sample room when you don't carry any samples."

KEEPING THE SEA BACK.

The Safety of Holland Only Secured by Eternal Vigilance.

After a delicious breakfast of coffee and thick cream, with rusks, scones, and different kinds cheese, always indispensible in Dutch breakfasts, we took to the railway again and crossed Zealand, which chiefly consists of four islands—Noort Beveland, Zuid Beveland, Schouwen, and Walcheren, and is less visited by the rest of the Netherlanders than any other part of the country. The land is all cut up into vast polders, as the huge meadows are called, which are recovered from the sea and protected by embankments. Here, if human care was withdrawn for six months, the whole country would be under the sea again.

A corps of engineers, called "Waterstaat," are continually employed to watch the waters and to keep in repair the dykes, which are formed of clay at the bottom, as that is more waterproof than anything else, and thatched with willows, which are here grown extensively for the purpose. If the sea passes a dyke ruin is imminent, an alarm bell rings and the whole population rushes to the rescue. The moment one dyke is even menaced the people begin to build another inside it and then rely on the double defence while they fortify the old one. But all their care has not preserved the islands of Zealand. Three centuries ago Schouwen was entirely submerged and every living creature drowned. Soon after Noort Beveland was submerged and remained for several years entirely under water, only the points of the church spires being visible. Zuid Beveland has been submerged in the fourteenth century. Walcheren was submerged as late as 1808, and Tholen even in 1825.—Good Words.

BACK LIKE THE BAD PENNY.

Mr. S. S. Peck, the individual known as the Stipendiary Magistrate of Haliburton and the champion defaulter of the district, has turned up again like the bad penny and is now safely ensconced in his old quarters in Minden. It is claimed he would have been back to attend to his judicial duties some time ago but his Dakota farm is growing so extensive and there is so great a quantity of fall work to be done that he could not see his way clear till now to attend to his Haliburton duties. But this as it may, his farm duties are now disposed of for the season, and having left his Presidential vote in good hands he is now able to spare a few weeks for Haliburton.

How much longer are we to have this farce of an American resident administering the law in Canada and drawing a salary as a Canadian Magistrate? Have we not as good men in Haliburton to fill this responsible appointment without paying a foreigner for such duties, and he only recently a public defaulter to the district and the people he is now supposed to administer justice? Would such a case be tolerated any where else or would a Government ever defy the people in such a barefaced manner as Mr. Mowat has done with the people of Haliburton? And again, where could an instance be found of a leader of a Government supporting and defending openly in the legislative chamber a man who escaped criminality only by a base and cunning trickery, and refused to listen to a petition signed by all the leading residents of the county praying for his dismissal? Yet the fact of S. S. Peck again putting in an appearance and preparing once more for a few months residence in Minden is evidence that the outrage is to be still further perpetuated.

If the people of Haliburton ever intend to get rid of this obnoxious individual the sooner they begin to move in the matter the better. The disgrace of such a representative on the magisterial bench has been borne a long time even in this long-suffering district and has gone a long way towards bringing Canadian law and Canadian justice into public contempt. Did Mr. Peck express any contrition for the past and endeavor to be more honorable in future it might be some palliation; but to glory in his iniquity and defy public opinion as he endeavors to do should bring upon him speedy retribution. If the matter was taken up and openly laid before parliament we believe there is still sufficient sense of honor even in the Ontario legislature to bounce him out of the district, even though he is known as Slipwery Sam and he is championed by that great man of so-called christian principles, Mr. Mowat. Let an effort be made to rid Haliburton and even the province of such incubus and that as speedily as possible.—Lindsay Warder.

LINDSAY.

MILL MACHINERY.—On Thursday morning the 100 h.p. engine for Sadler, Dundas & Co.'s mill was hauled into the engine house and placed on the foundation. The engine is from the Wm. Hamilton engine works at Peterborough. Doty & Son, of Toronto, have the large boiler already in position and the smokestack up.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.—The Bishop of Toronto has formally made the appointment of Rev. S. Weston-Jones as incumbent of St. Paul's, Lindsay. Mr. Jones has most efficiently and satisfactorily discharged the duties of incumbent for two years—for three years in fact—and the formal appointment will be very gratifying to the congregation.

ACCIDENT.—A painful accident happened on Saturday to Robbie, the little son of Mr. E. McFeely. A game of ball being in progress in a field adjoining he ascended to the hay loft of a stable overlooking the field in order to obtain a good view, and he missed his footing and fell through an aperture in the ceiling used for putting down fodder to the floor below, a distance of about thirteen feet, and sustained a dislocation of the shoulder. Dr. Kempt attended the sufferer, who is now doing well.

THE STAFFORD LIBRARY.—On Sunday and Wednesday of this week the "Stafford Library" was opened for the delivery of books and periodicals to those entitled to the privileges of the institution. The library is the outcome of a plan started by the late Father Stafford, and is founded under the provisions of his will, by which the greater part of the excellent library in his possession at the time of his death was made the foundation on which to organize the present institution. A fund was also set aside to provide for further additions to the number of books. The library opens with about 1,800 volumes in hand, and in charge of Mr. M. O'Brien, principal of the separate school, as librarian. One of the upper rooms in the school building has been reserved for the library and will be open hereafter between 12 a. m. and 1 p. m. on Sunday, and from three to four o'clock on Wednesday afternoon of each week.—Post.

ELECTRIC LIGHT.—We understand a scheme is on foot to bring the electric light into Lindsay. This, with a good water-works scheme, is much needed and would aid much to the public convenience. Lindsay merchants should take hold of the matter and help it along. It all adds to the prosperity of the town.—Warder.

STIRLING.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.—On Wednesday afternoon, as Henry, son of Wm. Heagle, 7th con. of Rawdon, was hunting partridge, he fell, and the gun discharged, the contents entering about two inches below and in front of the left nipple, coming out about four inches left of the spinal column, making a circuit around outside the ribs, leading to the belief that it was only a blank charge, though the young man supposed that he had the gun loaded for partridge. So far he is doing as well as could be expected.—News-Argus.

Dangerous Pastime.

HAMILTON, Oct. 30.—Dr. Carvel's visit to this city set all the small boys lassoing. The result was that a small boy, named John Carey, was lassoed by his companions and dragged along the ground for some distance, receiving such injuries that he died last night. An inquest was held to on Thursday night, when the coroner's jury viewed the body and adjourned for a week. The physicians who held an autopsy say that the boy really died of typhoid fever, and do not think the injuries he had received at the hands of the lassoists caused his death. The friends of the dead boy do not share this view.

NUISANCES.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Your issue of October 30th contains a letter on the subject of the railway whistle, from a correspondent who uses the nom-de-plume "Progress," in which he suggests that "we have talent enough in Peterborough to frame a By-law" for the abatement of the nuisance, without waiting for a copy of one proposed to be adopted by the Toronto Council.

Yes, sir, there is abundant talent for that purpose, but the will is wanting on the part of our Councillors, or why don't they obtain a copy of the amended Railway Act, and instruct their solicitor to frame a By-law in accordance with the provisions of that Act?

At a recent meeting of the Council, one of their number, Mr. Yelland, while confessing that the steam whistle is a nuisance, asserted that there are other nuisances of a worse character, and instanced one and only one, viz.: the hiring out of carriages on Sundays by livery stable keepers.

I fear the worthy Councillor, before giving utterance to so singular an assertion, had not given the question that amount of consideration which is due to every matter introduced at the meetings of the Board. For suppose, for the sake of argument, the hiring out of carriages on Sunday is as great a nuisance as the railway whistle, it is a nuisance which can occur on only one day out of the seven, and again, it is a nuisance which is only perpetrated during a few hours of that one day, whereas the steam whistle is sounding in our ears by night as well as by day, during all the seven days of the week.

Mr. Yelland may say what he likes about the comparative demerits of nuisances—he has, or wants to have, a "siding," and is thus, I suppose, somewhat mixed up with railway matters, —but I still maintain that the most intolerable of all nuisances is the being awakened, night after night, long before daylight, to wit, between 3 and 4 o'clock, by the discordant shrieks of the railway steam whistle.

PROCLAMATION!

BULLETIN ISSUED FROM THE CITY CLOTHING STORE.

PERSONALLY we do not know every buyer of Clothing and Gents' Furnishings in Peterborough, but the constant and uninterupted flow of new customers who are daily making our establishment their headquarters for their wants, warrants us in believing that the public after once visiting the City Clothing Store, become SOLID customers. And what is more, they tell their friends and neighbours of the fair and square manner they are dealt with, and by this means we have gained the public confidence.

PERSONAL: H LeBRUN is never behind in anything he takes hold of, and in the Clothing Trade he has proved himself a shrewd buyer—purchasing nothing that would be an eyesore on the shelves, and taking none but a class of goods that the general public are in daily need of. The WORKING MAN is not forgotten by LeBRUN, who has constantly on hand a class of goods that the mechanic requires, such as Ready-made Clothing, Hats, Shirts, Collars, Cuffs, Ties, Braces, Gloves, Hosiery, Underwear, Umbrellas, Rugs, Water-proof Coats—in fact everything in the Gentlemens' Furnishing line.

A GOOD FIT IS EVERYTHING!

If a man buys a suit of Clothes, the first thing he will do is to choose a piece of cloth he likes—something suitable and pretty. That's right; the correct thing to do. But if that man does not get a good fit—if the Cutter makes a "botch" of the job—the cloth that looked so enticing to him before being made up, now becomes cheap-looking and he dosen't like it. MR. KILPATRICK, although only with the City Clothing Store about two months, is giving universal satisfaction, and he makes no mistakes nor botches no clothes, but guarantees a perfect fit and the most fashionable cut. In consequence our Order Department is having an unprecedented run. In BOYS' SUITS we are doing a grand trade.

JUST LISTEN TO THIS!

We have an extra large stock of Ready-made Overcoats for Men and Boys, and are determined to dispose of them immediately. So if you want a neat and nobby Coat cheap, call and examine ours.

In UNDERCLOTHING our assortment is very extensive, and the public will find on examination that it is one of the best stocks in town.

In GENTS' FURNISHINGS the City Clothing Store stands at the head of the class. Your every want is here, and if you cannot see what you want, ask for it, and presto! it is before you. The greatest feature in our store is the prices, they are ROCK BOTTOM!

H. LeBRUN,

The Old Established City Clothing Store.

PROVISIONS.

The prevailing low prices of Provisions ought to be an incentive to vigorous economy during the fall months while work is yet plenty, so that sufficient means will be laid aside for the purchase of a Stock of Staple Supplies for the table during the winter. Prices have not been as low for many years.

Flour, best Roll Ground, $2.00 per hund.
Potatoes, 45c. per Bag.
Oat, Corn and Wheat Meal, 3c. per Pound,
2½c. per Pound in 25 Pound Parcels.
Fresh Pork, 5c. to 10c. per Pound.

Provisions will likely be cheap all winter, but work will be very much scarcer than now. Make an effort to get in your winters Stock now.

COMPENSATION.

The truest words we ever speak
Are words of cheer.
Life has its shade, its valleys deep;
But round our feet the shadows creep,
To prove the sunlight near.
Between the hills those valleys sleep—
The sun-crowned hills!
And down their sides with those who seek
With hopeful spirit, brave, though meek,
Find gently flowing rills.

For every cloud a silver light;
God wills it so.
For every vale, a shining height;
A glorious morn for every night;
And birth for labor's throe.
For snow's white wing, a verdant field;
A gain for loss,
For buried seed, a harvest yield;
For pain, a strength, the joy revealed,
A crown for every cross.

—Christian Register.

Noble Lives.

Noble lives have no limit of usefulness. They bring blessings to those that live them, and they bring blessings to those who behold and who follow them, though afar. The very knowledge of them brings inspiration—as of a breeze blowing from the clear heights—to those who are not, but would fain be, as these are; and who cry out with England's modern blind poet:

"Pure souls that watch above me from afar,
To whom, as to the stars, I raise my eyes;
Draw me to your large skies,
Where God and quiet are."

Would you be noble? Look to the noble and follow the noble. Would you teach others to be noble? First learn to be noble yourself.—S. S. Times.

The Inspirer of Great Results.

All men who have achieved great results, feel, in the moment of their triumph, if they are honest with themselves, that not to themselves, but to Him who gave ability and opportunity and courage, belongs the glory. Man is but a vacuum, save as he is filled by the Divine. It would be well if, in our little achievements, we could continually realize what the best of men feel in their great achievements, that it is God who worketh in us, and that whatever glory attaches to the deed done belongs, not to us, but to God's great name. It would be better for all of us if in sincerity and truth we oftener joined with the psalmist in that great song of self-abnegation, "Not unto us, O Lord, not unto us, but unto thy name give glory."—Exchange.

The Ninth Commandment.

"What is the ninth commandment?" said a teacher to a boy in Sunday school.

"Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor."

"What is bearing false witness against thy neighbour?"

"It is telling falsehood."

"That is partly true, and yet it is not exactly the right answer—because you can tell a falsehood about yourself."

A little girl then said:

"It is when nobody did anything and somebody went and told of it."

"That will do," said the teacher with a smile.

The little girl had given a curious answer, but underneath her odd language there was a pretty clear conception of the true meaning.—Christian Weekly.

What is Right.

There is a wide difference in the estimate of justice and right among men. Some have an instinctive sense of justice; others always have distorted or shaded views of right and wrong. The difference is not that there is an intention to do wrong, but that each has learned to view all moral questions from his particular standpoint. Yet right and wrong are immutable. Each is stamped with its peculiar characteristic, and these do not change. Hence if different views of the moral quality of a given act are taken it is evident that one or the other is wrong. Hence a right view of justice and all the moral issues is a matter of training. How may it best be done?

We answer by inculcating clear perceptions of the fundamental principles of right. These are simple and plain. It is right to tell the truth, to deal honestly, to respect others' rights and to observe the rules of commercial morality. To injure another's reputation is wrong; and to despoil another of property, even if legally done, is wrong. The original, fundamental principles of right and wrong are simple and plain. It is when we observe them by special influences that we are befogged. There is always a special plea for an act of spoilation, whether of character or property.—Exchange.

Moral Energy.

The Christian is known by the energy with which he wills to do right. He does not merely love what is good, but chooses it with power. We often hear of greatness of character. The only true greatness consists in unconquerable purpose of obedience to God. It consists in adhering with energy and courage to truth, duty and honor. It consists in asking ourselves, first, not what is expedient or safe, but what is generous, excellent, and acceptable to God.

The true use of the trials and temptations of life, and of the turbulent passions in our own breasts, is to call forth spiritual energy and heroic purposes. Excellence must be pursued earnestly. Our whole nature must be awake. Who does not see that such a world is fitted for to form a higher order of minds than a state removed from temptation? True, we must toil, but the harvest is rich. Force of moral purpose makes us happy. Happiness does not consist, as men are apt to imagine, in passive enjoyments; it is found in the strenuous use of our best affections. Moral energy inspires an unconquerable resolution, and fills us with a rare delight. The most exulting moments of life are those when, after a conflict of strong passion with the sense of duty, we come off conquerors.—Channing.

Lead the Children.

Though in proverbial phrase "the child is father of the man," it often happens that the family resemblance between the two is not easily discerned. Many a noisy thoughtless boy becomes the most quiet and thoughtful of men; frequently some large-eyed, dreamy youth shows, as the years pass, that he is rich in qualities of push and endurance and self-help, unsuspected in his childhood. Let the rivulet leap from rock to rock down the mountain side, and dash against its banks, and scatter itself on the ledges—its method of progress will vastly change when it reaches the lower levels, and feels the great pulse of the ocean beating up through the arteries of bay and river. The problem of every child's training is complicated by the fact that these underlying, undeveloped qualities of heart and mind may be deflecting the compass of the child's conduct. Where to repress and when to encourage, what to enjoin and when to restrain—how much more easily the answers to these questions would be found, could parent or teacher completely understand the child heart, in its present state and its future possibilities, as God understands it. Yet where much is uncertain, one thing is settled—whatever the little one's present qualities, or future peculiarities, or remote possibilities, —Christian training and Christian love, and a wise leading into the love of Christ are always suitable, always essential, always exactly adapted to this child as he is, and to the man that this child is to be.—S. S. Times.

CAMPBELLFORD.

CEASED RUNNING.—There is no longer a tage line connecting Campbellford with the C. P. Railway at Havelock.

MOVING GRAIN.—Large quantities of grain are now arriving here. On Tuesday of this week, three thousand bushels were delivered at the station, and since our last issue, about ten thousand bushels have been brought in and sold.

FOUND.—Mrs. Davey, for assaulting whom several young men are under arrest, and who disappeared, it was feared through foul play, has been found and is held by the authorities.—Herald.

Ladies cannot do better than call at Turnbull's show rooms for fashionable Millinery, all the latest shapes trimmed with colours to match Suits.

FARM AND GARDEN.

BEFORE winter begins, the older sheep should be separated and fed a little extra, so as to get them in condition for the butcher. There is no profit in sheep over six years old, except to feed and kill.

FIELDS that have been newly seeded should have the stones gathered in heaps before cold weather, for removal. The removal may be done when the ground is frozen if those last in the ground are placed in heaps. The roller in the spring will press into the soft earth the stones too small to be easily picked up.

TOP dress bearing orchards, annually or biennially, and cultivate young or newly set out orchards as assiduously as you would a crop of corn, turnips or potatoes; any of these three crops being suitable to raise among the young trees. Make a timely register of all fruit trees when first set out, so that when they come into bearing and the labels are lost you will know what they are.

THERE is economy in double lining the henhouse before cold weather sets in. Every time a fowls comb is frozen she stops laying until the injury is repaired. The best layers are Leghorns, which have large combs that are especially liable to injury by frost. With warm quarters and the right kind of feed, Leghorns will lay as many eggs in winter as any other variety of fowl.

MEADOWS should not be closely grazed at any time, and especially not in the fall. They need to have fertilizing material added to instead of taken from the soil. Young animals are much more injurious than mature ones, while full-grown stock that are being fattened, and are fed rich grain rations, may, by their droppings, add materially to the fertility of the soil. Young, growing stock withold a large share of the potash, phosphoric acid, and nitrogen of the food to build up their bodies, leaving the manure comparatively poor. On the other hand mature fattening annimals need very little of these chief elements of soil fertility. Aside from the loss of plant food, the close feeding of stock on meadow land does mechanical damage. If the soil is soft, the feet of the animals injure it, and the close grazing pulls much of the grass up by the roots. Meadows, like winter grains, are injured by freezing and thawing, and the plants need to be in a vigorous condition in late fall, with a good growth of after-math for protection from the frosts, winds, etc.

DOMESTIC.

PICKLED LAMBS' TONGUE.—Boil until tender, put them in cold water and take off the skins. Scald enough vinegar to cover them, seasoning whole cloves and cinnamon; put the tongues into a jar, pour over them the vinegar, and keep them well covered. If the tongues have not been corned, they will need salt.

A FIG PUDDING made from this recipe is not only delicious, but furnishes still another way in which the frugal housewife may use her crumbs of bread to good advantage: Take half a pound of the best figs, wash and chop them fine, two teaspoonsful of grated bread (crusts for one may be used), half a cup of sweet cream, one cup of sweet milk, half a cup of sugar; mix the bread crumbs with the cream, then stir in the figs, then the sugar, and the last thing get in the milk; pour into a mould or a pudding dish and steam for three hours.

MELANGE SOUP.—One cup of rice (scant), three pounds of coarse, lean beef; some mutton bones, two carrots, two turnips, one onion, essence of celery two teaspoonfuls, pepper and salt, four quarts of cold water, one cup of tomato juice from a can of tomatoes. Cut the meat into dice and put on into water. Boil gently two hours, when add the rice, tomato juice and the vegetables cut into small squares, and already cooked five minutes in hot water to take off the rank taste. Stew half an hour, or until the vegetables and rice are tender, but not a pulp; season; boil up once and pour out—meat, vegetables and all—into a tureen.

A housekeeper who is noted among other virtues for her delicious chocolate cake gives the following directions for the preparation of the chocolate icing:—Take two ounces of chocolate; do not grate it, but put it unbroken on a pie-plate or in a shallow basin, and set it on the back part of the stove, where it will melt slowly. Of course it must be watched carefully and kept from burning. When it is all melted add two tablespoonfuls of milk, two of water and a teacupful of sugar; mix thoroughly and let it boil for five minutes. Make the cake after any good layer cake recipe. When the cake is cold spread the chocolate on the layers and on the top of the cake, and set that in the oven to harden. This is the most satisfactory way in which I have ever seen chocolate prepared. The icing has the smooth and almost glossy look which confectioners give to their icing.

Fingers Caught.

In Mr. M. McFadden's furniture factory on Friday, James Ruth's hand got caught in a jointer. The top of the second finger was cut off and the third finger was injured. Dr. Kincaid dressed the wounds.

Vital Statistics.

The number of births, marriages and deaths registered in the Town Clerk's office during the month of October was as follows:—

Births	12
Marriages	7
Deaths	10

Ladies wanting pillow sham holders will be pleased to learn that Mr. A. Clegg has received the agency for Peterborough, Millbrook, Norwood, and Lakefield. Call and examine them and we are sure no lady will be without them.

Stripped out the Spokes.

On Friday evening at about six o'clock, Mr. M. McFadden's delivery express was being driven up George Street and a buggy belonging to Mr. M. Halpin was being driven down. When opposite the store of Messrs. W. J. Morrow & Co., the two vehicles collided, that of Mr. Halpin's receiving considerable damage, several spokes having been stripped out of the wheels by the heavy hubs of the express.

Turnbull has a fine range of Children's Knit School Dresses which only need introducing to be appreciated.

Church of England Service.

The form of evening prayers, with the psalms, hymns, etc., in consecutive order has been published in pamphlet shape for each Sunday of the year. The forms can be be obtained at the door of St. John's Church on Sunday mornings by those who desire to have them. It is hoped that this will enable all the members of the congregation to take part in the service by joining audibly in the responses.

Silver Sounds.

Mr. A. Freeman, leader of the City Band, has recently procured a very valuable and handsome B flat cornet. It was manufactured by Messrs. Antoine & Courtois, St. Marias street, St. Martin, Paris, and is modelled after the style of the cornet used by Levy, the celebrated cornet soloist. It has a very clear silvery tone, and is valued at $100. Mr. Freeman will use this instrument in solos and orchestra work.

The City Clothing Store.

Mr. H. LeBeun, of the City Clothing Store, has, as will be seen by his proclamation in another column, a full stock of everything requisite for gentlemen's wear. He has, in purchasing his fall stock, kept in mind the requirements of every class; the professional man, the merchant, the mechanic, the farmer, and the laborer. He has the best facilities for turning out ordered clothing, and has also on hand a large stock of ready-made goods.

Just received, another lot of Damaged Table Cloths in small and Medium sizes at JOHN ERSKINE'S.

Attention!

We would ask our readers to bear in mind the Oddfellows' Entertainment and Concert on Wednesday next, 5th November. The Otonabee Lodge purposes giving concerts and lectures during the winter of a refining, elevating, and highly interesting nature, which no doubt will be fully appreciated. The Fitchburg Sentinel says of Miss Couthoui, who makes her first appearance in this part of the country:—

"In her pathetic selections she drew tears freely from her audience. In the humorous there were peals of laughter. Her audience would have tarried till midnight if the reader's strength could have endured."

The Galesburg Daily Republican Register says:—

"The audience seemed at times to be spell-bound under her influence, the silence being almost painful."

A Boston paper says:—

"There is no question but that the verdict of the old deacon of Vermont was correct, when he said 'That girl is immense.'"

The Dufferin Club.

A meeting of the Dufferin Literary Club was held in their room in the Mechanics' Institute on Friday evening. Several new members were proposed and elected. After the business of the evening had been transacted Mr. Long read the third and last section of his essay on Canada. At the conclusion he was warmly applauded, and a unanimous vote of thanks was tendered him for the rendering of so valuable a contribution. The subject of debate for the evening—Resolved: that it is not the duty of the Government to support high schools,—was next in order. Mr. E. A. Peck led the affirmative, and Mr. W. Packenham led the negative. The discussion was hot and hearty, but at the same time decorous. The President decided in favor of the affirmative. The club is steadily growing in numbers, and the members seem to take a warm interest in its success.

Our War Correspondence.

The Lindsay Post contains the following paragraph:—

"The Peterborough REVIEW, with its accustomed enterprise, publishes interesting letters descriptive of the doings of the Canadian contingent who have gone under the command of Lord Wolseley to the relief of General Gordon. We congratulate the REVIEW on printing the best and most interesting war correspondence to be found in any of the Canadian daily papers. The writer is, we believe, Mr. J. A. Sherlock, son of Mr. L. Sherlock, accountant for the REVIEW Printing Co. Sherlock, jr., writes a racy epistle, and will eventually turn out to be the 'Forbes' of the expedition."

LADIES' Kid Mits and Gloves, and Black and Colored Jersey Gloves. J. ERSKINE.

Reliable Companies.

Mr. W. H. Hill, who is well known as a teacher in this locality, now represents that deservedly highly popular company, the Sun Life and Accident Insurance Company, of Montreal. Its life policies are uncomparobly the most liberal in existence. He also represents, as general agent, those old and reliable English fire companies, the Queen, Imperial, Northern, Glasgow and London, and Norwich Union, the business of which was formerly in charge of Mr. Fairbairn and Mr. J. B. McWilliams. Mr. Hill's office is at the Crown Timber Office, Water street, Peterborough, Ontario.

Personal.

Many in Peterborough will remember the gentleman mentioned in the following paragraph, from the Brockville Recorder, as he was for some time in Mr. H. J. Beemer's office here, while the "Missing Link" was being built:—

"The promoters of the proposed extension of the Canadian Pacific from Buckingham station to the village of that name are private individuals who have awarded the contract to an old Brockville boy, Mr. Thomas Raphael. On its completion they will hand it over to the Canada Pacific. The line is being built exclusively for the purpose of furnishing an outlet for the immense quantities of phosphate shipped from the mines beyond the village."

We are pleased to learn that Mr. Thos. Rush, of the firm of W. J. Morrow & Co., has recovered from his recent illness.

Mr. Orm Dixon departed this morning on another professional engagement.

A Beautiful Sight.

The attention of the public is directed to the decidedly pretty manner in which a certain store window in Peterborough is constantly dressed. Apart from the mere fact of ornamentation and excellent taste displayed in showing the numerous articles to good advantage, the goods thus so tastefully arranged are in themselves worthy of special observation. In gentlemen's furnishings the variety is immense, and he would, indeed, be hard to please that could not select a choice from the multifarious and beautiful stock that is carried in this store. Reader, have you any hesitation in supposing where this establishment is to be found? Then, if you are still in doubt, take a walk up George street, and you will find the place described at "Habiliment Hall," and the popular proprietor is A. McNEIL.

BOYS' and Girls' Knitted Ribbed Hose, strong and of good quality, all sizes. Also, a fine variety of Ladies' Black and Colored Cashmere Hose. J. ERSKINE.

A Cosy window.

The windows of the fur stores, at this time of the year, always attract a great deal of attention. Mr. J. Fairweather, manager of Fairweather & Co.'s fur store, when he dressed his window this week, evidently had this fact well impressed upon his mind. The window is profusely filled with hats, caps and furs of all kinds. They are not, however, thrown in in a careless way, for the manner in which they are placed show that taste, judgment and study have been brought into requisition in the arrangement of the goods. The dark colored caps are labelled with handsome, bright hued, hand painted tickets, thus forming a pleasing contrast. The window and door has for its border rows of beautiful fur lined brocated circulars and Persian lamb cloaks.

Prof. Ragan's Lectures.

On Friday evening Prof. Ragan gave, in Bradburn's Opera House, the first of his two lectures, under the auspices of the Mechanics' Institute, the subject being "Glimpses of Scotland." The Rev. V. Clementi, on behalf of the Mechanics' Institute, introduced the lecturer with some appropriate remarks. Prof. Ragan, after thanking the lady who had sent him a spray of Scotch heather, as appropriate both to the day, Hallowe'en, and the subject of his lecture, briefly descended the voyage across the Atlantic. By the aid of the stereopticon the lecturer then conducted his audience on a tour through Scotland. The views of the scenery, buildings and other objects of interest were beautiful, and the descriptive lecture was very full of interest. From Glasgow and scenes on the Clyde, the route lay through the Trossachs, by Loch Lomond, Loch Cathrine, &c., the ground made classic by Sir Walter Scott in "The Lady of the Lake." Thence the spectators were conducted by way of Callendar, Stirling, &c., to Edinburg. Full justice was done to the beauties of Scotland's capital and to its stirring history. Thence among other locations a visit was paid to "The Land of Burns" and in particular the scenes of "Tam O'Shanter's" eventful ride were depicted and described. But it would take up too much space to mention in detail all the views given of grand mountains, lovely lakes, ruined castles and abbeys, &c., &c. This evening Prof. Ragan will lecture on "Picturesque Ireland," and no doubt will do equal justice to his theme.

Daily Evening Review

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1884.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

A Sermon By the Rev. Father Conway on the Middle State of Punishment.

On Sunday evening the Rev. Father Conway delivered a sermon in St. Peter's Cathedral on "The Middle State of Punishment." Father Conway had been ill for some months, and after recovering somewhat from a protracted and serious illness, he went to the seaside for the benefit of his health, from which he had returned perfectly recovered a few days previously. There was a very large congregation present.

Father CONWAY, before entering on his subject, said he had felt thankful to God who had restored him to health and strength after an illness of five months, and he was thankful that he was, first after recovering, to raise his voice for the benefit of the church in which they all took such a deep interest, and which, when completed, would be pointed to with pride by all the citizens of Peterborough.

"It is a holy and wholesome thought to pray for the dead, that they may be loosed from their sins." These words were found in the twelfth chapter of the second Book of Maccabees. He wished to first point out that the Church was composed of three different portions—the church triumphant, which was composed of those in heaven; the church militant, or the faithful who were fighting their battles on earth against the world, the flesh and the devil; and the church suffering, who were still of the faithful, and were in another world, but who had not sufficiently atoned for their sins, or had committed some venal fault.

That there existed a middle state of punishment after the soul left this world was believed by the universal world until the sixteenth century. The Jews always believed that doctrine and believed it still. Josephus told them that the Jews prayed for all the dead except those who had committed suicide. St. Clement and Oregen told them that this was the belief of the Romans, Greeks and Egyptians, which people had got it from the Jews, who had received it from God. With the heathen nations the middle state of punishment was surrounded by a good deal that was false and mysterious, but still the germ was there, and it proved the universality of the belief, and that the doctrine must have come from God.

In the sixteenth century an effort was made to destroy the belief of the people in this doctrine. To those who belonged to a different church he wished to say that he disclaimed any intention of uttering a word that would offend anyone. He had never done so, and he would not do so now, as it would be unworthy of any gentleman, and especially a Christian priest.

Up to the sixteenth century the belief in the existence of a middle state of punishment was universal. When the first Bibles were got out by the Reformers (in 1562, 1577, and 1579) a change was made in the text and in places the word "hell" was changed to "grave." This change distorted the meaning of the Sacred Scriptures. The Hebrew term Sheol, the Hades of the Greek Septaugint, and the Infernus of the Vulgate, was the Limbus of the Holy Fathers. To show that "grave" did not convey the meaning of the original, he referred to the expression used by Jacob. When the garment of Joseph, stained with blood, was brought to Jacob, and being told that a wild beast had devoured Joseph, he said, "I will go down to my son into hell, mourning." If this was made to read "into the grave," how could Jacob say he would go into the grave to his son, when he believed his son was in the wild beast?

The doctrine of the church, and all that it taught positively concerning it, consisted of two points, 1st, that such a place existed, and, 2nd, that the souls therein detained were benefitted by the works and prayers of the faithful and especially by the holy sacrifice of the Mass. Was the Church right? Most unquestionably it was. The Catholic Church, that the Son of God promised to be with, and to which He promised the Holy Spirit, to teach all ages and nations, and which He promised to be with forever, that church that cannot cease to teach the truth—that is the church that told them that there was a middle state of punishment and that the souls in that state would be benefitted by the works and prayers of friends on earth.

He called attention to the fact that the Lord raised three persons to life after they had died, namely, the daughter of Jairus, the son of the widow of Nain and Lazarus, the last mentioned having been in the grave four days. Where were the souls of these persons? If they had been in Heaven it would have been an injustice to call them back, and if they were in Hell they would have to remain there, as there was no redemption from Hell. Then where were they? Of course they were in the place they knew as the limbus or hell of the Holy Fathers and which in the Catholic Church was commonly called purgatory.

This doctrine was believed by the Jews from the beginning and was believed by them at the time of Christ's coming on earth. They read in the second Book of Maccabees that a collection was made a short time before He came, and sent to Jerusalem to have prayers said for the dead, and the writer said that "It is a holy and wholesome though to pray for the dead." It had been asserted that the Maccabees was not canonical. He could as easily prove that it was canonical as any other point in dispute between them and their Protestant friends, but admitting, for the sake of the argument, that it was not, and taking it as an authentic historical record, it proved that the Jews believed that the souls of those who were dead could be benefitted by the prayers of the living. Did our Lord condemn this belief? They found that when any point of doctrine was strained He condemned it unsparingly, but He did not condemn this doctrine, as He would have done had it not come from His Heavenly Father. He took it for granted that the doctrine existed and was in perfect harmony with the will of His Holy Father. Jesus says that sins against the Father and the Son would be forgiven, but that sins against the Holy Ghost would not be forgiven, neither in this world or in that which is to come. From this they would reasonably infer that some sins would be forgiven in the other world. If they did not believe that they must say that our Lord spoke foolishly, and to say that would be blasphemy. Hence some sins would be forgiven in the world to come and Christ approved of the doctrine of the middle state of punishment.

He might quote many more texts to prove the point, but he thought it unnecessary. To his idea, the testimony of the Holy Fathers in the different ages of the church must be convincing to every unprejudiced mind.

When the Apostles formed the twelve articles of their belief, known as the Apostles' Creed, they said that Christ was crucified, dead and buried, and descended into hell. After he was stated to have been buried they added that He descended into hell—not into the grave, for He was there already. Hence the Apostles believed in the middle.

Tertullian, a Holy Father who lived in the second century, writing on marriage, advised widows not to marry in order that they might be free to pray for their dead husbands. This was immediately after the time of the Apostles, and it showed that this doctrine came from them, and they received it from God. This was known to be the belief of St. Agustine and St. Monica. St. Monica, when on her death bed, told her son not to be solicitous as to where her body was placed, as all she asked was for him to remember her soul before the altar of God. Any Catholic mother of the present day could not say anything more explicit to her son, if he were a Catholic priest, to prove her belief in the middle state of punishment. St. Augustine wrote a whole work recommending prayers for the dead, and recommending his soul and that of his mother to their prayers. This was in the fifth century. This was the belief of the church in the early ages, and it was exactly the same doctrine as was believed by the Catholic Church to-day. It could not, therefore, be an innovation.

The Copts, Armenians and Greeks, some of whom seceded from the Roman Church in the 4th century, believed in prayers for the dead. Every authentic document they took up proved the universality of this belief, and it was not denied until the 16th century.

This doctrine was in harmony with our own reason. Let us for a moment suppose that a child, after it had come to the years of reason, committed some trivial or venal sin, such as telling a lie as an excuse for a fault, and that the child died immediately with this imperfection on its soul. In another place, suppose that a wretch who had murdered his father also died with his sin unpardoned. Could any one for a moment fancy that a God of justice would commit to the same punishment the child and the murderer? Those who deny the existence of the middle state of punishment must believe that the child would be condemned eternally to the same place as the wretched paracide, as no one believes that a soul will be received into Heaven unless free from all stain of sin.

He had proven the correctness of the belief in this doctrine, 1st, by the universality of the belief in it; 2nd, by the doctrine of the church; 3rd, by sacred Scripture; 4th, by the testimony of the Holy Fathers.

As the catacombs of Rome have been opened and examined, where the christians were buried during the first three or four centuries, inscriptions were found proving that they believed in a middle state of punishment and in the efficacy of the prayers of their friends on earth. Thus proof was taken out of the bowels of the earth that in the first days of the church the Christians believed this doctrine.

Their belief in this doctrine was consoling. By death the ties which united them to dear ones were not broken. They followed them into another world and assisted them. On Saturday they had commemorated the release of the souls of the Saints and their entry into Heaven, and on Monday they would pray for those souls who were suffering. He urged them to remember those souls during the present month, and when the souls were relieved and went before God they would not forget those who had prayed for them. They should remember their prayers and try to go to confession and offer up their communion for some dear one. If loved ones were suffering on a death bed, what would they not do to relieve them from their pains? They were suffering more now, and when they were relieved they would pray before God for their friends here. That was the communion of saints, and it was the beautiful doctrine of the Holy Catholic Church.

At the conclusion of the sermon a collection was taken up in aid of the building fund of the Cathedral, and a large sum was collected. The musical portion of the service was excellent.

FATAL PANIC IN A THEATRE.

Cry of Fire Raised—Sixteen Persons Killed and Many Injured.

GLASGOW, Nov. 1.—A panic occured this evening at the Star theatre, caused by a cry of fire being raised. The performance had proceeded without interruption until nine o'clock, when some person shouted fire. The whole audience rose to their feet and made a rush for the doors. The mass of people who occupied the pit met the crowd descending the stairs from the galleries and a fearful block ensued. Loud cries of distress and shouts for help arose from the panic stricken and struggling people. The crowd was adjured by the officers of the theatre and the police to hold back, but the warnings and appeals were unheeded. The crowd frantically rushed toward the outlets, trampling and jumping over each other until they reached the street. When the theatre was finally cleared 16 corpses were found on the stairs leading from the gallery and 12 persons badly injured. The only evidence that life was not extinct was their piteous moanings. The whole fire brigade, with the police, did their utmost to ally the panic and rescue the crushed victims, but they were too late to be of effective service. The ambulance corps conveyed away the victims, living, but wounded, with the dead, so mixed that it was only possible to recognize them after arrival at the infirmary. It was subsequently learned that the author of the cry of fire was a former employee, who was dismissed. The audience numbered about 2,000. Another account says the alarm arose while a trapeze performer was taking a dive from the ceiling to a net hanging in mid air. One of the audience shouted "Fire," meaning that the performer had gone too near the footlights.

The scenes in the staircase is described as terrible. The steps were strewn with ribbons, hats and shawls. The victims were first suffocated and then trampled to death. The panic lasted fifteen minutes. The authorities had disapproved of the means of exit, and it was contemplated to construct an additional exit from the gallery. The scene witnessed when the relatives identified the dead was most affecting. Among the victims were eight females.

BOBCAYGEON.

CANAL.—Mr. W. Kennedy, the foreman of the works now in progress by the Dominion Government, is making great and useful improvements on the canal. It will be made much more water tight, and several piers are being constructed to facilitate the passage of steamboats. It is to be hoped that in another year this village will have steamboat connections extending to Port Perry, Lakefield, Cobocconck and Bridgenorth. The Dominion Government is displaying much judgment in this district and the superintendent, Mr. Rogers, is managing the improvements with care and discretion. Seeing that the Dominion Government has a surplus, this journal does not hesitate to ask it to remove the wreck of the Vanderbilt from the Lindsay river.—Independent.

A HERO'S SURRENDER!

REPORTED FALL OF KHARTOUM AND CAPTURE OF GEN. GORDON.

Mutiny in the Garrison — The Gallant General Tries to Escape, Passes Shendy but is Forced to Return and Surrender

CAIRO, Nov. 1.—A special despatch to the Khedive from Dongola conveys a graphic recita of Gen. Gordon's capture as told by an Arch Shiek who left Shendy on Oct. 7th. As long as seven weeks ago, runs the story, Khartoum was surrounded by a host of rebels from the Nile country. On account of the provisions serious disaffections arose among the garrison. This feeling, though largly among the men, was shared by the officers, who, in a body, informed Gen. Gordon that they believed the time had come to give in. Gen. Gordon's answer angered the officers. They accused him of deceit—of putting them in peril of their lives to add to his personal glory in case he withstood the repeated assaults of the rebels until the relief should come. Gordon tried to calm them by saying that the relief expedition had reached Dongola. They demanded that he order an advance to meet it. Gordon finally agreed to this and ordered Colonel Stewart to prepare the boats. Beofre this brave officer had completed his arrangements some 8,000 of the garrison went over to the rebels and Gordon found himself with about 2,000 whom he could trust. It was now clear to Gordon thas nothing was left but retreat, and with the remnant of his force he dropped down the Nile towards Shendy. The banks immediately swarmed with rebels, who after a few miles had been passed threw continuous showers of spears and arrows at the retreating forces. Many were wounded and some quite seriously. Thousands of natives poured down from the mountains, where they had long been waiting the final struggle. They harrassed the troops by pouring volleys into them from rifles that they secured by treachery. Their aim was good and many on the boats were badly wounded. When Shendy was reached, it was in possession of the rebels. Here they were met by an effective artillery fire, in trying to evade which many of the boats were grounded on the opposite bank of the Nile, and their occupants taken prisoners. Many of the boats were then disabled and those that succeeded in running the blockade gathered a short distance below Shendy for a consultation. All this time they were followed by a galling fire from the rebels on either bank. Gordon ordered a return to Khartoum rather than expose the remainder of his command to certain death. At this time Col. Stewart's boat was far in advance of the flotilla and the signal to return was unseen by him, as he proceeded onward. He is known to have passed Berber, but beyond that nothing is known of his fate. All the other boats obeyed Gordon's command and started on the return, still followed by hordes of rebels, maddened with the certainty of victory over the great Gordon. The command ehaved nobly, but in the upward passage were beset by myriads of the enemy, and in attempting to pass Shendy the fire was so hot that Gordon was compelled to surrender. Gordon was immediately placed under a strong guard and conveyed to the Mahdi's headquarters. The other officers and men of his command are still prisoners at Shendy.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The foreign office is without news regarding Gen. Gordon's alleged capture, and the report is discredited.

CATTLE BUYERS.—Mr. Barrett shipped a car load of cattle, bought in this district, on Thursday last, Mr. Joseph Valentine also shipped a car load of young cattle on the same day. Mr. Wm. Gainer took twenty-three heads of cattle to Cobocouk on Tuesday and went on to Toronto with them. He will buy a number more on his return. Mr. Jacob Pochett, Ingoldsby, sold twenty heads young cattle to Mr. P. Conway, Haliburton, last week, for $15 a head.

A NARROW ESCAPE.—While Mr. Robert Menary and his brother were chopping in the vicinity of Bell's shanty on Monday they fell two trees. The first one fell all right, but the second showed signs of falling the wrong way. Both men ran to get out of the way and the tree fell so as to strike the one already down, causing it to jump. It caught Robert and sent him into the air, from whence his brother saw him descending head first. He fell on one arm and severed the bone. It was indeed lucky that he fared no worse, as the position he was in was indeed a dangerous one. He was taken to Dr. DeGrassi, at Lindsay, to have the arm dressed. —Echo.

"GLOBE" JOURNALISM.

WE believe it would be impossible to find in the whole world a journal that rivals the Toronto Globe in its disgraceful disregard for truth or common honesty. In its issue of Saturday it says:—

"The Peterborough REVIEW is not favorable to submitting the question of Jamaica annexation to the people, and declares:—

'We do not wish to be understood as yielding to the idea that our members of Parliament are mere delegates who cannot move in any new matter without fresh instructions.'

The REVIEW also holds that the Liberal leaders should not be given opportunity on the stump 'to prejudice the people of Canada against the statesmen they have chosen to administer their affairs.'

The REVIEW does well to be afraid of the people. It evidently recognizes the fact that the electors of Canada, if consulted, will overwhelmingly refuse to consent to so grave a departure from all past Canadian policy as the annexation of these far away Islands in order simply to keep the Tory party in power a few years longer."

The assertions of the Globe are deliberate falsehoods, for they falsify not only the whole spirit of our article, but also our plain words. We did not express ourselves as unfavorable to submitting the question of Jamaica annexation to the people, but, on the contrary, repeatedly expressed ourselves as willing that it should be submitted. We did not express ourselves as being afraid of an appeal to the people, but, on the contrary, distinctly expressed our confidence that if the question were submitted to the people they would give their approval, as it would not be entertained unless it deserved approval.

The Globe thus wilfully misrepresents us with the following words before it. We said:—

"Why, then, do they desire this appeal to the people? We will not take it as a sufficient answer to be told that we are afraid of an appeal to the people. We have no objection to such an appeal if this union is to be adopted, for we are certain from past experience that our present rulers will not favor it unless they can make such satisfactory arrangements both with the Empire and with the Islands as will remove obvious objections to the union. If asked to consent to such a favorable arrangement, and we are sure the people will be asked to consent to nothing else, at all events by the present Administration, we feel sure that they would consent."

Again, after expressing our opinion that special appeals to the electors should not be made "except in cases of exceptionally grave importance," we continued:—

"We have, however, no objection so to consider this West Indian question if it should ever come up for practical discussion."

If a man made such wilful and dishonest misrepresentations in a business matter, or in his private capacity, he would be regarded as a mendacious scoundrel, unworthy to associate with anyone outside the walls of a gaol. We cannot see that a journalist guilty of such conduct is any better. The ninth commandment makes no exception in favor of false witness by or against a journalist.

The Globe dare not meet our criticism that even if the people did pronounce in favor o Jamaica annexation, we have no reason to suppose that the Reformers would submit to this verdict any more than they have done to the people's decision in favor of the National Policy. It prefers to tell a deliberate falsehood as to what we said, trusting that its readers may not have read our remarks.

The moral degradation of such a slanderer is inconceivable. People may differ honestly in opinion, but there is no excuse for such wilful perversion of facts.

WHEN we are shown to be in the wrong we are always ready to admit it. We therefore bow to the following rebuke from the Hamilton Spectator, which says:—

"We have a very great deal of respect for the Peterborough REVIEW, a journal that we have always looked upon as being of great sense as well as ability. Therefore it annoys us to see it waste half a column of editorial space on nothing —absolutely nothing. The 'subject' of the article complained of is 'The Blake Policy.'"

The Michipicoten Riots.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Oct. 31.—Magistrate Burden and the Toronto police returned to-day from Michipicoten with five prisoners implicated in the rioting, four of whom stand committed for trial, and one has been summarily convicted. When the police reached Michipicoten on their upward journey, they took up quarters in the house formerly occupied by the Magistrate. There were no signs of opposition, but immediately after dusk shots were again fired into the building, one of them from a Winchester rifle wounding a cook named Dufault. Inspector Ward and his men at once turned out, when the firing ceased, and the rioters disappeared in the darkness. Several arrests had been made in the forenoon, but four of the ringleaders took to the woods, three of them armed with repeating rifles. They have not been captured, but will likely be taken by the Dominion force now on the way or by the special constables sworn in for the purpose.

ADDRESS TO ORANGEMEN.

Their Semi-Annual Service is Conducted by the Rev. I. Tovell.

On Sunday afternoon the Rev. I. Tovell pastor of the George Street Methodist Church, conducted the second of the two yearly services for the Peterborough Orangemen. At half-past three o'clock the town Orangemen, True Blues, and several representatives from the county, assembled in their hall and marched up George street in full regalia to the Methodist Church. They occupied the centre row of seats, and, after the opening prayer, hymn, and reading, the rev. gentleman addressed the brethren. The collection was donated to the Hazel Brae Home.

In addressing the Orangemen to-day, he said he would depart a little from the ordinary. He would refer but little to the direct history of Protestantism, but would carry the thoughts of those present back to a name that is dear to every Protestant—a name that is indelibly written on the pages of sacred history and embalmed in the memory of the religious, a name familiar to them all and of a man who rescued them from darkness, superstition and error. His reference was to the name of Martin Luther, the hero of the Reformation. On the 10th of this month 401 years ago Martin Luther was born, and because of that date and that of the Orangemen's semi-anniversary service coming so closely together, he found his mind drawn almost irresistibly to revive the memory of this noted man. He would briefly review his history, that they might more intelligently understand the life of this great man. Whenever a remarkable character leaps into public notice our curiosity inquires about his nationality, the place of his birth, the social standing of his parents, his early training, and important incidents connected with his boyhood.

He was born about midnight on the 10th of November, 1483. His father was a miner; his mother a hard working woman. As a boy, Luther felt the influence of a rigorous discipline. In punishing wrong his parents were severe. One day, it is said, his mother, in whipping for taking a hazel nut from the mantle piece, drew blood from his body. Yet Luther, in after years, often talked of the sweet intercourse between himself and his parents, though they were severe at times. His school days were trying. The masters understood whipping better than imparting instructions. One day Luther received fifteen strappings. All this discipline, however, gave a temper to the metal of human character, needed for the stern work of after years. He thirsted for knowledge while yet at an early age, and, though his means were restricted, he persevered until at the age of twenty he graduated at Erford College. Events now occurred which led him to the great moral and ecclesiastical battle ground. His father wanted him to take up law, which he would probably have done had not one of his class-mates died, and he had not been cut by a sword which he carried at his side, whereby his life was seriously imperilled. These circumstances forced him to think of the souls' welfare. Contrary to his father's wishes, he entered a convent to live the life of a monk. The step was regretted by his college friends, but in Luther's soul there were thoughts revolving to which many about him were strangers. He did not then even dream of the Reformation, but he desired to be faithful to the dictates of his conscience. He chose the monastic life because he felt that he was not right with God. He scrubbed the floors of the Convent of St. Ann's, and carried a sack on the streets soliciting food and money for the Order. Every vow of the Holy Order was strictly kept, he zealously pored over the Bible, but no matter how he prayed, fasted, or watched, he found no peace to his soul. He told his agony to one Staupitz, a man who studied the scriptures for the guidance of inner life. He opened the window and let in a flood of light. He said "Martin Luther, there is no true repentance other than that which flows from the love of God and His righteousness." Afterwards another pious old Monk added more light, until Luther at last saw the way and felt forgiveness. Luther knew not that the seeds of the Reformation were sown in that monastry, that the germ principles were quickened into being. But a soul so active and so richly endowed was not to be wrapped in the obscurity of a monastic life; the University of Wittemberg needed his piety, talents, and scholarly attainments to fill the professor's chair. He soon returned to Erford Convent and thence made a pilgrimage to Rome. What experience he gained! As he gazed on the Eternal City his soul was filled with the holiest emotions! But he was disappointed when he beheld the iniquities of those whom he thought holy. Corruptions and abominations of the clergy met him on every hand and yet his loyalty to the Church and faith in Christ was not shaken. It was then, to receive indulgence, he made the ascent on his knees up Pilate's stairway in the church of St. John's. He retired to the University of Wittemberg more zealous than ever, eagerly studying the Bible, without which the Reformation would have been impossible.
